MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

October 25, 26, 28, 29, 30 and 31.

"SNOW WHITE"

A true Portland of PURE WHITE COLOR, combining the essential qualities of great tensile strength and imperviousness to a rigorous climate.

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement is not approached by any known product for the following purposes, viz.: Facing for concrete construction and stucco, ornamental and architectural forms, superior substitute for terra cotta work, white ground for terrazza and mosaic work, base for all artificial stone, floor and other tile, special sanitary plastering of all kinds, architectural landscape work, for setting marble and light stones or brick, plastering elevator and light shafts.

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement

Its pure white color, strength and close grained hardness, together with its hydraulic properties and its ability to withstand the elements, place it in a class by itself, unique in all its qualities, and indispensable at any price.

THE BEST PEOPLE USE IT: C. Oliver Iselin; W. Butler Duncan, Jr.; Capt. Charles Barr; Capt. Rhodes; Capt. "Lem" Miller; Capt. Robert Wringe; Capt. Archie Hogarth; William Fife, Jr., etc.

NONALYKE preserves the famous Yachts,—Reliance, Defender, Constitution, Shamrock, etc., and adorns and preserves the walls of many famous buildings, including THE METROPOLITAN LIFE BUILDING.

C. OLIVER ISELIN says: "The Paint supplied by you is the best I have ever had."

THE IDEAL ENAMEL PAINT!

"NONALYKE" can be applied to bare wood or plaster without using White Lead, Zinc, or other primers. It makes an enamel surface which never cracks, and is impervious to germs of disease.

BLACK OR WHITE, OR COLORS

Send for samples, prices or estimates to the J. L. MITCHELL PAINT CO., 1 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Ten Months' Work

TEN MONTHS of this building year having passed, its relative standing has been substantially settled. Measured by projected plans filed in the three principal boroughs for both alterations and new buildings, the year 1907 is but fifteen per cent. behind last year's record. This is the most cheerful way of stating it, and after all it is only fair to count what has been planned in Brooklyn [illegible] as well as in Manhattan and the Bronx. Brooklyn, [illegible] exceeding last year's appropriation by twelve per cent., brings up the general average, but Manhattan has fallen thirty-two per cent. below last year's record of the estimated cost of new buildings planned. Aggregate figures, for both new buildings and alterations in the three boroughs, are $167,000,000 for the ten months of 1907 to compare with $205,0000,000 for a like portion of 1906. We did only one hundred and twenty-five million in the same months of the year 1904, but in 1905 the mark stood at two hundred and twenty-six million by the first of November. But plans are not turned into finished buildings within the calender year in which they are planned—not by a large percentage. Much of the work planned in 1905 was not closed out until his spring or summer, so it would be quite fair when running historical parallels to pitch upon an average to represent the business of a period of about two years. If, then, we compare 1906-7 with 1904-5, the building trades of the three boroughs have nothing to complain of under the head of averages—and some depend more on averages than on totals. Not until recently have mechanics been inactive in any considerable number, in consequence of the tightness of money. The trades which have been checked down most are those which have to do with primal construction, such as masonry in its several branches; while those connected with the finishing of a building have noticed but little diminution of pressure until recently, as the operations which gave them employment were financed before the era of the money pinch. Notwithstanding the holding back of new work, there is still a great deal in hand. Brick building is within fifty per cent. of normal, and this work represents for the most part contracts newly begun and newly financed. Of recorded conveyance of real estate in Manhattan for the first ten months of the year there were 18,438, to compare with 28,632 in the corresponding period of 1906. During the last week of this term, which was a week of panic in banking circles, the number was one hundred less than in the corresponding week of 1906. In the Bronx for the ten months that have passed there have been 675 conveyances recorded to compare with 731, the record made last year. As pertains to money loaned on bond and mortgage, so far as mortgages filed represent the total business under this head, there is a nearer approach to agreement in the figures representing the two years. The difference is only about ten per cent. in Manhattan and the Bronx together, whereas the loss in plans filed is 31 per cent. and the falling off in the number of conveyances recorded 39 per cent. Great as has been the amount of money loaned on real estate this year, so far as the records comprehend it—$467,000,000 in three of the five boroughs—the total has been insufficient to keep the army of builders in full employment. New York is a city in which the building and real estate interests are of the highest importance among a great number of diversified occupations, and they so dominate the business life of the city that any injury to them is felt by the whole city, and seems also to be reflected over a large part of the country. It was in New York real estate that the money stringency was first noticed, and if analogies are followed New York real estate will be the first to feel the revival.

Activity in the Suburbs

THOSE WHO SCAN REAL ESTATE ADVERTISING must be impressed with the increasing number of out-of-town dwelling properties being offered to the public, which would indicate that the fancy for suburban homes among New York business men is growing more rapidly than ever before. Heretofore the home-buying movement has kept within the boundaries of the greater city, but with the new and contemplated improvement in suburban railroad accommodations a change has taken place in this respect. In this connection it may be interposed that with the continued increase in population within the city limits the need for better transit facilities becomes greater month by month. The time has arrived when patrons of the street car lines are subjected almost daily to vexatious delays in traveling between their homes and places of business, and students of conditions point out that unless relief is forthcoming quickly the migration from the city, due mainly to this cause, will become very large. All attempts to remedy this congestion have thus far failed to meet the exigencies of the situation, which are becoming worse instead of better. Realizing that there is little hope for any improvement in this direction, at least until some of the new subways authorized are completed, thousands of home buyers are turning Jerseyward with full ap[illegible] there is no limit to the means of [illegible] preciation of the fact that the McAdoo, [illegible] New York, and that communication between that state and [illegible] upon the completion of the McAdoo and Pennsylvania tunnels, together with the improved service afforded by many new and fast ferry-boats, transportation facilities can easily be made to keep pace with the requirements of the growing population. To such extent has the demand for Jersey property grown, and so profitable has become the handling of real estate in that zone, many corporations and firms heretofore engaged in developing property on Long Island and in the Bronx have opened offices in the state in question with the view of catering especially to the requirements of the New York City business man. Several of the larger companies are marketing dwellings averaging $5,000 in price, for which the present demand is far greater than the supply. Many houses recently completed are equal in construction and appointments to buildings of similar type found in Brooklyn, for which $8,000 to $9,500 is usually asked. From the standpoint of cost and maintenance alone it is no doubt true that the average business man can obtain more for his money in the suburban belt than in the city. These reasons account in no small degree for the marked increase in suburban realty transactions since the first of the year, aside from sheer physical pressure exerted from the interior to the circumference of the metropolitan district.

How to Sleep Well

OPPORTUNITIES FOR BROKERS AND OPERATORS in real estate stand out prominently under the present conditions of the money market. There is one way in which real estate brokers and operators may be of considerable service to themselves under the prevailing conditions of the market, as to securing loans on bonds and mortgages. Holders of bonds and mortgages upon real estate, especially such as are guaranteed by a mortgage guarantee company, possess a non-fluctuating security wholly removed from the sphere of the present panic. The recent slaughtering of values has left this security absolutely unaffected. Mortgage guarantee companies have, as a rule, taken only such as are secured by a wide margin of the conservative valuation of improved properties. For a long time prior to last week, these companies have had few purchasers for mortgages. Meanwhile, they have invested a good part of their capital in realty loans at the high rates prevailing for a year past, with the result that there is on hand just now an unusually large stock of mortgages for sale at attractive terms. The companies guarantee the payment of both the interest and the principal, and the mortgages so guaranteed yield the purchaser five per cent. and five and one-half per cent. The former rate is furnished by mortgages on improved Manhattan realty, while the latter is the return on selected Brooklyn mortgages. These returns are possible because the companies themselves have placed the mortgages at five and one-half per cent. and six per cent., which have been the common rates in Manhattan and Brooklyn, respectively, for upward of a year. As the value of guaranteed mortgages is supported not only by the property which secures them, but also by the credit of the institutions which sell them, there can be no question as to their worth as investments. In case foreclosure proceedings become necessary, the expense is, of course, borne by the companies. Finally, the mortgages are exempt from taxation. There is consequently every reason to believe that the investment demand for such securities which developed last week will continue to grow and that the current forecasts of an easy mortgage loan market by next February will be realized. Lord Rothschild, of England, predecessor to the present holder of that title, arranged securities in two classes: "There are securities," said he, "which let a man eat well and securities which let a man sleep well. Bonds, considering the money poured upon properties, were, considering the added security of the issues, never so cheap as at present. The rest of a man owning well-secured mortgages will never be disturbed." The journals of the day note that one of the immediate effects of the run on the banks was the increased favor with which mortgage investments were regarded, and that many depositors who closed their bank accounts have put the money into guaranteed mortgages. The "Sun" says that those brokers and operators who have been unable to obtain loans, for one reason because of the inability of the mortgage companies to place their mortgages with large financial institutions, which apparently preferred temporarily the better interest-paying obligations of railroad and other corporations, "may well recommend the purchase of mortgages from any approved mortgage guarantee co[illegible] Washington Street, in the solvency of the Samuel Gree[illegible] Company by those whose faith [illegible] in the return of banks and trust companies has been so shaken as to induce them to withdraw and hoard their deposits." It is quite apparent to our learned contemporary that any considerable purchase of such mortgages would put these companies in the possession of funds for loaning anew, and that this would not only benefit the companies on account of their ability to secure the higher rate of interest now obtainable upon most satisfactory percentages of valuation, but would also benefit those interested as principals or brokers in the preservation or improvement of well-located real property.

Elevated Sidewalks in Ferry Streets.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

THE letter of Julius Goldberg, in your issue of October 5, calls attention to a peril which the future historian will find it difficult to believe we allowed to come upon us without making the slightest effort to prevent it—that of the frightful overcrowding of the narrow streets in the skyscraper district in case of fire or panic. Of all the many evils attending upon our general policy of laisser faire in municipal administration, this is one of the most serious, and the results are already apparent in the condition of these narrow thoroughfares at the close of business hours. Mr. Goldberg's suggestion of overhead or elevated sidewalks to relieve the congestion recalls one put forward by the president of the Municipal Art Society, Mr. Charles R. Lamb and shown in the exhibition of our Society several years ago—the great advantage, the coming absolute necessity, of providing additional footways for the constantly increasing crowds of pedestrians. Since the surface of the earth refuses us sufficient space, it is necessary to go either higher or lower, and the elevated sidewalk offers many advantages over the subterranean one.

A practical working of this plan may already be seen in the double-decked ferry boats on our rivers, connecting, as they do, with upper platforms of the railroad stations on the Jersey shore,—it would seem that, having had wit enough to devise this very workable arrangement, we would have been enabled to carry it farther, where it was very much more needed. As it is, the traveler who crosses the North River comfortably in the upper cabin passes over the swinging little bridge on the same level into the upper story of the ferry house, and then is dumped down unceremoniously into crowded and muddy West street, to pick his or her way, as best may, across under the noses of the horses and between the wheels of the trucks. If the ferry boat bridges on the New York side were continued directly from the ferry houses to the stations of the elevated roads they could be continued on to Broadway with corresponding advantage and the gain would be enormous.

These sidewalks could be supported from the buildings either by strong braces underneath or suspended by chains with the wooden upright supports from the sidewalk while glass disks in the footway would admit light to the lower stories and the sidewalk below. Already many of these stores have solid roofed wooden sheds supported from the curb by posts obstructing the first story quite as much if not more, than our suggestion for a platform with glass disks and platform over. While the obvious advantage to each building from our suggestion is that they get better facilities for shipment on the street and can arrange office entrances from the upper platform connection, too, which can of course be made at each street corner by staircase similar to that of the elevated railroad.

Any objections that might be put forward against some such scheme as this as "impracticable" are answered by the plain facts that our present chaotic arrangements for street traffic in these congested business districts are impracticable and are fast becoming impossible. The intelligent foreigner who choses to land almost anywhere along this lower water front of the metropolis and make his way on foot to Broadway, by dodging, running and hurdling might well conclude that we as a municipality have failed to realize the entire changed conditions of traffic in the cross streets of lower New York.

The Elevated Platform would intersect with the second story of the large new ferry boats, thus forming a continuous sidewalk through to Broadway with staircase at each street corner. Entrances would also be secured to the second stories of all buildings, thus making them available for shops and office purposes.

Insufficiency of the Torrens System.

By AUGUSTUS S. HUTCHINS.

I DO NOT CLAIM that anything I may here say* is new or novel, but as I have had much experience in real estate practice and have thought much of this question not only in its details but in its more important underlying aspects I trust that you will not consider what I may say as altogether without value.

I believe our present system to be, with perhaps some minor changes or amendments, as nearly perfect as can be devised. It has been gradually crystallized into the form now obtaining by a long line of practitioners, Legislators and Judges and any radical change, even should it prove to be for the better in the end—which I do not for a moment concede—would certainly in the interim be a most fruitful source of uncertainty and irritation to both the legal profession and the public.

The agitation for a change in our present system seems to come principally from certain interests who favor the so-called "Torrens" system. As I understand the proposed system it is in essence nothing more nor less than a form of State Title Insurance. I also understand that it is a system which originated in a British Colony of Australia. Great Britain, as you know, never had any system of title registration, such as we have—the muniments of title in the form of original deeds being generally kept in the possession of the family solicitor.

The Australian communities found themselves in the position of colonies in which most of the land was held by the government and the remainder largely, if not entirely, held by original settlers or "squatters" having no record title. Under such circumstances it became necessary to adopt some method of land registration and the state or government gave deeds or grants to various individuals, much the same as the United States government to this day gives deeds or grants of title to unoccupied lands which it owns in Southern Florida and the far West. Why we should change our present system which has for more than a century worked satisfactorily in order to copy this Australian experiment, which system was adopted as a necessity of the peculiar conditions there existing, I cannot imagine.

But there is an objection which goes still deeper—far deeper in my opinion. Australia and New Zealand are countries in which all sorts of socialistic and semi-socialistic schemes are being tried. Together they have a population scarcely as large as that of the City of New York, and they are as different from the State of New York in all respects as one could imagine. In those countries the government is not only in the title insurance business, but also fire insurance and life insurance. It also loans money to intending purchasers of land. It seems to me, therefore, that the real question involved in the present inquiry is simply this: Does the State of New York intend and desire to try some form of socialistic government?

*This paper has been submitted as a brief to the Torrens Commission.

If the State gives title insurance because such insurance can be given by the State somewhat cheaper than can be gotten under the present system—why, then, should it not give fire insurance, life insurance and casualty insurance for the same reason? A few American States, all largely infected with socialistic ideas, have tried this experiment, but I have yet to hear that real estate has risen greatly in value in those States by reason thereof. It has been argued that this proposed change would facilitate speculation in real estate. No doubt this seems a desirable thing to certain interests, but is it an argument that should carry much weight with people generally?

I might say here in passing that some years ago the Argentine Republic adopted the scheme of loaning money to purchasers of real estate on a valuation made by government appraisers. The result was a wild real estate speculation followed by a collapse in real estate values and a total disorganization of the national finances and business. I might also add that the greatest panics this country has seen have come from real estate speculation. The inevitable result of the proposed change would be that the average householder would be taxed for the benefit of the real estate speculators. Is this a thing to be desired? The more I have thought of this matter the more I am persuaded that it is a long step toward socialism. How those who advocate this proposition could with any consistency offer any opposition to State operation of railroads or State fire insurance, life insurance or banking, or any other form of individual or corporate human endeavor, I cannot imagine. There is not an argument that one can urge for this that one cannot urge for them.

These are but a few—a very few—of the objections that can be urged against this proposed measure. I could say much about the unfairness to a very large number of individual practitioners and to the title insurance companies who have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars and years of time in building up a business and who have been granted charters or licenses by the State to do this very business which it is now proposed that the State take from them and do itself, but is it necessary to urge any other objection than those already enumerated? The prime evil of to-day is the tendency toward socialism and the constant interference with the individual by the State. It used to be a maxim of government that that State governed best that governed least and that the State should never attempt to do anything which its individual members could do as such individuals. If we adopt this proposed measure we must in all consistency relegate this doctrine to the scrap heap. Have we not already traveled far enough in the path towards beaurocracy, centralization and socialism?

I do not claim that our present system is perfect, but after practicing under it for a quarter of a century I do say that it is so nearly perfect that the attempt should be to change it, if at all, as little as possible, and above all not to change it in any of its essential principles. When the Code of Civil Procedure was adopted it was fondly thought that the practice would be so simplified as to make it a simple matter to practice law. The same belief was entertained when the codification of the statutes relating to corporations was made in 1892. I did not practice under the old Code, but I have practiced in courts still operating under the old practice and I have talked with many who did practice under the old Code, and I am persuaded that our Code of Civil Procedure in its present form has rendered the practice of the law more complex than under the ancient practice.

My practice has been very largely in corporation law and I have found that the so-called simplification of the corporation law adopted in 1892 has resulted in great confusion and added much useless labor. The change in the courts made in 1896, or thereabouts, is another case in point. It was then believed that the abolition of the Superior Court and the Court of Common Pleas would greatly assist in clearing up the calendar. The result was immediately an added clogging of the calendar, which has continued to this day. All these things have satisfied me that nothing is more dangerous or more apt to result in disappointment in its results than a radical change in the laws relating to practice or for that matter any radical change in the laws. But once more in closing I would repeat that even if this proposed change would do all that its most ardent supporters claim, it would still in my opinion be a most inopportune exercise of power by the State and an opening of the door to countless socialistic schemes which would inevitably result in disaster to the body politic.

Our National Wastefulness.

The Geological Survey is sending out some most timely and important bulletins. One of its latest bulletins calls attention to our wastefulness in deforestration; it shows that we allow more timber to be destroyed every year by preventable forest fires than is used in all the lumbering industries; it reiterates the fact that there is more coal left and lost in the ground, by reckless processes of mining, than is taken out, and that at the very most we and our descendants have only coal enough left for less than 100 years.

The size of our country and its enormous natural resources have led us to believe that many things were inexhaustible that on the contrary are being utterly and ruthlessly wasted at a most extravagant and foolish rate, and our people have developed habits of prodigality that spell ultimate national bankruptcy. In fires, for instance, we have gotten so that we really expect and plan for terrific losses. As an example, Washington's record has just been completed and there were 470 alarms of fire in the year resulting in damage of only $250,000. It is one of the lowest and most satisfactory records attained by any city in the land, yet our fires have inflicted a damage, small as we believe it to be, just 350% greater than that suffered by the average of sixteen European cities of equal size.

Incidentally, all the fire adjustment and the other accompaniments of the San Francisco disaster have been tabulated and arranged, and it now transpires that what was supposed to be a total damage of about $350,000,000 amounts to much nearer $600,000,000. Only $200,000,000 can be properly charged up to insurance and, therefore, the country has suffered a total wiping out of existence, an obliteration of property, to the amount of $400,000,000 by that one fire! A matter worthy of our most serious consideration and firm resolve to build so as to make impossible the recurrence of such an awful conflagration, a recurrence that is imminently possible now in several cities, notably New Orleans, Boston and Philadelphia.

Tunnel and Subway Situation.

By JOSEPH CACCAVAJO.*

BEFORE going into detail, I should like to call your attention to the maps showing the subways and tunnels, under construction and proposed on January 1st of this year. These maps were prepared in my office, particularly to show the new subway routes which the then Rapid Transit Commission proposed to advertise for bids for construction and operation, and are substantially correct except that bids were asked for on the Lexington, Seventh and Eighth av routes without results.

There is one other slight change. The maps do not show the subway loop through Centre, Canal and Delancey sts, which was later approved by the Board and which is now being constructed to connect the Brooklyn, Williamsburgh and Manhattan bridges. It is expected that this loop will be completed inside of two years or about the time the Manhattan Bridge, now under construction, is completed and will tend greatly to reduce the present congestion at the Brooklyn Bridge entrance.

At the present time the so-called Belmont tunnel under the East River is nearest completion, though this statement may be challenged by Mr. McAdoo, who has a few tunnels of his own very nearly ready for carrying passengers under the North River. But the fact remains that cars have actually been run through the Belmont tubes and they are shortly to carry passengers from near the Grand Central Station in 42d st to Long Island City. The Long Island City terminal of these two tubes is about one-half mile north of the present L. I. R. R. Ferry, and it will take about four minutes to make the trip one way. The capacity is about 6,000 passengers an hour each way, not counting strap-hangers. The battery tunnels to Brooklyn connecting the present subway system of Manhattan with that borough are also practically completed, the compressed air has been removed without mishap, and these tubes should be carrying passengers to their capacity before January 1st. The work of constructing these tubes has been most trying and the difficulties which confronted the engineers and contractors, at times, seemed almost insurmountable, but now that they are substantially completed, they should, when in operation, greatly relieve the Brooklyn Bridge, affording, as they will, transportation for about 24,000 passengers an hour.

The Brooklyn tunnels at present extend only up through Joralemon st, Fulton st, and Flatbush av, to the Long Island R. R. depot, but provision has been made for connections with future subways out 4th av and up Lafayette av, and from the new Manhattan Bridge. Right here I might state that the intersection of Flatbush av, Fulton, Nevins and Navy sts is destined to be a second Herald Square, and the situation there is unique, there being car tracks on five levels one above the other. There are four other tubes now being constructed under the East River, but I will speak of these later, as they belong to the Pennsylvania system.

Just what the Hudson tunnels, better known as the "McAdoo Tunnels," mean to the owners of realty, not only in nearby Jersey, but on and near 6th av between 8th and 33d sts and in the vicinity of Cortlandt and Fulton sts, is probably better appreciated by real estate men than by anyone else. The uptown tubes, which cross under the North River at Morton st, a short distance south of the Christopher st ferries, were first begun in 1878 and failed in 1880, after about 1,200 feet had been built. From 1890-1892 about 1,800 additional were built, when the project again failed. About six years ago Mr. Wm. G. McAdoo secured control, organized the present company, and work has been carried on continually since that time. These tubes will probably be carrying passengers before Christmas from Hoboken to 18th st and 6th av, and when the tunnels and connections at both ends are completed it will be possible to ride from Newark to Herald Square without change of cars. A branch will also run across under 9th st from 6th av to 4th av and connect with the Astor pl station of the present subway. The McAdoo

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

Work of the Department of Bridges.

[There is excitement among the tenants of those blocks bounded by South st, Bowery, Canal and Bayard sts at this writing. This property has been recently acquired by the city for the terminal of the new Manhattan Bridge. Notices were issued early this week on the tenants, ordering them to vacate the premises before November 15 next. Many protests were filed against this step, and Comptroller Metz has taken up the matter. The fact was brought to the Comptroller's attention that between one thousand and twelve hundred families were involved.

There does not seem to be any very pressing reason why these tenants should be evicted immediately. It has been announced that the work of demolishing the buildings in this terminal zone will not be commenced until next January, and perhaps not even so soon. The contract for the bridge approach has not been advertised as yet. When this will be done is now problematical, as an order has been issued by the Mayor forbidding the giving out of any more contracts until in his judgment the city finances warrant it.]

THE Board of Estimate and Apportionment has adopted a communication from the Comptroller recommending an amendment of the resolution passed on June 21, 1907. This resolution authorized the vesting of title on October 8, 1907, to property required for the approach to the new Manhattan Bridge, lying between Monroe st and the Bowery.

PROPERTY TO BE TAKEN FOR THE MANHATTAN BRIDGE—NEW YORK SIDE.

The amendment authorizes the vesting of title on May 2, 1908, to so much of the land as lies within the area bounded by Chrystie, Forsyth, Canal and Bayard sts, and the land bounded by the Bowery, Chrystie, Canal and Bayard sts, with the exception of lots 12 to 31, both inclusive, in block 290, section 1, on tax maps of the Borough of Manhattan.

The unfortunate experience of the first bridge across the East River which established a precedent for confining transportation over that bridge to the physical limits of the bridge, has created a situation which has become almost intolerable. It is hoped to avoid in the Manhattan Bridge the difficulties experienced on the Brooklyn Bridge. The duplication of the present condition at both ends of Brooklyn Bridge on any other bridge would be the work of folly.

The object most essential to people depending upon the bridges and tunnels as a means of being carried into and out of the Borough of Manhattan is not only transportation across a bridge or through a tunnel, but continuous transportation away from the terminals of a bridge or tunnel. The present condition of the Brooklyn Bridge, which furnishes an illustration of the necessity of providing for through transportation to and from some point far removed from either end of a bridge, can hardly be charged to those officials who are responsible for the construction of that structure.

An idea of how the present demands on that bridge have exceeded anticipations is obtained when one considers that the original bridge railroad was thought to furnish a means of carrying comfortably every passenger who might wish to ride across that structure. That the railroad, together with over 300 trolley cars per hour, which make round trips on that bridge during the rush hours, does not provide anything like adequate facilities for the comfortable accommodation of passengers need not be stated.

The capacity of the Brooklyn elevated trains has been increased during the rush hours from 36,000 passengers an hour last year to 45,000 this year, which is a gain of 25 per cent. Trolley service on this bridge has increased 10 per cent. and on the Williamsburgh Bridge 28 per cent.

As a means of preventing congestion at both ends of the bridges a subway loop plan has been adopted. This loop will extend from the Manhattan terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge under Centre st to the extension of Delancey st, which is now being opened by the city, under Delancey st to the Williamsburgh Bridge. The loop has a spur to Manhattan Bridge, which goes under Walker to Canal, and under Canal to the bridge. The railroad tracks from the Brooklyn Bridge will be depressed to connect with the subway loop. The city is building this loop, and has not, as yet, closed with any of the transit roads, either subway, elevated or surface to operate trains in the tunnel, but will make a contract with that company which offers the best inducements, both as to revenue to the city and accomodation of the public.

The Blackwell's Island Bridge will be the most important development in the Department of Bridges during the year 1908. This bridge will be opened about June 1, 1908, and will do twice the work of the Brooklyn Bridge. It will have four trolley tracks and will provide accommodations for four elevated or subway tracks. The roadways and footwalks will be much larger than those on the Brooklyn Bridge. It will probably be a popular route for automobiles between Manhattan and Long Island. Tunnels will undoubtedly furnish the means of taking care of swift-moving passenger trains, but bridges, and more of them, will be needed to care for the ever increasing surface traffic.

Ferries cannot be considered as an adequate means of carrying passengers between the Boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn. The rapid growth of Queens points, indubitably, to the time when ferries will be obsolete for the requirements of that borough. Ferries will be, it is true, for some time to come, a matter of local convenience. They permit of the transportation of vehicles from water-front to water-front which bridges do not provide. An approach of a bridge must by reason of physical necessities be removed some distance from the water-front.

The Department of Bridges is the custodian of approximately 10 per cent. of the real property owned by the city. The value of the real property has been variously estimated up to $1,000,000,000, and the value of the bridges and their sites is $100,000,000. The department has jurisdiction over 41 bridges in use and six under construction. The total length, if placed end to end, would be 13½ miles. A rough idea of the number of tunnels and bridges which are at the present time under construction and their cost can be had by glancing at the following table:

| Blackwell's Island Bridge | $15,000,000 | June 1, 1908. |
| Subway Loop | 15,000,000 | May 1, 1909. |
| Manhattan Bridge | 20,000,000 | January 1, 1910. |
| Brooklyn Bridge Improvement | 100,000 | December 1, 1907. |
| Pennsylvania R. R., East River | 50,000,000 | February 1, 1910. |
| Pennsylvania R. R., North River | 50,000,000 | February 1, 1910. |
| McAdoo Tunnel, uptown | 50,000,000 | November 1, 1907. |
| McAdoo Tunnel, downtown | 50,000,000 | January 1, 1910. |
| Battery Tunnel | 9,000,000 | December 1, 1907. |
| Belmont Tunnel | 4,000,000 | January 1, 1908. |

Building Statistics.

FIGURES FROM 49 CITIES SHOW DECREASE IN PERMITS OF 5,232 IN 1906.

Building statistics for 1906, collected and about to be published by the United States Geological Survey, for 49 principal cities, show a decrease in the number of building permits issued from 185,806 in 1905 to 180,574 in 1906. The cost of buildings erected under these permits, however, increased from $644,620,873 to $678,710,969, a gain of $34,090,096, or 5.29 per cent. Although this is a large increase, it is, nevertheless, much smaller than the increase in 1905 to 1904, which was $185,960,866.

Seventeen of the 49 cities show a decrease in value of buildings erected, namely: Allegheny, Baltimore, Brooklyn, Cambridge, Chicago, Cincinnati, Columbus, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Mo.; Milwaukee, New York, Omaha, Pittsburgh, Providence, Reading, Scranton, and Washington. The smallest decrease—$38,854, or 1.85 per cent.—was at Scranton, while the largest—$23,067,872, or 12.95 per cent.—was at New York. No general reason can be assigned for the decline in cost of building in these cities, but local strikes, high cost of labor and material, high rates for money and over-production of buildings in 1905 are mentioned among the causes.

The largest increase was at San Francisco. The great destruction wrought by the earthquake and fire of April 18, 1906, produced an abnormal condition in that city, and the figures from May 19 to December 31 show that permits were issued to erect buildings to cost $34,827,396, an increase of $16,658,644 over the figures for 1905.

The largest actual increase, where normal conditions prevailed, was shown by Boston—$10,699,994—while Kansas City, Kan., showed the largest proportional gain—209.07 per cent. Seattle, Richmond, Va.; Atlanta, St. Joseph, Mo.; Toledo, Syracuse, New Haven, Worcester, Mass.; Cleveland, Jersey City, St. Louis, Detroit and New Orleans, also showed large gains, ranging in order named, from 77 per cent. to 25 per cent.

Notwithstanding its big loss, New York is still the foremost city in the United States in cost of building operations, reporting more than twice as much as the next city—Brooklyn. The cost of the buildings in these two cities constitutes more than one-third of the total reported in the 49 cities.

On the basis of one building to a permit, the average cost of each building in 1906 was $3,758, against $3,469 in 1905 and $3,337 in 1904. The average cost in the leading cities was as follows: New York, $18,076; Brooklyn, $3,951; Chicago, $6,081; Philadelphia, $2,278; San Francisco, $6,143; St. Louis, $3,331; Boston, $6,931; Los Angeles, $1,977; Pittsburgh, $4,112, and Detroit, $3,234.

Column Business Consolidated.

The recent destruction by fire of the eastern factory of Hartmann Brothers Manufacturing Company at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., has resulted in the transferring of the column and porch material business of that company to its Chicago factory, operated by the Henry Sanders Company, at Elston and Webster avs. These two concerns, although operating under different names, have long been closely allied, their interests and methods being identical. The Sanders Company took care of the column business in the Central and Western States, while Hartmann Brothers supplied the Eastern and Southern demand.

When it was found Hartmann Brothers would not be able to erect a suitable factory in the East in time to care for this season's business in their extensive column trade, it was decided to consolidate that part of the business permanently in Chicago. This could be done conveniently and at once because the Sanders Company, within the past year, has moved into a splendid new factory with ample capacity to care for a rapidly expanding business. Its new Chicago plant is the largest and most completely equipped factory building in the world devoted exclusively to the manufacture of wood columns, pilasters and capitals. Koll's Patent Lock Joint Columns will hereafter be made at that factory.

The Sanders Company maintains an eastern office at 1123 Broadway, New York, and also has extensive warehouse facilities in this city. The fact that Mr. F. W. Hold, for the past six years in charge of the column department of Hartmann Brothers Manufacturing Company, has charge of this Eastern office assures a continuation of the courteous consideration and prompt attention to their wants that Eastern customers have always received. Mr. Hold, who has an extensive acquaintance with architects and contractors in the East, is thoroughly familiar with Eastern business customs and methods. He had charge of the organization of the Eastern office and was given every assistance in perfecting that organization so as to meet promptly and efficiently every demand made upon it. He began his new duties at 1123 Broadway on September 1.

The Sanders Company is the largest concern in the West engaged solely in the manufacture of columns, capitals and porch materials. It has splendid shipping advantages and with its New York office and warehouse facilities will be able to meet promptly all eastern demands for Koll's Patent Lock Joint Columns.

Bulletins from the Tenement House Department.

BULLETIN NO. 7.—The department will hereafter require a detail of the glazed doors provided at the rear of the entrance hall under the stairs, showing the said door to contain not less than 9 sq. ft. of glazed surface. This detail plan shall be required for all plans filed in this department, where such doors are necessary.

BULLETIN NO. 8.—The department will conditionally approve windows on lot lines of tenement houses hereafter erected, under the following conditions only:

(a) That the same shall be supplemental to the windows required by the law.
(b) If the building is non-fireproof, that the windows shall be constructed entirely fireproof, and glazed with wire glass.
(c) If the building is fireproof, that all windows in lot line walls, less than ten feet horizontally or fifteen feet vertically from any part of the building on the adjacent premises, shall be constructed entirely fireproof and glazed with wire glass. Windows at a greater distance than noted above need not be fireproof.

BULLETIN NO. 9.—When there are stores on first floor, the protective fireproof floor at first tier of beams must be continuous to the front wall of the building. The bulkheading under show windows, which are within the building line, and for passageways to cellars has been found constructed of wood, without fireproof backing, which cannot be permitted. Lower flanges of steel beams and surfaces of iron columns must be properly protected by use of wire lath or terra cotta. Plastering directly upon the beams will not be tolerated. Such protection is not necessary in fireproof passageways not used as hallways. Soffits of stairways exposed in cellars must be protected by fireproof material as noted above.

BULLETIN No. 10.—In all alterations, other than very minor ones, such as new store fronts, which do not affect the building as a whole, all structural changes required by the law will be required to be made during the proposed alterations, and must be incorporated in the plans and application for same.

BULLETIN NO. 11.—Where the dimensions of halls, stairs, passageways, toilet compartments, etc., are specifically given in the T. H. Act as "not less than" a certain minimum width, it is required that such dimensions be specified on the plans as "in the clear" and builders will be held strictly to such specifications at every point of such halls, passageways, etc.

Points on the Material Market.

Spruce lath have dropped to $3.50, wholesale.

Trade in paints, oils and varnishes continues good.

Hardwood quotations are firm, under a demand that is termed very fair.

The October business of the American Bridge Company exceeded 20,000 tons.

Among builders there is a general agreement that the future will take care of itself in good style.

Business in sheet zinc is of a lukewarm nature, but with prices steady on the basis of $7.50 per cwt.

Copper product prices are for the most part unchanged, but the exceptions, such as bare copper wire, are higher.

Small producers of builders' hardware are cutting prices unmistakably, especially for orders of locks, knobs and other stock goods.

In lumber there is still a fair volume of trade, but dealers are satisfied to take circumstances as they come. Prices also are standing pat.

No readjustment of stock values is contemplated in building material lines, as the opinion is strongly held that this is but a sort of financial freeze, and that as soon as the currency trouble thaws out there will be a full restoration of business.

There has been a marked advance in some kinds of building papers. Rosin Sized Sheathing, 25 lbs. to roll of 500 sq. ft., is quoted at 48 to 58 cents per roll. Tarred Roofing Felt, single ply, per ton, $34 to $38. Slaters' Felt, 80 cts. per roll. Deafening Felt, $54.50 per ton.

"I think the condition in our trade is worse than it was in 1893," said President Hammond, of the Hudson River Brick Manufacturers' Association. "The adverse conditions seem more acute to us, at any rate, because when the panic of 1893 set in brick was being made on a low cost basis, and had been for a long period, so that the depression did not carry the severe effects of the present state of financial affairs, when manufacturing costs have been raised to a high level."

A movement is on foot to induce Congress to amend the Interstate Commerce Act so that the Commission shall pass upon an advance to be and not after it is made. It is also proposed that the shippers to be affected by any proposed advance may be heard, if objecting to it, before and not after it has become effective. The power now in the discretion of the traffic managers is held to be excessive and dangerous because redress may not come to aggrieved litigants until long after protracted periods of delay.

Brick manufacturers consider their trade in an unpleasant position. Demand has fallen off about half, arrivals are few and there is a surplus in the market. The price for good brick is nominally $6 per M., but in order to get rid of waiting cargoes, that price is being shaded. Only about forty-five cargoes are being sold weekly, a number which the trade has learned to estimate as about one-half the normal requirement of the market. Fifty cargoes represent considerable brick building, but under existing circumstances not a very wide distribution.

Tunnel and Subway Situation.

Company has purchased the half block on the west side of Broadway from 32d to 33d st extending back 400 ft. towards the new Pennsylvania R. R. terminal at 7th av and are to erect a large building on this magnificent plot. The present buildings are now in course of demolition; in fact all have been razed but the Manhattan Theatre and Trainor's Hotel. I am under the impression that several lots on this site were purchased at record prices. The Fulton and Cortlandt st tunnels of the McAdoo Company are expected to be completed by July 1, 1908, the Manhattan terminal being under the Giant Twin Buildings now in course of construction at Church st. It is expected that over one-half million people will use these tunnels every twenty-four hours. There is to be a 15-foot passage under Dey st from the terminal to Broadway, where it will connect with the present subway station, thereby permitting passengers to use the Rapid Transit subway without coming to the surface.

There were some 220 miles of new subways proposed in Greater New York by the late Rapid Transit Commission, and as shown on the maps the Seventh, Eighth, Lexington Av and Third av routes were selected for immediate construction. All the necessary legal formalities were overcome by the Commission and under the direction of their engineers, contract drawings and specifications were prepared. The Seventh, Eighth and Lexington av routes were advertised early in the year, and as stated before, no one was found willing to bid for their construction, under the terms exacted by the amended Rapid Transit Act. There is no question that sooner or later these tunnels will be built, but when, is a doubtful and really unguessable proposition. It will be necessary to change the law as it now stands in order to get private capital to invest money in any new subways, and as we are uncomfortably close to the city debt limit, there is very little chance that any elaborate system of subways will be built by the city, although at the present time there is some talk of constructing the tri-borough route, which includes the Third av route in Manhattan, with the city's money. A subway through Third av, while it will be of great benefit to the East Side and the Bronx, is really the most expensive of the several mentioned to construct, and will on account of the elevated structure and the sub-surface conditions, take much longer to build than say the Lexington or Eighth av lines.

The completion and successful operation of our present subway demonstrated that it is possible to live far away from the congested districts and still get to and from out places of business without waste of time. Now that we have been given a practical illustration of what subway extention can do in the way of reducing distances and bringing what at present are almost suburban homes within easy reach of the business sections, we know that this island and in fact all of the boroughs of the city are destined in time to be honeycombed with subways. The time is fast approaching when Manhattan Island will have reached the limit of its population, and in fact as business buildings crowd out the residences on their rapid march uptown, the population will rather decrease than increase, and on account of its proximity to the business section of Manhattan we may look forward to see Brooklyn within a very few years greatly outnumber Manhattan in population. I am not an expert on realty values, but it seems to me that when you consider, as an example, that Fort Hamilton is no further from New York City Hall than 116th st, the question of the value of property along the proposed Fourth av subway should not be a question of doubt.

The capacity of the Brooklyn Bridge and the ferries to Brooklyn at present is less than 70,000 passengers an hour. When we consider that the Williamsburgh Bridge with its six tracks, having a capacity of about 72,000 passengers an hour, the Manhattan Bridge with its eight tracks and the capacity of 96,000 an hour, the Rapid Transit tunnels, nearly completed to Brooklyn, which will carry 24,000 an hour, we find that Brooklyn is soon to have facilities for handling four times as many people as at present, and I, for one, have no doubt of the future greatness of the Borough of Brooklyn. The area of the Borough of

The most gigantic piece of tunnel work in the city, and probably in the world, is that of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The Manhattan terminal alone may be truly spoken of as a wonderful undertaking. Some slight conception of its magnitude may be grasped from the following figures:

| Area enclosed by retaining walls | 28 acres. |

The building above the street will be 433 ft. wide on 7th and 8th avs and 772 ft. long in 31st and 32d sts. The architects estimate the cost at four million dollars. The excavation for the terminal station was commenced in July, 1904, and the station will probably be completed by Jan. 1, 1910, though cars will no doubt be running into it sometime before that. The North River tunnels are practically completed, so much so, that cars could be run through in a very few months if the terminal accommodations were available. The East River tubes are now making fair progress and will undoubtedly be ready for use by the time the terminal is completed. The land tunnels from the terminal site to either river are nearing completion, and will be ready for cars in about a year. The Pennsylvania Railroad officials estimate that they will be able to accommodate 70,000 passengers an hour when their system is in operation.

Brooklyn will permit of a population of ten million without difficulty, and with real rapid transit facilities, its proximity to the financial and business centres of Manhattan, will surely mean that every available foot of land in that Borough will be in demand in the not distant future.

So far as the Borough of Queens is concerned, it will undoubtedly be greatly benefited by the increased facilities of the Borough of Brooklyn, and in addition to the Belmont tunnels already mentioned, will have the four Pennsylvania tubes accommodating nearly 50,000 passengers an hour, and the Blackwell's Island Bridge with its six tracks and capacity of 72,000 an hour. At the present time the outlook for any great increase of facilities to the Bronx is hazy, and when we consider that all the improvements leading to the Borough of Brooklyn and Queens which I have just mentioned, are actually under construction, and will soon be in full operation, it does not seem hard to decide that the growth of these boroughs in the near future will be nothing less than phenomenal.

In order to give some idea of what a stupendous transit problem the new Public Service Commissioners fell heir to, it may be well to say, that while the population of the city is increasing at the rate of about 5% per annum, the number of passengers carried on the various transportation lines is increasing at the rate of nearly 25% per annum; in other words, ten years from now, the population of the city will have reached 6,000,000 and should the passenger traffic increase in proportion, as it undoubtedly will, the year's fares in the Greater City, now about 850,000,000, would then be nearly 3,000,000,000, or over three times as many. The completion of all the subways proposed by the late Rapid Transit Board will scarcely be able to meet this demand, and it must be acknowledged by all that no time should be lost in beginning the construction of new subways.

With subway construction through the important thoroughfares of the city comes the question of what excavating the streets means to you gentlemen as representatives of the owners of adjacent and abutting property. No doubt you have, and will find yourself called upon to decide many questions as the work progresses.

There are two sides of the question that you and those you represent are called upon to consider. The city authorities and the contractors will insist that you should show a broad public spirit, and that public interests require that the welfare and the convenience of the people of the city as a whole shall have dominant consideration, and that no minor or bearable damage to private interest should be allowed to interfere with the construction of the subways. This is true, but the other and very important consideration is self-preservation. The contracts as drawn for the several lines of subways advertised last spring contained clauses which tended to protect the interest of the property owners from injury by making the contractor liable for injuries incident to the work. This did not mean loss of rental or interference with traffic, but direct damage due to the disturbance of foundations, the settling of the buildings, etc. The time is past when property owners will be so negligent of their own interests as to passively permit a repetition of the conditions that prevailed in 42d st during the construction of the subway through that thoroughfare, nor the conditions on Park av in the neighborhood of 38th st, where the line of the tunnel was moved, without the knowledge of the property owners, over under the fronts of the buildings, causing them to fall out. It has been demonstrated that if the property owners do not guard their own interests and keep in touch with the progress of the work, the method of construction is liable to be changed from time to time to convenience the contractor.

While recognizing the fact that the tunnel must be completed and the work should not be hampered by unnecessarily strict interpretations of the contract and specifications, the owners of realty should see that the contractor be not allowed to change the plan of construction with no better reason than a saving of cost to himself. It has been decided by the Court of Appeals that the contractor may not, merely to save cost to himself, so obstruct the streets and sidewalks as to cause loss of business and profits to merchants which might have been avoided by the adoption of other practical methods. Damage suffered through loss of trade comes under the head of consequential damages, and is quite difficult of proof, but as in the Everett House case, even in this respect the contractor is liable for avoidable injuries. Just what is avoidable and what is absolutely necessary in the way of obstructions is difficult to decide, unless one is in constant touch with the work, and has the necessary engineering knowledge and experience, and it is at this point that the services of an engineer are of value to the property owners.

Product and Appliance.

The Sandusky Portland Cement Co., of Sandusky, O., manufacturers of Medusa Waterproof compound, report that that material was used in the following work: By the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co., in the concrete depot at Las Animas, Colo., and by the same railroad in their tie and timber treating plant at Albuquerque. In the roof of the North Chicago Hardware Co.; in a concrete reservoir for the Knickerbocker Ice Co., and in the Chicago Junction Ry. Co. and Chicago & Northwestern Ry. Co. track elevation at Chicago. The compound has also been recommended by the Engineer in Charge for the new Phipps Natatorium being constructed in Pittsburgh, this recommendation having been made after severe tests proved satisfactory.

No Plans Yet for Broadway and 43d Street Improvement.

BROADWAY.—So far as could be learned the past week no plans have yet been prepared for the proposed 12-sty store, office and theatre building which Harry Levey contemplates erecting at the southeast corner of Broadway and 43d st, fronting 104.2 ft. on Broadway and 193.9 ft. on 43d st. Mr. Levey has leased the site for a term of forty-two years at a fixed rental aggregating over $4,000,000. The lease contains three renewal privileges of twenty-one years each at 4% on the appraised valuation of the land. His plan is to have the building connect with the subway, so that passengers may directly enter the theatre or any part of the office building. Benjamin W. Levitan, of No. 20 West 31st st, has been Mr. Levey's architect in previous operations. The Record and Guide announced a similar theatre project on this site several months ago, but plans were abandoned.

Latest Washington Heights Improvement.

AMSTERDAM AV.—Sommerfeld & Steckler, 19 Union Square, have been commissioned to prepare plans for three high-class apartment houses to be situated at the southeast corner of Amsterdam av and 158th st, and the east side of 158th st, 100 feet east of Amsterdam av, for Mr. J. Katzman, 622 West 137th st. Light brick, terra cotta and limestone fronts, marble, tile and mosaic work, steam heat, electric lighting, hardwood finish, dumb waiters. No sub-contracts have yet been issued. An old frame residence has for years occupied the site.

Heins & La Farge to Plan Deaconess School.

CATHEDRAL HEIGHTS.—Plans are soon to be prepared by Architects Heins & La Farge, No. 30 East 21st st, for the construction of a fireproof school building for deaconesses to be situated on Cathedral Heights, on property of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, above Morningside Park. Particulars as to materials, size of building, style of architecture, etc., will be announced in later issues. No figures have yet been taken or contracts let. Rev. Dr. Huntington, Chairman Building Committee, 804 Broadway, can inform.

Mercantile Structure for Broadway and 4th St.

BROADWAY.—Philip Braender, builder, No. 143 West 125th st, is making arrangements for the erection of another store and loft building to cover a plot at the southwest corner of Broadway and 4th st now occupied by five and 6-sty buildings. So far as could be learned on Wednesday, no plans have yet been prepared, or architect selected. William C. Frohne, 26 East 21st st, has been architect for other buildings erected by Mr. Braender.

Three-Story Dwellings for 105th Street.

105TH ST.—It is reported that Franklin Pettit, of No. 2 Wall st, has decided to build a number of 3-sty dwellings on the north side of 105th st, near Broadway. No plans have yet been drawn or contracts let.

PROSPECT AV.—Work on the three new 40-ft. 5-sty apartment houses on Prospect av, north of 163d st, is expected to start early next month. There are to be sixteen rooms on each floor. Gaines & Roberts are the builders.

MELROSE AV.—It is reported that the American Real Estate Co., of Westchester av, will soon erect a building on their vacant plot on Melrose av, between 149th and 150th sts., fronting 180 ft. on Melrose av., 175 ft. on 150th st., and 150 ft. on 149th st.

Churches.

The St. Alban's Presbyterian Church Association is to build an $8,000 frame structure at St. Mark's av and Remsen st, Brooklyn.

Messrs. Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson, 170 5th av, have completed plans for the Sage Memorial Church to be erected at Far Rockaway, Long Island, for the First Presbyterians. Contracts are about to be let.

Alterations.

9TH ST.—Martin King, 148 1st av, owner, will make alterations to No. 400 East 9th st. D. Timendorfar, 1931 Broadway, is making plans.

17TH ST.—David M. Ash, 1 Madison av, is planning for $6,000 worth of changes to Nos. 534-538 East 17th st, owned by Robert E. Low, 534 East 17th st.

preparing plans for a 3-sty fireproof Mechanic Arts High School to be erected on Robert st and Central av, St. Paul, Minn., to cost about $200,000. The structure will be 3-stys, 100x200 ft. in size.

MADISON AV.—Walter J. Salomon, 500 5th av, is owner and general contractor for the theatre and store building situated on Madison av, east side, from 58th to 59th sts, which he will alter at a cost of about $30,000. Hedman & Schoen, 302 Broadway, are the architects.

Bids recently received for erecting the administration building for the Carnegie Institution, Washington, D. C., have been rejected by the Executive Committee. The building is to cost

THE PLAZA—MAIN CORRIDOR.

MULBERRY ST.—Peter M. Coco, 114 East 23d st, is preparing plans for alterations to No. 28 Mulberry st, to cost $8,000. Andrew Tuneo, on premises, is the owner.

CHRYSTIE ST.—Gross & Kleinberger, Bible House, are making plans for $6,800 worth of improvements to No. 182 Chrystie st, owned by Adolph Schlesinger, 7 Stanton st.

8TH AV.—The Ethelia Realty Co., 39 Broadway, will make $10,000 worth of alterations to the northwest corner of 8th av and 126th st. B. W. Berger & Son, Bible House, are the architects.

Miscellaneous.

H. Van Buren Magonigle, 7 West 38th st, Manhattan, has plans ready for alterations and a 3-sty addition to the high school building for the Board of Education, Auburn, N. Y. Plans for a new grammar school will be completed about Nov. 15.

Architect Cass Gilbert, 11-15 East 24th st, Manhattan, is about $200,000. Carrere & Hastings, 28 East 41st st, New York, are the architects.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt has given to the Newport Young Men's Christian Association $100,000 for a new building as a memorial to his father, the late Cornelius Vanderbilt. Mr. Vanderbilt stipulates that he shall furnish the architect, and that the building shall be in accordance with his ideas. No plans have yet been drawn or architect selected.

Estimates Receivable.

AMSTERDAM AV.—The G. L. McGuire Construction Co., owner, and George R. Enell, architect, 3694 Broadway, are about to take estimates on sub-contracts for the apartment house to be erected at the northwest corner of Amsterdam av and 178th st, to cost about $175,000. (See issue Oct. 26, 1907.)

CHERRY ST.—Messrs. Thom & Wilson, 1123 Broadway, have plans ready for the 5-sty stable, 24x55.6 ft., which Alice Keteltas, 37 St. Marks Place, is to erect at No. 48 Cherry st, to cost about $16,500. The exterior will be of brick with tile coping, and felt and gravel roof. No contracts have yet been awarded.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—Wm. B. Tuthill, 287 4th av, has completed plans for the new 3-sty residence, 40x72 ft., which Mr. Morris Schinasi, 300 Central Park West, will erect on Riverside Drive, northeast corner 107th st, to cost about $180,000. Plans specify a brick exterior, mansard terra cotta tile roof, steel girders, yellow pine timber, copper cornices, steam heat. No contracts have yet been awarded or figures taken.

Contracts Awarded.

The Barber Asphalt & Paving Co., 114 Liberty st, submitted the lowest bid for paving various streets in Brooklyn at $35,755.

19TH ST.—Barr & Gruber, 210 Bowery, have received the contract for extensive alterations to No. 209 West 19th st, for Hugh E. O'Reilly, of Woodmere, L. I.

GRAND ST.—L. Black & Bro., 148 Clinton st, have obtained the plumbing contract for the new branch building which the Mutual Alliance Trust Co. is erecting at the northwest corner of Grand and Forsyth sts.

BROAD ST.—The Dow Realty Co., 100 William st, has awarded to R. L. Walsh & Co., 100 William st, the contract for improvements to Nos. 113-115 Broad st, for which James R. Turner, 67 West 131st st, has prepared plans.

H., have been awarded as follows: Construction proper and electric wiring, to Nicholas H. Trapp, 17 Thames st, New York; plumbing, to John Wood, 95 4th av, New York; heating, Earl & Cook, 150 Nassau st, New York.

9TH ST.—The Libman Contracting Co., 1968 Broadway, has received the contract for extensive alterations and additions to the loft building No. 30 East 9th st for Messrs. S. Geismar & Co.; also for extensive alterations to the residence of Mr. Samuel Kubie at Wave Crest, Far Rockaway, L. I., and are now ready for figures on all material for same.

NORFOLK ST.—The J. C. Lyons Building & Operating Co., 4 East 42d st, have just obtained the general contract to remodel the 3-sty bank building Nos. 50 to 52 Norfolk st, for the State Bank, from plans by Architect Herbert R. Mainzer, 170 5th av. The improvement will cost about $25,000. O. L. Richard is president, Arnold Kohn vice-president, and A. I. Voorhis, cashier.

Plans Wanted in Competition.

The city school commissioners, Baltimore, Md., will invite competitive plans, to be passed on by the Municipal Art Commission, for a school building, to be erected at the southeast corner of Auchentoroly ter and Morris av. Cost about $125,000.

The Rev. H. A. McCullough, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal congregation, Albemarle, North Carolina, wants to receive plans and specifications for a new church edifice.

E. O. Arnold, chairman building committee Y. M. C. A., Mt. Vernon, O., invites architects to submit plans and specifications for a new association building to cost in the neighborhood of $30,000.

BUILDING NOTES

An electrician's helper, male, is wanted at a city hospital. See Wants and Offers.

Young man, with some knowledge of draughting, desires a position in architect's office. See Wants and Offers.

The Mutual Sash Weight Foundry have completed the erection of their new plant at Norman av and Monitor st, Greenpoint, and it is in full running order. They will make a specialty of sash and dumb waiters, water weights in all sizes and shapes.

A man with a thorough knowledge of reinforced concrete construction desires a position as superintendent. A bookkeeper and stenographer having had five years' experience with a large construction company is also open for a position. See Wants and Offers.

Thomas T. Hopper, for several years vice-president of Isaac A. Hopper & Son, Inc., has severed all connections with that firm and has taken offices in the Times Building, 42d st and Broadway, where he will continue to do general building and contracting in all its branches.

The opening of the course in "Business Management" of the West Side Young's Men's Christian Association, 318 West 57th st, was held on Thursday evening, Nov. 7, at 8 o'clock. Mr. Thomas E. Dockrell delivered a special address on the "Systematizing of Information for the Individual or Organization."

The New York office of the Raymond Concrete Pile Co., of Chicago and New York, is now in Suite 1309, on the 13th floor of the West Street Building, Cedar and West sts. The large increase in volume of business made it imperative for the Raymond Company to secure larger and more commodious quarters, and their present location will enable them to conduct their large and growing business with increased facility and dispatch. Among the recent contracts awarded to the Raymond Concrete Pile Co. is one by Mr. J. R. Savage, chief engineer of the Long Island Railroad. This contract is for the concrete pile foundation of the conduit line in the North Shore yards in Long Island City. The conduit, which will be of concrete, will be used for carrying the electric feed wires of the Long Island system. The application of concrete piles as the foundation of a conduit line is rather a novel one, and this particular instance is, we believe, the first one on record in which such an application has been made.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad is now running its thirty-five Westinghouse electric locomotives with local trains between the Grand Central Station, New York, and Stamford. The success of the operations involved has exceeded the expectations of the officials of the railway company and of the manufacturers, and it is understood that a considerable addition to the locomotive equipment is under negotiation. During the past few months numerous efforts have been made to cause the impression that the equipment has been unsatisfactory and therefore would not be accepted. As a matter of fact, however, the New Haven company, it is authoritatively stated, has paid the manufacturers practically in full for the work done to date and continues to pay as the work makes progress. Each locomotive was intended to haul only five-car local trains, but it frequently happens that trains of as many as eight cars are handled with ease by a single unit, and on a recent occasion one of these locomotives pulled a broken steam locomotive with its train into Stamford so that a new engine could be attached.

David Belasco's new theatre, the Stuyvesant, has 135 doors, through which the building could be emptied of its audience in three minutes. It has an open space—what is virtually a street—running all around it, so that the audience and actors could get out on four sides at once in case of fire. These numerous exits, and the elaborate fire-fighting appliances, may be called "additional precautions." They are chiefly valuable for the prevention of panic, because the theatre is built of such material that it cannot burn. The main structure is of steel and masonry. In the partitions have been used hollow blocks of terra cotta. Mechanical ingenuity reached its perfection in the Stuyvesant's stage, designed by Mr. Belasco himself. It has a height of 93 ft. and a drop through a "trap" 32 ft., making a perpendicular reach of 125 ft. There are four working galleries between floor and roof, instead of the usual two. A large elevator in the very centre of the stage enables the stage hands to clear away the "properties" with the least possible delay. It can be lowered to the basement and lifted again by the pushing of an electric button.

Hendricks' Commercial Register.

The sixteenth annual (1907) edition of Hendricks' Commercial Register has been received. It is a very valuable book of reference for business men. The 15th annual 1906 edition required sixty-two pages to index its contents, while the present edition requires seventy-six pages. As each page contains 412 classifications, the fourteen additional pages contain 5,768 additional trade classifications, making for the seventy-six pages a grand total of 31,212 headings, each one of which represents the manufacturers, etc., of some machine, tool, apparatus, specialty or material.

The first edition of the publication was issued in 1891. It has been published annually since that time. It contained about five hundred pages, while the present numbers over 1,300 pages and contains upwards of 350,000 names and addresses classified under 31,212 trade headings.

The first edition required only eight pages to index its contents with 206 classifications on each page or a total of 1,648 classifications, and it was devoted solely to the building industry of the country, while the present covers not only that but also the engineering, mechanical, railroad, electrical, mining, iron, steel, export and kindred industries. The difference between it and the present edition will give some idea of the growth of the publication and the appreciation with which it has been received.

The publishers make no charge for fully classifying any firm's business, consequently they have the material for making a most complete buyer's reference. As an illustration of the system we might mention "Machinists and Founders." All firms who have a machine shop or a foundry are classified under that heading for mailing purposes, then each firm is sub-classified under headings that cover every variety of its product. This makes the work very complete for both buying and selling. Each annual edition is corrected so far as it is possible to secure the necessary information. Copies are expressed to any part of the United States on receipt of price, $10 each. S. E. Hendricks Co., publishers, 74 Lafayette St., New York.

Prices to be quoted c. i. f. near-by city. If conditions were convenient, this firm would be disposed to make a contract for 10,000 cases yearly, monthly deliveries.

No. 1468. Cast-iron and Spiral-riveted steel piping.—An inquiry has been received by an American consul in Asia Minor for prices of American cast-iron and spiral-riveted steel pipes suitable for carrying water under pressure of from 50 to 70 pounds. The consulate requests that manufacturers of these articles interested in export business send their catalogues and price lists at once.

No. 1472. Catalogues for consulate.—The American Consulate, Amoy, China, would like to receive catalogues, commercial publications, etc., from all American business houses desiring to enter that field. American export houses dealing in foodstuffs, such as canned goods, dried fruits, grain, etc., are invited by the Consulate to send particulars.

No. 1577. Iron pipes, bars, sheets, and girders.—One of the American consuls in the Levant writes that a member of a well-known firm at the place in question called at the consulate recently and said that he felt confident that he could do a good business in wrought and cast-iron pipes for water and gas if he could arrange with some American dealer or manufacturer. The consul adds that a good trade is also carried on there in iron bars, sheets, and girders, there being from 4,000 to 5,000 tons of all descriptions imported annually from European countries.

No. 1585. Square galvanized tubes.—An American consular officer in Europe reports that a business man at the place in question would like to hear from American makers of square galvanized tubes with a resistance at breaking point of 40 kilograms (kilogram, 2.2 pounds) per square millimeter (square millimeter, .00155 square inch), and of the following dimensions: Seventy millimeters (millimeter, .0394 inch), side length, 3.75 millimeters thickness, 6 meters (meter, 39.37 inches) long; 35 millimeters side, 2.75 millimeters thickness, 13.25 meters long.

No. 1587. Hardware, metal beds, farm implements, firearms, etc.—One of the American consuls in South America reports that an extensive hardware dealer at the place in question has been induced to put in stock quite a full line of American goods. He wishes, so far as possible, to deal strictly with the manufacturer, and it is suggested that catalogues with prices, cash discounts, etc., be sent to his address. These catalogues should cover all lines of hardware, including bedsteads and springs, glass, wall paper, machine tools, lighter farm machinery and tools, arms and ammunition, etc.

No. 1590. New jail and market building supplies.—One of the American consuls in Latin America reports that the city in question has under consideration the erection of a new jail and also a new market building. At present the indications are that these buildings will be constructed of reinforced concrete.

No. 1592. Iron beams, hardware, surgical instruments, tiles, petroleum, etc.—One of the consular officers in the Levant reports that a business official there would like to hear from American manufacturers of or dealers in iron beams, hardware, surgical instruments, tiles, petroleum and oleomargarine.

Public Parks in Greater New York.

HOW many parks are there in Greater New York? What is the area in acres? What is the tax valuation? There are comparatively few people who can answer these questions, even approximately correct. Were their names to be read to them, probably in a large number of cases the reply would be, "I have never heard of that one; where is it?"

There are about one hundred and six parks in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens and the Bronx. In Manhattan the three principal ones are Central, Riverside and Highbridge in the order named. The first one has 843 acres, of which 185 acres are in lakes, 400 in forests, in which have been planted one-half million trees and shrubs, 9 miles of roads, 5¼ miles bridle paths, 31 miles of walks. The assessed valuation is approximately $100,000,000. The second one on the list contains 140 acres and is assessed for about $5,200,000. The third one, 63 acres in size, is assessed for $725,000.

City Hall Park is the most valuable plot of land owned by the city, for its size. It contains 8 acres and is assessed for $27,000,000.

Battery Park is another very valuable holding. Twenty-one acres in size it is assessed on the books for about $14,775,000.

The total number of park acreage in Manhattan is 1,310, and the assessed valuation is $173,936,500.

The assessment figures are purely nominal. Were the property to be split up into building lots it would bring much more than these figures. As an example the old Stewart building on the northeast corner of Chambers st and Broadway not very long ago was sold for about $4,000,000. This property is 151.3 on Broadway, 225 on Reade st, 151 ft. on the easterly line and 227.10 on Chambers, or roughly speaking, about seven-eighths of an acre.

In Brooklyn the principal park is Prospect, which comprises 516 acres, and it also includes about 40 acres devoted to the parade ground. This public playground is assessed at about $27,912,000.

The total number of acreage devoted to parks in Brooklyn is 1,026, and the assessed valuation is about $40,000,000.

In the Borough of Queens, Forest Park is the largest, having 526 acres of ground. The valuation of this tract is about $1,750,000.

The parks of the Bronx lead in acreage over all the other boroughs, and probably some day will have the greatest value. There are sixteen all told, including Bronx, Pelham Bay and Van Courtlandt. Bronx Park has an acreage of 661, and the assessed valuation is $5,756,700. It will be remembered that the Zoological Gardens are located here, and in the course of a few years it is expected to make this the handsomest one of its kind in the world. The largest one in the whole city is Pelham Bay, which comprises 1,756 acres, and is assessed by the city for $7,638,500. There is a great deal of water front belonging to this part of the city's holdings and it has a great deal of natural beauty. The second largest is also situated in the Bronx. This one, Van Courtlandt, is 1,132 acres in area and is assessed for $9,851,000. One of the features of this last named place is its golf course. It is beautifully situated in both rolling and flat country, and is patronized very extensively by lovers of the sport.

The total acreage of all the parks in the Bronx is 3,851 and the assessed valuation $29,441,900.

The total number of acres that are devoted to park purposes in the four boroughs mentioned is 6,742 and the total assessed valuation is about $243,064,000.

Brooklyn Builders Laying Plans for Coming Year.

Building operations in Brooklyn are still about $3,000,000 in advance of the previous year. Although the figures of the building department for October exhibit a continued lowering in the cost of new structures, for which plans were filed during the month preceding the present, when compared with the corresponding period in 1906, yet the total of new building for 1907 still exceeds that for 1906 by a considerable margin. Many builders are already laying plans for 1908, and from present indications it would seem that a greater number of small private houses will be erected next spring than those of the two-family type. It is generally conceded that the building of two-family houses has been overdone, especially in South Brooklyn, where there are still many to be had at low figures and on most any terms. Among the new buildings to be commenced in that section is a row of fourteen 3-sty brick dwellings to be erected by E. H. Bishop, of 20 Halsey st, at a cost of about $84,000. It is quite likely that similar operations will be started during the winter in both the Dyker Heights and Bensonhurst sections.

The Week.

The week just past was very quiet in the real estate field. Broken into as it was by Election Day, there was not very much accomplished from a sales standpoint. A 7-sty mercantile building in University pl was purchased by an investor, and a loft building on Broadway also figured in the sales reported. A number of middle-priced apartments and dwellings also changed hands. A number of leases were reported, the largest being the 5-sty building, 11 West 34th st. This house occupies a lot 25 ft. front and has an extra depth of 126.6. There is a right-of-way through to 35th st on this property which has caused a great deal of discussion in the past. The lease is for a term of twenty-one years, with two renewals, at an annual rental of $25,000. The same lessee has another large lease in the same street, situated at 1 West 34th st, for which she pays $20,000 a year. Both stores are next to the McCreery establishment, one on the easterly side and the other on the westerly.

The mortgage market is in better condition this week than it has been for some time past. While there were only a few large amounts loaned out, still the number of mortgages recorded showed an increase of about 25% in Manhattan. In the Bronx the number recorded was about the same as last week. The largest loan of the week was given by the Plaza Operating Co., of the Plaza Hotel, 59th st and 5th av, to the Trust Company of America. This mortgage is for $4,500,000, at 6%, and was drawn August 15 and is due on October 1, 1910. The estate of Russell Sage made a loan of $200,000 to Strange & Slawson on the property 110 ft. west of 6th av, on the north side of 40th st, for a term of three years, with interest bearing 5%. Another was made by John O. Baker, who represents Charles T. Barney, and was in the form of a building loan. Joseph Freedman is the borrower and is going to erect a large apartment house on the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 94th st. On the house 17 East 51st st $150,000 was loaned by Fred. R. Coudert to Frank K. Sturgis.

The real estate brokers throughout the city are optimistic on the general market condition. Many of them have expressed themselves as being well satisfied with the condition of affairs. They say that while business has been slow for the last few months, still they look for it to pick up weekly from now on. The first of November is always a bad time for the money market. Many mortgages fall due on this date, and the placing of new money in this branch of the real estate field does not really occur until all the old outstanding ones are out of the way.

The total number of private sales reported for the week is 32, of which 16 were below 59th st, 12 above and 4 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THE week just past was one of the worst in the year from an auction standpoint. On some holidays, such as July 4 and Labor Day, there are large sales in this branch of the business, but Election week and Christmas week have just the opposite result. People are thinking of other things, and especially at this time, when the city at large is upset by financial troubles of one kind or another, there are few inclined to buy, and would rather hold on to what they have. This is, of course, a mistake from a business standpoint, for to buy something cheap one must purchase when no one else wants it and must sell when there is a large demand. There were only twenty-two offerings, and with the exception of three pieces they were all either adjourned, bid in, withdrawn or purchased by the plaintiff or defendant. There was practically no outside buying. The parcels offered were of the general run, neither good, bad nor indifferent, and there was nothing of especial note to attract attention. At the stand of Joseph P. Day on Monday No. 503 Manhattan av, 3-sty dwelling, 15x80, was bought by the Legal Realty Co., and on the following Wednesday at the stand of Samuel Goldsticker No. 336 West 85th st, 25x102, vacant, was purchased by George Backer for $16,945. At the stand of Lounsberry & O'Connor a plot 400x800 irregular on Riverdale lane was knocked down to Earl G. Pier for $40,000.

Prospects in the Bronx.

Real estate brokers in the Bronx feel much encouraged by the way prices have held in this section since the recent upheaval in the lower part of the city.

It is claimed, and it cannot be successfully disputed, that the Bronx has made its greatest strides during business depressions or immediately following so-called hard times. Bronx real estate dealers claim that already they can see an influx of renters from the West Side and other sections where rent is higher, and that a general business depression, or threatenings of one, would quickly fill the few vacant houses and apartments and warrant the investment of more money in improving real estate.

While some brokers hold that vacant lots on desirable business thoroughfares are being now held at prohibitive prices, they all agree that even at the present figures the builder can save a considerable sum of money by building in the Bronx. A smaller investment calls for smaller rents, and smaller rents attract more quickly profitable renters. That the titles of the best lots are now held by financially strong interests is evident by the very few bargains offered. In all sections prices are held firmly, and it is doubtful that with the larger sums of money now available for mortgage purposes at normal interest, if the expected shake-out will take place. Money for first mortgages is getting more plentiful daily and is expected to increase as depositors in several trust companies and savings banks are enabled to draw out their deposits.

Clement H. Smith, of Tremont av, said that with him business was pretty good and real estate in the Bronx was decidedly picking up. "All we want now is a little more elastic currency."

Geo. E. Buchbee, of 708 Tremont av, said that "people are finding out that after all real estate is the very best and safest investment. While business is still quiet, I believe that in a month from now there will be more buyers of improved real estate. But the real estate boom will not materialize until after Presidential election."

Mr. Bryan, of Williams & Bryan, of 2796 3d av, said they were getting many inquiries for small houses and were selling one occasionally. "Renting is now our best barometer of what the future holds out for Bronx property owners. We find," said Mr. Bryan, "that the demand now is for smaller apartments, and that three and four room apartments are renting better than larger ones."

E. J. Busher, of 627 East 149th st, said that business in the Bronx was normal. "Prices are being held remarkably well and it is only occasionally that an owner is anxious to sell at a sacrifice. Money for mortgages is getting more plentiful daily, and when the money tied up in banks is released much of it will be quickly diverted into real estate channels. Personally I anticipate good business after the first of January, as all the present indications point that way."

S. Marcus & Sons, of 3141 3d av, also anticipated an early resumption of real estate activity.

W. E. Brooker, of Tremont av, said that he believed the present financial flurry would act to strengthen the real estate market and that money for mortgages was now much easier to be had.

Expert Testimony in Condemnation Proceedings.

By CHARLES GRIFFITH MOSES.

EXPERT testimony, in my opinion, is a subject that can be learned in the school of experience only, and many men of life-long training in the real estate business—men who are expert appraisers and veritable mines of real estate lore—do not make successful experts on the witness stand because they do not know how to convey this knowledge to the best advantage of their clients.

It has always seemed to me that the highest grade of real estate work is expert appraising, and that that one department, more than any other, raises the real estate business nearer to a profession. It is extremely difficult to lay down any rule, or series of rules, as to how to testify as an expert in a condemnation proceedings,* or to give you by rote any method of preparing yourself for this ordeal; and it is an ordeal I can assure you, until you become more or less callous to the searching cross-examinations of a bright and able assistant corporation counsel, or the sometimes very pertinent questions of a conscientious commissioner. But I will try to give you a few pointers gathered from my own experience and from the experience of some of my preceptors, which I hope may be of some value to you.

In the first place, I will give you a brief outline of what happens when a piece of real estate is taken for public purposes by condemnation under the laws of eminent domain. I won't go into the preliminary legal steps, as that part of the proceedings does not directly concern the witness, although it is very useful and valuable for him to learn. We will start after the various city departments, the local board, the board of estimate and apportionment, the Supreme Court, the commissioner and the corporation counsel have gotten matters under way. Briefly, after the three commissioners have been appointed, have organized, viewed the premises and received proof of title, they are ready for the witness.

The attorneys for the property owner whose real estate is to be taken put witnesses on the stand and endeavor to prove by them the fair market value of the land or buildings affected, as the case may be. Then the corporation counsel, through one of his assistants, cross-examines the witnesses for the property owners. Then the city puts its witnesses on the stand and they in turn are cross-examined by the various attorneys for the property owners. Then the commissioners fix the amounts to be paid the property owners, and finally the report of the commissioners is presented before a judge of the Supreme Court for confirmation. Some reports are confirmed at once, and some are sent back for review and change for various reasons. This all seems simple enough, but don't think that it is, and that the months and months and often years through which an apparently simple little street opening or school site proceeding seems to drag along is time wasted, because as a rule it is not. There are a thousand and one legal points and twists and theories to be argued and discussed and ruled on and objected to, before a final result is obtained.

Now, as to the experts' part in all this. First, and of most importance, he must know his subject. He must be able to appraise the real estate taken in the proceeding in which he is employed. He must be sure of his values, and—here is the meat of the whole thing—he must be able to prove the values that he is sure of. Some of the best and ablest and most experienced appraisers in the city make very poor witnesses because they cannot prove what they absolutely know.

In my opinion the best witnesses are those that confine themselves to one particular section of the city or one character of real estate. The reason for this is quite obvious, for no man, I don't care who he is, can possibly keep posted on all parts of the city and can know the real estate happenings both at Hunts Point and lower Broadway as well as the two men, each of whom make each of those sections his specialty. If a man, in his mind's eye, can see the surroundings of a piece of property in question, not only the very block, but the district a mile in every direction and can call to mind automatically as it were, the character of the buildings and improvements, the recent changes, the contemplated improvements, the most recent sales, leases and mortgages and the true consideration and inside history of these transactions, his testimony carries ten times more weight and conviction than the answer of the witness who can't remember or isn't sure, or who hesitates or makes mistakes of facts.

The simplest and most effective way of proving the value of a conventional regular sized piece of property is by quoting sales of similar pieces in the immediate vicinity or in a similar location. This is not always possible for various reasons. Firstly, there may not have been any recent sales analagous to the plot in question, or, if there be such a sale, it may be at a figure above or below, its, in your opinion, actual value by reason of special considerations. If too low, a forced sale or a foreclosure, or if too high, because the owner of an adjoining plot needed it to complete a large plot for some special improvement. The knowledge that there was some reason for a sale at a figure above or below what you consider the market value of the property you are handling comes only to those that know the real estate happenings of their special section. For ordinary appraising the price at which property is held in a certain section or vicinity and actual offers that you know have been made and refused would be and are justly so, good guides to and criterions of value; but they would not be admitted as competent before a commission. Right here I might say that a good working knowledge of the rules of evidence is a very handy and valuable adjunct to the expert. Many a time I have had an opportunity to get in an answer to a question that I knew perfectly well would be ruled out on objections as incompetent, immaterial or irrelavent, and while such answer was ruled out, I got it before the commissioners and, although technically they could not consider it they certainly had it called to their attention and indirectly it might carry some weight.

Lack of sales in some neighborhoods does not necessarily mean that there is no demand for property in that section, but frequently means that there is little or no property there that is in the market for sale. As in sections such as the heart of the financial districts where property is held by rich corporations or firms for their own occupancy for business or by old estates, many of which will not or cannot sell for legal or other reasons; or in the high-class residence districts where most of the dwellings are occupied by their owners who do not care to sell at any figure; or in some neighborhood (especially the outlying ones) that are in a transition stage and where the owners are willing and able to hold until the new order of things becomes an established fact and a new basis of value obtains. In such cases where sales are few or figures such as do not, on the surface, represent the actual values, an expert must fall back on his general knowledge, and, if, in his qualification, he has shown that he is thoroughly familiar with the neighborhood, his general knowledge carries weight, but if he has not so shown familiarity, much of the effect on the commissioner is lost.

Frequently a witness is asked, in cross-examination, if he knows of such-and-such a sale, at, possibly, a wide divergence in price from that which he quoted as his basis of value. Then again, his familiarity with the section stands him in good stead. He must know the whys and wherefores of this sale; if improved, what kind of buildings are erected there. It may be that it is a superior improvement to that on the piece he is testifying about, or, on the other hand, it may be inferior. It may be that while the building is a good one it is not a proper improvement for the land as a dwelling in a business section, or a very fine building in a neighborhood calling for cheap improvements. If vacant property, there may be a host of reasons why the figure is above or below the one he uses as a basis. For example, physical conditions, such as high rock or bad bottom, or vice versa, as compared to the plot in question. Or, perchance, it is a small lot between two substantial buildings, the owner of neither of which cares to buy, and which lot, by itself, is too small for adequate and proper improvement. These things, I repeat, the expert must know.

I have always found that in quoting sales, the little phrase, "I have sold," carries much more conviction and weight with commissioners than the quotation of sales made by others. This, too, bears out my belief in localization, because the man who testifies in neighborhoods where his principal business is done can surely quote more of his own sales in that vicinity than the one who will testify as to values of property all over town. While an absolute knowledge of values should, of course, be the principal qualification of an expert, there are many other matters of a technical nature that he must be thoroughly familiar with. One of the most important and difficult of these matters is the proper method of valuing short lots, those more than 100 feet in depth and those of irregular shape.

Many real estate men differ as to the relative values of short lots or long lots, or irregular plots, or easements, or plottage, or added value for improvements. No fixed rule as to the handling of these different subjects can be made except that one's own experience must develop certain facts that either prove or disprove one's theories on these varied phrases. I strongly advise the working out of theories that can be proven and made to hold water and then sticking to them. The use of the Hofman and the Harmon Neil rules must be understood thoroughly and their use intelligently applied or they will prove boomerangs. These rules, while by no means perfect, are, I think, the only standards recognized at all whereby the values of rearage and frontage may be compared.

These rules sometimes work very well and equitably in certain cases, and are valuless in others; so care must be taken in using and applying them so that what worked well and smoothly in one case may not be brought up against one in another case where it is not applicable.

This holds good for many theories about conditions which may add to or detract from the value of land. For example, a double frontage may add very little to the value of certain classes of private dwellings or cheap tenements, but may be of immense advantage to certain kinds of business buildings or office buildings or high-class apartment houses. To return for a moment to the Hofman rule, I think that an experience of mine may be interesting:

One of the brightest and ablest assistants in the corporation counsel's office in the Bureau of Street Openings, had always attacked my use of the Hofman rule in relation to certain kinds of land. He had always given me a great deal of trouble in maintaining my position which, though I felt sure of myself, I could not prove by the "I have sold" method. Finally, a transaction came up in my office whereby the owner of certain rear land desired to purchase land between his and the nearest street to give him frontage for his, comparatively, inaccessible property.

The owner of the frontage desired to sell, as his front land was hardly deep enough to use by itself. The two, however, could not agree on a price, so I suggested the application of the Hofman rule. This was agreed to and I effected the sale on that basis. So, the next time that I was under cross-examination by the aforesaid assistant corporation counsel, and applied the Hofmann rule, I was able to use the "I have sold" argument, and it proved a clincher. Since then I have sold several pieces, both frontage and rearage, where the price was based absolutely on this rule.

I have always found it a pretty safe practice to keep clear of glittering generalities and to limit general rules to specific cases. Some theories that at the time the testimony is given seem to be true for all cases may react on you in the future in some widely divergent case where they do not apply at all; and, as a copy of all your testimony is on file in the corporation counsel's office, carefully indexed; and, as the assistants usually have very good memories, some general rule you have established without limiting it to a specific case, may hurt the value of your testimony in another case very materially.

Another thing that, as a general rule, it is well to avoid on the stand, is to value property offhand or on a different theory than the one you have adopted, unless you are very sure of your ground. It is your privilege to take all the time you want for consideration of new facts or features introduced by the cross-examiner, and frequently an offhand answer leads the witness into deep water. Depend on your notes, especially for figures, as much as possible, thus keeping your mind clear and your wits sharpened to parry apparently innocent questions which may get one into trouble. Frequently a question must be answered by a "yes" or a "no," and qualification or explanation of your answer may not be allowed. If possible, get your explanation in first before the "yes" or "no" and even if it is stricken from the record, the effect is there.

There is one other point I would like to bring out here, a point that was given me by my friend, the late Thos. C. Smith, and one which I have always considered very useful. When I first started to testify as an expert he happened to hear of it and called at my office and said "I want to give you some advice.

"Many expert witnesses," he said, "after a few years of this work, either break down physically or go crazy. I don't want to see you follow in their paths, so I am going to give you my panacea," which same I will now transmit to you, and while it may seem a small thing, and apparently trivial, I have found it very useful to me:

"In preparing your cases, evolve your theories, make up your figures, work out your proof, and your qualifications, and reduce it to writing. Make full notes and then dismiss it from your mind. Just before going on the stand, look over your notes, and, if you think necessary, revise your figures, and use your papers while you are testifying. When you have finished, dismiss the proceedings from your mind again, and, above all things, don't try to carry your figures in your memory. Of course, if you have but one case on at a time the memorizing and thinking about your testimony will not seem irksome or much of a strain; but if you are engaged in testifying in several proceedings during the same period, you will find this method a great saving of fatigue and brain work."

As I said before, the work of an expert appraiser is the highest branch of the real estate business, because the expert is retained absolutely for his opinion, just as a lawyer or a doctor or any other professional man is. It is also, strange as it may seem, the most remunerative. I say strange as it may seem, for it is not always true that the higher branches of all kinds of work are the most profitable financially. Good experts and high class appraisers are always in demand, both by the city and by the attorneys for the property owners, and a man who can give good value can command high prices. Lawyers who make a specialty of this work appreciate the difference between a good and a poor or a mediocre witness, and are always ready to pay well for the best service.

Very few lawyers doing general litigation conduct condemnation proceedings in their own office, but associate themselves with the specialist in this line, and, as the so-called condemnation lawyers number comparatively few, it does not take long for an expert to become well known to the best of these. A conscientious expert, with good ideas, a convincing way of answering questions, and ability to take care of himself, and, incidentally, his client, while on the stand, can always find plenty of employment.

Who's Who in Real Estate—II.

DARIUS OGDEN MILLS is well known on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. He has been closely associated with real estate and banking interests in the West as well as in the East. He founded the firm of D. O. Mills & Co. in Sacramento, Cal., which is still one of the leading banking houses in interior California.

Mr. Mills erected and is the owner of the Mills building in Broad st, one of the largest in the city. It was considered a skyscraper in those days, and while there have been many built since which are taller and larger, still the Mills building is one of the most comfortable in the city. Great care was taken that as much light and air as possible should be had, and much office room was sacrificed to attain this end.

Some years ago Mr. Mills conceived the idea of building and operating hotels designed for men with small means, or those who are looking for employment and trying to live within their means. Mr. Mills in his address at the opening of his first hotel explained the situation as follows: "The Mills Hotel is intended for such self-respecting, self-supporting men, who desire cleanliness, comfort and convenience, but want also to lay up something toward attaining an independence. It should be understood, however, that it is in no sense a charitable concern. It is the intention from the very beginning to conduct the enterprise upon a business basis; and this implies that it shall be self-supporting. No patron of the Mills Hotel shall receive more than he pays for, unless it be my hearty good will and best wishes. I hope to give him," went on Mr. Mills, "a larger equivalent for his money than has been heretofore possible."

Mills Hotel No. 1 is situated at No. 1 Bleecker st. The charges at this place are 10 and 20 cents a night. There are 1,554 bedrooms, besides reading, lounging, smoking rooms, a library with all the latest books. So successful was this enterprise that Mills Hotel No. 2 was built in Rivington st. This building has 600 bedrooms and was an instantaneous success. The result of these two undertakings was the erection of the latest Mills Hotel, known as "No. 3," on the northeast corner of Seventh av and 36th st. The rates at this house are more than in either of the downtown ones, ranging from 30 to 40 cents a night. There are 1,875 rooms in this building, and this makes a total of 4,029 bedrooms in the three hotels. If they are all filled every night in the year, and that has been pretty nearly the case with the two older hotels down town, the annual receipts will be $208,962.50, not including restaurant receipts. While Mr. Mills has never taken the public into his confidence as to the financial success of his hotels, still it is understood that they yield something over 3% on the investment. At least he considers the undertaking profitable enough to continue building hotels.

Mr. Mills has been connected with a number of charities. He endowed the Mills Professorship of Moral and Intellectual Philosophy in the University of California. He is trustee of the Lick estate and Lick Astronomical Observatory. Among his real estate holdings are the following pieces of property, 158 Bleecker st, 11 Broad st, 12 Rivington st, 13 Varick st, 111 West 52d st, and 481 to 489 7th av.

The Hotel Saranac at Auction.

On Wednesday, November 14, Joseph P. Day is going to put up at auction at the exchange salesroom, the Hotel Saranac, Broadway, just south of 42d st. This hotel was formerly known as the Rossmore, and runs through to 7th av. It is, at the present time, owned by the New Amsterdam Bank, and is voluntarily put up for sale. There have been a number of offers to rent this property but the bank thought that the most satisfactory way to dispose of the question was to sell it, and the one who wanted it most would get it. The building covering the plot is quite an old one, having been built in 1874, but it is located in what is now one of the choicest sections of the city. It is in the heart of the theater district on the west side of Broadway, and is 92.1 on that street, with a frontage of 89 feet on 7th av. All previous records are expected to be broken as to price, and the result of this sale is looked forward to with a great deal of interest by both owners of property in that section and by the real estate brokers.

The Trust Company of America has placed a mortgage of $4,500,000 on the new Plaza Hotel. This mortgage is second to one of $5,000,000, made Aug. 15, is due Oct. 1, 1910, and bears interest at the rate of 6%.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

A canvasser, solicitor and renting man is wanted in a large real estate office. See Wants and Offers.

John H. Schmitt has opened an office at 601 West 178th st, where he will conduct a general real estate business.

Louis Reiss announces that he has moved his real estate office to 375 East 161st st, and is going to keep open every evening until nine o'clock.

Geo. F. Mahnken, of 3610 Broadway, believes that the real estate business will be good in a short time. His renting season has been very good this fall.

Comptroller Metz says that an increase of two cents per day, per man, in the employ of the city, means an increase of the city budget of $70,000 in round numbers.

Mr. Henry F. Gardner, of Gardner & Cleveland, report that business was a little better last week than for some time, and he looks for a bettering of conditions generally.

Mr. F. J. Wood, of Tremont av, has been kept busy by people looking around for cheap real estate, which they hope to buy after they can draw their money from the banks.

Gibbs & Kirby, of 2705 Broadway, say that the past business season was very satisfactory with them and that they expect real estate transactions will pick up when the banking situation clarifies.

The firm of Schnelle & Altstadt, real estate brokers, has been dissolved. The business is going to be carried on at the old address, 1326 Lexington av, by Charles H. Schnelle, who will assume all the indebtedness of the old firm.

H. Feinberg & Co., of 3415 Broadway, have opened a branch office at 2182 Amsterdam av, corner of 168th st. This is one of the very few West Side real estate firms that find present business good enough to permit branching out.

A bargain and sale deed given by the late William C. Whitney to Harry Payne Whitney covering the property on 5th av, southwest corner of 57th st, size 73.5x125, executed on Feb. 24, 1897, has just been recorded. The consideration was nominal.

The Russell Sage Institute of Pathology, incorporated on Friday of last week, has decided not to buy a site on Manhattan Island, but will build a large building on Blackwell's Island. It will be devoted to research in medicine and the maintenance of laboratories for that purpose.

Mr. Thomas F. McLaughlin, of 2687 Broadway, says that he is working hard trying to satisfy prospective real estate purchasers. "After the scare is over," said Mr. McLaughlin, "real estate should be greatly benefited, for, after all, real estate is the safest and surest investment on earth."

Owners of Jerome av and adjacent properties are hoping that the city will soon declare its intention to provide rapid transit facilities for that section. "Just now property in the upper Jerome av section is quiet," said an operator yesterday, "but we all know what will happen when the proposed new subway is started."

The officers of the recently incorporated Thor Realty Company are: H. B. Christensen, president; H. B. Christensen, Jr., vice-president; Otto Metz, treasurer, and J. S. Rose, secretary. The company has leased offices for a long term of years at the northwest corner of 86th st and Lexington av, where they will carry on a general real estate and brokerage business.

Geo. F. Brown, of Duff & Brown, 1715 Amsterdam av, is said to be the champion golfer among real estate brokers. Mr. Brown can't always pull off a big realty deal, but when it comes to a silver trophy he is there with the right stick. Two weeks ago he won the president's cup of his golf club, a handsome Tiffany piece valued at $250, which makes the nineteenth silver cup in his possession.

Mr. Joseph T. Mulligan, for some years associated with Moore Bros., real estate and insurance brokers, of 57 West 35th st, has severed his connection with that firm and opened offices at 135 Broadway, Suite 1105. Mr. Mulligan is a young and active broker, thoroughly familiar with values in all sections of the city, and any business entrusted to his care will receive immediate attention. Mr. Mulligan was recently elected a member of the Real Estate Board of Brokers.

A large proportion of the families that have been living, up to recently, in the section of the new Manhattan Bridge terminal have moved into the Bronx. As there are between one thousand and twelve hundred families who are going to move shortly, it will make a considerable difference to the owners of Bronx property. Houses that have suffered for want of tenants are filling up. Conditions that arose from causes such as this one will do more to relieve the over-built portions of the city than almost any other one thing. While in a manner it may change the character of the sections referred to, still when this class of tenants once move into a locality they rarely move out.

Word has just been received that the International Jury in the section of Social Economy at the International Book, Paper and Publicity Exposition, which closed in Paris last month, made an award of the Grand Prix to the American Museum of Safety Devices and Industrial Hygiene. A Diploma of Honor, the second highest award, was made to Charles Kirchoff and T. C. Martin, respectively chairman and vice-chairman of the Museum's Advisory Council, also to Dr. L. L. Seaman and Rudolph Lenz for their active interest in promoting the work of the Museum. The Museum is now occupying the whole fifth floor at 231-241 West 39th st, New York City, and all inquiries for space, exhibits and other information should be sent to Dr. W. H. Tolman, Director of the Museum.

Road Treatment.

AUTOISTS' RAVAGES AROUND NEW YORK—FRENCH EXPERIMENTS IN LAYING DUST.

FORMERLY it was said that automobile travel would not injure roads, but rather make them more compact and smooth. A different opinion is now being formed by highway commissioners along State roads and city boulevards, and measures may have to be adopted that will either tax automobiles more heavily, to help keep up the roads, or to further reduce the legal limit of speed. State roads are maintained by the State and counties in partnership and local highways by the abutting owners. Few country people own automobiles, and they cannot be blamed for having their own thoughts upon the gasoline vehicles from the city which not only wear out their good roads, but also raise a discourteous cloud of dust when flying furiously past.

The broad rubber tires of the touring cars not only pick up the screenings and dust forming the top dressing of the macadam roads and scatter it all over the adjoining fields, but finally, after loosening the cubes of broken stone, throw them up in the air and to one side of the road.

The effects of this are soon seen in the series of gullies, ruts and holes formed on all the traveled highways where extra measures have not been taken for their protection.

At the last meeting of the West End (Manhattan) Taxpayers' Association resolutions were adopted requesting the Board of Aldermen to license (tax) automobiles to help keep up the roads which they use. The maximum tax proposed is $5.

Tar-oil and screenings have been applied on 40 miles of the main thoroughfares in Queens Borough for a width of 15 ft. The material spreads somewhat until it covers the entire width of the 18-foot width macadam roadbed and makes a practically dustless road. The two coats put on last summer have lasted practically all through the season. But another is needed now, judging from the looks of the roads.

It would require a sprinkling with water four times per day to produce as good an effect. It is said that the use of coal tar and screenings is much more expensive and would not last enough longer to pay the difference. A stretch of this was applied on Thomson avenue, Long Island City, and Hillside avenue, Jamaica, by State Engineer Skene while he was in charge of Queens County roads. This coating lasted one year and cost about $350 per mile.

The main objection to the use of the crude oil is that when first put on it is tracked in houses and stores and smears the flagged sidewalks. Women's dresses and skirts are ruined often by it and men's clothing also. Carriages require careful washing every day when run over oiled roads.

A report has just been presented to the minister of public works in France, reviewing the advantages and disadvantages of four methods, considered as more or less effective in laying dust—a coating of crude tar mixture, heated petroleum, a solution of water and salts, and construction of a beton and tar surface.

To the mixture of crude tar, tar oil in the proportion of 10 per cent. is added to render it more fluid, and before sprinkling it on the road certain conditions are necessary—the road should be more or less cylindrical in shape, recently macadamized, dry, and swept of all dust. The tarring should be done in dry and warm weather, while no circulation of vehicles should be allowed until the coating is sufficiently dry.

The durability of the coating varies as to the time of the operation, whether in summer, autumn or winter. If done in the last two seasons, the tarring seldom resists until the following spring. Very frequently it disappears at the end of two or three months leaving in its place an abundant supply of disagreeable mud. As long as the coating of tar endures, the road bed is guaranteed against wear and tear, but once it gets diluted the road becomes deteriorated all the more rapidly, as the mud retains the water with greater facility. Although the quantity of the tar mixture employed varies with the absorbent nature of the road, a proportion of two pounds to the square yard is considered sufficient. Frost does not seem to have any evil effects on tarring, but great heat may soften it and render it slippery. The cost of tarring is estimated at 3 cents per square yard.

PETROLEUM, SALINE AND BETON MIXTURES.

The second method, or that of petroleum heated to boiling point, is used in the north of France and around Paris. The variety of oil employed is that known under the name of "mazout." The oil is placed in reservoirs similar to ordinary watering carts and sprinkled over the roads, previously swept. It is allowed to cool, after which the dust is swept back over it again; the dust is effectively laid and will not adhere to the car wheels. Unfortunately, autumn rains rapidly destroy this coating. In dry climates, however, the above two methods are very effective against dust.

The saline mixture consists in either plain sea water or a solution of certain salts (chloride of calcium or chloride of magnesium), which from their hygrometric properties maintain on the road the humidity of the atmosphere, thus prolonging the effect of ordinary watering. Information, however, is wanting as to the results of the experiments.

Westrumite is tar rendered soluble in water by the addition of ammonia and other cheap products. It is particularly useful in preparing a race track, as its effects are limited as to duration.

The fourth and last method is costly and has not yet been put into operation to any extent in France. It consists in constructing the road with beton or concrete, into which tar is incorporated. Further experiments are about to be made by the Government, not only for the purpose of adopting the best dust-laying substance, but also for determining the effect of the operation itself on the roads.

Public Works.

PARK ROW, TRYON ROW, CENTRE ST.—The Sinking Fund Commissioners will offer for sale on Dec. 2 all the remaining buildings on the triangular block bounded by Park row, Tryon row and Centre st, acquired for bridge purposes, which were not sold at previous sales.

EAST 141ST ST.—The Sinking Fund Commissioners will offer for sale on Nov. 22 the frame stable at the southwest corner of 141st st and Brook av.

LIBERTY ST.—Concerning the application of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., requesting the Board of Estimate to revoke the resolution approved by the Mayor April 20, 1903, granting permission to that company to construct, maintain and use a tunnel under and across Liberty st, between Nassau and William sts, connecting Nos. 33 and 35 Liberty st and Nos. 41 to 49 Liberty st with 46 Liberty st, the Comptroller is authorized and requested to refund to the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York such proportion of the amount of compensation paid for the current year as will reimburse the company for the unexpired portion of the year, to wit, from November 1, 1907, to November 18, 1907, and cancel the bond deposited by said company in his office for the faithful performance of the terms and conditions of the consent.

EAST 113TH ST.—The Sinking Fund Commissioners will offer for sale on Nov. 21 the buildings and parts of buildings on the north side of East 113th st, known as Nos. 305 to 325, inclusive.

WEST 145TH ST, EDGECOMBE AV.—The Sinking Fund Commissioners will offer for sale on Nov. 21 the buildings and parts of buildings known as Nos. 335, 337, 339, 341 and 343 West 145th st, and No. 245 Edgecombe av.

N. Y. & PORTCHESTER RAILROAD.—Notice is given that the public hearing on the proposed form of contract consenting to certain modifications and alterations in the line of the route of the N. Y. & Portchester Railroad Company as laid down in the contract dated May 31, 1906, granting a franchise to that corporation, has been postponed to Dec. 13.

DUANE ST, CENTRE ST, CHAMBERS ST.—The Sinking Fund Commissioners will offer for sale on Dec. 2 all the remaining buildings in Duane st and Chambers st, between Park row and Centre st, which were not sold at previous sales.

EAST 113TH ST.—The Sinking Fund Commissioners will offer for sale on Nov. 21, the buildings and parts of buildings on the north side of East 113th st, known as Nos. 305 to 325, inclusive.

ELSMERE PL.—Paving with asphalt block, between Marmion av and Southern Boulevard, and setting curb where necessary. Petition will be presented to Local Board Nov. 14.

WEST 180TH ST.—Change of line, between Osborne pl and Aqueduct av, by moving the lines of that st 30 ft southerly from their present location. Petition will be presented to Local Board Nov. 14.

NELSON AV.—Regulating, flagging, etc., between Featherbed lane and Macomb's road, and West 175th st, between Nelson av and Macomb's road. Petition will be presented to Local Board Nov. 14.

EAST 169TH ST.—Paving with iron slag pavement, from Clay av to Morris av, and readjusting curb where necessary. Petition will be presented to Local Board Nov. 14.

CLAY AV.—Paving with wood block, between Webster av and 176th st. Petition will be presented to Local Board Nov. 14.

VAN COURTLANDT PARK SOUTH.—Widening, from Albany road to Mosholu parkway, to a width of 80 ft, and laying out public place at junction of Albany road and Van Courtlandt av, and changing grades where necessary. Petition will be presented to Local Board Nov. 14.

VAN COURTLANDT AV.—Acquiring title, from Sedgwick av to Van Courtlandt Park South. Petition will be presented to Local Board Nov. 14.

SEAMAN AV.—The proposed changes in laying out an extension of Seaman av, from the northerly line of Academy to Dyckman sts; a new street from Broadway to the proposed extension of Seaman av to Prescott st, Borough of Manhattan, was approved on Nov. 8 by the Board of Estimate.

WEST 156TH ST.—Laying out and extending between 8th av and marginal street adjoining Harlem River, Borough of Manhattan. Approved by Board of Estimate Nov. 8.

WESTCHESTER AV.—Change the grade between St. Peter's av and Lane av, and of Overing st, between Westchester av and Tratman av, Borough of Bronx. Approved by the Board of Estimate Nov. 8. The differences between the proposed grading improvement and the map adopted in 1904 are slight.

MOTT AV.—Change of grade between East 138th st and a point 100 ft. northerly therefrom, Borough of the Bronx. Approved by Board of Estimate Nov. 8. The Commissioner of Bridges stated that it is intended to improve Mott av to the grade decided upon for the Madison av bridge.

HILLSIDE AV.—Opening and extending from Nagle av, near Broadway, to Nagle av, near Dyckman st, Borough of Manhattan. Approved by the Board of Estimate Nov. 8. There are only two buildings upon the abutting property and it was resolved to assess the entire cost upon the property benefited.

KINSELLA ST.—The Board of Estimate on Nov. 8 acted favorably on the proposed opening and extending Kinsella st, between Mathews (Rose) av and Bear Swamp road, and Van Nest (Columbus) av, between West Farms road and Bear Swamp road, Borough of the Bronx. It is expected that a slight relief in assessment will be made in the case of Van Nest av owners, but the amount will not be fixed until after the dedication area has been determined.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—The matter of improving Riverside Drive, as recently widened, between West 139th st and West 142d st, Manhattan, was referred on Nov. 8 by the Board of Estimate to a select committee for report. The president of the borough requested advice as to whether the improvement will be paid for by the city at large, or assessed upon the property benefited. It was suggested that about one-half of the total be assessed, while the remaining portion of the work be included in the Riverside Drive improvement.

CENTRE ST.—A hearing will be held on Dec. 6 before the Board of Estimate relative to the proposed changing in grade of Centre st, between Chambers and Canal sts, with corresponding changes in the grade of intersecting streets, Borough of Manhattan. The maximum change consists of a raise in the grade of Centre st of about 5 ft. at a point located midway between Duane and Pearl sts. This is made necessary so as to permit the locating of a subway station for the connection with the Brooklyn Bridge.

Condemnation Proceedings.

WHITE PLAINS ROAD.—Acquiring title, from northern boundary of the City to Morris Park av. Commissioners Chas. Donohue, Samuel McMillan and Edwin W. Fiske will present final, last partial and separate report to the Supreme Court, First Department, Special Term, Part III. Nov. 12.

WHITE PLAINS ROAD.—Acquiring title from northern boundary of the City to Morris Park av. Commissioners Chas. Donohue, Samuel McMillan and Edwin W. Fiske will present final supplemental report to Supreme Court Nov. 12.

WESTERLY TERMINAL, N. Y. & BROOKLYN BRIDGE.—Acquiring title for an extension. Under date of Oct. 3, Edward G. Whitaker was appointed a Commissioner of Estimate and Appraisal in this proceeding in place of Henry W. Bookstaver.

Why New York City Real Estate Pays—III.

JUST as the immigrant who works for low wages pays well for the convenience of living within walking distance of the great dry goods manufacturing district, so the banker, broker, or any business man anxious to engage in business pays in proportion for the advantages offered in the district in which he desires to locate. The distinction made between the capitalist and the immigrant, when a footing is desired on Manhattan Island, is one of proportion only.

Competition for the land in New York City becomes keener every year, and those who have already acquired or fallen heir to real estate in the busy districts must take enjoyment in watching scores, yes, perhaps hundreds, working like bees in a hive cultivating to the highest extent the land he owns. He must also be happy in the thought that he has first call on the wealth produced. He can take care of the future increase by providing for a sliding increase in rents.

The more progressive the city the more valuable his land becomes, and the greater will be his income. All modern business methods introduced, all labor-saving machines put in use, all economies practiced help to add value to his land. Public as well as private improvements also contribute. Everybody works to the same end—increasing the value in land. In a centre like New York, where the community machinery is going at full speed all the time, values take leaps. The peculiar environments of this city reduce to a minimum the possibility of a loss in a real estate investment, if the bounds of reason are not overstepped.

What industry can be compared with a real estate investment here? If an industry grows powerful and threatens to become a monopoly, tremendous forces are set in motion to crush it.

The Evening World not long ago published an editorial encouraging investing in New York City real estate. Mention was made of a man who had become very wealthy by adopting the rule to acquire land here, not to improve it himself, but to hold it for the revenue there was in it. The article concluded by stating it is good everybody does not do the same thing. And so it is.

Taxpayers Denounce Plan to Block Improvements.

At a recent meeting under the auspices of the North Van Nest Taxpayers' Association, held at Morris Park and White Plains avs, those in attendance protested against the alleged hindering attitude of the representatives of the Astor estate, who have opposed the petitions before the Board of Chester for the opening of several highways in Van Nest which it is proposed to run through the property of that estate, north of the old Morris Park race track, to the Bronx and Pelham Parkway. The property in question is still assessed as farm land, while in the immediate neighborhood are hundreds of single parcels assessed as city lots. Many of those prominently identified with realty dealings in that section of the Bronx addressed the gathering, including Peter A. Shiel, William Henderson, Jr., Nicholas J. O'Connell and others. The following resolutions were drawn up and adopted:

"Whereas, The people of this section have petitioned the Local Board of Public Improvements for the opening of certain streets, to wit: Cruger, Holland, Wallace and Barnes avs, from the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad north to Bronx and Pelham Parkway; and

"Whereas, At a recent hearing before the board, these proposed openings, although shown to be an actual necessity fo rthe improvement and progress of this section, were opposed by the Astor estate, the owner of a tract of unimproved land in the immediate vicinity; and

"Whereas, We are informed and believe that this tract is assessed as farm land, while the property of the petitioners adjoining it is all assessed as city lots, thus producing a most unequal distribution of liability for taxation, which is not alone an injustice to the people, but which acts as a detriment and a drawback to the progress of the entire section.

"We submit that the opposition of the Astors to these petitions is only the pursuance of a general obstructive policy which they have heretofore adopted in other sections, whereby their property became improved at the expense of other surrounding small property owners; be it therefore

"Resolved, That we, citizens and taxpayers of Van Nest, in mass meeting assembled, protest against this opposition which attempts to restrain the carrying out of necessary improvements in our streets, and we respectfully ask the members of the Board of Chester to make a personal investigation of this section, to the end that its needs, as well as the desire of the majority of its property owners, may be conserved."

New Publication on the Torrens.

There has just been published by the Lawyers' Co-operative Publishing Company "the Torrens System of Realty Titles," by William F. Beers, Jr. This work should be of great interest to the real estate world, coming before the public as it does at a time when so much is being said on this subject.

After a general introduction explaining the objects and expediency of the system the book is divided into four parts, namely: "Administration in General," "Initial Registration," "Transfers and Assurances." Each one of these parts is subdivided and headed so that by referring to the index any part of the subject may be readily found. Undoubtedly this book will explain many phases of the question and enlighten a number of people who have not up to the present time given the subject much thought.

Renting Conditions on Columbus Avenue.

THERE are a number of stores to rent on Columbus av, between 72d and 86th sts, and there are several reasons for this state of affairs. The property owners have always tried to keep their property as nice as possible and have had a number of restrictions placed on it with the view of bettering the conditions of the neighborhood. For example, there are no saloons between 73d and 79th sts. This is remarkable for a business street, but the reason is that the necessary consents were not forthcoming, and so a license could not be obtained. During the past two years the Broadway section has been built up and many of the houses had stores put in on the grade floor.

To get tenants for these new stores the rents were put at a slightly lower figure than those asked on Columbus av. But to make matters worse the owners of property on this last named avenue raised the rents on expiring leases, and the storekeepers quickly took advantage of the Broadway opportunity.

For example, a certain store not very far from 75th st commanded an annual rental of $2,500. At this price the place was always occupied. Early this fall the owner informed the tenant that on the expiration of his lease, which was October 1, his rent would be $3,600 a year. A removal was the result, and, unfortunately, the place has not been rented since.

The upper part of Columbus av has always been considered from a storekeepers' standpoint a little better than farther down. It is a different class of trade, one being the apartment house dweller, as against the private house owner. The former does not buy the quantity but are more numerous, while the latter buys more and is willing to pay higher prices for the goods delivered. On Columbus av, between the streets named, a 15-ft. store rents for about $1,500, or a hundred a front foot, while on Broadway the rents are a shade lower.

This price does not, of course, include corner stores. The rentals on this class of store, of course, vary with the location.

THE PLAZA—TEA ROOM.
59th Street and 5th Avenue, H. J. Hardenbergh, Architect.

Many brokers along Columbus av say that if the rents are placed at the same figure that was asked during the year just past all these vacancies can be readily filled.

Fourth Avenue (Brooklyn) Subway Not to Be Blocked.

Property owners along the route of the 4th av. subway have been considerably disturbed over the talk of holding off preparations to advertise for bids for that improvement on account of the condition of the city's finances, but there no longer seems to be any need for concern in that respect, for the controller, in an interview during the week, made it clear that he has no intention of blocking the project. "A great many people," said Mr. Metz, "seem to have misgivings that, on account of the present financial stringency, the construction of the 4th av subway will be delayed indefinitely. There is absolutely no foundation for their fear. It is true that the $23,000,000 which it is estimated the subway will cost, has not been appropriated, but that should not be any reason for alarm.

"As soon as the public service commission advertises and lets

Railroad Companies' New Offices.

It is rather unusual to see a "For Sale" sign on a large office building in the heart of the financial district, yet on the southeast corner of Exchange pl and William st such a sign is placed in a prominent position.

The transfer of a piece of property of this size involves a considerable amount of money; in fact, the asking price for this particular building is $1,000,000. One would hardly suppose that an individual or a group of men would walk the streets looking for a means of investing their money. There are few large buildings for sale, that possession can be given to the tenant, and probably for this reason, the adoption of this idea among others to bring it to the notice of the prospective purchaser was adopted.

This building was for a time draped in black, in honor ern Railroad, but they have moved into their new offices at 90 West st, where they have better accommodations for their particular line of business.

This building, at the present time, is draped in black, in honor of the memory of Mr. Samuel Sloan, who was president of the road for some years and at the time of his death was a member of the Board of Directors and a very large stockholder in the road.

The large roads of the country are trying to colonize in one part of the city and have decided to move their executive offices into the new skyscrapers in the financial district. There has been keen competition among the agents of the new large office buildings to get reliable tenants. Inducements are offered in various ways, but the usual form that has been taken is the decoration of offices.

In some instances a whole year's rent has been expended in the fitting out of the suite, and much money is expended in the board rooms and executive offices. When one considers the requirements of one of the large railroads as to office space, it can be understood how it pays to expend this amount of money.

The Rock Island Company, with its subsidiaries, the San Francisco and Eastern Illinois, have recently leased a large space in the United States Realty Company Building, and a large amount of money has been spent in interior decorations.

The Illinois Central Railroad is another tenant in this same building, having moved, about two months ago, from offices in the Bowling Green Building. The offices of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul have moved to their new home at 42 Broadway from their former quarters which were located at 30 Broad st.

The Erie, which occupies a number of floors in the Bowling Green Building, has taken a lease of six floors in the new Hudson and Manhattan Building in Cortlandt st. This building will not be completed for some time to come, but arrangements have been made to lay out the offices to suit the convenience of the new tenant.

This wholesale moving of railroads from the older buildings is causing the agents considerable worry, for it is hard to replace them with new tenants. Those buildings having high ceilings, good light and air space will naturally fill up first, while those which give the minimum allowed by law will naturally suffer, for a time at least.

—Two fine apartments, eight rooms, all improvements, are for rent in fashionable locality of Brooklyn. Healthful conditions. Also two stores, one situated on a busy corner, the other in the centre of a block; former with butcher fixtures installed, latter suitable for stationery business. Terms, very favorable. For particulars apply Robt. Butschart, 582 Evergreen av.

Commuting New Yorkers.

WERE the question asked the average New Yorker, "How many commuters does a certain railroad carry?" the answer would in all probability be very much in excess of the real number. The reason for this is that they are accustomed to see the rush for the depot in the evening, but overlook the fact that the rush is of comparatively short duration.

Some general information has been gathered on this subject, and while in some cases the figures are only approximate, still they are near enough to give the reader a fair idea of what the railroads are called upon to do. It must be remembered that the travel is all one way during the rush hours—in-coming in the morning and out-going in the evening, which of course adds to the troubles of the train dispatchers, and sometimes causes inconvenience to those using their service.

Only such points have been included as the railroads recognize as regular commuting points. Next comes those stations which are outside the inner circle, but which are near enough to New York to have special rates for the occasional commuter—the one who comes into town two or three times a week. This class of traveller usually uses the 10 or 50-trip ticket or a mileage book. The only class considered for the present are those who travel every business day.

The New York Central, Harlem and West Shore carry those who go to the north, New York and New Haven and Long Island those travelling eastward, Jersey Central and Pennsylvania go to the south, while the Erie and Delaware, Lackawanna & Western take care of those who live towards the west.

The extreme point of commutation on the New York Central is Poughkeepsie, 73 miles from Grand Central station, while on the West Shore, Cornwall is on the edge of the circle. The New York and New Haven carry the commuters as far as New Haven, about 75 miles; Brewster, 54 miles, on the Putnam division, and Pawling, 64 miles, on the main line of the Harlem. Middletown, 68 miles, on the Erie, Point Pleasant, 64 miles, and Trenton, 60 miles on the Pennsylvania, are about the farthest distant of the regular commutation stations of these roads.

The New York Central, Harlem River, Putnam Division, West Shore and New York and New Haven carry in winter about 30,000 commuting passengers, while during the summer months, the combined number of this class of ticket sold by these roads amounts to about 50,000.

The Erie makes a specialty of this class of business, and has established a suburban Home Information Bureau on Broadway, cor 27th st, under the charge of E. H. Barto. Information can be procured there concerning all the towns along the line, and also a renting list and a list of property for sale by the various brokers who have offices in the outlying districts. The brokers send their list of houses for sale or to let to the office of the company, and the agent in charge of the office will show the prospective commuter what can be rented for the summer or purchased along the line, and at what price. Then the client is turned over to the real estate broker who makes the commission. The railroad gets nothing out of it, except the sale of tickets. The company has printed a blank which it sends to the brokers to have them fill out and then it has another one that the client gets. On this latter blank such information as how many minutes' walk from the station, number of rooms, what improvements, general condition, size of grounds, shade or fruit trees, lawn or garden, monthly rental, is found, and those who have tried this system say that it works out beautifully. In other words, you at least know what there is to rent before you leave the city. You can tell whether there is a house in a certain town within your means or not.

The Erie sells on an average the year around of 23,000 commutation tickets monthly. The total number of tickets sold by this road for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907, was 23,516,696 on the local branches, while through tickets for the same period amounted to 683,027. Pavonia ferry carried 19,718,466 passengers, about 5 per cent. of them not using the trains. The figures given out by the Pennsylvania were 8,000 commutation tickets. This road does not make any special bid for local traffic, and devotes a great deal of time catering to through service. They do not neglect the commuters, but still they direct their main efforts on the through business.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western does a very large local business and carried during the past year about 20,000 commuters. The Long Island is in a peculiar position, and it is hard to compare it with the other roads, as it does a very large race track and seaside resort business, which lasts only a few months. During the summer months the average is about 35,000 a month and in the winter it falls off to a very small percentage of the summer business. Many of these are not strictly commuters, as special inducements are made for the sea shore resorts, and there is competition with the local rapid transit roads, and so while commutation tickets are not sold, still the passenger can travel at commutation rates.

Every once in a while a newspaper will contain a "serious complaint" of some one whose train was a few minutes late in the morning. When the existing conditions are considered, how nearly all the railroads are either repairing or rebuilding their terminals, it is marvelous that the train service is so good. This is a construction period and when great improvements that are under way at the present time are completed, transit facilities will be greatly improved, and the railroads hope that that will be the time when there will be no more "serious complaints."

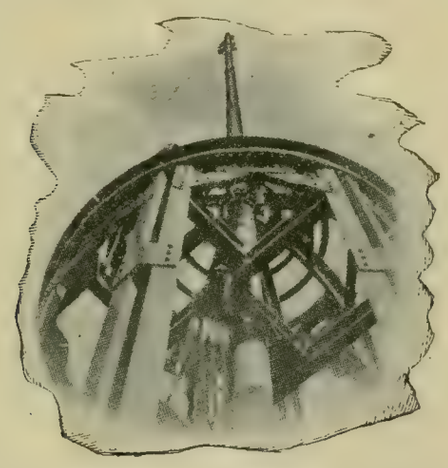
The Flagpole Surmounting the Tallest Office Building in the World.



The crowning feature of the Singer Building, viz., the placing of the 90-ft. steel flagpole which surmounts the dome, gave not a little trouble to the contractors before its base was safely in position at the 43d story.

Composed of hollow steel tubing, the pole is imbedded for 30 feet of its length in a specially constructed steel pocket extending from the 43d floor to the top of the tower. The portion extending beyond the tower is 60 ft., or two-thirds of its total length.

At the 43d story is a 10-ft. length of steel tubing, its dimensions 9¾ ins. inside by 10¾ ins. outside. This is fitted at the wrought bottom into a rod steel shoe 18 ins. square. This portion of the pole projects through the 44th floor, and is screw-joined into a 20-ft. length of smaller piping, thus bringing the socket of the pole 3 ins. outside of the outlet ring which forms the highest part of the dome structure or lantern surmounting the main structure. At this point the slip-joint occurs, telescoping 9¾ ins. outside by 8¾ ins. inside into the 10-in. socket for a distance of 2 ft. 6 ins. From there above, the bolt is in five sections, 60 ft. over all, and tapers from the 9¾ ins. before mentioned to an ultimate 5⅝ ins. The four joints are accomplished by shrinking the larger over the smaller size piping for a distance of about 20 ins. In addition, each joint is tapped and bolted. At the top the pole is closed by means of a ball-bearing truck mounted on a cast-iron reducing coupling into which the king-pin is screwed.

The body of the cast-iron truck containing the 2 ins. by 4¾ ins. bronze sheaves revolves about the king-pin on two steel ball-bearings to provide against the flag wrapping itself about the mast. The body of the truck is surmounted by a ¾-in. galvanized iron rod, 3 ft. long, to the top of which is attached a 12-in. copper ball. The total weight of the pole is approximately 3 tons, or 6,300 lbs.

These provisions were necessary to obtain safety: first, that the pole be covered with a protective coating after being placed in position; second, that the effectiveness of the material chosen as a resistant to atmospheric conditions of all sorts be absolutely dependable. The first requirement was not easily met since the ordinary steeple-jack was found to be disinclined to accept a commission involving such danger as painting a flagpole 60 ft. high, 612 ft. above the ground. Ultimately, E. Capelle, of New York, a steeple climber of much experience, was found willing to undertake the work. For a material which would meet the requirements mentioned above, Voltax, an anti-corrosive compound made by the Electric Cable Co., of New York, was chosen. Owing to the difficulty in this instance of manipulating the compound in its ordinary consistency, because of the insecure position of the workman, it was deemed advisable to dilute it from its thickened state and to apply five coatings in its diluted form to insure proper protection.

Values in New York Real Estate.

REAL ESTATE in Greater New York has again been demonstrated to be a safe and sound method of investing money. Those people who have their money in this form of investment have had reason to congratulate themselves. Their property has enhanced in value and today it is worth more than at the time of purchase.

Every piece of real estate in the city is unique. There are no two exactly alike, even though they adjoin and appear to be similar. There is some difference in the condition of the house, or one lot is nearer the avenue than its neighbor, or there is some improvement in the street in the rear of the property in question, or a hundred and one things might bear weight on the subject. Rest assured that there is some difference between every lot in the city. This is not the case in Wall street. You have in a given security the same thing that hundreds of others have. They are duplicates. If a purchaser cannot buy from one man, he can from another, and receive the identical article asked for. In the real estate market, if a purchaser wants a given house and will not pay the price, he will have to content himself with something else. The result is that the seller of a parcel has an advantage.

From the time of old Amsterdam, realty has been constantly enhancing in value. To be sure there have been temporary recessions, but they have been due to outside causes. The real intrinsic value of real estate has never been effected. It has always come out of these periods with colors flying, and reached a higher value than ever before.

Some idea might be had of the increase in realty values by reading the following figures which are the assessed values on the tax books of the City of New York. In 1850 the assessed value of lands and buildings was $313,053,864. Ten years after it reached $481,226,400; in 1870 the figures were raised to $742,202,525; in 1880, $902,041,109; in 1890, $1,317,189,227. With the new century the figures crossed the two billion mark and were $2,053,744,586; in 1907 they read $5,704,009,652.

There are two things that must be taken into consideration, when considering the foregoing figures, namely, that in the last few years, "Greater New York" was created and that laws were passed making taxation possible on the full value of real estate. Notwithstanding these facts, there is no form of investment which shows as big a return as New York City real estate.

Sale of City Buildings.

Through the efforts of I. T. Flatto, attorney for many property owners along the line of the Manhattan Bridge, and of the supreme foresight of Comptroller Herman A. Metz, the sale of the buildings on the southerly side of Canal street between the Bowery and Chrystie street, has been adjourned until May 1, 1908, this also takes in portions of buildings along the improvement, where the remainder is not taken by the city. The property owners and business men of this section have been saved from considerable hardship, as it is impossible to obtain new quarters until the next renting season.

A Matter of Record.

To the Editor Record and Guide:

Please inform a subscriber through the columns of your paper, if there is a law on the statute book compelling the Register of New York City to make an entry of a certified copy of a deed on the page of the liber.

Answer.—Copies of records or recorded deeds if lost may be recorded. (Laws 1843, Chap. 210 and amendments.)

Moving the Custom House.

The National City Bank is now in full possession of the old Custom House in Wall st, which was purchased from the U. S. Government seven years ago. It was formally turned over to them last Monday by W. W. Ludlow, the chief clerk of the Treasury Department at Washington, after the customs officers of all the bureaus had moved the books and records to the new Custom House at the foot of Broadway. The moving required four weeks on account of the immense amount of records that had accumulated during the past forty-five years of occupancy, all of which had to be assorted and much of it junked as being worthless.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing a Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable considera, tion and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deed. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

"SNOW WHITE"

A true Portland of PURE WHITE COLOR, combining the essential qualities of great tensile strength and imperviousness to a rigorous climate.

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement is not approached by any known product for the following purposes, viz.: Facing for concrete construction and stucco, ornamental and architectural forms, superior substitute for terra cotta work, white ground for terrazza and mosaic work, base for all artificial stone, floor and other tile, special sanitary plastering of all kinds, architectural landscape work, for setting marble and light stones or brick, plastering elevator and light shafts.

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement

Its pure white color, strength and close grained hardness, together with its hydraulic properties and its ability to withstand the elements, place it in a class by itself, unique in all its qualities, and indispensable at any price.

The Belmont Tunnel

WITHIN A FEW MONTHS of being completely finished and equipped for use, the Steinway (or Belmont) Tunnel is in a peculiar predicament. Its franchise, if the owners ever really possessed one, is considered by the city government to have expired. Before it can be operated as a public carrier there must be a franchise issued, it is supposed, and the Public Service Commission has been definitely advised by counsel to take out a writ of injunction that will prevent the tunnel from being put in service in advance of a legal authorization. It is deemed to be a wiser course for the authorities to enjoin the tunnel company before a service is begun than to try to stop it afterwards. Not that they do not wish to have the tunnel used at all, but rather that it shall not be worked without having a fair settlement with the city for the privilege. No one has reason to suppose that the proprietors expected to operate without any further consent or right than was conferred, or alleged to have been, by the Steinway charter which the present company has acquired; but as yet no application has been made for a new privilege, nor has any opportunity been given for stating, on the part of the city, the terms and conditions that would be acceptable. These are but a few surface facts in a situation really more complex and peculiar than any which the authorities have yet been called upon to deal with. We have seen many corporations applying for franchises to build transit lines, but never any before this applying for a franchise after the line has been finished. This is also the first occasion in at least a long period when the City has been so well armed to contend with a powerful public carrier. Mr. Belmont's enterprise is deserving of a large reward. Personal qualtiies of a high order, besides enormous financial resources, were necessary for an undertaking of such magnitude. We all admire a man who can swiftly seize a chance by the tail as it is escaping and land it successfully. But the People are partners with Mr. Belmont in this tunnel, and have a right to an accounting. Until that is effected there is no probability that the cars will run under the river, but that the time intervening cannot be prolonged indefinitely is apparent when the amount of the stake is considered. The tunnel could be made extremely useful in the development of Queens Borough, and it could almost be made to have the opposite effect, all depending on the terms to be arranged between the company and the city. An ideal outcome would be the unification of the tunnel into the subway system and a future extension of that system to Flushing and Bayside, but not this latter consummation until transit requirements in the old city, far more pressing, have been met. If a purchase by the city is improbable at the figures which Mr. Belmont is understood to ask, the next best thing is a five-cent fare, with liberal transfers, short of which but little benefit could come to Queens from the connection.

The Knickerbocker Portico

FROM THE NATURE of the action against the Knickerbocker Trust Company, it is improbable that the owners of property abutting on Fifth avenue will accept the decision rendered by the Appellate Division in favor of the City—under which the great columns of the marble portico may temporarily remain, while the steps and areaway must be removed—as determining the right of the city to take possession of all court spaces on this avenue and remove all obstructions therefrom. A year ago the Corporation Counsel issued what was taken as "a warning" that the dooryard spaces would presently be required for street purposes, and it seemed that after many years of controversy the city fully intended to begin proceedings for widening the carriageway. By some commentators the suit against the Knickerbocker Company has been so interpreted, but when the case is analyzed it is found to be nothing more than one to restrain the violation of an ordinance. Certain ordinances allow areas and steps of certain dimensions, while this banking house has built steps of other dimensions, and so far as these go beyond the permissible limits they must, under this latest decision, be reduced. The Knickerbocker Trust Company has always claimed that in constructing, at the northwest corner of Fifth avenue and Thirty-fourth street, marble steps which appropriate, approximately, one-half the sidewalk of each street, the directors were not proceeding in violation of the city ordinances or the laws of the State, for the reason that the Common Council passed, in 1901, a resolution which gave (or "attempted to give," as the plaintiff states) the right, or privilege, to "erect and maintain porticos in front of their building." But the city now contends, and the courts have uniformly held, that the Common Council never possessed the power the pass this ordinance. The present decision affects projections beyond the old stoop line only, but there is nothing contained therein which restrains the city from proceeding, after due notice, against all owners—the Knickerbocker Company included—who are occupying any part of the street beyond the original building line. In the year 1844 the proprietors of lots between Twenty-third and Forty-second streets received permission to enclose a court, fifteen feet wide, with an open iron railing in front of their lots, on each side of the avenue, and to place the curbstone thirty feet from the line of the avenue on each side, and so leave a carriageway forty feet wide, with fifteen feet for sidewalk and fifteen more for court space on each side. But this permission was granted upon the condition that "if, in the opinion of the Common Council, the said courts shall hereafter be required for streets, the same shall be thrown open." While the present case does not affect the continued occupation of the same spaces as was embraced by the old courtyards, its effect is to emphasize anew that the city claims the right to take the court spaces for sidewalks and carriageway whenever it shall deem that necessity so requires, not alone under the condition contained in the ordinance of 1844, but on the further ground of the illegality of that ordinance. For the Knickerbocker Trust Company it has been stated, by counsel, that the company is not opposing any general scheme of widening that the city may have, but it objected to being singled out as a defendant when practically all the property on the thoroughfare is affected, an objection which the decision seems to confirm, so far as the occupying of court space is concerned, for the present—but not more than that.

Public Improvement Plans

A SUPPOSED DETERMINATION of the Board of Estimate to suspend for a time the acquisition of more land for city parks has been the subject of protests from property owners in the districts which would be affected by this policy, though it must be known to them that a decision of this nature would not be taken because of any less appreciation for parks, or of the wisdom of acquiring them for new sections while the value of land contiues low, but because of the general monetary difficulties. At the same time, it cannot be gainsaid that a public announcement of such a policy would not be calculated to please those localities which have hoped to derive particular benefit from the city's former intention. In sections where projects for new parks have reached almost the culminating stage, and where private investments, plans and actual improvements have been predicated upon natural expectations, there is something of a hardship involved; but the city would not be the primal cause of an "abandonment" of proceedings or of delay in their prosecution, as some protestants affect to believe. While it is to be presumed that for a time proceedings for the acquiring of land for park and other public purposes will not be carried forward with so great dispatch as in normal times, it is exaggerating matters to say that the city has "abandoned" park proceedings with any idea of finality; that real losses would follow from a brief interruption, or that a moral responsibility attaches somewhere in the city government for consequences attributable entirely to the money stringency. The fact is that suburban investors and developers—and most of the protests referred to come from the suburbs—put too great dependence upon what are simply possibilities. Merely tentative routes for new subways and slender possibilities for new parks are too often exaggerated into certainties in the local mind, and the overstatements which this gives rise to when inviting immigration and investments sometimes are the first cause of future disappointments. Some day all the subways for which routes have been officially marked out may be in operation, and all the parks now in contemplation in new parts of the city fully planted and grown; but many of us will not be here to use and enjoy them. It is better for all not to discount the future so heavily that a temporary setback would provoke resolutions like those passed in Long Island City. Oftentimes the investor who keeps his patience, and arrives on the scene after the event, rather than long before, saves both time and money. It is to be regretted that some of the plans for public works must for the time being be held in abeyance, but the governing officers are rather to be commended for having formulated them than criticised for being compelled to hold some back for reasons over which they have no control.

Methods of Realty Operators

By ROBERT E. SIMON

THE real estate operator is one who has made the buying, selling and improving of real estate his business.* Many people have the mistaken idea that an operator is a speculator, but this is not so. In order for him to be successful, the real estate operator must make a thorough study of what goes to make up land values, and must never purchase a piece of property unless he knows beforehand just what he is going to do with it, or what it is adaptable for, or whom he could interest in it by demonstrating possibilities which have not been previously apparent.

ROBERT E. SIMON.

The real estate operators can be divided into three classes: Those that confine their purchases to one particular section; those that purchase one class of property, or property suitable for one class of improvement only, but are not restricted as to location; and those that purchase any class of property in any section.

In transacting his business, the operator naturally depends upon the broker, and it is very important that he should, in his dealings with a broker, be absolutely straightforward. If a piece of property is offered to him by one broker, he must not take it from another, nor should he use the information given him by one broker in dealing with another. As soon as it is apparent that the operator can be depended upon, he has established a good will which is invaluable. Second to his protecting the interest of the broker, comes quick action. With these two qualities, he will find himself constantly receiving diagrams and offers of almost every piece of property of importance or in his line that comes into the market.

The operator is a very important factor in the community. He does things, either directly or indirectly, by his ideas or with his capital. He creates value and increases the borrowing capacity of the city through increasing the tax valuation of property.

In handling improved property, the operator tries to increase the income by either raising the rents or decreasing the expenses, in order to be able to resell at a profit. For instance, in purchasing a flat house built under the old law, he m in steam heat and hot-water supply, and thus increa rents. He may take a building without stores, and by out the first floor and putting in stores, increase the va the property. He may take a building with a hydraulic ele necessitating a licensed engineer, and consuming much summer and winter, and change it to an electric elevator.

These changes are constantly going on around us, but we not stop to think who is behind them, nor do we consider the added comforts afforded the community thereby. Again, in handling a private dwelling, an old antiquated high stoop private house will be taken in hand by the operator, an extension put on, electric light installed throughout, modern plumbing, and in some cases it may even be altered from a high stoop to an American basement.

The private house is the one exception where the operator does not look for income. He very rarely rents a private house unless he has passed the season for selling, and does not wish to burden himself with the expense of carrying the house vacant. The reason for this is, that it is very difficult to sell private dwellings when they are leased.

The same alterations and changes hold good with business buildings. A store may be bringing $60 a month. By putting in a modern window in place of the old-fashioned one, the rent may be considerably increased. Of course quite frequently the operator will purchase a building which needs no improvement because he sees the march of improvements will, within a reasonable time, change the uses to which the property is being put, and materially increase the income, or make it adaptable for entirely new purposes, in which case his profit will be on the land and the building will be torn down. In such a case it is important for the operator not to make a long lease, but to sacrifice temporarily the income and take less rental and have a clause in the lease providing for cancellation on notice.

WHAT IS DONE WITH VACANT LAND.

The operations in vacant land are usually divided into three classes: lots, plots and acreage. The operator purchases the lots, and if he does not sell them for a cash profit, he usually makes a building loan. This means that he gets a certain amount for the land and agrees in addition thereto to advance a certain amount toward the construction of the building. In financing these operations the attitude of the operator varies. Some purchase the lots and resell them as a means of keeping their additional capital employed at 6 per cent. in the shape of building loans. Those operators who are not so fortunate to have the capital necessary to make a building loan, borrow the money elsewhere, either in its entirety or in part.

Occasionally the operator will find that the institutions will not lend as much as he has agreed to lend, in which case he arranges to take care of a part of the building loan himself, and every time a payment of a certain amount is made, he also makes a payment of a lesser sum. Sometimes he agrees to go behind the building loan. That means that he will take a portion of the purchase money mortgage and make a second mortgage of it when the building loan is put on record, thereby guaranteeing the lender of the money that the operation will be successfully carried out. In thus financing building operations, it is necessary for the operator to see the plans and specifications, not only to protect himself, by seeing that the cost of the building will be such as to warrant the loan he is making, but also to see that it is the proper building for the neighborhood, so that it will rent and a substantial first mortgage be procurable on completion.

A CASE IN POINT.

If the operator has the means to purchase a large parcel of lots, he can get the benefit of the improvements on a portion of them on the balance. Very often syndicates are formed, where a number of operators join because the operation is too large for one of them. One of the best examples of the development of a large parcel of lots is that of Messrs. Bing & Bing, who purchased the lots in West 136th and 137th streets, between Broadway and Riverside Drive, at about $6,000 each. At the time of the purchase streets were not cut through, there were no sewers, water or gas mains. It was generally believed that the lots were not fit for immediate improvement with even the ordinary five-story apartment. These gentlemen, however, had the courage of their convictions, and planned to build on part of these lots elevator apartment houses. The result was that they created a value on the balance of their lots at from $12,000 to $15,000 per lot. The elevator houses which they erected have been a tremendous success.

WHEN BUYING ACREAGE.

In the buying of acreage it is very important that the operator see that, in addition to the price being right, his terms are liberal. That is, that the purchase money mortgage provides for releases, which means that a portion of the lots may be sold and released from the blanket mortgage on the whole. It is extremely desirable, whenever possible, to have the mortgage further provide a substitution clause that when such a portion of lots are released, that a new mortgage for a fixed amount be allowed to remain on them. The method of handling acreage property requires skill, ingenuity and patience. The property must be mapped out with streets, and improvements, such as sewer, water and gas, provided for, before the property is ready for sale. In some cases the purchasers hold auction sales. A great many of these sales have been held without making any improvements, and have proven successful.

The development companies who sell at private sale usually protect their property with restrictions and devise various schemes for interesting purchasers, such as installment mortgages, which permit the purchaser to pay for the lots in small payments at stated periods. In this connection I would like to draw attention to the very dangerous phase of this installment selling. Irresponsible companies are apt to purchase property subject to a blanket mortgage, and sell lots on the installment plan without making provision for the liquidation of the mortgage when the time comes for delivering title. The purchaser only receives a contract for his purchase, usually does not search the title, and after he has made his total payments, which may embrace a period of a year or more, he finds that the seller is unable to deliver him a proper title, free and clear. Such installment companies should, in my opinion, be under the jurisdiction of the State Banking Department, as they are in every sense of the word to these poor people savings institutions. A case in point was a park on Long Island, which, I believe, was called Deer Park, where over 400 people had to be served at the foreclosure of the blanket mortgage and were all wiped out of the money they had paid in, with no redress except against the person of the seller.

A GREAT DEVELOPMENT SCHEME.

In making up a price list for selling acreage property in lots, the seller must, in addition to the cost of the land, add expenses for holding it and preparing the land, and also carrying charges. One of the greatest development schemes in history is now going on in the town of Gary, Indiana, which I had the pleasure of visiting recently. The United States Steel Corporation purchased land having 12½ miles of frontage on Lake Michigan, and a depth of about 2½ miles. On one side of the railroad track they are building the largest steel plant in the country, and on the other side they have laid out a city and equipped it with sewers, water, gas, etc., for a city of 250,000 population. They have laid out miles of streets and built a fine theater, hotel and bank buildings, schoolhouse, etc., and, in addition, by next June will have completed 1,000 buildings for the workmen and others to live in. In all they will have an investment of about $50,000,000, and on June first the city will have an estimated population of 40,000 people. The lots on Broadway sold for $3,500, and on the side streets at from $500 to $600, which is on a basis of between $20,000 and $25,000 per acre. Before the Steel Company took this land in hand it was sand dunes selling at $1 per acre. In their plan they are carrying out the idea of getting the most benefit by distributing their buildings over a large area, leaving vacant lots between the houses, which will get the fullest benefit of all their improvements.

New Loft, Office and Studio Building for 32d Street.

The Pacific Realty Company, owners (organized by M. & L. Hess) are erecting at Nos. 12-14 West 32d st, a 14-story loft, office and studio building, on a plot 34x100 ft. The building will be well lit with practically an all-glass front and rear and with windows on the easterly side above the fourth story of the adjoining building. The facade will be of limestone and granite, with a slate covered mansard. The tanks, ordinarily an eyesore, have been covered with a mansard and used as an architectural feature, and the space beneath, which is usually wasted, has been made rentable for studios.

Large spans are employed so as to eliminate the center lines of columns, giving an absolutely clear floor space for the whole building and the elevator machinery is placed on top of the shafts to give a maximum amount of room in the basement. The structure is estimated to cost about $200,000. There will be two electric elevators, steam heating system, and an electric plant. The O'Rourke Engineering and Construction Co., 345 5th av, have the contract for sinking caissons, James J. Duffy, 535 West 24th st, the excavating, John J. Radley & Co., 18th st and East River, iron work, George Vassar's Son & Co., 1170 Broadway, mason work. William L. Rouse, 11 East 43d st, is the architect.

Cement Show in Chicago, Dec. 17-21.

The West is to have a cement exposition Dec. 17 to 21, inclusive, that promises to eclipse any event of the kind ever attempted.

It will be held in the great Coliseum in Chicago.

The Cement Products Exhibition Company has been organized permanently, and the opening show at the Coliseum is intended as the premier event that may be looked forward to each year by the trade.

The exposition will include displays of every possible use of cement and machinery that is allied with it, and to attend it will be as instructive as many months given to study on the subject. This event, together with the convention of the American Association of Cement Users at Buffalo, N. Y., in January, will make the winter fruitful in opportunities for instruction.

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

To Test Eight Hour Law.

It was agreed this week between Comptroller Metz and a committee representing the Brotherhood of Carpenters, which some time ago submitted to him a list of 40 contractors alleged to be violating the eight-hour and prevailing rate of wages law in the erection of public school buildings and other public work, that a test case is to be brought against one of the contractors, whose pay is to be withheld pending determination of the case.

George J. Bohnen is the complainant in the case and the Comptroller is made a joint defendant with the contractor. An agreed case will be taken directly to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in order to lose no time in case an appeal is taken to the highest court.

Charles Wille has been selected by the contractors to make the test case. Mr. Wille is erecting a public school building in the Borough of Queens besides the County Court House. The following statement of the case has been made:

The labor men claim that Wille violated the labor law in buying his materials from L. Bossert. They assert that the men employed in the Bossert plant are compelled to work more than eight hours a day, and that they do not receive the prevailing rate of wages.

The question involved applies principally to the construction of the law. The contractors claim that the object and intent of the law are observed when the men employed in the actual construction of the building work only eight hours a day and receive the prevailing rate of wages.

The labor men insist that the law, in this respect, applies equally as well to the men in the shops which furnish the window frames and other materials. They contend that if these men are forced to work more than eight hours a day and do not receive the prevailing rate of wages the spirit and intent of the law are being violated.

In many instances the contractors have to bring these materials from outside of the city, and even out of the State. If in these places the men who manufacture the materials do not receive the prevailing rate of wages and work more than eight hours a day, the contractors are alleged to be running the risk of having their money held up by the city when a protest is filed by the labor organizations.

Comptroller Metz says it is a rather alarming situation. "I would not be surprised," he said, "if the courts sustain the claims of the labor organizations that it will be impossible for the city to get contractors to erect city buildings. It will place us in a position where we will have to get contracts to erect buildings on their own responsibility and buy the buildings from them after they are completed."

Extreme Values.

THE position which the United States has held as a lumber-producing nation has, perhaps, been due more to white pine than to any other wood. The timber of this valuable tree which has played a most important part in the material development of the nation, is fast disappearing, and now it is as costly as the finest American hardwoods.

Rev. Edward Everett Hale, the chaplain of the United States Senate, who has always taken an interest in forestry, deplores the passing of white pine as our foremost wood, and tells how in his own lifetime he has seen the day when "the masts of every vessel that sailed the Seven Seas were made from New England grown pine; while today very little white pine is cut in New England big enough to furnish a good-sized spar." He tells also, to illustrate the increasing cost of the wood, that he ordered a set of book shelves on which the cabinet maker made a price, and then asked whether they should be of mahogany or white pine.

The white pine production has shifted from New England to the Lake States, and Michigan was the leading lumber-producing State for twenty years, from 1870 to 1890, with a supremacy based on white pine. In these two decades the cut was 160,000,000,000 board feet, valued, at the point of production, at not less than $2,000,000,000, or nearly half as much again as the value derived from all the gold fields of California from their discovery in the late forties until the present. The rich forests of Michigan were once thought inexhaustible and lumbering continued in a most reckless manner for years. Suddenly the people awoke to the fact that the thoughtless destruction of the trees had thrown 6,000,000 of acres on the delinquent tax list. These white pine barrens point to the terrible penalty of wasting the forest resources which should have been the heritage of all future generations.

An idea of the increasing scarcity of white pine timber is given by the New York F. O. B. quotations, on a basis of carload lots. "Uppers" of the best grade cost $97 to $114 a thousand board feet, and the "selects," or next lower grade, cost $79.50 to $99.50. Men who are not yet middle-aged remember the time when these grades could be purchased at $15 to $25 a thousand feet. The present quotations on quartered white oak, which are $75 to $80, offer another basis of comparison which indicates the condition of the market for white pine.

A SUGGESTION FOR ELEVATED SIDEWALKS IN FERRY STREETS.
Charles R. Lamb, President Municipal Art Society.

As a means of relief from the congestion in streets leading to ferries, Mr. Lamb proposes these sidewalks, which could be supported from the buildings either by strong braces underneath or suspended by chains with the wooden upright supports from the sidewalk, while glass disks in the footway would admit light to the lower stories and the sidewalk below. Already many of these stores have solid roofed wooden sheds supported from the curb by posts obstructing the first story quite as much if not more than the suggestion for a platform with glass disks and platform over. While the obvious advantage to the buildings from Mr. Lamb's plan is that they get better facilities for shipment on the street and can arrange office entrances from the upper platform connection, too, which can of course be made at each street corner by staircase similar to that of the elevated railroad.

The best stands of this timber now in this country are in scattered sections in Minnesota, New England, and parts of Idaho. The species in Idaho is sometimes called Silver Pine. Some of the country's best white pine is found on the Indian reservations in Minnesota and Wisconsin and scattered stands are found in the States of Wyoming, Montana, Colorado, and one or two other States. At the present rate of cutting the tree will soon be practically a thing of the past. The small stands in the National forests are inconsiderable, but they will be managed with the greatest conservatism by the Government through the Forest Service, and through this method and practice of reforestation it may be hoped that the fine old tree will furnish timber for other generations.

Bulletins of the Tenement House Department.

BULLETIN NO. 1.—All plans for new buildings hereafter filed in this Department must indicate whether retaining walls are to be erected, and in every case must be accompanied by a sectional view showing the level of the earth on the property adjoining the location of the proposed walls, and whether the walls are to be erected on the property of the applicant or on the adjoining premises.

If retaining walls are to be erected on property other than the property upon which it is proposed to erect the building the right to erect such walls on adjacent property must be established to the satisfaction of the Department.

BULLETIN NO. 2.—Any and all changes required to be made on filed plans shall be made either by filing new drawings (if in the opinion of the Department the changes proposed are sufficient in magnitude to make same necessary) or by filing and affixing suitable "pasters" to existing drawings (pasters covering more than 25 per cent. of any drawing or sheet will not be permitted), or by making necessary changes in red ink. In all cases the changes or additions must be individually dated, and initialed or signed by party making same.

BULLETIN NO. 3.—In future plans must show distinctly whether there is necessity for landing gratings over areas, etc., below fire escapes, or for landing balconies suspended from the lowest balcony of the fire-escape system. In other words, plans must show distinctly that the fire-escape system will conform with Departmental requirements, and there must be a safe landing place directly below the opening (gate or hatchway) in the lowest balcony and not over 14 feet below the same. If there is a likelihood that the hatchway in the lowest balcony will be partially obstructed by cornices or other projections from the face of the building, the floor of the lowest balcony must be made solid and an opening or gateway provided in the railing.

BULLETIN NO. 4.—The Department will not hereafter approve plans where the location of the sink is such that the use of a sink back will interfere with the distribution of light from the window; if the sink is located directly in front of the window it must be specified that it will be without a back. Furthermore, where wash trays or other fixtures are located in front of windows, due allowance must be made for their projection in front of windows, in figuring the effective area of that window. The department will only allow for area of window above the line of the top of the fixture. Fixtures must not be located, as regards windows giving egress to fire-escapes, so as to obstruct such egress, but a passage, of not less than two feet in the clear, must be maintained.

BULLETIN NO. 5.—The doors at the bottom of dumbwaiter shafts hereafter erected must extend completely to the floor of the said shafts for the purpose of cleaning the bottom of said shafts.

BULLETIN NO. 6.—Wherever fire escapes not of the type prescribed in Section 12 are to be erected on new buildings, the details of the construction of such fire escapes must be clearly shown in a separate drawing to be furnished by the architect before the plans are approved. When new fire escapes are shown to be erected in the form of a "Common" fire escape between two buildings they will be obliged to, and separate fire escape required. Conditions may arise where a "Common" fire escape can alone be erected, which cases must be submitted for a ruling by the Commissioner. (See also issues Oct. 26, Nov. 2 and 9.)

Hudson Memorial Bridge Plans.

The revised plans for the Hudson Memorial Bridge, at Spuyten Duyvil, which is accepted by the Municipal Art Commission, call for a reinforced concrete bridge, with an arch more than twice the length of any other in the world. The new plans provide for a concrete arch 710 ft. instead of a steel arch 815 ft. For 100 ft. on each side of the ship canal the arch will be 183 ft. in height, with seven arches alongside, four in the Bronx and three in Manhattan, each 100 ft. in width. The plans call for two roadways, one for pedestrians and vehicular traffic and the other for an extension of the Subway system. It is estimated that the bridge will cost $3,000,000.

Building Operations for October.

Although building and construction throughout the United States has been exceedingly brisk for several years and has set a high record, this is nearly maintained at present, as indicated by a comparison of the past month with October, 1906. Official building reports from some fifty leading cities throughout the country received by The American Contractor, show that building operations continue decidedly active; twenty-nine cities show an increase varying from one to two hundred and ninety per cent, and twenty-two show a loss ranging from three to fifty-nine per cent.; in the aggregate the decrease, as compared with October, 1906, amounts to three and four-fifths per cent. Some of the principal gains are: Birmingham 97 per cent.; Buffalo, 27; Cleveland, 290; Grand Rapids, 35; Kansas City, 25; Little Rock, 113; Minneapolis, 12; Nashville, 116; New Orleans, 29; Omaha, 36; Paterson, 134; St. Paul, 77; Spokane, 81; Syracuse, 140; Worcester, 127; Wilkes-Barre, 86. Among those showing a decrease are: Baltimore, 34; Bridgeport, 18; Chattanooga, 50; Detroit, 20; Duluth, 33; Hartford, 43; Los Angeles, 44; Newark, 26; Philadelphia, 59; Pittsburgh, 36; Tacoma, 23; St. Louis, 54. Building operations have been exceptionally lively in St. Louis since the great exposition there, and this setback was to be expected. The details are as follows:

Points on the Material Market.

The structural steel mills are for the most part still running to capacity.

Milliken Bros., through the receivers of the company, have secured the contract for the steel work of the new Masonic Temple, at the corner of 6th av and 24th st. The work calls for 2,500 tons of structural material.

Henry C. Hunter, commissioner of the New York and New Jersey Metal Trades' Association, makes the following statement: "While business was active at this time last year, there is now almost a cessation of orders. In the last two months a large number of our shops have been working on stock work and laying off men when the work was done. The slackness of trade also applies to the shipyards. The reason is believed to be due to a lack of confidence in business circles, which it is to be hoped is only temporary. The men affected by the slackness of trade are principally blacksmiths, pattern makers, machinists and boilermakers."

The Iron Age says: Plunging from a record production in October to the first stages of what promises to be a very sharp reduction, within two weeks, is the extraordinary experience of the iron trade. During October our coke and anthracite furnaces produced the largest tonnage in the history of the country—

2,336,972 tons. Before the month was out, however, thirty blast furnaces had been blown out, and the capacity had declined from 511,397 tons a week on October 1 to 491,436 tons a week on November 1. Estimates of the lessened requirements of the country, temporarily, vary within pretty wide limits. A restriction of 30 per cent. is regarded as conservative by many.

Tin Roofing.

ROOFING-TIN was first made in the United States in an experimental way in Philadelphia, in 1830, but practically all of the tinplates used for roofing purposes up to 1891 were imported plates, the product of the Welsh mills.

The McKinley Tariff at this time encouraged the manufacture of tinplate in America to such an extent that many works promptly sprang up in various parts of the country. In many cases the Welsh processes were transferred bodily to the American works.

American ingenuity has caused the introduction of many labor-saving devices which have made it possible to produce tinplates quickly and cheaply, the increase in the use of cheap grades of tinplate for various manufacturing purposes following the reduced cost of such plates.

Unfortunately, much cheap terne plate has flooded the market, and in many cases this cheap tin has found its way on the roof, utterly failing to give the satisfaction expected of this form of roofing material. American manufacturers can, and do, make tinplates that are fully the equal of any that have ever been made. They are equipped to make high-grade, durable roofing plates, and do make them for those who want them and are willing to pay the price. The manufacture of high-grade roofing-tin in this country to-day is an important industry that deserves the support of the master sheet metal workers and others interested in the roofing trade.

The thing that concerns the roofer most is the durability of the material after he has laid it on the roof. It is absolutely necessary that the plate should carry sufficient coating to properly protect the base. The use of cheap, light-coated plates is not advised and should be discouraged. The roofer should insist upon being paid a price which will enable him to use a heavily-coated plate.

STANDARD SPECIFICATIONS.

A handbook just issued by the National Association of Master Sheet-Metal Roofers makes the following recommendations:

Roof Incline: (a) If flat-seam, roof to have an incline of ½ inch or more to the foot. (b) If standing-seam, roof to have an incline of not less than 2 ins. to the foot. (c) Gutters, valleys, etc., to be designed with sufficient incline to prevent water standing in same, or backing up in any case far enough to reach standing-seams.

Shearing-Boards.—These shall be of good, well-seasoned dry lumber, narrow widths preferred, free from holes, and of even thickness. Boards to be laid with tight joints, or tongued and grooved, nail-heads well driven in. Green hemlock, chestnut, oak and ash are not recommended.

Standing-Seam.—The sheets shall be put together in long lengths in the shop, the cross seams locked together and well soaked with solder. All standing-seam roofing shall be applied the narrow way, fastened with cleats spaced 1 ft. apart. One edge of the course shall be turned up 1¼ ins. at a right angle, when the cleats shall be installed. The next course shall have the adjoining edge turned up 1½ ins. These edges shall be locked together, and the seams so formed shall be flattened to a rounded edge.

Valleys and Gutters.—To be of IX tin and formed with flat seams, using sheets the narrow way.

Flashings.—Wherever practicable, flashing shall be let into the joints of the brick or stone work and cemented. If counter-flashings are used, the lower edge of the counter part shall be kept at least 3 ins. above the roof.

All solder used on this roof shall be of the best grade, bearing the manufacturer's name, and guaranteed one-half and one-half (one-half tin and one-half lead), using nothing but rosin as a flux. Solder to be well sweated into all seams and joints. (Note—The terms "half-and-half" and "100 to 100" solder mean very little nowadays unless the proportions are guaranteed, and only new metals used.)

Painting.—All painting to be done by the roofer. Before laying, all tin to be painted one coat on the under side. The upper surface of the tin roof is to be carefully cleaned of all rosin, dirt, etc., and immediately painted. Paint to be of pure metallic brown iron oxide, or Venetian red as a pigment, mixed with pure linseed oil. No patent dryer or turpentine to be used. All coats of paint to be applied with a hand-brush and well rubbed on. Apply a second coat two weeks after the first. The third coat to be applied one year later.

General Instructions.—No substitution of a cheaper grade of tin will be allowed. The object of these specifications is to provide tin roofs of the same durable, satisfactory nature as those generally obtained in former years by the use of high-grade material and thorough, first-class workmanship. The roofer is expected to do good work, and only a first-class job of roofing will be accepted.

No unnecessary walking over the tin roof, or using the same for storage of materials shall be allowed at any time. It is recommended that workmen wear rubber shoes when on the roof. Wherever possible, tin should be laid with standing-seam, which allows for expansion and contraction.

To keep the roof in good condition, subsequent painting will hardly be necessary at shorter intervals than three to five years' time, even longer, depending upon local conditions. Since gutters are the natural receptacle for dirt, leaves, etc., they should be swept out and painted every two or three years.

Particulars of Jesuit College on Crow Hill

Instead of a cathedral, a Jesuit College will be built upon the site of the old Kings County Penitentiary, in Brooklyn. A church, a combined grammar and high school, a college building, and a faculty building, form the group of structures which will overlook the old town of Flatbush. They will surround a grass-covered yard about 100 yards square. Eventually there will be a parish building and a library.

In recent years insurance men have complained that universities and colleges do not take adequate precautions against fire, but in this case there will be no protest. The Jesuit College buildings will be fireproof. With outside walls of stone and brick, they will have inside walls of hollow terra cotta block. In the main college building will be an auditorium, a swimming pool, shower baths, a gymnasium and a museum, with the School of Science and the School of Arts on the upper floors. The faculty building will have executive offices, dining-room, 70 living and guest rooms, and, at the east end, a private chapel for the faculty. The capacity of the school building is estimated at 1,012 students in 24 class-rooms. Enough of the work upon it will be finished next September to afford accommodations to 676 students.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Hotel Project.

PARK AV.—So far as could be learned this week it was generally assumed that the proposed 21-sty $2,500,000 structure which Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt contemplates erecting on a plot at the southwest corner of Park av and 34th st, fronting 197.3 ft. on Park av and 80 ft. both in 33d and 34th sts, on the site of the old Cornelius Vanderbilt home, will be a hotel, and will be leased and operated by the Ritz-Carlton Hotel Syndicate of London. It was announced some months ago that the Ritz-Carlton Hotel would be built by English capitalists on property owned by the Goelet Estate, at the northeast corner of Madison av and 46th st, but this report, with reference to location, could not be verified. Plans have been prepared by Messrs. Warren & Wetmore, No. 3 East 33d st, for this project, but it was learned at their office that operations would be delayed indefinitely. The City Leasing Co., No. 54 Wall st, Carter, Ledyard & Milburn, as counsel, are said to represent the Ritz-Carlton Syndicate. (See also issue Nov. 2, 1907.)

Structural Steel Contract for the New Masonic Temple.

6TH AV.—Contract has just been awarded to the Receivers of Milliken Brothers, No. 11 Broadway, for the structural steel for the new Masonic Temple to be erected by the Order of Free and Accepted Masons, on property abutting the rear of the temple, Nos. 46 to 54 West 24th st. The structure will be highly ornamental, will contain eighteen stories, with basement and sub-basement, and will be of the best fireproof construction, involving about 2,500 tons of steel. The exterior will be of granite or limestone in the first three stories, with brick and terra cotta above. The Wells Bros. Company, 160 5th av, are the general contractors and H. P. Knowles, No. 1 Madison av, is the architect. The Masonic fraternity and officers will occupy the six upper stories. William Sherer, 235 West 75th st, is President Board of Trustees. (See also issue Sept. 21, 1907.)

Charles T. Wills to Build Schinasi Residence.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—The general contract for constructing the 3-sty residence for Mr. Morris Schinasi, on Riverside Drive, the northeast corner, and 107th st, has been awarded to Charles T. Wills, Inc., of 156 5th av. The cost will be about $180,000. The structure will be built of white marble, in the style of the French Renaissance, and measure 40x72 ft. in ground dimen-

WAREHOUSE AT CHRISTOPHER STREET AND WAVERLY PLACE, NEW YORK, WHICH WILL BE A WINTER JOB.

PARKWAY GARAGE.
A System M Job Nearing Completion at 4th Avenue and 51st Street, Brooklyn.

WINDING UP THE WORK FOR THE WINTER

This is the cry of almost all "concrete builders." The hard weather of last winter has not yet passed from the memory of those who had a concrete building in course of construction; the delays and consequent loss of revenue are still fresh in their minds. They and others are casting about now for a system of construction which will take care of the new building, which must be started late to be ready for the early Spring, and are dubious about the inviting figures and uncertain promises of the concrete people.

"System M" is the ideal for which they are looking. Do they know it?

It is the concrete construction by which many buildings were uninterruptedly conducted during the terrible Winter of 1906-1907. Whenever steel could be erected the concrete was installed.

The Standard Concrete-Steel Company, who installs this valuable system, has now running many contracts which will go well into the cold weather, and is equipped to start any number of new contracts with the guarantee that Winter will not stop them. Their yard is full of stock beams of the light sections, which form their reinforcements, and their own beam and riveting shops take care of the fabrication of the entire steel work of the job. What better assurance can the intending builder want that his Winter Job will go through? He knows that with concrete construction his price will be right.

sions. The roof will be of mansard terra cotta and tile, with steel girders, yellow pine timber, copper cornices, steam heating. Mr. Wills's contract does not include heating, wiring or plumbing. Wm. B. Tuthill, 287 4th av, is the architect. Mr. Schinasi is a large tobacco manufacturer.

Plans for Raymond Street Jail Approved.

Plans for the large annex building to be erected in connection with the Raymond st jail, Brooklyn, were approved by the Municipal Art Commission on Tuesday of this week. The structure is to cost in the neighborhood of $350,000, and is to be similar in design to the present building. Messrs. D'Oench & Yost, 289 4th av, Manhattan, are the architects. Plans for the new 5-sty Nurses' Home and Training School of the Kings County Hospital, which is to cost $250,000, have also been approved.

BUILDING NOTES

A committee of the Central Federated Union has been appointed to prepare plans for the organization of a new Central Building Trades Council in this city, one in which rival unions in the same trade may be brought together.

Announcement is made of the removal of the New York offices of the Raymond Concrete Pile Company to 140 Cedar st, in the new West Street Building. The steady increase in the business of the company made the abandonment of the former quarters necessary in order to gain greater floor space.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission, No. 229 Broadway, will receive applications until 4 p. m., Wednesday, November 27, for the position of topographical draughtsman. The examination will be held on Thursday, December 19, 1907, at 10 a. m. Also until 4 p. m., Tuesday, November 26, for the position of structural steel draughtsman. The examination will be held on Tuesday, December 17, 1907, at 10 a. m.

John A. and James Q. McCarthy, formerly of the firm of Murtagh & McCarthy, dealers in masons' building materials, for many years located at the foot of Rivington st, East River, have moved their office and yards to the foot of 3d st, East River, where a full line of building materials will be kept on hand for prompt deliveries. Mr. Wm. A. Thomas will be associated with the above. Telephones 520, 521 and 101 Orchard.

The Long Island Railroad will use concrete pile foundations for the new conduit line in the North Shore Yards at Long Island City. The contract has been awarded the Raymond Concrete Pile Company, of Chicago and New York, by J. P. Savage, Chief Engineer. The conduit, which will be of concrete, will be 1,100 ft. long, and will carry the feed wires for the electric system. The application of concrete piling to conduit foundations is a novel one, this being the first time such use has been made on a contract of any magnitude. The Abbott-Gamble Company are the general contractors.

The Cutler Mfg. Co., of Rochester, N. Y., inform us that since the publication of the present volume of Sweet's they have abandoned the manufacture of the old Standard Cutler Mail Chute, the use of which is no longer permitted by the Post Office Department, and this has been replaced by "Model F," a chute of entirely new design and construction, which complies perfectly with the new regulations and meets the requirements of modern business conditions. Its simplicity and their improved and extended facilities enable them to produce this form of mail chute at a much lower price than they have heretofore been charging.

Tax Commissioner Charles Putzel, for the American Publishing Company and the Journal of Commerce has compiled a book entitled "Commercial Precedents," containing 775 pages, covering over 375 subjects to embrace the entire field of commercial law. The book contains an index covering over 50 pages, and also a glossary for legal terms and definitions, and a set of forms. This book is designed to meet the wants of business as well as professional ones and really is an essential work of reference. Any one can find a subject or question in which he is interested at a glance. The alphabetical arrangement of the subject matter in the body of the book as well as in the index is about as near perfect as any one can find. Difficulties are overcome and the problems solved by the simple method adopted to find the matter desired. The American Publishing Company, of Hartford, with office at 156 Fifth av, is the selling agent. Mr. Putzel has been active in the general practice of the law in New York City for over 25 years.

Cost of Concrete Posts.

Dellwood Park, a pleasure resort near Chicago, contains 62 acres of land, and is fenced with concrete posts. A thousand of these posts are 9 ft. long and the remainder 7 ft. They are 4x4 ins. in cross section at the top and 4x6 ins. at the base. They are made of one part Portland cement and two parts stone screenings, ranging from dust to one-four-inch pieces. Each post is reinforced with four ¼-in. Johnson corrugated bars, and on each corner.

According to the Cement Age, the average cost of the 9-ft. posts was 65 cents each, including all expenses, and based on the following prices: Cement cost $2 a barrel; screenings, 75 cents a cu. yd.; reinforcing steel, 3¼ cents a pound; the two laborers were paid $2 a day each. The posts were allowed to season at least a month after they were manufactured before they were set,

The Week.

THE week in the real estate market, from a sales point of view, was brighter, and the brokers who reported sales were a little more encouraged. They report that they have a number under way, with a good chance of being put through, unless some new calamity happens. All they ask is to be let alone, and they will do business. While there was no material increase in numbers, still there was a better assortment, and a little broader market.

For example, 635 Broadway, a 34-foot front mercantile building running through to Mercer st, figured in a large trade, ninety lots in the Fort George section being given in part payment. Tenements in Mott and Houston sts changed hands and business buildings in Grand and Walker sts. A handsome dwelling in 6th st was sold, as well as the former home of President Chester A. Arthur in West 21st st. In the conveyances appear the following properties: Two 6-sty elevator apartment houses, 328 and 339 West 85th st, 327, 329, 331 East 105th st, 113 West 106th st, a 6-sty new-law house, Madison av, southeast corner of 96th st, a 6-sty elevator house, figured in a trade for four flats in 136th st. The 6-sty elevator apartment house at 158th st and Broadway was sold, giving Washington Heights its share of the business. This latter is exceptionally well situated, being very near Riverside Drive and the Audubon Park section. The trading in the Bronx was light, still it was an improvement over last week.

The leasing side of the realty market is holding its own splendidly. The feature of the week in this branch easily belongs to the lease put through by Messrs. M. & L. Hess. The property disposed of by them is 505 Fifth av, an 18-story store, loft and office building. The aggregate rental for the first flats in 136th st. The 6-sty elevator apartment house at 158th succeeding periods to be determined on a 5% basis. Besides this lease there were a number of large ones put through, mainly in the business section, though the usual number of dwellings were reported.

The mortgage market, as during the past few weeks, held the center of the stage. Many prospective purchasers were held off from buying from fear that they could not place a loan on the property, and in a number of instances they declared their intention as soon as it was shown that they would not have any difficulty in placing a reasonable amount. The total number of mortgages in Manhattan and Bronx recorded this week, up to the 14th of November, were 283 as against 306 for the corresponding period last week, and the total amount involved was $4,978,265 as against $7,910,939 last week.

There were several mortgages of considerable size recorded during the week. The Broadway and Cathedral Parkway Co. borrowed $750,000 on the northwest corner of 110th st and Broadway at 5½% after the building that is in the course of construction is completed. In the interim the interest rate is 6%. This mortgage comes due Nov. 1, 1912. Harry Payne Whitney mortgaged his 5th av home, corner 57th st, for $500,000. The Pacific Realty Co. placed a mortgage on their holdings, 12 and 14 West 32d st, for $200,000. This mortgage bears 6% until the building now being erected is completed and then the interest rate is to be reduced to 5½%, and falls due Nov. 1, 1912. John T. Williams gave a mortgage to the Lawyers Title Ins. & Trust Co. for $160,000 on 778 and 780 Madison av, and the Title Insurance Co. loaned Albert Plant $100,000 on 118 William st.

The total number of private sales reported for the week is 36, of which 10 were below 59th st, 15 above, and 11 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

There were several choice pieces of property put up at auction during the week just past and the prices brought by them were regarded as satisfactory considering the present condition of the money market. The principle offering was the Hotel Saranac, the sale of which is noted in another column. This parcel, together with the property owned by the estate of Letitia A. Poillon, and a 3-sty brick building in 46th st, between Broadway and 8th av, made an interesting sales day at the Exchange on Thursday last.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day the prices brought were as follows: The Hotel Saranac, $919,000; 428 to 432 Broadway, cor Howard st, to Bernando W. Benner, for a client, for $475,000; 85 to 89 Bedford st and 62 to 68 Barrow st, to Norman Harsell, a party in interest, for $80,000; 760 and 762 8th av, to Robert P. Zobel, for $60,000; 233 West 46th st, to Lewis Danahar, for $36,850. Several parcels in 150th st, near 7th av, went to the plaintiff for $125,000; 28 and 30 West 15th st to the plaintiff for $105,900. All right, title and interest in a couple of lots in Hillside st, near Broadway, to Andrew J. Larkin for $3,600; 1834 Bathgate av, to P. H. Mahon for $4,450, and the northwest corner of 2d av and 126th st to the plaintiff for $121,000.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day on Wednesday last six 5-sty flats in 160th st were knocked down to Simon Cyge, representing a party in interest, for $285,000. Prospect av, near Jennings st, to George Keller for $19,500.

A Growing Section of the Bronx.

THAT the Bronx is growing, in spite of Wall Street panics and financial flurries, is shown conclusively by the transformation that is taking place in the Freeman st and Southern Boulevard section. There the carpenter's hammer has not been silenced, and instead of a recession in building, cellars for new houses are being dug, and houses are rushed because the demand for two-family houses and five and six-room apartments is still unsatiated.

Two years ago Freeman st and its vicinity were without a corporal's guard of houses; to-day it is well built up, and apartment houses are to be seen looming up in all directions. All the stores in Freeman st are occupied at good rentals, and the merchants appear to be very willing to pay from $60 to $100 for 20-ft. inside stores.

Real estate men report that the demand for two-family houses, to cost from $13,000 to $15,000, is considerable. The owners generally live on one floor and rent the other. Two years ago prospective purchasers demanded a ten per cent. income before buying small houses; but to-day they buy without having the income figured out to them to a cent.

During the year there have been built over forty two-family houses on Bryant av, and to-day they are nearly all sold. On Vyse av and Bryant av there are being started about twenty two-family houses. A number of 5-sty flats are being built on Hoe av, and at the corner of Freeman st and Southern Boulevard the Eichler Brewing Company has just completed a number of modern 5-sty, six-family flats.

One of the biggest building enterprises in the neighborhood is the solid block of modern 5-sty apartment houses completed by the Fleischmann Realty Co. The block is bounded by Wilkins av, Charlotte st, 170th st and Boston road, and consists of about twenty 40-ft. fronts, which all are finding ready rental. John P. Leo is building five 25-ft., 5-sty double flats in Southern Boulevard, south of Freeman st and the southeast corner of 170th st and Wilkins pl, is also completed and rented. With the building change a change in the class of tenants has also been noticed since the advent of the subway. The new class of residents want to be near rapid transit, and are willing to pay $5 to $6 per room. But when apartment houses are built away from the subway they are hard to rent.

—The Queens Home Realty & Construction Co., with offices at 139 East 59th st, recently incorporated with Harold B. Christens, president, Henry E. Jordon, treasurer, and Leo Green, secretary, has greatly enlarged its offices and reports a very encouraging prospect for future business.

Weak Points in the Taxation System.

PROF. JOHN H. MacCRACKEN, of New York University, read a paper on Thursday morning before the National Conference on State and Local Taxation, being held under the auspices of the National Tax Association at Columbus, Ohio, on "Taxation of City Real Estate and Improvements on Real Estate as Illustrated in New York City," in which he strongly advocated a tax on the rental value of land improvements, and pointed out the strength and some of the weaknesses of the present system of real estate taxation in this city. Professor MacCracken said in part:

The taxation on real estate, as we have it in New York City, is probably on the whole the most equitable in its distribution, the simplest in its administration, and more productive in proportion to the sacrifice involved and carries with it fewer evil consequences than any tax system hitherto devised. To secure an annual revenue of eighty million dollars at an expense of about $600,000 for assessment and collection, with no greater sacrifice than is involved in the payment of 1½% on a 70% valuation, is a fine illustration of Colburt's supreme art of taxation—the plucking of the greatest number of feathers with the least amount of squalling.

In 1906, the receipts from the tax on real estate in New York City were approximately eighty million dollars. The same year the tax on personal property yielded only four and one-half millions, and the tax on franchises and the real estate of corporations only one and one-half millions.

The statistics are in many ways surprising. They show that of the total assessed value of New York real estate, 65.3% is land value and 37.7% is improvement value. Brooklyn is the only one of the five boroughs in which the buildings are rated as more valuable than the land, the percentage of improvement value being 55.2% as compared with 32.8% in Manhattan. This in spite of the fact that the skyscrapers and palaces are in Manhattan.

Weak points in our system of real estate taxation, according to Professor MacCracken, are the lack of success in assessing real estate at its market value, the relatively lower assessment placed on acreage property than on single lots and the unsatisfactory working of our tax on improvements. After citing some of the inequalities of the present tax on improvements, he said:

The substitution of a tax on the rental value of improvements will bring closer to the mind of the average citizen what he is paying for city purposes year after year. It will thus make the cost of city government a matter of more immediate interest to a majority of its population.

Just as Philadelphia is celebrated as a city of homes, so New York is celebrated as a city of tenants or occupiers, as they would be called in Great Britain. The number of those who own the homes they live in in New York has been placed as low as 10%. The remainder, of course, pay rent. The great majority pay no direct taxes. The result is, there is utterly lacking even among the more intelligent part of our population any just conception of what they pay for city government and municipal services.

The arguments for the tax on rentals are:

(1) Rental values are more readily ascertainable than the values of improvements, and furnish, therefore, a more exact basis of taxation.

(2) Rental values are a fair index of family income and a tax on rental values is, therefore, proportioned to ability to pay.

(3) A tax on rental values permits the exemption of a minimum rental, say, $100 a year from taxation, and if properly adjusted, would permit cheaper rents for the poorest class of dwellings or apartments.

(4) A tax on rentals, whether assessed against the occupier, as in Great Britain, or assessed against the owner (as is more desirable for the sake of ease of collection) would in its psychological effect be a direct tax for the majority of the population, and would give them an immediate concern in municipal expenditures.

New Yorkers are all alive to the fact that rents are very high in New York, but Professor MacCracken says that if we were to question a score of intelligent men, college professors included, as to what proportion of their payments for rent they thought went to pay the expenses of the city government, you would find their estimates wide of the mark. He imagines, therefore, that the proposal to introduce a tax on rental values of from 10% to 20% would appear at first sight as extortionate, and an impossible burden, but in reality it would be no greater than the tax now paid indirectly. It must be understood, of course, that to reach the rental value of the improvement it would be necessary to deduct from the total rental value a sum sufficient to yield a fair return on the assessed value of the land, say 3½% or 4% net.

For illustration, let us take a lot assessed at $50,000 with a house assessed at $10,000, and renting for $4,000. The present tax is $750 on the land and $150 on the house. Allowing $2,500 or 5% on the assessed value of the land, the rental value of the house would be $1,500, and a rental tax of 10% would be required to yield the same amount as at present. Again, take a commercial building, assessed at $350,000, standing on a lot assessed at $500,000 with rental value of $50,000. It now pays $7,500 on the land, and $5,250 on the building. If $2,500 were allowed as rental value of the land, it would require a tax of over 20% on the remainder of rental value to yield as large a tax as at present. It is evident, therefore, that while the property would pay no more into the city treasury than at present, the psychological effect would be magnified and the interest of the rent payer in municipal questions greatly increased. We should begin to understand that we were not so much better off with our present tax rates than our English cousins with their rates of two and three shillings in the pound, and we should begin to understand how some Londoners had begun to fear a rate of twenty shillings in the pound.

The objection may be raised against the proposed form of taxation that instead of diminishing it would increase the taxation of the poor, because the greatest gross rentals in proportion to the investment are paid by the poorest class of tenements. This, however, could be met in either of two ways: First, by a judicious exemption of rentals of small amounts, or second, by adopting certain fixed percentages to be applied to different classes of buildings to enable the assessor to estimate the net rental from the gross rental. To encourage the improvement of outlying property, I should favor also the exemption from the tax on rental value for the first two or three years, of both residential and commercial buildings when they were erected on property not previously improved.

With a tax on land and on franchises to bear the chief brunt of city taxation, a tax on the stock of certain classes of corporation, an excise tax, and a tax on the rental values of improvements, we should obtain, Professor MacCracken believes, at least so far as New York City is concerned, all needed revenue, with the least hardship, and with the greatest justice and largest incidental political and social benefits.

Who's Who in Real Estate?—III.

JOSEPH L. BUTTENWIESER has been identified with real estate in all its branches in this city for years. By birth a Philadelphian, at an early age he came to New York and graduated from the College of the City of New York in 1883. While at college he won all the medals and first prizes in Latin and Greek during the course and stood at the head of his class during the five years' term. Then he took the law course and graduated from the University Law School of New York in 1887. He was the valedictorian of his class.

For two years and a half he taught school, and then he entered the real estate field. He chose operating on his own account and building as his field for operation. To get an idea of how active Mr. Buttenwieser has been in real estate, one must realize that he has built over three hundred houses and has bought and sold for his own account over a thousand houses in Manhattan.

Mr. Buttenwieser took very active part in the agitation which resulted in the repeal of the mortgage tax law and its substitution by the Mortgage Recording Tax Law. His speech before the joint Senate and Assembly Committees on Taxation and Retrenchment was widely distributed throughout the State.

As an owner of property, Mr. Buttenwieser has had nearly every class of building—private dwellings, apartment and tenement houses, loft and business buildings, etc. They have been located in all parts of the city. Most men have their likes and dislikes. Some favor one class of realty and some another. Not so with Mr. Buttenwieser; if any parcel appealed to him he bought it, and without hesitation. This is probably the cause of his success. His common sense and good judgment must not, however, be overlooked. He knew his locality, what it was he was buying, and the possibilities of increase in value. These qualifications added to boldness have borne their fruit, and today he is a large holder of real estate.

Among his holdings are the following pieces of property: 233 Lenox av, 636 Hudson st, 22 Morton st, 227 Waverly pl, 130 West 16th st, 232 East 23d st, 136 East 48th st, 101 Allen st, 319 West 58th st, 154 West 64th st, 154 East 70th st, 137 West 83d st, 1485 Park av, 1420 Third av, 252 West 124th st, 158 East 44th st, 150 Cherry st, 141-143 East 26th st, 6 Bank st, 88-90 Washington pl, 417 Third av, 41-43 Grand st, 386 First av, 39 Mott st, 410-412 East 6th st, 77 Sullivan st, 322 East 6th st, 340 East 6th st, 217-221 East 22d st, 29 East 7th st, 139 East 13th st, 158 East 26th st, 344 East 125th st, 342-344 West 30th st, 137-139 West 83d st, 528 First av, 101 Lexington av, 417 Third av, 425 Third av and 104-106 Houston st.

Poor's Manual of Railroads.

The fortieth annual number of "Poor's Manual of Railroads" has just been published and is larger and more complete in detail than any of the previous issues. It divides the steam railroads into eleven groups, with a ready reference, so that information about any individual railroad can be easily found. A list of annual meetings, transfer agencies and dividend tables are also given. One of the features of this work is the list of maps. These are divided into two sections, the colored State maps, of which twenty-four are printed, form one section, and maps of individual companies (uncolored) of which there are seventy, comprise the second one. One can readily see by turning to the State map all the railroads that operate in that State, and then by turning to the individual map the entire territory covered by a given railroad can be seen at a glance. The industrial section gives the last statement published by the various companies, and also much information which heretofore has been omitted. This latest issue contains much more information than has ever before been attempted in this work. (Poor's Manual Co., 100 William st.)

Apartment House Rules.

WHILE building up a system for the care of improved real estate, the Remco people (the Real Estate Management Company) have had many problems to meet and have had frequent occasion to issue circular letters of instruction to their employees. Some of these have dealt with the service, some with the care of machinery in use, others with the maintenance of the property, and all have been considered important to the welfare of the tenant and vital to the income of the property.

With time this material has become voluminous and of increasing value, it has been necessary to classify, index and arrange it for ready reference, and finally to complete it by covering the whole subject of apartment house management. In its final form it provides for a management service extending through the twenty-four hours of the day, and assembles in a convenient form for daily use instruction extremely valuable for owners, managers and the employees of apartment houses.

It is a pleasure—and also a surprise to us—to be able to announce that this manual has been published (through The McClure Company) in book form. It is entitled "Remco's Manual of Apartment House Service, and puts at the disposal of any one who will buy a copy the results of the wide and successful experience of this company. The text is for the most part arranged in the form of numbered rules, brief and pointed. There are three general divisions: Instructions to Janitors, Apartment House Rules, and Care of Plant and Property, and under the latter head there are rules for the running and care of elevators, steam boilers, hot-water boilers, electrical machinery, furnaces and pumps, ranges, doors, trim and mouldings, awnings, shades, wall paper, leaders, drains, and the like.

To our mind this marks an important step in real estate management. There have been no definite standards of service generally recognized, though each manager has had his own system. There has been an organization which janitors have joined and which has imparted instruction to its members, but this publication by the Real Estate Management Company, being the first of the kind, will serve the purpose of a standard or code of service, though to be modified to meet individual cases.

Altogether, there are 1470 rules in the Manual, and some three hundred pages. We note that the system requires complete house service to be given from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. Some of the House Rules are as follows:

512. Children are not allowed on the roof or in the basement, and are not permitted to play in the halls or about the entrance.

513. Velocipedes or bicycles are not allowed in passenger elevators, or in the halls, passageways, areas, or courts.

514. Dogs, cats, parrots, mocking birds, or wild or domestic animals are not allowed, under penalty of forfeiture of the lease at the option of the management.

515. Where practicable, furniture and baggage is to be received and delivered through the basement doors.

516. Servants, messengers, and tradespeople are not allowed to enter or leave the building by the main entrance or to use the main elevators, excepting nurses accompanying children.

517. No male servant is allowed to room on the servants'-room floor.

518. Tenants desiring telegraphic or telephonic connections should advise the management. It will direct the electricians as to where and how the wires are to be introduced; without such directions no boring or cutting for such wires will be permitted.

519. Each tenant must keep the premises leased by him in a good state of preservation and cleanliness.

520. Tenants must not sweep, or throw, or permit to be swept or thrown from the premises leased by them, any dirt or other substance into any of the corridors or halls, elevators or stairways of said building, or into any of the light shafts or ventilators thereof.

521. Garbage and refuse must be sent down to the basement during the day when necessary, and at the hours fixed by the management.

522. Ashes must be sent down every morning between 7 and 8 o'clock.

523. Throwing refuse, garbage or paper down the dumb-waiter shaft and the placing of paper or garbage in papers or packages on top of or in the dumb-waiter car is prohibited.

524. The placing of ash cans, ashes or refuse of any kind in the dumb-waiter, except at the hour fixed for deliveries by the janitor, is prohibited.

525. The storing of ash cans in the dumb-waiter is dangerous, and is prohibited by the Fire Department.

526. The obstruction of the fire escapes is a menace to life, is against the laws, and is prohibited by the Fire Department, and also by the management.

527. No ash can, garbage can, coal holder, woodbox, kitchen supplies, ice, or other article shall be placed in the halls or on the staircase landings; nor shall anything be hung from the windows or balconies, or placed upon the window sills; neither shall any tablecloths, clothing, curtains or rugs be shaken or hung from any of the windows or doors.

528. The placing of pacakges, pots, or plants on window ledges is very dangerous and is expressly prohibited.

529. The storage in the basement or storerooms, or in any trunk, package or receptacle placed in the storeroom, of any excelsior, shavings or other inflammable material is expressly prohibited.

530. The storing of trunks, furniture or other effects in the hallways or vacant portions of the building is prohibited. The management assumes no responsibility for trunks, furniture or packages stored in the basement.

531. Visitors to the help of tenants are expected to leave at 10:30 p. m.; tenants' help are expected to return by 11:30 p. m.

532. All outside shades must be of a color approved by the management.

533. Employees are not permitted to receive registered mail or telegrams for tenants; they are required to deliver to the apartment a notice of the tender of registered mail or telegrams in the absence of the tenant.

534. Employees are not allowed to receive parcels, packages or tradesmen's deliveries except where the tenant has made a signed request for and has assumed all risks of such service.

535. Where fuel is sold by the management, deliveries are made by its employees. Employees must require fuel tickets against these deliveries; they are not allowed to accept cash for fuel. Unused fuel tickets will be redeemed at cost on demand.

536. Subletting without the authority of the management is prohibited.

Lexington Avenue and Blackwell's Island Bridge.

LEXINGTON AVENUE for several blocks in the neighborhood of 59th st is changing from a residence to a business section. On all sides improvements are being made preparatory to the day when the new Blackwell's Island Bridge will be completed and opened for traffic.

Although the building of the bridge is being unavoidably delayed by the city, the conditions which will be created by this new line of transportation across the East River are known and now being taken into consideration.

The traffic, both pedestrian and vehicular, which will be diverted to the 59th st district is expected to be heavy and the question of providing street surface room naturally is the first to arise.

While the city has already taken possession of the blocks between the river and 2d av, and 59th and 60th sts, there are many property owners in the zone which will be effected by the bridge who, believing that a larger plaza than the one planned for, will be needed, want the city to acquire title to the block between 2d and 3d avs.

The narrowness of 59th and 58th sts, being only 60 ft. each, makes it necessary to plan for the divergence of the expected traffic east through 57th st, which is 40 ft. wider than the others.

It was at first thought to widen 59th st by taking 40 ft. from the abutting properties, but when the probable cost of such an operation was added up, and the figures found to reach the $34,000,000 mark, the scheme was quickly abandoned for the less expensive proposition of widening 2d av, between 57th and 59th sts, by 40 ft. and diverting the crosstown traffic to and through 57th st. This will prevent much of the congestion in 59th st, help to widen the business area in that district and comfortably take care of the newly created traffic.

One of the pioneer real estate firms in the 59th st zone to realize the gradual transformation from residence to business was James Kyle & Son, of 721 Lexington av, who, about two years ago, moved their offices from downtown. Opposite their offices on the corner of 58th st they have just completed the improvement of a commodious residence property into an elevator office building, with stores on Lexington av. The building is fitted up with all the latest improvements and is being rapidly filled with business and professional men who realize that this is the coming uptown business center.

"Lexington av," said Mr. Kyle, "between 57th and 63d sts, will soon be given up for business purposes and it will not be long before the whole street will be turned into a business thoroughfare. With the Grand Central depot improvements completed, and the construction of the proposed subway up Lexington av, the avenue will receive great benefits.

"It is yet too early to know just what Lexington av, below 57th and to 50th st, will be turned into. I believe that gradually it will be turned into an apartment-house district. One thing is certain, the present owners of Lexington av properties are of a very good class—men who can hold on to what they have and make improvements when the time warrants. To me the widening of 59th st east of 5th av is not among the impossibilities and could be carried through even to-day if the big property interests would stop fighting each other. All are agreed that 59th st is too narrow, but after that no two agree to a general plan."

S. J. Redlich, of 729 Lexingon av, is one of the young real estate men who early realized the coming possibilities of the 59th st zone and established his offices in the center of activity. Mr. Redlich said "that with the opening of the Blackwell's Island Bridge, in another year, thousands of people will travel through this district and property owners will receive commensurate benefits. Shrewd business men early saw the promise of great possibilities and took advantage of them. I am told that one of our great business houses has bought up several corners and other key properties on Lexington av at and near 59th st, so as to keep away possible competition. They must be believers in this locality and prize their vantage very much. Then, too, they are believers in real estate in this section and know that while present prices seem high, the chances for very great reductions in the near future are not promising. I have it on good authority that 59th st will not be widened, but instead 2d av, between 57th and 59th sts, will be widened by 40 feet, so as to take care and carry the expected great traffic from and to the bridge to 57th st, which is a 100-ft. wide street."

Death of Charles T. Barney.

THE real estate world, in which he was a leader, was shocked by the announcement of Mr. Charles T. Barney's death and the attending circumstances. Individually and through various corporations with which he was identified as an officer or director he was the largest figure, if not the largest operator, of his time in New York real estate. Besides this he was a banker—the head of the second largest trust company, and a director in many financial concerns, but his renown and high standing among business men was mainly owing to his incomparable activities in real estate. He had to do with some of the largest transactions, and there is scarcely any measuring of his work in this respect, so wide were his interests.

He was an unfaltering believer in the soundness of realty values on Manhattan Island, and gave evidence of this confidence in ways almost startling on many occasions. Mr. Barney was financially and intellectually a large man, conducted large operations, associated with large men in business, moved in the best society, represented the best business spirit of the city and possessed the finest fruits of it.

He was a proud man, and the most searching investigation of his affairs has only further proved that he was an exceedingly upright one. It is not for us to comment upon the acts of those who hastily impugn the honor of men conscious of their own integrity.

The following statement was given out by the receivers, George L. Rives, Henry C. Ide and Ernst Thalmann: "The comparison with the books has not been completed, but the books appear to be in good order, and there is no evidence as yet discovered that any fraud or embezzlement has occurred. The securities appear to be all intact."

It is said that Mr. Barney made a fortune alone from such companies as the New York Mortgage and Securities Company, capitalized at $1,000,000; the Title Insurance Company, $2,000,000, of which Edgar J. Levey is president; the Chelsea Realty Company, $100,000, of which H. O. Havemeyer is president; the Century Realty Company, and the United States Realty and Improvement Company.

Mr. Barney first attracted attention as a real estate operator on a large scale by his deals on the West Side of New York. Then he went into trading on a larger scale in Washington Heights, and it was there that he made a large part of his fortune, which was estimated last summer to be from $8,000,000 to $9,000,000. All the syndicate holdings on the Heights were sold out, but Mr. Barney held on to about one-quarter of his individual holdings, which included about ninety parcels. These combined holdings are worth about $5,000,000. In Nutley, N. J., he also had extensive holdings standing in the name of his private secretary.

He was fifty-seven years of age, born in Cleveland, the son of A. H. Barney, once president of the United States Express Company, and was a graduate of Williams College. He married a sister of the late Hon. William C. Whitney.

Expensive Storage.

Large corporations like the Equitable and New York Life acquire property in sections of the city where land is cheap and construct thereon a fireproof building, for no other use than that of storing old public documents.

There is now in storage in Nos. 13 to 21 Park row, old records of the Department of Water Supply, which cost the city about $2 per square foot. In the Hall of Records the Finance Department has a part of the building in which are stored old records of the Finance Department. In the same building there are stored old records of the Corporation Counsel, and now this Board has assigned room for the purpose of storing other old records of the city.

It seems to the Controller, and he has so recommended, that it would be an economic proposition for the city to buy a plot of ground 200 ft. square, have a fireproof building constructed thereon of a sufficient height to accommodate the needs of the city now and for the next ten or fifteen years. As it is not necessary to locate this building in a particular spot, the ground could be acquired at a very nominal rate compared with ground in the vicinity of City Hall, and the cost of the erection of a building thereon, to be absolutely fireproof, would be less than the cost of the erection of a public office building.

Changes in Long Acre Square.

LONG ACRE SQUARE has been the center of quite a little real estate activity during the past few weeks. Several transfers have taken place, a number of large sales and leases including the Shanley plot, and later the lease of the southeast corner of Broadway and 43d st, also the auction sale of the Saranac Hotel, an account of which will be found in another column.

Some years ago 42d st was considered the "dead line." No one was supposed to cross that line. Mr. Oscar Hammerstein was the pioneer when he built his "Olympia," or as it is now known, the New York Theater; but even he could not overcome the "hoodoo" and the result spelt failure for him. But in the course of time the theaters were compelled to move up town and finally there was a grand rush to get favorable sites for that class of building.

Nothing could be done in that section until the large estates which owned nearly all the avenue property showed a disposition to either improve, lease or sell their holdings. The form that the operations took as a general thing was leasing. The Astors started the ball rolling when they built the Hotel Astor and tore down the old St. Cloud Hotel on the southeast corner of Broadway and 42d st, and built in its place the new Hotel Knickerbocker. The result of all these improvements, as well as having the subway finished, gave a tremendous boom to land values not only on Broadway, but also on the adjoining streets, and apartment hotels were planned almost over night.

LONG ACRE SQUARE FIVE YEARS AGO.

In 47th st, between Sixth av and Broadway, there are about eight of this class of buildings, and on 42d st, between Broadway and Eighth av, there are seven theaters.

When Shanley Brothers started their restaurant just over the "dead line" every one that was familiar with the section thought that it would be impossible for the business to pay, but contrary to all expectations it was a success from the start, and then Rector's opened on the block above and has done an immense business. An old broker in that section said to a representative of the Record and Guide last week: "Get them coming to a given section, and you can make them stay. People in a large city are creatures of habit. They continually go to one section of the city and seldom change their route. Yes, route is the correct word, they go over and over the same ground with hardly any variance. You ask some business man who lives on the West Side: 'How long is it since you were in the Museum of Art in Central Park?' and he will probably say, 'About fifteen years ago; but then I never get over to that part of the city.' Ask his wife and she will give about the same answer."

Some years ago when Pabst Hotel was built on the northwest corner of Broadway and 42d st, every one thought the future of that corner was definitely settled. It only remained there a few years, and though the building was in perfect condition, it was demolished to make room for the "Times" building. The new Stuyvesant Theater, which will be controlled by David Belasco when completed, will occupy the plot to the east of the Hotel Gerard, on 44th st, and will add one more beautiful structure to that growing neighborhood.

The section north of Long Acre Square has been given over to the automobile trade. Entire blocks are rented by concerns affiliated with this industry, and the rents paid in some cases are very large. They extend as far north as 64th st, though a few firms have rented stores even further up on the avenue.

The section below 42d st has not had an opportunity to have a real movement. It is today in exactly the condition that the Long Acre Square section was a few years ago. In all probability the Metropolitan Opera House will be the next large plot to be sold, though that will not take place until they have secured a suitable site on which to build a new home for music lovers. Several very flattering offers have been received for this property, but the directors of the Metropolitan Real Estate Company were unwilling to accept any of them, on account of the difficulty of procuring another site. The requirements of an enterprise of that size are numerous. For example, it must be centrally located, and that means there must be surface cars passing the doors. It must have plenty of side entrances to take care of the carriages. Many plots were offered to the company, but they were refused because they were all lacking in some essential point. It is the desire of many of the subscribers to have an opera house further uptown, where it will be free from the congestion of the Broadway traffic, and yet be easy of access. Columbia Circle was well thought of at one time, but it was afterward abandoned as undesirable.

The next few years will see many changes in Long Acre Square, as there are a number of large plots still to be developed.

Fourth Torrens Hearing.

The fourth public hearing of the Torrens Commission was held Friday at City Hall, with David A. Clarkson in the chair. The first to address the meeting was A. E. Moreley, vice-president Allied Real Estate Interests, who read many extracts from reports from various cities where Torrens systems are in vogue. Only one of the many was favorable to the system. He said, in conclusion, that he personally objects to the system because, so far, he has failed to find a sufficient demand from property owners for its adoption.

Mr. Wheelock, vice-president Douglas Robinson, Charles Brown & Co., said that he could not speak on the constitutionality of the proposed act, but he could strongly endorse Mr. Moreley's attitude.

Commissioner Pegram read a letter from Edgar J. Levey, president Title Insurance Company of New York, in which Mr. Levey held that it was possible for the Commission to draw a bill which would prove more advantageous than hurtful to his company's business, and that a discussion before a bill is drawn must be on purely academic lines.

Henry F. Miller said that it seemed to him that the Torrens system was not in general demand and therefore the State should not favor it.

William Seeligsberg, of 35 Nassau st, saw no reason why the State or municipality should not have a title guarantee of its owns, as in Germany, where the costs of guaranteeing titles are very slight.

J. F. Parish said he saw no danger from public officials performing duties that are now entrusted to private corporations. He asked to be recorded as in favor of a Torrens system very much simplified.

Geo. A. Baker, Esq., did not believe that the State should go into the insurance business.

The chairman announced at the close that the next meeting of the Commission would be held in Albany on November 29th, at one o'clock, in the Assembly Chamber.

Recording Lease.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you be kind enough to decide a question as to the legality of the recording of a lease without having the same acknowledged before a notary, or whether a lease witnessed by ordinary witnesses and not by a notary can be recorded and considered binding or legal.

Answer.—Perfectly binding and legal, but it cannot be recorded. Should it be recorded, the Registrar would be guilty of a misdemeanor for placing on record an improper document.

Stock and Real Estate Investments.

On a 6 per cent. dividend paying basis Baltimore & Ohio, at 125 a year ago, gave its holders a 4.8 per cent. income. Those who bought yesterday at 80¼ will, at the same dividend rate, net nearly 3 per cent. more.—N. Y. Herald.

There is no security sold on any exchange in the world that is so safe and which has the chances for prospective increases in value as New York Real Estate. I should estimate the average yearly increase in value at from 6 to 10 per cent., so that we may safely say that the total yearly income from New York Real Estate is at least 10 per cent., and may go as high as 20 per cent.

Hotel Saranac At Auction.

The Hotel Saranac property on Broadway, 51 feet south of 42d st, was sold at public auction by the New Amsterdam Bank on last Thursday at the Exchange Salesroom, 14 Vesey st. Joseph P. Day was the auctioneer. This property is so well known that it is not necessary to give any description of it here, except possibly to state that there is something like 11,000 square feet in the plot.

The property was sold subject to a mortgage of $400,009, bearing interest at 5%. This mortgage is due on September 1, 1910, and is held by the Equitable Life Assurance Society. There is a clause in the mortgage to the effect that it can be paid off any time after August 31, 1908. There are also some leases on the building which have not yet expired, but there is a clause by which they may be terminated on 60 days' written notice. The rentals amount to about $30,000 a year. The directors of the New Amsterdam Bank decided to leave up to 70% of the purchase price on second mortgages at 6% for one year. It was announced by Mr. Day that the property would be sold without reservation. A policy of title insurance free of charge goes to the purchaser.

The bidding was started by William Rosenzweig, who bid $600,000. This was raised $10,000 by David L. Phillips. Messrs. S. H. Stone, W. H. Wheelock, of Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown & Co., and William H. Chesebrough then started to raise the price, and they brought it up to $850,000. It was reported that Mr. Wheelock was bidding for the owners of the Metropole Hotel, which adjoins this property on the north. After the price had reached $850,000, William Simpson took a hand and bid the price to $919,000, and he was declared the purchaser. It was rumored that Mr. Simpson was acting for Brokaw Bros., the clothing house. Altogether there were 59 bids. When the $900,000 mark was reached there was a burst of applause from the crowd of excited bidders and onlookers.

It has been a long time since the salesroom has held such a large crowd of influential real estate men at one time, and it was certainly a scene to inspire confidence in times such as these when money is at a premium.

More Money for Realty Operations.

Since the recent financial disturbances the stability of the real estate market has induced many persons with money to invest to lend on bond and mortgage or to offer it to some builder or company in order to help perfect a building operation. The Tribune, noting this, holds the view that this money situation, as regards the real estate market, will continue to improve. But at the same time the Tribune says there are brokers not able to see this change for the better which has recently taken place—because the recent financial disturbances impaired their vision of realty matters:

Because of this impairment of vision they think there is likely to be a big decrease in realty values in the near future, that hundreds of owners, failing to get mortgages renewed or extended, will be forced to sell their property at a large sacrifice, that building operations will be practically at a standstill and that the entire local real estate market will receive such a staggering blow that it will take a long time to recover from the effects of it. Could a gloomier picture of the probable realty trading in the near future be drawn? The Dowlings, the Chesebroughs, the Levys and the Morgenthaus of the realty market hold no such views. They know, as every careful student of realty affairs does, that the majority of Manhattan business buildings, tenement and apartment houses were never on a better rental basis. And the same can be said about most of the improved parcels in The Bronx. Most of the business properties on Manhattan Island and in nearly all the other sections of the city are leased, not on the monthly plan, but for a long term of years, and the earning power of such properties does not quickly depreciate unless business depression is widespread, resulting in many business failures.

Authorities will all concur, we think, that New York real estate, especially on Manhattan Island, holds an impregnable position at this time.

N. J.—N. Y. Real Estate Exchange.

TO GIVE A REAL ESTATE EDITORS' DINNER.—PLANNING A COMBINED REAL ESTATE AND RAILROAD EXCHANGE.

In recognition of the effective and disinterested services rendered by the real estate editors of the Metropolitan press to the men engaged in the real estate business, the N. J.-N. Y. Real Estate Exchange has decided to tender them a complimentary dinner. It is to be held on the 23d day of November at Reisenweber's. Invitations to the joyous feast have been accepted by nearly all of the editors in question, and as the members of the Exchange are also subscribing for tickets liberally, a large and distinguished gathering is anticipated. In addition to the editorial guests, the individual members are inviting prominent New Jersey business men as their own guests, and in that way they hope to make the occasion truly representative of New Jersey's real estate and business world.

The New Jersey Exchange is promoting a very ambitious project, which is the formation on colossal lines of a combined transportation and real estate exchange. In a communication recently addressed by the Exchange to the various trunk lines having their termini in New Jersey, the scope and purpose of the proposed undertaking is explained as follows:

First, to unite under one roof, in the most suitably located building in New York City, the transportation and real estate interests of the State of New Jersey.

Second, to establish and maintain therein a combined transportation and real estate exchange, where each railroad company may be separately represented by its own Real Estate and Information Bureau and Ticket Agency.

Third, to enable the real estate developers, brokers and owners of New Jersey property to have a central headquarters for their business, where they will keep maps, records, literature, etc., relating to New Jersey real estate, and provide facilities for closing titles, making contracts, etc.

Fourth, to provide office accommodations for real estate men, title guarantee and mortgage loan companies, with a view to concentrating all the interests allied to the real estate business.

Fifth, to conduct a real estate auction sales-room for New Jersey real estate property exclusively.

When the Hudson Terminal Buildings will be completed, they will surely become the focussing point for the railroad and commercial interests of the State of New Jersey. Obviously, there will be a great advantage in locating the proposed Exchange in that building.

By providing commodious headquarters and assembling on one large floor all the varied business interests before mentioned, we create a central market-place, as it were, which will prove like a magnet in its power to attract the public. It will not be long before it will become familiarly and universally known that there is in the heart of New York City one particular spot where everybody can go and does go when he wants any information relating to New Jersey railroad and real estate matters, and where he is sure to get what he wants.

The Transportation and Real Estate Exchange is bound to become a rendezvous for New Jersey business men, for travelers, for home-seekers, for every person who looks to do business there, or to become a new resident of the State. After its usefulness will have been demonstrated, it will be generally regarded as an indispensable medium for the promotion of the State's growth and prosperity.

The negotiations have progressed sufficiently to indicate that the leading railroad lines are favorably impressed with the idea, and are considering the details of the proposition. It is expected of the railroads that they will locate their Real Estate Departments, Information Bureaus and Ticket Agencies in the united headquarters, which is likely to be named "The N. J.-N. Y. Railroad and Real Estate Exchange."

Large Fifth Avenue Lease Consummated.

M. & L. Hess have leased for Mrs. Eliza Parsons, William Barclay Parsons, Schuyler Parsons and Howard Parsons, the property No. 505 Fifth av, together with an 18-story store, loft and office building, to be erected on the site covering 37x108 ft. The lease extends over a period of 21 years and four renewals, in all 105 years. The aggregate rental for the first 21 years is about $1,500,000 and the rental for the renewals is to be determined on a basis of 5% of the value at the end of each 21 years.

This house has been occupied by the Parsons family, of which the eminent engineer, William Barclay Parsons is one, for the past 50 years, and is now to be torn down to make way for the new building which is to be constructed under the personal supervision of Mr. Henry Corn. The lessee is the Improved Property Holding Co., of which Mr. Corn is president. The rental to be paid is the highest per square foot that has yet been paid on the avenue.

The fact that the building, 507 Fifth av, leased by M. & L. Hess to the Fleischman Realty Co., for the Ford Estate, will be only a 12-story building and the building situated at the northeast corner of 42d st and Fifth av (just south of the proposed new 18-story building) which is 6 stories in height and too good to be torn down, gives Mr. Corn a decided advantage of having light on four sides, thereby causing the proposed new building to have exceptional advantages as to light and air.

The consummation of these negotiations at this time conclusively shows the faith of the lessee in the value of New York City real estate. It is needless to point out the decidedly obvious advantages therein over stocks and bonds, the latter of which are subject to momentary depreciation.

M. & L. Hess also negotiated some time since, the lease of the property No. 507 Fifth av for the Ford Estate to the Fleischman Realty & Construction Co., upon which a 12-story office building is now being erected. The store and basement of which building they have leased to the Columbia Bank, both of which leases are for a long term of years.

All in the Family.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Wishing to see credit given to whom credit is due, I desire to correct a statement in the Real Estate Notes in your last issue, wherein Mr. George F. Brown, of the firm of Duff & Brown, is named as the champion golfer among real estate brokers. Mr. John T. Duff, of that firm, is the one who has won that distinction and incidentally has acquired the many beautiful and expensive cups to which reference is made. He is the champion of the Dunwoodie Club and holds the amateur record score for that course. Mr. Duff's well-known modesty would deter him from making this correction, so it is offered by

ONE OF HIS BEATEN OPPONENTS.

Large Park Avenue Plot Leased.

Considerable interest was manifested along Park av, between 34th and 40th sts, when it was announced the other day that the newly incorporated City Leasing Company had leased the west side of 4th av, between 33d and 34th sts, and that in all probability a new hotel would be shortly erected. Mr. Alfred Vanderbilt has agreed to erect a large building, to cost about $2,000,000, but the exact nature of the structure has not been divulged, though those in a position to know have intimated that a hotel was to be built. The size of the plot is 197.6x80. Messrs. Whitehouse & Porter were the brokers who effected the lease. Park av begins at the north side of 34th st, and most of the property situated between this street and 40th st is restricted. Consequently, there is much speculation as to what the effect will be of a new hotel built in that neighborhood.

Annual Meeting of the Board of Brokers.

The annual meeting of the Board of Brokers will be held in the Board room, 156 Broadway, on Tuesday, Nov. 19, at 3 p. m., for the election of four Governors, a nominating and auditing committee and also to vote on the following subjects: The incorporation of the Real Estate Board of Brokers of the City of New York; Changes in the Constitution and By-laws. Polls will be open from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. The meeting will be called to order at 3 p. m. sharp. There will be reports from the Board of Governors, Treasurer and other officers and committees.

The nominating committee, which was elected on Nov. 20, 1906, reports as follows: For governors, to take the places of Messrs. Clarkson, T. W. Folsom, and W. C. Lester, whose terms expire, present the names of the following gentlemen, three of whom are to be elected to serve for three years: Alfred V. Amy, Joseph P. Day, William E. Davies, Charles Griffith Moses, E. A. Tredwell and Francis E. Ward. For governor, to serve the unexpired term of the late John R. Foley (viz.: one year), one of whom is to be elected, the following names: David A. Clarkson and A. N. Gitterman. For nominating committee, five of whom are to be elected, the following names: Wright Barclay, Joel S. de Selding, William C. Lester, Romaine C. Nichols, Robert R. Rainey, W. Willis Reese, David H. Scully, Walter Stabler, P. S. Tracey and C. E. Williams. For auditing committee the following names: Joel S. de Selding, H. P. Young and E. de Forest Simmons.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

GRAMERCY PARK.—The property, 10 Gramercy Park, a 4-sty dwelling, 26.8x92, was transferred by C. DuBois Wagstaff to J. Wesley Pullman, of Philadelphia, Pa. This property is near the National Arts Club and the Players' Club.

GRAND ST.—Max Fine, 40 Greenwich st bought from the Fleming estate, 402 Grand st, a 5-sty building, 25x100, between Suffolk and Clinton sts. This property has not been sold since 1835.

HOUSTON ST.—Emanuel Bach sold to William Fisher 51 East Houston st, a 5-sty tenement, 24.8x82.

MOTT ST.—Hugo Heyman sold to Henry Kensing, 75 Grand st, part of 187 Mott st not acquired by the city for the extension of Delancey st. The owner now has a corner on which he will make extensive alterations.

WALKER ST.—Ronald Thomas sold 59 Walker st, a 5-sty building, 24.6x98.6. Gardiner Hall Jr., is the buyer, and has been the tenant for 37 yrs. Douglas Robinson, Chas. S. Brown & Co., were the brokers.

3D ST.—M. Kahn & Co. has sold for Louis Levine, 65 East 3d st, a 3½-sty dwelling, on lot 20x96.2. The purchaser is the Congregation of Wisdom of Men of Plousk of N. Y., and it is going to be used as a synagogue.

14TH ST.—Duross Co. has sold for James S. Herrman to Robert Clark, the 4-sty single flat, 333 West 14th st, on lot 25x125. The asking price of this property has been $35,000.

21ST ST.—The dwelling at 34 West 21st st, for many years the home of President Chester A. Arthur, and the house in which he was married( was sold this week. The new owner is a client of the firm of Douglas Robinson, Chas S. Brown & Co. The dwelling is of the old 4-sty brownstone front type, and covers a frontage of 16.3 ft. Adjoining it on the east side is a 12-sty loft building of recent construction. A half interest in the property was owned by Mrs. Pinkerton, a sister of President Arthur.

27TH ST.—W. Clarence Martin has bought 221 West 27th st, a 4-sty house, 21.9x98.9.

34TH ST.—Gilsey, Havemeyer & Jenney sold for the estate of Mrs. Virena D. Fitch the 4-sty brownstone dwelling 149 East 34th st to George G. Moore, owner of Nos. 151 to 155, adjoining. The same brokers have leased the ground floor and basement in these properties to the Post Office Department for a term of ten years, at an aggregate rental of $125,000. The buildings will be remodeled, the upper floors being converted into bachelor apartments.

BROADWAY.—The 12-sty building at 625 Broadway, 34x200, running through to Mercer st, has been sold by Emma L. Jacobs to a group of operators, including Max Marx, A. M. Bendheim and John C. Rodgers, who give in exchange about 90 lots in the Fort George section of Washington Heights. The lots are on both sides of Fairview av, on an unnamed street leading off Fairview av, and on 191st and 192d sts. The transaction involves about $750,000. This mercantile building is in the heart of the wholesale feather and veiling district. The great majority of buildings on both sides of Broadway in this section are extra deep, running to the streets in the rear.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

60TH ST.—Michael A. Devanny sold to Daniel B. Freedman 116 East 60th st, a 4-sty dwelling, 20x100.5.

69TH ST.—Edward Baumgarten sold for Ignatz Koref to Joseph Wabra the 3-sty brownstone dwelling, 320 East 69th st, 16.8x77.

106TH ST.—Charles S. Kohler sold for J. W. Kurtz a 6-sty new law house 113 W. 106th st, 25.6x100.11. Through this block, though nearer Amsterdam av, the old Croton aqueduct runs. The trolley cars pass this house connecting Columbus and Amsterdam aves.

123D ST.—The firm of J. B. Ketcham sold for a client to Mary Becker the 4-sty brownstone dwelling, 108 W. 123d st.

132D ST.—M. Kahn & Co. has sold for a client, 113 W. 132d st, a 3-sty dwelling, with 2-sty garage at the rear, 25x99.11. This property was sold last week by Mrs. M. S. R. Ford, M. Kahn & Co. being the brokers. Mr. L. Simpson is the present owner.

134TH ST.—The Kaliski Realty Company sold to Jennie Goodheim 125 West 134th st, a 5-sty tenement, 25x70x90.

AMSTERDAM AV.—T. H. Raywood & Co. sold to John Augus, 349 Amsterdam av, a 5-sty triple flat with stores, 25x100. This property was bought by Emma Blumenberg in January, 1906, and is subject to a mortgage of $29,000.

BROADWAY.—The property at the northeast cor of Broadway and 79th st, 100.7x irregular, was transferred yesterday by Robert E. Dowling to the Apthorp Co., 5 Beekman st, and was immediately reconveyed by that corporation to Archibald D. Russell. The Apthorp Co. takes in part payment 171 and 173 Macdougal st. This property has been rented for some years to a department store. It is covered with a 2-sty building.

MANHATTAN AV.—Chas. S. Kohler has sold for John F. Kohler, to J. Murphy, the 3-sty dwelling, No. 103 Manhattan av, 18x50. This house is directly opposite the orphan asylum.

MORNINGSIDE AV.—M. & L. Hess sold for Lester B. Churchill to Samuel May, No. 26 Morningside av, 5-sty double flat, 27x100.

MADISON AV.—H. D. Baker & Brothers sold for ex-Tax Commissioner Samuel Strasbourger, the southeast cor of Madison av and 96th st, a 6-sty elevator apartment house, 75.8x100. In part payment the buyer, Mr. Benjamin Nieberg, of 200 Broadway, gives the four 6-sty apartment houses on the north side of 136th st, 225 ft. west of 5th av. Three of the houses are each 37.6x100 and one 25x100. The deal involves about $450,000.

5TH AV.—H. J. Kantrowitz sold for William McGowan to the Liebenthal Co. the plot 50x110 on the east side of 5th av, 24 feet south of 128th st. The company will begin the erection of a high-class elevator apartment house.

WASHINGTON HEIGHTS.

3D AV.—The Kaliski Realty Co. has bought 4062 3d av, a 6-sty flat, 33x100.

LEASES.

The Duross Co. has leased the 5-sty business building, 390-392 Hudson st, for the Skelley estate to the Crane Glass & Mfg. Co. for a term of years.

J. Arthur Fischer has leased to John Hewser the 4-sty building at the northeast cor of 39th st and 6th av for a term of years. Mr. Hewser will make extensive alterations to the property, to be utilized as a hotel.

Post & Reese have leased for Mrs. Douglas Burnham 44 East 50th st, a 5-sty American basement dwelling, to Dean Sage; also for A. Wright Post 42 East 63d st, a 4-sty dwelling, to James M. Edwards.

Mandelbaum & Paepke have leased for Mrs. Adele Livingston Sampson, of Paris, the ground floor of 14 and 16 Wall st to Weber & Heilbroner for a long term of years at an aggregate rental of $150,000.

Lee & Rusk have leased for the Jaffer & Wittner Realty Co. the four 6-sty elevator apartment houses covering the block front on the west side of Amsterdam av, between 111th and 112th sts. The lessee is the Upper Broadway Realty Co., represented by Hillenbrand & Nassoit. The lease is for a long term of years at an aggregate rental of $300,000.

Frederick Fox & Co. have leased for the Bankers' Construction Co. two floors in the building 29 to 35 West 32d st, running through to 30 to 34 West 33d st; also 10,000 square feet of space in the new mercantile building 26 to 32 West 17th st for Philip Braender; also for the Middleboro Realty Co. three floors in the new building 34 West 17th st, and for the same company 7,500 square feet in the 11-sty building 88 University pl, running through to 26 to 28 East 12th st.

M. & L. Hess have leased for Mrs. Eliza Parsons, William Barclay Parsons, Schuyler Parsons and Howard Parsons the property 505 5th av, together with the 18-sty store, loft and office building to be erected on the site covering 37x108 ft. The details of this lease will be found in another column.

S. B. Goodale & Son have leased for the Volunteers of America the upper floors in their new building No. 34 West 28th st for a term of years; also for Jennie E. McLellan to a Mrs. Fawcett the dwelling 234 West 48th st for a term of years.

The Duross Co. has leased for a Mrs. Laughlin the 3-sty dwelling 110 West 12th st, to Richard Pastor for a term of years.

W. H. Truesdale has leased the Bliss residence 4 Lexington av, a 3-sty brownstone dwelling, on lot 24.6x75.

Wm. R. Mason, in conjunction with Sidney Alexander, has negotiated a long lease of the entire building 643 8th av, near 42d st.

Gardner & Cleveland have leased for Allen W. Hill, of Baltimore, 637 West 142d st, a 4-sty dwelling, to Max Winsburgh; also for M. A. & S. Price 520 West 143d st, a 4-sty dwelling, and for Edgar Logan 509 West 144th st, a similar property.

Wilgus, Kelly & Co. have leased to a prominent restaurateur the store and basement at 3 East 14th st, for a term of years at an aggregate rental of $90,000. The same brokers have leased for Henry A. Dix & Sons space in the new Dix Building, 114-16 East 14th st, for a term of years to Aaron Kalischer.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

The Kaliski Realty Co. has bought 4062 3d av, a 6-sty flat, 33x100.

The 4-sty double flat, 2243 1st av, has been reported sold by A. Marino.

W. Clarence Martin has bought 221 West 27th st, a 4-sty dwelling, 21.9x98.9.

Robert A. White and Maurice W. Halpin have moved their offices to 156 Broadway.

The sale of 78 Greenwich st, a 5-sty business building, near Rector st, has been reported.

The 5-sty double flat, 156 East 103d st, has been reported sold by Solomon & Altshuller, 27x100.11.

Propper & Horn sold the 5-sty double flat, 25x100, at 231 East 126th st. W. J. Pereira was the broker.

Benjamin B. Marco is the purchaser of the southeast corner Edgecombe av and 142d st, a 5-sty apartment house.

Mr. Lowther, of Hayes & Co., Fifth av, reports that suburban property, especially in the Westchester district, is more in demand.

It is reported that the property at the northwest corner of Washington av and St. Paul's pl, a 5-sty flat, 63x100, has been sold.

The Realty Trust, of Liberty st, has opened branch offices at the corner of Fifth av and 42d st, with Mr. B. C. Taylor as manager.

Thomas Wandell paid $60,000 for the house 250 West 42d st, 24.6x98.9. This property is situate two doors east of the Hackett Theater.

The Rexmore, a 6-sty elevator apartment house, 328 and 330 West 85th st, was reported sold by the Estate of Sigmund D. Rosenbaum.

An architect, near Broadway and 23d st, will rent a portion of his office to desirable party. A young man wants to manage improved property. See Wants and Offiers.

A young man, expert typewriter operator, who can draw legal documents, required for real estate, realty law and building, is open for a new engagement. See Wants and Offers.

C. M. Anderson & Co. have moved from 71 West 125th st to 44 West 125th st, where they have much larger quarters. The firm is composed of C. M. Anderson and A. F. Van Deventer.

The Taylor-Sherman Co., of 542 Fifth av, are getting some inquiries for high grade properties and say that their lists show some notable reductions in prices, revised since the financial trouble.

Mr. Frawley, of Frawley-Weil Realty Co., 789 Sixth av, is one of the staunch believers in Manhattan properties and that it will take more than a Wall Street panic to affect realty values.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company loaned the Pacific Realty Company $200,000 on the 12-sty building now in the course of construction at 12 and 14 West 32d st. M. & L. Hess negotiated the loan.

Rumbough, Bottolph & Nomand, of 404 Amsterdam av, are believers in an early resumption of real estate activity. They are receiving many inquiries for west side properties and believe that eventually many investors will be diverted to the real estate field.

F. Zittel, of 1026 3d av, has occupied his present real estate offices for 33 years, during which he has watched East 59th st section develop from farm lands into a business section which, with the completion of the Blackwell's Island Bridge, promises to receive its greatest boom.

Foreclosure proceedings have been started against Hamilton M. Weed by Joseph Hamerschlag. The property involved is situated at the southeast corner of 88th st and 5th av, and is a 6-sty dwelling occupying a plot 27x102.2. A lis pendens was filed on Tuesday against the property.

Benjamin Nieberg is the buyer of the apartment house in 96th st, on the southeast corner of Madison av. This house was recently sold by ex-Tax Commissioner Samuel Strasbourger. H. D. Baker & Brother were the brokers. Mr. Nieberg gave in part payment four flats in 136th st, near Fifth av.

E. A. Crowley, general manager Sea Girt Company, of 115 Broadway, says that with them the real estate business has picked up very much during the past two weeks and could not be expected to be better. Mr. Crowley believes that the worst of the financial flurry is now behind us and from now on all classes of real estate should be benefited.

D. C. Whearty, of Sixth av and 34th st, believes that the public is showing a tendency to wait and see what the financial flurry will bring forth before investing in real estate at this time. He sees no tendency towards a lowering of prices and doesn't know why there should be as, on the whole, good real estate is not being held at more than it is worth.

President Coler, of Brooklyn, again called attention in the Board of Estimate on Friday to the matter of telephone franchises and lower rates which has been before a select committee for a long while. On motion of Comptroller Metz, the committee was discharged. It was then ordered that all applications and all matters pertaining to the various telephone franchises be placed on special franchise calendar, the same to be acted on by the Board at its next regular meeting.

On the recommendation of Comptroller Metz, the Board of Estimate on Friday expressed its unwillingness, at this time, to purchase at $40,000, the property known as 44 Centre st, Manhattan, required for the Manhattan terminal of the New York and Brooklyn Bridge. It will come up again at the next meeting of the board. Comptroller Metz explained that his recommendation was for the purpose of saving money to the city by not having the matter go before a condemnation board, but arrive at some reasonable agreement with the property owners and not sign contract until the city has the money to pay for it. The question of the city purchasing at $95,000 property known as 129 and 131 Madison av, Manhattan, met with a like fate.

Large Fifth Avenue Mortgage.

The United States Trust Company of New York loaned to Henry Payne Whitney $500,000 at 5% interest for five years from November 11th on the dwelling house on the southwest corner of Fifth av and 57th st. This property was given to Mr. Whitney by his father, the late William C. Whitney, on February 24, 1897, but the deed, which was a bargain and sale deed, was placed on record only last week. The size of the property is 73.5x125. When his new home on the northeast corner of Fifth av and 68th st was completed the 57th st house was vacated. This house was subsequently sold to James Henry (Silent) Smith for about $1,500,000. Mr. Whitney made the following statement:

"For some time past I have had, and still have on deposit to my credit in various banking institutions, cash to the amount of more than twice the sum above mentioned. Having no occasion to use $500,000 for purposes having no connection whatever with my father's estate, and believing that at the present time every one should do his part toward the ease of the financial situation and the restoration of confidence, I have declined to withdraw any part of my moneys from the various banks in which they were deposited, preferring to avail myself of a loan, upon easy terms, of funds seeking investment upon bond and mortgage."

Manifestly this is a proper stand to take and Mr. Whitney is quite right when he says that every one should do his part toward easing the financial situation. Transactions of this kind will certainly help.

Trade on Washington Heights.

The 6-sty elevator apartment covering five lots on the northeast corner of Broadway and 158th st, known as Knowlton Court, containing forty-two apartments of from four to eight rooms, of which thirty apartments are already rented, has been sold by the Fluri Construction Company to the Hudson Realty Company, who gave in part payment the plot of twelve lots on the northwest corner of Broadway and 180th st, adjoining the Holy Rood Church. This plot will be improved immediately by the Fluri Construction Company in the erection of elevator apartments.

This will be the second operation of this character in this immediate locality. The Pinehurst Realty Company is completing two elevator apartments directly in the rear of this property on Fort Washington av. A total of about 400 lots extending from Broadway to Riverside Drive and from 177th st to 181st st, owned by the Fort Washington Syndicate, the Hudson Realty Company and the Buena Vista Syndicate, are now in process of development with elevator apartments; some of the property being suitable for private dwellings will be so improved.

This section is the only one on Manhattan Island now open for a private house development without any danger of objectionable improvements encroaching upon it. The Hudson River view from this property is unobstructed and free from factories or nuisances of any kind.

The trustees of the Chelsea M. E. Congregation have purchased the northwest corner of 178th st and Fort Washington av of this property and will begin the erection of a church immediately.

Stocks vs. Real Estate.

Last year Reading common stock sold at 164, yielding from its 4 per cent. dividend only 2.44 per cent. to the investor, as against the 5 per cent. now obtainable. Reading stock sold yesterday at 78⅝. At that price its 4 per cent. dividend means a yield of 5 per cent. to the buyer.—N. Y. Herald.

There is no security sold on any exchange in the world that is so safe and which has the chances for prospective increases in value as New York Real Estate. I should estimate the average yearly increase in value at from 6 to 10 per cent., so that we may safely say that the total yearly income from New York Real Estate is at least 10 per cent., and may go as high as 20 per cent.

Beautifying the North Side.

At the annual meeting of the Municipal Art Society, held Nov. 11, in the galleries of the National Arts Club, 14 Gramercy Park, Mr. Albert E. Davis, the architect, as chairman of a committee appointed for the purpose, submitted a report on the subject of the beautification of the Bronx, and giving an account of the means that have been taken to that end:

A number of the improvement projects for The Bronx advocated by the Municipal Art Society during the year are in process of fulfilment. Artistic railway stations are being erected at Baychester and Bartow, in Pelham Bay Park; a plan for parking the approaches to the Morris Heights Station on the Harlem River has been approved; the side of Crotona Parkway under the jurisdiction of Borough President Haffen has been paved; a Sound Shore Drive from Fort Schuyler to Pelham Bay Park has been placed upon the map, and a 150-ft. corso or parkway laid out through this section, the property in the vicinity of which has been acquired by a syndicate, which plans to restrict it to detached artistic cottages on not less than 50-ft. plots, and Park Commissioner Joseph I. Berry has awarded a contract for the planting of some 2,000 street trees—American and English elms and lindens, ash, Norway maples and Oriental plane.

The work is actively progressing, great care being exercised to insure the life and growth of the trees. Trenches or tree plots 15 ft. by 6 ft. by 3 ft. deep are excavated and filled in with first quality garden mould. Irrigation for the roots is provided by laying a 2-in. perforated round tile pipe in broken stone through the bottom of the trench, with a 6-in. pipe exended up to the street surface at the end. Wrought iron guards 6 ft. 6 ins. high and set 18 ins. in the ground are provided, and the contractor is to guarantee the trees for a period of two years, replacing any that may die prior to that date. The tree plots are to be covered with good healthy sod.

Commissioner Berry has recently tendered the use of the Lorillard Mansion in Bronx Park to the Bronx Society of Arts and Sciences, who will maintain a public exhibit therein, similar to that of the Colonial Dames in Van Cortlandt Mansion.

The Commissioner has not complied with the request to alter the course of the Old Passage Road through St. Mary's Park to its logical terminus at Cypress Avenue instead of midway between the blocks. The wisdom of the suggested change must eventually cause it to be made.

Complying with a resolution of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment directing its Chief Engineer, Nelson P. Lewis, to report "which of the plans advocated by the New York City Improvement Commission in its report of January, 1907, could advantageously be officially approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at the present time," Mr. Lewis, under date of September 26th, 1907, mentions for The Bronx a park at the northeasterly end of the Hudson Memorial viaduct and between Palisade Avenue and the Hudson River as far as Yonkers, including the extension of Riverside Drive and park; and a strip of parkland west of Sedgwick and Cedar Avenues from MacComb's Dam Park to the Fordham Landing Bridge. The need of some such improvement along the Bronx bank of the Harlem to harmonize with the drive and park on the Manhattan side is so apparent as to require no argument.

The influence of the Municipal Art Society could not be used to better advantage in The Bronx than in centering its efforts upon the improvements mentioned in Mr. Lewis's report, and also in urging the acquisition of small parks for the congested southerly end of the borough. The history of New York City proves that such improvements increase the value of abutting property to an extent that makes the return in taxation to the City Treasury more than sufficient to pay the interest on the debt incurred for their completion.

Mr. Lewis's report states: "There are several suggestions for additional parks, but, as has already been pointed out, the park area of this borough is already so large that the Board has manifested a reluctance to further extend it." It is true that the total park area of The Bronx is large—three times that of Manhattan—but it should be borne in mind that the area of The Bronx itself is twice that of Manhattan, and that the major portion of its park area is in the extreme northerly and undeveloped section. Van Cortlandt Park, at the northwesterly city limits, 1,132.35 acres; Bronx Park, in the center, 661.60, and Pelham Bay Park, at the northeast end of New York City, 1,756 acres, or 3,550 of the 4,078 acres of park area, are in the north end of the borough, while in the thickly populated 23d Ward there are but three parks open to the public for recreation—MacComb's Dam Park of 27 acres, Cedar or Franz Sigel Park, of 17.47 acres, and St. Mary's Park, of 28.7 acres—a total of 73.17 acres.

The Commission of 1883, which selected the great parks for The Bronx, stated in its report to the Legislature that at public hearings "local interests demanded parks in particular sections, and while the majority evidently regarded the subject from a Metropolitan standpoint, favoring two or more large parks, others advocated the distribution of the proposed increase in the form of many and smaller parks or squares." The Commission seems to have leaned towards the "Metropolitan standpoint," deeming these new parks to be for the benefit of the entire city rather than of The Bronx, and such they have proven, as the attendance shows. But twenty-four years ago no one anticipated that there would be in the lower end of The Bronx a solid tenement house development similar to the lower East Side.

The need of neighborhood parks is now apparent, for while the acreage of parks is greater, the number of individual parks is less and their distribution less uniformly equable, so that it is possible for a greater portion of the population of Manhattan to participate in the benefits of a public park without the expenditure of car fare, than it is in The Bronx. Parks are promoters of health in the tenement districts, so that eliminating their relation to municipal art, or even to the increased taxes returned to the City Treasury, they constitute a public need as imperative in a great City like New York as schools, police, fire protection, or any other governmental function of the municipality.

The recommendation made in our last annual report can, with justice, be repeated with emphasis, that, considering the enormous expense at which the small parks in Manhattan have been acquired, the City should not longer delay the acquirement of similar parks in The Bronx.

ALBERT E. DAVIS,
Chairman, Bronx Committee.

Borough of The Bronx, Nov. 11th, 1907.

The Amsterdam Avenue Tracks.

At the October, 1907, meeting of The West End Association, the chairman of its special committee on Amsterdam Avenue Tracks reported that during the past summer the tracks in question, extending from 72d to Manhattan st, had been removed, thus bringing to a successful conclusion one of the most important undertakings for the betterment of its district in which the association has ever engaged.

In accepting the report and discharging its committee, with thanks, the association provided for the publication of that report, together with the brief account of the matter from its commencement, over eleven years ago, which follows.

The history of the movement just ended divides, naturally, into two chapters: the first dealing with the attempt to prevent the operation of electric cars upon two of the four tracks on Amsterdam av; the second, with the attempt to compel the removal of these two tracks, the use of which had been discontinued. The first period covered the three years 1896-1899; the second, practically from 1899 to the present year.

I.

The effort to prevent the operation on Amsterdam av of electric cars upon four tracks was begun in 1896. At that time two companies operated cars, by horse power, on that avenue: the inner tracks being owned by the Metropolitan Company and the outer ones by the Third Avenue Company, through its ownership of the Forty-second Street, Manhattanville & St. Nicholas Avenue Railroad Company. Both of the operating companies having received from the State Board of Railroad Commissioners permission to change their motive power to electricity, and it being believed that the operation of the inner tracks would amply suffice for the needs of the traffic, and that the operation in addition of the two outer tracks would be both unnecessary, and, to a great extent, dangerous, it was determined to prevent such additional operation if possible.

This association, in October, 1896, endorsed the attempt made, in the Board of Aldermen, to procure the removal of the outer tracks, which, however, was unsuccessful.

In the summer of 1897 the Amsterdam Avenue Defence Committee was formed, on which the West End Association was represented, to whose funds it contributed largely, directly and indirectly, and two of whose counsel—John C. Coleman, Esq., and the late John McDonald—were active members of the association.

Thereafter the work of that committee and of the West End Association followed the same lines involving proceedings before the State Board of Railroad Commissioners to procure the revocation of its permit to the Third Avenue Company for change of motive power; in the Supreme Court on the application of that company for an order compelling the city to grant a permit to tear up the avenue and proceed with its work; and in the same court and the Court of Appeals to compel the Railroad Commissioners to reopen the case, they having decided they had not the power to do so; the holding of numerous public meetings during the progress of the work; and before the Legislature in 1898 and 1899. Probably no series of meetings relative to local affairs ever evoked greater interest than was manifested in those held during the winter and spring of 1898-1899, which culminated in sending to Albany, to the hearing on the bill then under consideration and which ultimately became law (Chapter 371, Laws of 1899), one of the largest delegations ever sent from this city to the capital. This association's delegation crowded one car of the special train which carried the delegation. The passage of that Act effectually prevented the change of motive power, and in August, 1899, the Amsterdam Avenue Defence Committee reported the closing of its work.

This association, however, continued its efforts for the removal of the tracks, by means of a special committee, until December, 1901, at which time President Vreeland, of the railroad company, informed the committee that the Third Avenue Company would remove the tracks as soon as it should procure all the outstanding stock of the Forty-second Street Company. Failing, after long and patient waiting, to procure any further attention from the officers of the railroad company, the association in December, 1903, appointed the special committee, whose report follows:

II.

New York, October 7th, 1907.

To the West End Association:

Your Special Committee on Amsterdam Avenue tracks respectfully reports as follows:

This committee was appointed under a resolution adopted at a meeting of this association held on December 19, 1903, and consisted of the following members: A. Walker Otis, Chairman, John L. Brower, James Van Dyck Card, Josiah C. Pumpelly and Sinclair Tousey. The resolution was as follows:

WHEREAS, the two exterior tracks now on Amsterdam avenue are a menace to the safety of our citizens, an unlawful obstruction of the highway, and in effect a common nuisance.

RESOLVED, That it be referred to a committee of five to be appointed by the President, to ascertain and report what, if any, steps should be taken by this Association to secure their immediate removal.

In June, 1902, Hon. Jacob A. Cantor, then President of the Borough of Manhattan, had notified the Forty-second Street, Manhattanville & St. Nicholas Avenue Railroad Company that if these tracks were not removed by the latter within thirty days, the city would undertake the removal thereof at the expense of said company.

Immediately on the service of said notice the railroad company brought an action in the Supreme Court against Mr. Cantor and the city to enjoin the city from interfering with these tracks, and in said action obtained a temporary injunction. That action was pending at the time of the appointment of your committee. The work done by your committee during its four years of existence is spread upon the records of this Association, but a brief reference to a few facts may not be amiss.

In March, 1904, what is known as the Bedell bills were pending before the Legislature. These bills in effect would have permitted the Railroad Company to cease operating these Amsterdam Avenue tracks, or to remove same and at the same time hold its franchise. These bills aroused a universal protest and your committee went to Albany in March, 1904, and opposed same. The bills were subsequently defeated.

In April, 1904, the Cantor suit was decided in favor of the city by Justice Amend, but his decision was reversed by the Appellate Division in 1905, and the injunction so far as known to your committee, is still in force.

Failing to obtain relief through the Cantor suit, Mr. Charles De Hart Brower, one of the members of this association, at the request of your committee, applied as a citizen to Attorney-General Mayer and requested him to bring an action on behalf of the People against said Railroad Company to forfeit its franchise so far as Amsterdam avenue was concerned. The Chairman of your committee represented Mr. Brower as counsel on that application. The matter was finally submitted to the Attorney-General in May, 1906, and on December 3, 1906, he handed down his decision granting the application and appointing the Chairman of your committee as special counsel to prosecute said action.

On December 22d, 1906, said action was accordingly begun in the Supreme Court for the County of New York.

While the suit of the People was pending, and early in 1907, the railroad interests made another effort to obtain legislation which would nullify our efforts to remove these tracks, and thereupon in March, 1907, introduced into the Legislature what was known as the Sheridan bill, which was substantially the same as the Bedell bill of 1905, except that it provided that in the case of Amsterdam avenue the tracks should not be replaced without the consent of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. This seemed to us an attempt to obtain our approval of the bill by granting some concession in the Amsterdam avenue matter, and thereupon on April 1st, 1907, this Association adopted a resolution opposing said bill. Said resolution among other things provided as follows:

RESOLVED, That we condemn the principle contained in said proposed bill, in that it permits a railroad company to abandon the operation of its line and remove the tracks therefrom, while at the same time allowing it to retain its franchise and the right to relay said tracks at its pleasure.

RESOLVED, That we are opposed to said bill for the reason that under the guise of the removal of the tracks from Amsterdam avenue we are asked to permit the railroad company to retain its franchises over nearly thirty miles of unused tracks in other portions of the city.

RESOLVED, That the only question which is being considered between the Railroad Company and this Association is the removal of the exterior tracks from Amsterdam avenue, and if said railroad company desires in good faith to remove said tracks an opportunity to do so by an offer of the appropriate judgment is presented in the suit of the People of the State of New York vs. The Forty-Second Street, Manhattanville and St. Nicholas Avenue Railroad Company now pending and at issue in the Supreme Court for the County of New York.

In June, 1907, the case of the People was tried, and on June 21st, 1907, a judgment in favor of the plaintiffs was entered as follows:

"ORDERED, ADJUDGED and DECREED that the defendant remove its tracks from that portion of Amsterdam Avenue in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, lying between Seventy-second Street and Manhattan Street and do restore the surface of said avenue to its condition prior to the removal of said tracks, within ninety days from the service of a copy of this judgment upon the attorneys for the defendant."

A copy of said judgment was served on the attorneys for the defendant on June 22d, 1907, so that the time within which to remove said tracks expired on September 20th, 1907.

Prior to September 1st, 1907, said tracks were removed pursuant to said judgment and since that time a large portion of the avenue has been paved with asphalt from the curb to the tracks of the Ninth Avenue Railroad Company, thus making Amsterdam avenue a handsome and useful thoroughfare.

We congratulate the Association upon its success in this matter, which proves that a body of public-spirited citizens like ours, with no motive or purpose except the public weal, can accomplish much for the benefit of the people of this city and thereby deserve their gratitude and esteem.

And now having accomplished the purpose for which it was appointed your committee asks to be discharged.

A. WALKER OTIS,
Chairman.

Dower.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

As a great diversity of opinion prevails not only among laymen but even among many attorneys as to the exact status or extent of the dower right of a widow in her deceased husband's real estate, will you please tell us what a widow's portion is in real estate?

It is curious how many think that a Widow's Dower consists in the absolute ownership of one-third of her late husband's real estate, with a right to sell it, or do with as she wishes; whereas her right is only a life interest—so long as she shall live—in lands of which he was seized of an estate of inheritance at any time during their marriage. The marriage must have been legal; the existence of a prior legal wife would debar. It must be a beneficial estate; holding title merely for another as a "conduit of title," so-called, will not sustain dower.

The husband cannot deprive the wife of the right by any act of his, and the widow has been in many cases given dower rights in land which the husband, in contemplation of marriage, had fraudulently transferred to deprive her of dower in it. But she may agree by "jointure" papers before marriage not to claim dower.

In lands held conjointly by the husband with others there are peculiar distinctions, but generally, where in such cases the husband's interest was an absolute fee, though in partnership, her dower has been protected.

The only way formerly, except by a decree of divorce obtained against her, in which a wife could be deprived of her dower, was by her joining with her husband in a deed or mortgage and executing it with him; in the case of the mortgage her dower still attached to any surplus produced by a foreclosure of the mortgage, to which she had to be made a party in the action, and if the mortgage were paid off, her dower right was restored over the whole again.

Where the husband bought land and did not pay the full purchase price, but gave a purchase money mortgage, so-called, to secure the unpaid balance, her right was subject to the payment of this balance. A wife may now release her dower by power of attorney, given to her husband even.

On the death of her husband the widow becomes absolutely entitled, whereas before his death her interest is known as an inchoate right of dower, with no control or right to sell or dispose of.

If the husband has by will provided for her, on the condition that the provision is in place or lieu of dower, as it is called, she may elect whether to take the provision under the will, or retain her dower; but she cannot have both.

The legal proceedings to admeasure her dower after death of the husband have changed from time to time; they are now regulated in the form of an action by the Code of Civil Procedure, and are too technical to be discussed here.

Where land left by the husband is continued to be held unsold, a very general arrangement is to pay over to the widow one-third of the net rents of the property. If it be partitioned and sold, an agreement is generally had between the widow and the heirs or devisers, or a gross sum allotted her in the action from the proceeds, based on Life Tables, and the value of an annuity at a given age.

On the widow's death, if the land continues unsold during her lifetime, her dower ceases, of course, and the land is free from further claim with respect to her dower. The dower is apportionable up to the date of her death and then ceases. In these modern days of "business women," great criticism is made of the arbitrary provision of dower in favor of the wife, beyond control or disposition of the husband except with her consent, as against the corresponding "courtesy" right of the husband in the wife's land, which she may cut off and dispose of without his consent at any time.

Many curious questions are often presented, too, in the frequencies of divorce and re-marriage under laws of other States, which laws, as respects cutting off the dower right of female citizens, this State is not obliged to respect, but which laws under the general comity of States it respects so far as giving some consideration to the status of the second wife. The contingency has been jocularly discussed, of a man who might die seized of land in this State, leaving three widows, all entitled to "thirds."

Note.—It is not intended that the rough and sweeping statements above made in a popular article on one of the most technical subjects of the law shall be too particularly applied, to the reader's undoing, as circumstances alter law as well as cases, and the popular treatise on law is often as dangerous as the "Every Man his Own Doctor." With this explanation, an effort has been made to give a little general popular information on a subject inquired about by a correspondent, as being little understood by the general public.

Four Thousand a Year.

WHAT A TENANT GETS FOR IT IN CHICAGO.

THE most fashionable apartment house in Chicago is at the corner of Lake Shore Drive and Cedar st, and is No. 23. It has no other name—simply No. 23. The rent is so high, Chicagoans either audibly or mentally say "Skidoo" when they pass.

The building has eight stories and but eight flats. The Chigago Tribune says that a visitor going into the building through the porte cochere entrance in Cedar st imagines he is in the entrance hall of a private dwelling. The main public entrance hall is colonial. It is a large room done in white enamel, with a huge welcoming fireplace built in one wall, with brass andirons, and tongs, and scuttle standing on the white tiling; a mirror and colonial candle sticks standing on the marble mantel, with palms growing in great garden urns on either side of the fireplace, and mahogany colonial hall chairs standing stiffly against the white walls.

A grandfather's clock stands beside the broad, winding staircase, oil paintings hang on the walls, and a colonial mahogany table is pressed up against the wall opposite the fireplace, and on it are set a Tiffany lamp and a desk telephone. And this is the public entrance hall to a flat building—a large, comfortable, hospitable room which might have been brought to Chicago from some fine old Mount Vernon homestead. Adjoining the main entrance hall is a little room—the chauffeurs' and footmen's "wait"—where the chaffeurs and footmen are sheltered from the cold while waiting for their employers.

At the end of the entrance hall, opposite the winding staircase, is the elevator—itself a thing of beauty. It is nothing more nor less than a miniature French drawing room, done in gray enamel and paneled with mirrors. So much for the entrance to the millionaires' apartment house. The apartments themselves are built after the plan of a three-story residence. The Lake Shore drive front is the first floor of the dwelling; the Cedar st. side is the second floor, or bedroom floor; the side which faces the court and looks toward the north and Lincoln Park is the third floor, and is occupied by "help's hall"—the servants' living and dining room, the private laundry, the servants' bedchambers, and the servants' bath.

The reception halls are entered from the private vestibule to each apartment, which is reached both by the elevator and the stairs. All of the main rooms of the apartment open into the reception hall, which in most of the apartments has been made one of the most attractive rooms and is without an exception one of the most handsomely furnished. The dining room is done in white enamel and mahogany, and its dimensions are 17x27 feet.

The kitchen is one of the most wonderful rooms in the apartment:

It is walled with cases and cupboards lined with tiling and containing receptacles for every food stuff to be had at your grocer's. The walls are a grocery store, and set into the north wall is a huge ice chest which carries up to the ceiling and is lined with tiling and has great, heavy glass doors. When the chef or maid opens one door out comes the butter, the cheese, etc. She opens another door and out comes the milk and cream, etc. There is no reaching in to this ice chest. The opening of the door pulls out the different shelves—could anything be more convenient?

BEDROOMS BIG ENOUGH TO DRESS IN.

The first door on the Cedar st. side as the visitor makes his way down this hallway leads into the grand salon chamber, done wholly in colonial style, with white enamel finish. This great bedchamber is 18x25 feet, and has two massive windows which look south. In fact, all the rooms, including baths, with the exception of the servants' rooms, have south exposure. No more beautiful bed chamber could be pictured in the minds of the Spanish castle builders than the bed chamber in the Chalmers' apartment. The beds are mahogany of colonial style, and the tapestries and draperies are in harmony with the furniture.

"It's a dream," murmured a debutante the other day, "and who would ever dream of finding such a bedroom in a flat."

And who would ever dream of finding two other bed chambers almost of the same size as the grand salon chamber in the same apartment? And who would ever dream of finding a bath connected with every bed chamber in the flat? And who would ever dream of finding an apartment in which every room has south exposure? And who would ever dream of finding a city flat in which the clothes closets not only are fitted with mahogany clothes hangers of every description and great clothes presses and chests of drawers, but are larger than hall bedrooms for which the city's toilers pay good money every week in their lives out of their week's wages?

MILLIONAIRES' BATH TRIPLE FILTERED.

Not only has each bed chamber a bathroom connected with it, but every bathroom has showers and every other imaginable convenience, and every drop of water used by the millionaires in their baths has been filtered three times before it is allowed to run into the tubs. So the water in which all the millionaires who dwell at No. 23 take their daily baths is as clear as crystal—good enough to drink, and purer and better than a million Chicagoans ever got to drink.

In the apartments are large trunk rooms in which huge cedar chests have been installed for the storing of the valuables the moths so love to destroy, and in each apartment are two steel vaults for the safe keeping of the silver and gold table service and the family jewels and valuables. The vaults are not only fireproof, but are also burglar proof.

The servants' quarters are no less remarkable than the tenants' quarters. They are entirely separated from the rest of the apartment by a fire wall and are entered only by one door from the hallway. The servants' quarters are a flat by themselves—with a separate hallway into which three bedrooms, the help's hall, and a huge bathroom open. In each servant's room is a private wash bowl and all the other conveniences.

The rooms in the millionaires' apartment building are worth going miles to see. The living room in the Salisbury apartment is furnished after the period of the French renaissance and the walls are done in rich tapestry paper. All of the upholstery is of rich fabricked silk tapestry and the furniture is of Italian oak and mahogany. Rare paintings adorn the walls and the bookcases are crowded with books of expensive bindings, many of them having been hand bound.

The reception hall in the Cobb Coleman apartment is furnished after the Italian renaissance and the walls are hung with costly and old Italian tapestries. The dining room of the Frazier apartment is another of the wonderful rooms in the building. The gardens of Versailles are reproduced on the walls and the furnishings are in perfect harmony.

Flats in this house rent for $350 a month, or $4,200 a year, which, as we understand, is the highest mark for an apartment or flat in Chicago.

Agitating a Bronx-Queens Ferry.

Property owners in both Bronx and Queens keep up the agitation for the building of a municipal ferry to more directly connect the two boroughs. It is suggested that a ferry connecting Throggs Neck with College Point would, besides greatly facilitating the transportation of market products, have an increasing tendency to enhance the value of real estate in the neighborhood of both its terminals.

At present the Bronx can be reached only by a roundabout journey via the 34th st ferry or 99th st, and thence across the Harlem Bridge toward the north. It is argued that the use of the new ferry by the farmers of Queens would only be about one-half the tax that is likely to be put upon its facilities when in operation.

All the resorts on the north and south shores of Kings and Queens counties would be directly opened up to the Bronx by the establishment of such a means of communication. Since it may be said that both boroughs are in favor of the project it is reasonable to assume that the new Board of Aldermen will likely push the matter to a successful issue. It is learned that trolley connections at both ends are assured, and as the city owns both the docks and boats it will be seen that the initial expense for equipment will be comparatively small.

United R. E. Owners' Associations Elect Officers.

At the annual meeting of the United Real Estate Owners' Associations, held at Turn Hall, Lexington av and 85th st, Manhattan, the following officers and directors were elected: President, Thos. Krekeler; 1st vice-pres., Geo. H. Beck; 2d vice-pres., Chas. J. F. Bohlen; treasurer, John Volz; recording secretary, Dr. A. Korn; corresponding secretary, Chas. H. Schnelle. Board of Counsel: Adolph Bloch, Ira J. Ettinger, Wm. Hauser and J. A. Hodge. Finance Committee: Henry Flicker, J. F. Boss, D. Gaussa, Chas. A. Schrag, Henry Ruschmeyer, Ralph Holzman and Chas. Lutz. Krekeler—10th, 11th and 17th Wards; Fred. Keller, Frank Demuth, H. Schumacher, Louis Schrag—West Side Taxpayers; Jas. L. Conway, Wm. Hauser, Ira J. Ettinger—12th and 22d Wards; Dr. A. Korn—Harlem Property Owners; D. Gaussa—4th, 6th and 14th Wards; Chas. J. F. Bohlen—18th Ward.

Bronx Valley Sewer Bids.

Owing to the delay in obtaining certain lands in Yonkers for an outlet, the Bronx Valley Sewer Commissioners postponed the time of receiving bids for the construction of the sewer until Nov. 27, and contractors have been informed to this effect.

The Commissioners have taken steps to condemn all of the lands necessary for the sewer, and have made, through their counsel, application for a commission of appraisal to condemn right of way for the tunnel section through the city of Yonkers. Application for three other Commissions will be made to the Court within a short time.

SUBURBAN.

OAKHURST, N. J.—Louis Wertheimer has bought the Thompson-Covert farm, comprising about 70 acres of land on West Park av, near Oakhurst, N. J. He will build a residence on the avenue frontage and dispose of the remainder of the property.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given .

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

"SNOW WHITE"

"SNOW WHITE"
Portland Cement

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement is not approached by any known product for the following purposes, viz.: Facing for concrete construction and stucco, ornamental and architectural forms, superior substitute for terra cotta work, white ground for terrazza and mosaic work, base for all artificial stone, floor and other tile, special sanitary plastering of all kinds, architectural landscape work, for setting marble and light stones or brick, plastering elevator and light shafts.

Its pure white color, strength and close grained hardness, together with its hydraulic properties and its ability to withstand the elements, place it in a class by itself, unique in all its qualities, and indispensable at any price.

Foreign Opportunities.

No. 1594. Raw materials and machinery for flint-glass factory.—A new and up-to-date flint-glass factory is about to be erected in New South Wales, Australia, and correspondence with manufacturers of all classes of machinery and of raw materials applicable to the business is desired. For further information correspondence should be addressed to the Agent-General for New South Wales, 123 and 125 Cannon street, London E. C., England.

No. 1595. Motor cars.—According to the local newspapers of Trondhjem, Norway, it has been decided to establish a motor-car service between Stenkjaer at the end of the Trondhjem Fjord and Rodhammer, on the way to Namsos. It is reported that if this proves a success other services may be taken into consideration in the district including services for carrying merchandise. American motor manufacturers and dealers might do well to communicate with the American consul at Bergen, Norway.

No. 1596. Harbor improvement.—The Government of the Argentine Republic has recently authorized the Executive Department to expend 8,950,000 pesos gold (peso=96½ cents in American currency) in works for enlarging and improving the accommodation for merchant shipping in the "Darsena Norte," Buenos Aires. Particulars may be had by addressing the Ministry of Marine, Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic, S. A.

No. 1597. Machinery representation in South America.—A business man writes to the Bureau of Manufactures that he would like to represent in South America such lines of machinery as mining and farm machinery, automobiles, and gas engines. He states that he has had experience both in selling and running such articles.

No. 1601. Cast-iron pipes.—Bids will be received until December 9 by the Deputy Postmaster-General, Brisbane, Queensland, Australia, for the supplying of 300 tons of cast-iron pipes, 3-in. diameter.

No. 1603. Telephone equipment.—The Postmaster-General's Department, Adelaide, South Australia, will receive bids until March 11, 1908, for the supplying of one common battery switchboard, 400 subscribers' telephones, and 400 protectors.

No. 1604. Dredging and wharf construction.—Consul W. S. Hollis, of Lourenco Marquez, advises that tenders are to be called for for wharf construction and for dredging at that Portuguese East African port. The plans and specifications are at present in the hands of the Minister for the Navy and the Colonies, His Excellency Dom Ayres d'Ornellas, at Lisbon, Portugal, and the consul has been informed unofficially that advertisements calling for tenders will be soon published in a number of Continental, English, and American papers. For further information, letters should be addressed to the official named, at Lisbon.

No. 1608. Locomotives.—Consul A. A. Winslow, of Valparaiso, reports that the Government of Chile has advertised for bids to supply 70 locomotives, as follows: 40 wide-gage freight, 15 wide-gage passenger, and 15 narrow-gage freight, built in conformity with the specifications and details which may be consulted in the office of the "Service of Locomotives and Equipment," Valparaiso, Chile. Proposals must be received not later than January 2, 1908.

No. 1610. Metal ceilings.—An American consul in France sends the name of an architect there who would like to receive illustrated catalogues and price lists of metal ceilings.

No. 1611. School furniture and apparatus.—An American consul in one of the Central American countries reports that the Board of Education at the place in question contemplates the purchase of new and improved school furniture and apparatus. The consul thinks that some United States manufacturers in this line might interest the board through correspondence, although if a personal representative were to visit there he would be more successful.

No. 1612. Locomotives, tenders, flat cars and steam crane.—Short-term tenders will be received by the Turkish Government for the supplying of 4 locomotives with tenders, 30 25-ton "open goods trucks," and one 13-ton steam crane. Address Direction du Chemin dē Fer, Hamidie-Hedjaz, Constantinople, Turkey.

No. 1616. Safety Vaults for New Bank.—An American consulate in Europe reports that the officials of a new bank at the place in question are ready to receive and consider offers for the supply and the construction of safety vaults.

No. 1622. New School Fittings and Gymnasium.—An American consul in Europe writes of the proposed erection of a new school building equipped with modern fittings and appliances, together with a large gymnasium and a hot-air system for heating the building. The consul suggests the opportunity for American bids, and furnishes the address to which correspondence should be addressed.

No. 1623. New Electric Railway and Electric Lighting Company.—One of the American consular officers in Asia reports the granting of a concession for the construction of an electric railway, for the lighting of streets, and the supplying of electric power at the place in question. He furnishes the names of the officials of the new company, and states that it would be a profitable investment for the manufacturers of electrical goods to maintain an active agent there to take advantage of trade opportunities as they present themselves.

No. 1625. Panama Canal Supplies.—Sealed proposals will be received by the Isthmian Canal Commission, Washington, D. C., until December 2, for the furnishing of one stern-wheel towboat. (Circular No. 401.)

No. 1626. Harbor Improvements at Valparaiso.—Consul A. A. Winslow, of Valparaiso, reports the name of the concessionaire to whom the Chilean Government has awarded the contract for the harbor improvements at Valparaiso.

No. 1627. Petroleum Marine Engines.—An American consul in the Levant writes of two business men there who desire catalogues and price lists of American marine engines which burn petroleum fuel. He suggests that if catalogues printed in French were sent they would be greatly appreciated.

New Forms of Building

IT IS STATED that the committee of the Building Code Commission which is formulating the regulations limiting the heights of buildings has somewhat modified its recently reported provision, and that it now contemplates "a progressive reduction" in the area of each story of a hotel or office building for all stories above a two hundred-foot height. The other portions of the section, providing that other buildings shall not be erected over one hundred and fifty feet in height, etc., remain about as first drafted. Why "other" buildings should not enjoy the same privilege as hotels and office buildings is not altogether apparent, for the latter are rather more in need of restriction than the former, and it really seems useless to provide against dwellings, theaters, warehouses and factories being built over twelve stories high. A regulation, however, not setting a definite height limit, but actually limiting by the working out of its provisions, seems a happy expedient, for such a restriction is much less likely to meet with serious opposition. The pyramidal form will, moreover, curtail but little the light and air which are so valuable in lower Manhattan, and will undoubtedly result in pleasing architectural effects in the way of towers and steep mansard roofs, such as contribute so largely to the beauty of structures like the West Street building and the Washington Life. But it seems as if this new regulation loses sight entirely of a fundamental upon which it should be based, namely, that the proper height for a building should be some portion of the width of the street upon which it faces, if the considerations of light and air and the capacity of the streets be observed. A twenty-story building on Broadway may not be improper, while it would be highly so on Nassau street. Again, this regulation should make the stepping-back particularly apply to the street front, else much of its value will be lost. The Building Code Commission has very wisely granted the public the privilege of expressing their views at public hearings relative to needed changes in the old code, and it is to be hoped that the public may again have a like opportunity to be heard when the commissioners have drafted such new provisions as they will suggest to the Board of Aldermen.

After January First

REALTY AND BUILDING interests, both in Manhattan and the Bronx, are taking new courage from an assurance that the Public Service Commissioners are seriously preparing "to give their attention" to these sections of the tri-borough transit system, and for our own part we attach more importance to the announcement than to any previous promise of subway extension in several years, believing the commissioners are fully resolved to preserve the balance between the boroughs. At the time when the decision was made to build on the Fourth avenue route in Brooklyn it seemed that the door had been closed against the possibility of financing any similar undertaking in Manhattan and the Bronx for a period of years, but recently there have been intimations that when the tax values are again computed they will disclose that the borrowing capacity has been enlarged sufficiently to warrant the city incurring obligations for the construction of additional lines immediately. This assurance being strong, it has tended to allay much opposition in Manhattan and the Bronx to the authorization of the Brooklyn work. While it is assumed that it is the particular duty and business of the Commission to build on all the subway routes that have been legally adopted as speedily as it is possible to make financial arrangements for them, an official utterance more definite in respect to time and place would be appropriate at this juncture, seeing that there have been so many disappointments in the past, and that so much is at stake. The opening of a subway extension through South Brooklyn and Bay Ridge to Fort Hamilton and Coney Island, making the cheaper houses and lands of at least some of these sections more accessible in point of time from the City Hall than are parts of the Bronx and even of Manhattan, would be a blow so severe to property interests here, if it were not counterbalanced by the opening of a similar line in the opposite direction, that we cannot conceive of the Commission working such an injustice, and it would be no more than fair to have the Manhattan and Bronx sections of the tri-borough system selected and advanced to the same stage as the Fourth avenue route in Brooklyn before any construction contract is signed. An even-handed policy like this on the part of the Public Service Commissioners would be sufficient of itself almost to restore good times in New York. None would note it with more appreciation than the countless number of deserving people who have attested their faith in the city by investing in real estate which depends for its development upon fair treatment from the transit commissioners.

Street and Park Openings

IN A RECENT PROCEEDING for opening a small park the expense of acquiring the land, which was assessed at $4,300, reached the sum of $336,000. It is the practice to place upon the city all the cost of opening parks, half the cost of public places and a portion of the expense of opening streets exceeding sixty feet in width. From tables exhibited this week before the Board of Estimate it appears that during the last five years relief has been extended, in the cases of streets over sixty feet wide, in 151 proceedings, and that in 19 proceedings the whole cost of street openings has been placed upon the city. The number of park openings (all the cost assumed by the city) has been 35, and the number of public-place openings (one-half the cost placed on the city) has been nine. The resulting addition to the bonded debt is estimated by the Board's engineers at forty million dollars, more than half of which is chargeable to park openings. The certain consequences of continuing a policy so liberal compose a problem that gives the Board of Estimate much concern. Formerly all public improvements were assumed to carry a local benefit. Thus, about thirty-two per cent. of the cost of acquiring title to Central Park was levied upon the property benefited; and it was all collected in one installment. The Chief Engineer for the Board of Estimate, Mr. Nelson P. Lewis, holding the view that the whole question of assessment for benefit can be reduced to a scientific basis, has raised the question as to the wisdom of continuing the policy of the past five years, and whether it would not be better to assess the whole cost of proceedings for the acquisition of title to streets, parks and boulevards upon the property benefited, in so far as benefit can be established. Virtually this would be a return to the basis of assessment in vogue previous to July 25, 1902, with this exception, that it was customary to grant relief, after laying the assessment, whereas now the Board probably would fix a maximum benefit to be allowed, and formulate a rule for determining the proportion of general benefit in park proceedings. An obvious consequence of the change, with a strict adherence to the new principles, would be fewer petitions for large improvements, also, a more careful scrutiny on the part of taxpayers of the bill of costs in condemnation proceedings, and, in brief, a saving to the city at large. The general proposition seems to commend itself at this time of financial stress, especially as it could be discontinued or modified at any time should it be found to work a real hardship in any particular.

How the City Can Save Money.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The Honorable Charter Revision Commissioners are now considering the revision of the present city charter, and I think it is a good time for all taxpayers to personally or representative papers urge the reconciliation between the New York City budget and laws that make the rate of taxes according to valuations for each year from the first to the last day of each year and the present system of confirming and collecting the yearly taxes, which only begins on the first Monday of October of each year.

While there is no fault to be presented as to either of these city departments as they exist and are administered under the present laws, it is a fact that the city is compelled to borrow for its wants from the first part to the first Monday of October and the city only begins to collect at that time to repay for short period bonds that it has issued and the remaining part of the year, which is less than three months. In the year 1906 the city paid about two million eight hundred thousand dollars for interest on such bonds. From information it is fair to estimate that during the first week that the taxes were collectible this year that over fifty millions were collected within a week, and nearly half of the taxes were paid within a short time after the taxpayers were permitted to pay them, showing that the money to pay taxes was waiting while the city was in great need of money by reason of the great financial crisis.

I conceived the idea over 25 years ago and have advocated ever since that the taxpayers should be permitted to furnish the city the money for its needs during the year to avoid the borrowing on short period bonds and save to themselves the cost of the present system. To do that will require either a change of our present charter or a special law to change the present system of the confirmation and collection of taxes so that in date it will meet the necessity of the yearly budget and permit taxpayers to give the city their taxes and prevent the necessity of borrowing for nine months as is now done.

As the leading real estate paper in the city I hope you will be able to advocate these views as you have in the past and use all possible influence to bring about the change. The best city statesmen have approved of the proposed change from the year 1885 to the present time and I believe now the change can be made by and through the revision of the charter.

Doing Harm to Real Estate.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The gratuitous advertising by the New York Herald, showing the advantage of purchasing railroad and industrial stocks at the prevailing prices, is working indirectly to the disadvantage of realty interests.

An example recently brought to my attention will clearly show the drift. A woman of moderate means having withdrawn her savings account prior to the enforcement of the 60-day clause by the savings banks, became interested in the Herald's paragraphs and purchased stock of the New York Central Railroad. Realizing that she would in the ordinary course of events receive a far larger interest return than the 4 per cent. paid by the savings banks, she has encouraged her friends to do likewise, and as the result of her efforts in this single instance, there will be at least a dozen withdrawals at the earliest opportunity, for the purpose of making similar investments.

What has this to do with Real Estate? The calling in of many past due mortgages by the savings banks to meet such withdrawals, that otherwise might have remained.

I think the New York Herald owes as much to its Real Estate patronage as it does to that from the financial world, and that it should either stop this gratuitous advertising or conduct one on the same lines, advising investments in good income paying Real Estate that would bring in a greater net revenue than the average railroad share and at the same time be safer and less liable to fluctuate.

WILLIAM C. LESTER.

A Damper to Irresponsible Developments.

It is generally believed among development companies that in the revision of the banking laws of New York, contemplated by the Governor, that provisions will be added requiring that corporations operating in real estate shall be under the supervision of the State Banking Department. Should such a measure become a law it will cause a stronger feeling of public security and stimulate the purchase of vacant lots in the outlying sections of New York City. It is understood that the larger companies will welcome any reasonable state supervision. The necessity for legislation in this respect is said to be due to the increasing number of land companies and the questionable methods employed by some in the sale of lots on the instalment plan. In this connection it can be said that Mr. R. E. Simon in a recent lecture directed attention to the dangerous phase of instalment selling, maintaining that "irresponsible companies are apt to purchase property subject to a blanket mortgage and sell lots on the instalment plan without making provision for the liquidation of the mortgage when the time comes for delivering title. The purchaser only receives a contract for his purchase, usually does not search the title, and after he has made his total payments, which may embrace a period of a year or more, he finds that the seller is unable to deliver him a proper title free and clear."

Mr. Simon cited a case where more than four hundred persons had to be served at the foreclosure of a blanket encumbrance which resulted finally in the loss of all moneys paid in by them.

Outlook in the Mortgage Market

By MORTIMER M. SINGER

WE have had so many reviews and opinions of the money situation lately, very little remains to be said of the present position of capital and credit. Lord Rothschild once stated "That the wisest man was one that never prophesied to any audience, be it large or small." On your request, however, I will give you, in a brief way, my idea of the outlook of to-day on mortgage investment in New York City.

Time loans for a period exceeding one year on any security are always difficult to obtain. One year in the financial world is a long period, during which many things can occur. War, riot, famine, panic, pestilence, earthquake as well as a great fire, naturally change the price, value, and earning capacity of any local security. A good definition of value is simply "A state of mind," which state of mind at large, is bound to be affected by the general governing conditions. If conditions were normal at present, mortgages would be easier to place at lower interest rates than ever before in the history of Manhattan Island, as the laws governing mortgages on real property have been modified and amended in such a way as to invite capital from the entire world to invest in this security under the most favorable circumstances, and, furthermore, we all know that Manhattan Borough is an island of which no condition can alter the physical aspect, being bounded on all sides by water, making the annexation of one extra lot an impossibility.

THE INTEREST RATE.

For a long number of years many large estates and wealthy individuals were driven away from loaning on bond and mortgage by the fact of mortgages being assessed under the law as personalty, which meant an annual deduction of about one and a half per centum from the interest rate indicated on the face of the mortgage. Then in July, 1905, came the mortgage tax, which, in turn, was amended a year later by the Legislature at Albany, in such a manner that we now have a recording tax, which tax being very justly paid by the borrower, means that an investor from now on, has an opportunity to loan on improved income producing real estate on Manhattan Island under conditions that could not be made more favorable for him. Unfortunately, since the new law went into effect the entire world has experienced a great scarcity of capital. For no other reason than this, the interest rate on mortgages in New York has advanced generally about one per cent. a year. This increase in the interest rate appears to be attracting money from many sources that never before were interested in loaning on real estate. I find that the larger percentage of available money at present is in small amounts, which sums range in the neighborhood of ten thousand dollars each. Therefore, in the matter of placing small applications that have merit, I find it to be more a question of terms than anything else. It is difficult just now to secure mortgages for large amounts owing to the world-wide scarcity of capital, but in my opinion within the next year money will be "as easy as an old shoe" in New York City.

FUTURE OF REAL ESTATE.

Regarding the future of Manhattan real estate I doubt very much if it will at any time decrease in value to any greater extent than it has during the past year. It is safe to say that prices have decreased about ten per cent. from the high figures recorded in 1905 and 1906, but property, I find, is now generally in strong hands and a large amount of the speculating and operating has ceased. Building Department statistics indicate that building has receded some 55 per cent., which is a good healthy sign. The only soft spots in the realty field are the loft buildings, and in those sections where an undue amount of building has taken place, such as in the neighborhood of First av and 100th st, as well as in the section bounded by Fifth av on the east and Eighth av on the west, and running from 136th st to 145th st.

Washington Heights south of 155th st has withstood the crisis wonderfully well, owing no doubt to its physical superiority, and I find the apartments on the Heights, from 155th st south, are well rented and carrying themselves satisfactorily to their owners.

From our records it appears that the city's annual growth from immigration alone is upwards of one hundred and twenty thousand souls, which single fact makes me confident that by the close of 1908, we shall see even the present weak sections well rented, and values throughout the city generally increased,

Proposed Widening of Fifth Avenue to Improve Traffic Conditions.

THE agitation for widening the roadbed of Fifth av, from forty to sixty feet, makes it worth while to take it up from a different and perhaps more practical point of view than any from which it has been presented heretofore to the public.

The picture here presented appeared in one of the daily papers last June, and gives a good idea of what is proposed.

What the legal complications and difficulties will be, I do not intend to discuss. It is inconceivable to suppose that any one has erected a building without first getting the lines from the city engineer and having the plans approved by the building department. If such precautions have been taken, it would seem the city would have to pay all costs of changes, and also be liable for any losses entailed during the time when the changes were going on, due to loss of rent, etc.

The important question is, what is to be gained, and will it be worth the price?

A moving vehicle needs eight feet in width and one standing by the curb seven feet. It is unsafe to allow less. These figures are the result of a close study of street traffic conditions extending over a period of seven years.

The present roadbed is forty feet wide, or six feet narrower than is absolutely necessary for six lines of vehicles, and two feet wider than is required for five lines of vehicles. If the roadbed were widened six feet, or three feet on a side, it would answer for six vehicles. Eight feet in all, or four feet on a side, would be better and ample. This would make the total roadbed forty-eight feet. Four feet from each sidewalk could be spared and, if necessary, it would not be a serious or very expensive job to set the steps and railings back three or four feet.

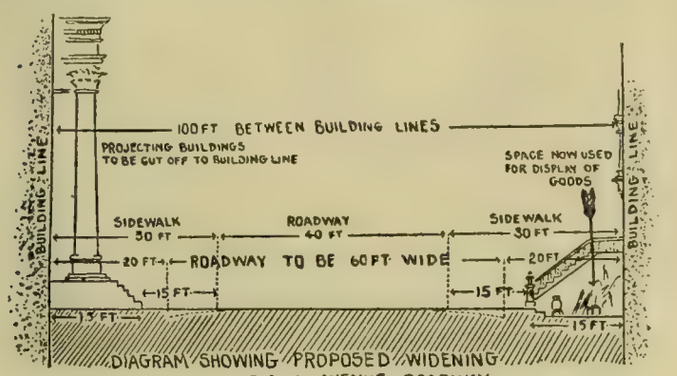

DIAGRAM SHOWING PROPOSED WIDENING OF FIFTH AVENUE ROADWAY.

It will be seen that the proposal of making the roadbed sixty feet wide is not a good one, as it falls from two to four feet short of providing for eight lines of vehicles, and is six feet wider than necessary for seven lines. Besides this, to regulate traffic simply and easily on such a street as Fifth av, there is very little to be gained by having space for an odd number of lines of vehicles. There should be space for either six or eight. I believe six is enough. The crossing for pedestrians of eight lines of vehicles is a serious matter, and there are other reasons why six lines are better. The expense of making the roadbed sixty-two feet wide and cutting back the buildings would be enormous, while that of making it forty-eight feet would be comparatively small and very easy to do, and, from a traffic standpoint, on the whole, would be better, even if the expense were the same.

The trouble of nearly all such schemes is that they are gotten up by people who have not given sufficient study to the questions to have a practical knowledge of the necessities. They jump at conclusions without thought or consideration of the harm which would be done if their plans were carried through. The traffic problems in New York are continually getting more serious and more important, and will need the best thought and a great deal of money to solve properly. By all means widen the roadbed of Fifth av to forty-eight feet, but more would be criminal stupidity.

In connection with the foregoing I recommend that refuges be placed on Fifth av at all crossings. They should be located with their ends about three feet above and below the sidewalk lines of the intersecting street. They should be three feet wide and twelve feet long. There should be a lamp post in the middle and a stone or iron post at each end. The posts should not extend beyond the curb and the ends of the refuges should be elliptical rather than round.

The preceding description seems desirable, because all the refuges that have been put up so far have not only been wrongly constructed but usually placed too far from the intersecting street lines.

WILLIAM PHELPS ENO.

—As the value of guaranteed mortgages is supported not only by the property which secures them, but also by the credit of the institutions which sell them, there can be no question as to their worth as investments. In case foreclosure proceedings become necessary, the expense is, of course, borne by the companies. Finally, the mortgages are exempt from taxation.

Advisability of the Torrens System.

By FRANK H. SINCERBEAUX.

IN discussing the question as to the advisability of introducing the so-called "Torrens System" of registering land titles into the Laws of New York, we are laboring somewhat at a disadvantage in having before us no definite statute or proposition.* But Niblack's definition may be taken as indicative of what the system or series of systems stand for. The definition is as follows:

"By Torrens Systems generally are meant those systems of registration of transactions with interests in land whose declared object is under governmental authority to establish and certify to the ownership of an absolute and indefeasible title to realty, and to simplify its transfer. An important feature of the system is an indemnity fund to compensate anyone who may be injured by the operations of the act."

It must be clear that the establishment and the certification as to the ownership of titles under governmental authority is at once a participation by the government in private enterprise. It must have the effect of compelling the State to enter into a business which has heretofore been carried on by lawyers and title companies. To that extent it is socialistic and paternal in its character, and the question is immediately raised whether in this State we desire to take such a step towards government monopoly.

Will the State perform as effectively and economically by public officials the work which is now done by private individuals and by private enterprise, and will the certificate made by an officer having no particular interest in the success of his business be as reliable as the abstract made by a strong company or a private individual, whose success depends largely upon the quality of its output?

It is notorious that because of our political system the business of the State and its various municipalities is often improvidently and inefficiently administered. If the State of New York cannot build and administer its canals economically, and if its cities cannot keep their streets properly paved and clean, is it probable that it will properly conduct a complicated system of examination of real estate titles, where the work requires the highest degree of ability and skill.

As a comparison of public service with private enterprise in the certifying of land titles, a member of the Chicago Real Estate Board referred to the Torrens System in Chicago as follows:

> "I regard certifying as to land titles by a public officer as compared with such service by a private corporation, as I regard the professional service of a city or county physician as compared with my chosen family physician; I don't wish the public service in either case. I would rather pay more and get a service I can rely upon. The test of such service is not its cheapness, but its goodness."

A set of officers once having become the occupants of the positions made possible by this system, have a natural impulse not to attain a high degree of skill in the conduct of the office, but rather to maintain the ascendancy of the political party through whose efforts they may have secured their positions. And when it is considered that probably not less than a thousand such officers would be necessary in the County of New York alone the seriousness of this matter is at once apparent.

That the public in those States of the United States in which the Torrens System has been employed have not the confidence in the system which its ardent advocates had anticipated is certainly clearly shown by the facts. A law patterned after the Torrens idea, though in many respects differing radically from the original Torrens System, as used in Australia, was passed in Massachusetts in 1898 under the advice of the late Governor Russell. In the nine years in which it has been in effect the slowness of its progress is remarkable.

The following reports of the progress of the system are taken from various registration districts of that State. These reports were received in answer to requests from the Allied Real Estate Interests, and are taken as representative of the various parts of the State. In Worcester District only 49 decrees have been entered and 300 transfers; in Barnstable only 22 certificates; in Norfolk County 136 decrees; in Bristol County, Fall River District, an average of 2 or 3 titles each year; in Bristol County, Northern District, 3 titles in all; in Franklin County there never has been a single application for registration. These figures were taken in the early part of June, 1907. The Recorder's Office in the Land Court of Boston offers the following remarkable showing which summarizes the progress of the law in the State of Massachusetts. Less than one-half of the towns and cities of the entire Commonwealth have ever had petitions filed for registrations of land titles in the Land Court (165 out of the total 353); and during the whole nine years in which petitions have been filed the total assessed value of the property registered up to the 17th of May last past was $16,919,797.36. The total amount of fees for registration paid last year was but $15,933.12.

But the lack of progress of the system in Cook County, Illinois, is even more pronounced than that in Massachusetts,

Outlets for Sixth and Seventh Avenues.

On May 24, 1907, a petition was presented to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, requesting the approval of a plan for changing the map by the provision of adequate outlets at the lower ends of 6th av and 7th av, in the Borough of Manhattan. (Project A.)

In the report of the New York City Improvement Commission of January, 1907, it is suggested that 6th av and 7th av be extended southwardly to West st, and that further minor modifications of the street system in this vicinity be provided, for the purpose of opening additional facilities for traffic. (Project B.)

In 1905 the suggestion was made by the Municipal Art Society of the City of New York that by widening Carmine st, between 6th av and Varick st, and by extending 7th av southwardly to the intersection of Carmine st with Varick st, it would be possible to remove the dead ends at the lower terminals of 6th and 7th avs. (Project C.)

The three plans are the subjects of consideration in a report by Chief Engineer Nelson Lewis to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. Mr. Lewis designates them as Projects A, B and C, respectively. Extracts from the report follow:

Project A.

The changes in the city map described in this petition include the following:

The extension of 6th av from its present southerly terminus at Minetta lane, southwardly in a straight line to Varick st.

The extension of 7th av from its present southerly terminus at Greenwich av, southwardly to the intersection of Carmine st and Varick st.

The widening of Varick st on its easterly side, between Carmine st and Franklin st.

The 6th and 7th av extensions are each to have a width of 100 feet, which also is the width proposed for Varick st.

A deflection is proposed in the line of 7th av, at Greenwich av, which, I am informed, is for the purpose of avoiding a number of expensive buildings, including the recently erected Carnegie Library at St. John's Park.

The petition bears 332 signatures representing the ownership of 768 parcels of property located on 7th av south of West 57th st, on 6th av, south of West 20th st, and in the vicinity of the new street system proposed.

| Street and Limits. | Assessed Valuation. Land. | Buildings. | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 7th av, Greenwich av to Christopher st | $515,000 | $206,000 | $721,000 |
| 7th av, Christopher st to Varick st | 790,000 | 722,000 | 1,512,000 |
| Varick st, 7th av extension to 6th av extension | 318,000 | 47,000 | 365,000 |
| Varick st, 6th av extension to Canal st | 221,000 | 110,000 | 331,000 |
| Varick st, Canal st to Franklin st | 412,000 | 582,000 | 994,000 |
| 6th av, Carmine st to Varick st | 1,081,000 | 578,000 | 1,659,000 |
| Total | $3,337,000 | $2,245,000 | $5,582,000 |

Project B.

This project, as described in the report of the City Improvement Commission, includes the following changes:

An extension of 6th av southwardly to the intersection of Chambers st and West st.

The extension of Varick st, from Christopher st to West Broadway.

A southerly extension of 7th av to the junction of Canal st with West st.

The widening of Christopher st, between Greenwich st and Greenwich av.

The map submitted with the report indicates that the 6th av extension is intended to be a direct line from Minetta lane to the intersection of Chambers st with West st. A public place is also shown on West st, extending northwardly from Chambers st to Jay st.

The 7th av extension is shown as being a direct prolongation of the lines of 7th av as laid out north of Greenwich av to the intersection with Christopher st, at which point a deflection is made in the line to lead it to West st at the intersection of the latter with Canal st. A public place on West st is indicated as extending from Spring st southwardly to Canal st.

The plan also shows a widening of Varick st on its westerly side through the entire length of the street as now laid out, together with one extension in a direct line northwardly to Christopher st and another southwardly to West Broadway. A widening of Christopher st on its southerly side between Greenwich st and Greenwich av is also indicated.

Each of the proposed new streets is to be given a width of

Freak Building.

ON LOWER BROADWAY there is a real estate puzzle, in daily evidence, which no one cares to try unravel at this time. The twenty-foot northerly end of the old Consolidated Stock Exchange building, minus one side wall, is all that is left by the wreckers who demolished and removed the rest of the building, preparatory to the advent of a new 22-sty office building, the contract for which was let to the Geo. A. Fuller Co. by Charles T. Barney prior to the Knickerbocker Trust Company's financial difficulties. This ragtag of the once-splendid Consolidated building, erected in 1877, is utterly useless to anybody in its present condition, and matters will not be greatly improved upon when, with the building of the contemplated new tall building, the southerly side wall will be provided. The building, which is taken up almost entirely by the several elevators, walls and stairway of the old Exchange, could not be rented without the expenditure, first, of a considerable sum of money, which the leaseholders will not make, as in five years, at the expiration of the lease, the building will have to be turned over to the owners.

When President Barney purchased the Consolidated Exchange building and the leasehold he tried to purchase the twenty-foot northerly strip from the Schermerhorn estate, offering for it what was considered by down-town real estate appraisers a fabulous price. The Consolidated held a 21-years' lease, with two renewals from the Schermerhorn estate, which was bought in fee and which has five years more to run. Not being able to buy the property, Mr. Barney dropped all negotiations, let the contract for the tearing down of that part of the building not on the Schermerhorn plot, and made other preparations for the proposed new skyscraper. It was his intention not to touch the Schermerhorn part of the building, but to pay the annual rental, and at the expiration of the lease in 1912 turn it over to the owners. If the Barney plan is carried out, and the building left unimproved and untenanted for five years, it will present a unique spectacle, the first of its kind in Manhattan real estate history.

And what will the Schermerhorn estate then do with a twenty-foot inside frontage? Will it hold another freak structure, or will the owners be able to sell it to one of the adjacent property owners? The next five years may bring even greater changes to lower Broadway than did the last five, but experienced real estate men say that the price recently offered for the Schermerhorn property will not be exceeded within that period.

The trustees of the Schermerhorn estate say that they are not worried so long as they receive the contracted rental, and decline to prophesy as to the future.

Where Outside Fire Escapes Are Not Needed.

In June last at the request of Mr. Egerton L. Winthrop, Jr., President of the Board of Education, a committee was appointed consisting of a representative of each of the Bureaus of Buildings of the various boroughs, a representative of the Fire Department and a representative of the Department of Education to consider the recommendations of the Fire Department, dated April 25, 1907, as to fire protection in public schools; also to formulate some rules whereby a school building might be judged as to its safety or adequate equipment with stairways or fire escapes; and, further, to make whatever recommendations might seem proper in the premises.

The committee has held several meetings and adopted rules for the general betterment of conditions in non-fireproof schools. It being admitted by the Fire Department that it would take the first or nearest fire company on an average of about three minutes to reach the scene of a fire and prepare for work, within that period the majority of schools would be free of occupants and the Fire Department would have free and unobstructed entrance thereto; the committee is, therefore, of the opinion, as the result of its investigations, that outside fire escapes on the average public school are not required, as under the present system of drilling the scholars they can be much better and more expeditiously handled and guided by their teachers on a continuous line of stairs leading to exits than they could if compelled to pass through rooms and halls leading to windows or openings onto broken lines of outside stairs; and as the stairways in most schools at the present time are practically fireproof, the danger of fire or smoke obstructing any or all of the several lines of stairs within the short space of three minutes is very remote. The Building Committee of the Board of Aldermen is considering the report.

Two-Family Dwellings Popular in The Bronx.

Among the highest grade of improvements completed in the Bronx are those made by the American Real Estate Company on its extensive holdings along Westchester av from its intersection with Prospect av to the Bronx River. A few years ago this was a district of towering trees and green lawns. To-day it may well be called a city within a city, for in a few years to come the building operations of that company alone will include a population of 50,000.

The first operation undertaken by the realty company was the construction of 20 two-family dwellings on Faile st. These houses were generally considered the best of their class ever built in the metropolis, and the question was raised in the minds of many real estate men as to whether two-family houses of such a grade could be readily marketed. That company has answered the question by not only selling all the houses in this row, but by building 22 additional dwellings of a similar type.

Following the first operation the company's next move was to construct 12 non-elevator apartment houses of 15 apartments each in Simpson st. These apartments, like the two-family houses, are of exceptionally high grade, and yet have been filled rapidly with well satisfied tenants. One of the most interesting features of that region is the provision which has been made by the realty company for the comfort of its tenants by opening up to them as a private park—the block between Simpson and Fox sts, formerly the residence site of the Simpson family.

Another operation in this section attracting some attention is the row of two-family houses built by Geo. F. Johnson's Sons Company on Whitlock av. The buildings are of the semi-detached type, each 20x55, with 10-ft. intervening spaces. The houses cost $13,000 each, the average amount of cash paid by buyers being $2,000. The upper apartments rent for $35 and the lower is usually occupied by the owner, who figures his rent at about $525.

Points on the Material Market.

The brick manufacturing season on the Hudson has ended for all the open yards.

Illuminating engineering work in most towns and cities of the country continues large.

Many of the Atlantic coast lumber mills have shut down for various reasons, one of which is the condition of the market, which is well supplied.

The recession in the price of copper has had a stimulating effect in electrical engineering, and lower prices for gas pipes and fittings is benefiting gas engineering.

Reports from architects and engineers in many cities of over 50,000 population show that contracts for ordinary work—such as do not require vast means—are going forward in spite of monetary tightness in other markets.

Prices of good brick are down to the level of five years ago, when the cost of manufacturing and handling was much lower than it is to-day. It cost close to $5 per M. to put bricks in New York five years ago, and since then a number of strikes by laborers at the yards, boatmen and by handlers in the city have raised that level so that manufacturers and dealers are worse off than when market quotations were formerly at the same figures. The opportunity presented to builders and those who can use brick would be extremely exceptional if it were not for the currency difficulties—so often here spoken of in the last seventeen months that nothing can be added to the score. Sales are averaging about fifty cargoes weekly, but deliveries are slow on the part of dealers, so that the barges are longer unloading than ordinarily. The slow circulation of currency is thus reflected in the slower movements of the boats between the market and the works. Dealers, in a word, are looking for certainties as to payments before putting their goods on the job. The market, outwardly so inert, is inwardly full of a compressed force. Every day is diminishing the former surplus of unfilled houses. The over-supply on Washington Heights is reported to be less than is always figured by owners as a fair allowance for vacancies—ten per cent. Reports from other sections of Manhattan also show a high per cent. of occupancy which will increase during the winter. Bronx apartments are in a strong position again, and altogether there is a pent-up demand which is daily turning the hand on the gauge. With the money climax passed—and President Roosevelt says it has passed—there will be an immense building force stored up when next spring arrives.

New Catalogues.

EXPANSION BOLTS, 46 pp. Issued by the Philadelphia Expansion Bolt Works, and Steward & Romaine Mfg. Co., 124 North 6th st, Philadelphia. This catalogue contains descriptions and lists of but a few of the many styles of bolts made by these works. The machine bolt expansions are made of steel, the lag bolt expansions of malleable iron.

"CONCRETE REINFORCEMENT," by the American Steel and Wire Company, 136 pp.; cloth.

This is a handbok and catalogue combined. It comprises a study of the subject from the engineering standpoint, and includes tables of quantities of materials, safe-loading and reinforcement for stone concrete beams, tables of weights, areas and sizes of triangular and square-mesh reinforcements, tables and diagrams of safe bending moments, weights and thickness of slabs, areas of steel, etc., and tables of weights and areas of round and square bars. Various phases of the advantages of reinforced concrete as discussed in detail, including chapters on "How Good is Concrete," "Economic Use and Properties of Reinforced Concrete," "Costs," "Approximate Cost of Concrete," "Strength of Concrete," "Steel for Reinforcing," "Protection of Steel or Iron from Corrosion," "Fire Protection," "Modulus or Coefficient of Elasticity," "Bonding Old and New Concrete," "Effects of Freezing," "Classification of Cements," "Finishing Surfaces of Reinforced Concrete," "Facing and Finishing Exposed Concrete Surfaces." A number of illustrations of uses of reinforced concrete are included at the end of the book. The book is published at $2, but we understand that architects, engineers and contractors actively interested in the subject of reinforced construction can obtain copies without charge by addressing the American Steel & Wire Co., Concrete Dept., Chicago, Ill.

Value of a Builder's Reputation.

ONE of the famous builders of a previous era was named Bogart. The A. T. Stewart mansion was one of his jobs. He acquired a fortune and the writer became acquainted with him when he was living retired at Nyack, where he died at a very old age. Speaking of getting on in the building trades of New York, Mr. Bogart said that a man who once had acquired a reputation for good work would never have any trouble here, notwithstanding all the competition:

"It is impossible for some men to do poor work. They are personally not constituted and their business is not organized so that they can. It got so with me that I never had to look for work, because it came to me."

He related instances of this. In some cases whether a building would be financied or not depended on whether he would agree to do the work, because investors wanted to bank on a certainty. They wanted the work done right, with no disappointments and for that they were willing to pay whatever it was worth.

How a Warehouse Can Be Protected From Fire.

The Newark Warehouse Company has completed a 7-sty fireproof building in Mechanic st, between Ward and Lawrence sts. It is 360 feet in length, with a width varying from 130 feet on Lawrence st to 160 feet on Ward st, and it has a capacity of 1,200 carloads of freight.

The building is a steel frame structure, with reinforced concrete walls and floors. This is good fire-resisting stuff, so far as the structure is concerned. But the contents is another story. The Insurance Press specifies with approval the following equipment:

It is equipped throughout with the dry system of sprinklers, installed by the General Fire Extinguisher Co. Water can be obtained from the high pressure service of the city of Newark, maintaining a pressure of 140 lbs. to the square inch; from two hemispherical bottom tanks of 30,000 gallons capacity each, carried 25 feet above the roof of the building; or from two 750-gallon-per-minute electrically-driven centrifugal pumps, drawing on a 150,000-gallon reservoir in the basement of the building.

There are standpipes on each floor, with connections for 2½-inch hose, which can be used in case of necessity, and an approved watch clock system with several stations on each floor to insure the proper patrol of a number of watchmen.

The building has its own private fire-alarm system, which is more of an advantage in Newark than it would be in New York, where fire-boxes are thicker.

Product and Appliance.

ANOTHER MANUFACTURER OF BIG GAS ENGINES.

As an indication of the rapid development in the manufacture of big gas engines and the importance of the field occupied by this type of prime mover, it is of interest to note that another manufacturer of large Corliss steam engines has actively taken up the manufacture of gas engines, and is bidding strongly for engines in medium and large sizes. The Wisconsin Engine Company, with works at Corliss, Wis., which has built some very large Corliss steam engines, is building gas engines for all services in sizes from 400 B.H.P. to 5,000 B.H.P. The engines utilize natural gas, producer gas, coke-oven gas or blast-furnace gas in the Otto cycle (4-cycle), and are of the horizontal tandem and twin-tandem double-acting type. This company controls the Sargent patents on internal-name combustion engines and has employed Mr. Charles E. Sargent as the engineer of its gas engine department. Mr. Sargent, in 1898, designed the first horizontal tandem double-acting gas engine, which was a wide departure from the accepted practice of those days, when the most prominent manufacturers of gas engines declared such a type was impracticable, and doomed to failure. However, the largest and most successful gas engines are of the horizontal twin-tandem double-acting 4-cycle type, and with one exception this is the only type in which large units are being built in this country to-day. The gas engines built by the Wisconsin Engine Co. bear some of the distinctive features of their big Corliss engines, and utilize in design most of the Sargent patents. The design embodies features which are of considerable interest to the engineer and power user. There is but one poppet valve for each explosion chamber, and as this is on the bottom of the cylinder the cumbersome and unsightly air and gas pipes, as well as the stairs, galleries, and railings found on most horizontal tandem engines, are entirely eliminated; provision is made for preventing the dangerous pressures caused by possible pre-ignitions; and the engines are started automatically. Tests of even small Sargent engines show a heat consumption of less than 9,000 British Thermal Units per brake horse-power hour. This company has recently shipped some large steam engines to such concerns as the Illinois Steel Co., Jones & Laughlin Steel Co., Packard Motor Car Co., American Sheet & Tin Plate Co., Amoskeag Mfg. Co., New Hampshire Spinning Mills, National Tube Co., City of Milwaukee, Carnegie Steel Co., American Woolen Co., United States Envelope Co., and the Carnegie Natural Gas Co., and has built up an unusual reputation for shipping "on time." It promises to do as well on gas engine orders.

Building Operations.

Statistics of Plans Filed.

The following is a table of the new buildings and alterations projected for Manhattan and the Bronx with the estimated cost, for the past week and also for the corresponding week of 1906:

|---|---|---|
| No. of the new buildings in Manhattan and the Bronx..... | 33 | 75 |
| Estimated cost of new buildings.. | $340,565 | $2,195,050 |

Foundation Company's Contracts.

Concrete piles are being extensively used at present for the foundations of buildings in localities where the soil is of an extremely poor character. The extent to which they are being used is shown by the large number of contracts which are at present calling for the use of such foundations. Simplex Concrete Piles have been used for the foundations of the Fruit Auction Exchange Building, corner Franklin and Washington sts, this city. Also for the foundations for the Isaac G. Johnson Steel Castings Foundry on Spuyten Duyvil Creek, Spuyten Duyvil, New York, and for the refuse destructor for the Borough of Richmond, City of New York, foot of Taylor st., West New Brighton, S. I.; for the foundations for the addition to the plant of the Standard Oil Co. at Claremont av, Jersey City. The Foundation Company, 115 Broadway, New York City, have just been awarded the contract for borings and for placing Simplex Concrete Piles in the foundations for a new refining plant for the S. T. Baker Oil Co., of New York City, at Bay Way, Elizabeth, N. J. These piles are to be used in the foundations of the tanks, the walls of the filling house, storage house and tank house.

Improvements to Fleischman's Vienna Restaurant.

BROADWAY.—Plans are being prepared for the Fleischman Vienna Restaurant Company for a new restaurant on the northwest corner 11th st and Broadway. There will be a large dining room on the first floor, 90x160 feet, and a lunch room in the basement, 90x100 feet, with complete electric, heating and ventilating plant and kitchen arrangements for both upper and lower restaurant. The main dining room will be simple in treatment, but part of the dining room bordering on Broadway will be decorated with marble and caen stone, and will be treated as a classic garden, with all the various accessories, and will recall in a way the garden that exists in the old restaurant, which has so long been a picturesque feature of that section of Broadway. The show windows on Broadway will be arranged to open completely, so that during six months of the year open air dining will be a feature of the place. The estimated cost of the work is $120,000. William L. Rouse, 11 East 43d st, is the architect.

The Army and Navy Club Improvements.

44TH ST.—The Army and Navy Club, 107 and 109 West 43d st, having purchased No. 108 West 44th st, which abuts the club's present home, is soon to undergo extensive improvements. The club also has an option on the purchase of the adjoining plot, No. 106 West 44th st, which will afford a plot equal to the 43d st frontage. The present plan of the club is to throw the buildings into one, eliminating the present 43d st entrance, making the main entrance in 44th st. Plans have been submitted by several architects, but as yet, none have been chosen, or contracts let. Wm. Arthur Cable, 1183 Broadway, was architect for $30,000 worth of changes recently made by the club.

Latest Thirty-First St. Improvement.

31ST ST.—Robert Smith, No. 52 West 14th st, will proceed at once remodeling the 4-sty structure, No. 15 West 31st st, into stores and studios. At the front and rear 2-sty extensions will be added, and general interior changes will be made. Benjamin W. Levitan, 20 West 31st st, has the plans ready, but no contracts have yet been awarded for the work. The improvement will cost about $30,000.

Mutual Milk and Cream Co. Not to Build.

The Record and Guide was informed on Thursday, at the New York office of the Mutual Milk & Cream Company, No. 214 East 22d st, that the report, in other newspapers, that the company would erect a large milk condensary next spring at DeKalb Junction, New York, to cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, is positively incorrect, and was announced without any knowledge of the company.

More Tenements for Upper Bronx.

WHITE PLAINS AV.—Messrs. Dursie & Capiello, through T. Ambacorta, White Plains av and 213th st, have purchased a large plot 100.4x126.2 and 100x118 ft, on the northwest corner of White Plains av and 213th st, Bronx, and as soon as the title is passed, they will begin the erection of several 4-sty flat and store buildings. So far as could be learned on Wednesday, no plans have yet been drawn.

Latest Mott Street Improvement.

MOTT ST.—Henry Kensing, No. 258 West 121st st, has acquired No. 187 Mott st, now covered with a 5-sty structure, not taken by the city for the extension of Delancey st, which now becomes a corner plot. Mr. Kensing informs the Record and Guide that he will make extensive improvements to the building for business purposes. No plans, however, have yet been drawn or architect selected.

Improvements at Lenox Av and 117th St.

A row of dwelling houses on the west side of Lenox av, between 117th and 118th sts, one of the very few left in that neighborhood, are being altered for business purposes. Lenox av below 127th st has changed character materially during the past year.

Apartments, Flats and Tenements.

BRYANT AV.—H. G. Steinmetz, Bronx st and Tremont av, Bronx, has completed plans for two 3-sty flat buildings, to be erected on Bryant av near 173d st, Bronx.

J. O. Bunce, 1133 Broadway, Manhattan, is preparing plans for three 3-sty flat buildings, 39x113 ft., to be erected at Ridgewood, New Jersey, for W. W. Wilsey, care architect.

BELMONT AV.—Work will soon be started at Belmont av, near 180th st, Bronx, by P. D'Auria, who is on the premises, for a 5-sty flat and store building, to cost $45,000. A. Boehmer, 177th st and 3d av, is architect.

CONEY ISLAND AV.—Louis Danancher, 377 Rockaway av, Brooklyn, has completed plans for eight 3-sty tenement and store buildings, to be erected at the southeast corner of Coney Island av and Turner pl, Brooklyn, for Morris Weintraub, 640 10th st.

POPLAR ST.—Frederick Musty, 177 Cherry st, is preparing plans for four two and five-story tenements and store buildings for Adam Moran, 50 Madison st, to be erected on Poplar st, south side, 85 feet west of Henry st, Brooklyn, to cost about $100,000.

116TH ST.—Work will soon be started by Paterno Bros., Inc., Riverside Drive and 116th st, for the apartment house which they are to erect on 116th st, 175 feet west of Broadway, for which Schwartz & Gross, 347 5th av, have prepared plans. (See issue Oct. 26, 1907.)

151ST ST.—Moore & Landsiedel, 3d av and 148th st, are preparing plans for a 6-sty tenement building, 50x103 ft, for Albert Gunino, 414 East 141st st, to be erected on the south side of 151st st, 100 ft west of Morris av, to cost $50,000. The owner will do the mason and carpenter work. Plans will be completed in about two weeks, and will specify, structural iron, marble, tile, ornamental iron, lighting fixtures, concrete floors and sidewalks, sheet metal cornices, fire escapes, dumbwaiters, gas, plastic slate roof.

Dwellings.

ROBBINS AV.—Wm. T. La Velle, 1145 Freeman st, Bronx, will soon start the construction of eight 3-sty dwellings on Robbins av, Bronx, to cost about $70,000.

HULL AV.—Franz Wolfgang, 787 E. 177th st, has plans for six 2-sty dwellings for H. M. Millinger, 773 East 157th st, to be erected at the southwest corner of Hull av and 205th st, Bronx.

CARPENTER AV.—J. J. Vreeland, 2019 Jerome av, has completed plans for six 2-sty dwellings, 21x54 ft., to be situated on the east side of Carpenter av, 237th and 238th sts, Wakefield, Bronx, for Richard Feehan, 546 W. 140th st.

Alterations.

9TH AV.—Geo. M. McCabe, 96 5th av, has plans ready for alterations to Nos. 6 and 8 9th av, owned by A. J. Larkin, 15 9th av.

47TH ST.—H. Horenburger, 122 Bowery, is making plans for alterations to No. 330 East 47th st, for Aaron Avrutis, 302 Broadway.

MONROE ST.—Jacob Israelson, 139 Monroe st, will make extensive improvements to No. 139 Monroe st. Benj. Sackheim, 1900 Beyer st, is making plans.

GOERCK ST.—M. Zipkes, 147 4th av, is preparing plans for $7,000 worth of alterations to Nos. 51-53 Goerck st, for Messrs. Goldberg & Schancupp, 157 East 22d st.

Miscellaneous.

Messrs. Marvin & Davis, 1133 Broadway, Manhattan, have completed plans for the 3-sty club building for the Elk's Lodge, Port Jervis, New Jersey, to cost $20,000.

Messrs. Lawlor & Haase, 69 Wall st, Manhattan, have plans for a mechanical and electrical laboratory structure, for the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, to be erected at Troy, N. Y. The cost is estimated at $350,000.

Messrs. Hill & Stout, 1123 Broadway, Manhattan, and D. D. Williamson, New Brunswick, N. J., associate architects, have plans for a 3-sty engineering building to be erected at New Brunswick, New Jersey, for Rutgers College, to cost $60,000.

Messrs. Boring & Tilton, 32 Broadway, Manhattan, are preparing plans for a public library, 85x220 feet, to be erected at Springfield, Mass., to cost about $290,000. Operations will not be started before spring. No contracts have yet been awarded.

Jabez, Burns & Sons, 542 Greenwich st, Manhattan, will erect a $50,000 2-sty factory building, 157x275 ft., at Claremont av and Halsey st, Jersey City, for which John T. Rowland, 15 Exchange Place, Jersey City, has prepared plans. No awards have yet been made.

The Board of Aldermen has adopted a resolution approving the issuance of $40,000 corporate stock with which to erect a 2½-sty temporary building to be used for an additional court room at Chambers and Centre sts, in City Hall Park. So far as could be learned the past week, no plans have yet been prepared.

Estimates Receivable.

Bids will be received about December 1 for the 3-sty school building, which Architects Boring & Tilton, 32 Broadway, Manhattan, are planning to be erected at Stamford, Conn.

Wm. H. McElfatrick, 1402 Broadway, Manhattan, has completed plans and is taking figures on the carpenter and mason work for the theatre building, which the Orpheum Theatre Company is about to erect at Greenpoint, Long Island.

WILLIAM ST.—No contracts have yet been awarded for the 6-sty store and loft building which the Van Zandt Realty Co., 154 West 80th st, will erect at No. 169 William st, to cost $18,000. Geo. Keister, 11 West 29th st, has plans ready.

Albert E. Parfitt, 26 Court st, Brooklyn, will take estimates about December 1 for the 3-sty parish house to be erected by St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church, Brooklyn, to cost in the neighborhood of $175,000. Rev. W. McCarthy is pastor.

Contracts Awarded.

The American Bridge Company has obtained the contract for the steel work for the Brooklyn loop between the Williamsburg and Brooklyn bridges.

Plans Wanted.

Hella Temple (Shriners), Dallas, Tex., have decided to build a temple and auditorium. The building will be fireproof in every particular, covering a space of 175x250 or 200 ft. square, as may be determined by the site to be secured. Estimated cost of building, without site, will be from $100,000 to $125,000. Plans and specifications are wanted. Bids will be received in January or February next year. Address Joe G. Hunter, chairman committee.

BUILDING NOTES

A young man desires position as tracer in architect's office. See Wants and Offers.

Common labor is getting cheaper, due to the finishing up of the practical completion of the Belmont tunnel, the two Hudson River tunnels, the Battery tunnel, and much other large and small work. Foremen who have been getting from $125 to $150 per month are now willing to work for $3 per day, so great is the demand for positions.

On the 29th of June last the works of the Consolidated Color & Chemical Company, Newark, N. J., were totally destroyed. It was a splendid manner in which Mississippi Wire Glass, installed in the plant of the Sherwin-Williams Co., withstood the tremendous heat of the fire. Several of their buildings faced the destroyed property for a distance of about 250 ft. Fortunately, the Sherwin-Williams buildings were equipped with metal frames in which quarter-inch ribbed and polished wire glass were glazed, in accordance with the rules and regulations of the fire underwriters. Although 606 lights of the ribbed wire glass were much cracked and discolored, they were still in place. Ninety-six plates of polished wire glass were also cracked, but they have been weather-proof and admit a free view and transmission of light. The tin-clad fire underwriter's door in the south end of the varnish building appears to have suffered greater depreciation than the windows. The monitor and pitched skylights glazed with wire glass resisted the fire equally as well as the windows. The Sherwin-Williams plant is one of the largest and most modern paint and varnish factories in the country.

The Week.

WHILE the number of sales reported was about the same as last week, still there were a few consummated that are well worthy of notice. The Oscawana, on West End av and 79th st, occupying a plot 100x102.2, was sold to a speculator who has placed it on the market again for sale. 115 West 119th st, a 4-sty dwelling, also an American basement dwelling at 316 West 107th st, No. 116 East 80th st, and 314 West 78th st, all private dwellings, changed hands. The Rhinelander, a 30-foot 7-sty elevator apartment house, situate 534 West 124th st, and two 6-sty elevator apartment house in 143d st, 90 feet west of Hamilton pl, were exchanged, Nos. 227 to 233 West 141st being given in part payment. This transaction involved about $550,000. There were no notable sales in the Bronx. Probably this was due in a measure to the sale by auction of 89 lots, and the intending investors took this means of purchasing.

There was the usual run of leases consummated during the week, but nothing out of the ordinary, except a $1,000,000 lease of the Hotel Walton, in Philadelphia, Pa., to Louis Lukes, the details of which appear in another part of the paper.

There were quite a number of large mortgages recorded this week, and it shows a tendency to easier money conditions. Corporations are willing to lend their hoardings out if the security is satisfactory. This is a decided improvement in the state of affairs of a few weeks ago, when practically no money could be procured at any price. The largest mortgage was obtained by Eliza A. Wilcox from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company on 340 Riverside Drive, on the southesat corner of 86th st $525,000, being the amount loaned at 5½ per cent. for 5 years. The house occupies a lot 100x102. The Metropolitan Life also lent the "West 72d Street Company" $400,000 on the hotel at 55 West 27th st. This is due Nov. 1, 1912, and is at 5 per cent. The Mutual Life Insurance Co. placed $300,000 on 845 and 846 Fifth av, cor 66th st, 50x100. This property is situated in the heart of fashionable New York. The due date and rate do not appear in the mortgage, but are in the bond. The Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Company gave James B. Haggin a loan amounting to $225,000 on a dwelling 70 feet east of Fifth av on 48th st. Washington Heights also came in for its share of mortgage money this week. Harry Lehr received a loan of $160,000 at 6 per cent on the northeast cor Amsterdam av and 167th st. This piece is 86x100x50x100. George Daily also borrowed $130,000 from the Dry Dock Savings Institution on Broadway, southwest cor 140th st, 99.11x75. This last mortgage is for 1 year at 5 per cent. interest

The total number of mortgages recorded for Manhattan this wek were 206, as against 178 last week, and in the Bronx 107 this week, as against 105 last week. The total amount involved is $8,320,456, as against $4,883,255 last week.

THE AUCTION MARKET

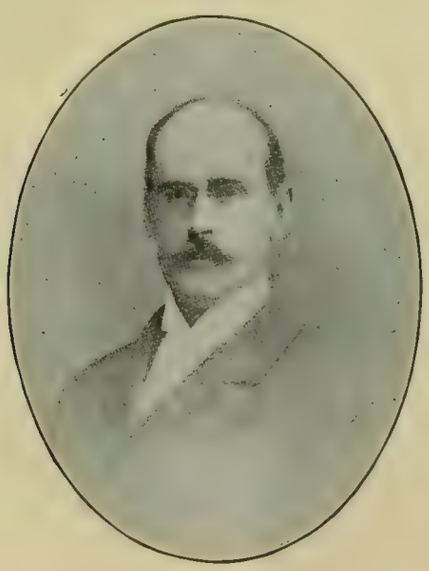
THE week just past was a notable one in the auction market. At the stand of Joseph P. Day, 89 lots, known as the David B. Cocks property, in the 24th Ward of the Bronx Borough, were put up for sale on Tuesday. This tract was divided into two groups, the Woodlawn and the Fordham properties. The total amount realized for the lots was $145,525, which, under the circumstances, was considered very good.

Under the terms of sale all taxes, assessments and water rates, which at the time of sales were liens, were allowed by the seller or paid out of the purchase money, providing that the purchaser, previous to the delivery of the deed, produce proofs of such liens. Sixty per cent. of the purchase money was allowed to remain upon mortgage at the option of the purchaser. Title insurance by the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. was furnished free of cost.



The Woodlawn Heights property brought from $500 to $2,100 a lot. The latter price was paid for the northeast corner of Mt. Vernon av and 233d st. On Herkimer pl, $400 to $700 a lot was the price brought, and Mt. Vernon av. inside lots went at $775 to $900 each. Corners on 233d st were knocked down at $1,000, and inside lots $525 to $700. On Webster av, west side, running to Decatur av, lots sold for from $5,400 to $5,500. On the opposite of Decatur av, $2,900 and $3,000 each were paid for lots 145 feet deep. Others on this avenue brought $2,575 each.

At the stand of Bryan L. Kennelly, a 5-sty double flat, 27x100.11, near 3d av, went to Walter Heilbrun for $24,250; 1174 2d av to A. Schneider, a 4-sty flat, with 2 stores, brought $22,600; 546 Hudson st, 20.7x80.5 irregular, 4-sty brick flat, to C. H. Benner for $15,750; 526½ and 528 Broome st, 40x75, 2 and 3-sty buildings, to Alfred L. M. Bullowa for $25,100; and 523 West 123d st, 5-sty limestone triple flat, 33.2x100.11, to M. B. Ehrman for $46,000.

The success of these sales shows pretty clearly that the small investor is turning towards real estate. He realizes that he can purchase property that will net him a good return on his money, and he is taking advantage of the situation.

Annual Meeting Board of Brokers.

THE Real Estate Board of Brokers held their annual meeting on Tuesday. David A. Clarkson, Francis E. Ward, Joseph P. Day and Alfred V. Amy were elected to the Board of Governors, who in turn elected David A. Clarkson, president;

DAVID L. CLARKSON.

Joseph P. Day, vice-president; Edward L. King, secretary; and Richard Alexander, treasurer.

The standing committees are as follows:

Admissions.—F. R. Wood, chairman; William E. Davies, Thomas P. Graham, W. Willis Reese, E. A. Tredwell.

Floor.—A. N. Gitterman, chairman; Richard Alexander, J. Hamilton Hunt, W. H. Warren, C. E. Williams.

Records.—Frank D. Ames, chairman; Edward L. King, F. R. Wood.

Arbitration.—John P. Kirwan, chairman; Frederick A. Booth, Edward L. King, Walter Stabler, E. A. Tredwell.

Brokerage Claims.—Edwin H. Hess, chairman; A. V. Amy, Joseph P. Day, A. W. McLaughlin, Edward McVickar.

Legislation and Taxation.—Thomas W. Folsom, chairman; Wright Barclay, David A. Clarkson, A. N. Gitterman, William C. Lester, Francis E. Ward, C. E. Schuyler.

Stock List.—Wm. Henry Folsom, chairman; J. Clarence Davies, Edward McVickar.

Auditing Committee.—Joel S. de Selding, chairman; Charles E. Duross, H. C. Senior.

Nominating Committee.—Wright Barclay, chairman; Joel S. de Selding, William C. Lester, W. Willis Reese, Walter Stabler.

It was decided to incorporate the Board of Brokers. A constitution was adopted, with several new features. Provisions were made for the admission of non-resident members to the board, and also for the securing of associate members, through the board's Committee on Legislation and Taxation.

Miss A. W. Fox received a vote of thanks before the meeting adjourned for her able and conscientious management of the board's offices.

Renting Conditions on Washington Heights.

A GREAT deal has been said and written about the overbuilt condition of certain parts of the city, notably Washington Heights, but this situation has now been done away with, and for the present at least there is a dearth of vacancies. It is hard for those who are unfamiliar with the real estate market to realize how a change such as this could possibly take place in so short a space of time. When one considers that the class of people who can afford to pay between $30 and $60 a month rent are in the great majority, as compared with the class of apartment house dwellers who can afford to pay more, it can be understood more readily. There is only a very limited amount of land on that narrow strip of ground. Only so many houses can be built, and with the normal increase in population it does not take long to fill up vacancies.

For the past two years the renting situation has given the real estate men a good deal of trouble. One of the prominent renting brokers on the Heights said the other day: "It is a most remarkable state of affairs. Money tight, practically no sales, few trades, and yet renting splendid.

"The inquiries for medium-class apartments," he continued, "have not been so numerous during the two years just past as they are at the present time. Before the 1st of last October we brokers in this part of town were pretty blue, and many thought that we had to face another hard winter. But this has not been the case. The house owner," continued this broker, "who has a mortgage on his property that has some little time to run, is in a good position, for he is getting a splendid return from the money invested in his house."

W. W. Babcock, in the office of Duff & Brown, said, in speaking of this side of the real estate market: "Conditions are surprisingly good. We have no complaint to make. A certain house not far from 143d st, which, on September 1 had 18 vacancies, is to-day all full. This is not an isolated case, but many houses have had similar experiences."

Mr. Knap, of Knap & Co., said, in regard to the renting of apartments this fall on the Heights: "This section of the city is divided into two parts: That section from 135th st to 160th st, and the other section above that street to Fort George. Naturally, the flats that are centrally located rent the quickest. There are many inquiries for apartments that overlook the river. The stores on Broadway are in demand, and are renting readily. On Amsterdam av, in the 140th's streets, there are but few vacancies. There is practically nothing doing in the private dwelling line. Why? Because there is nothing to rent. Everything is taken."

Charles D. Hobbs, of the firm of Slawson & Hobbs, said: "We have met with great success in renting apartments on Washington Heights. This fall we have received more applications from prospective tenants who wish to locate in this section than ever before in our experience. A couple of years ago people hunting for apartments would ask us, 'Where is Washington Heights?' Now they come into the office and ask, 'What have you got on the Heights?' There is no question in my mind that the apartment dwelling people are getting educated to that section of the city. They are just beginning to see the natural beauties. It takes some time before they can fully realize all the advantages. I repeat that we are more than gratified with the success that we have had in renting in this part of town."

Unfortunately, during the past few years several houses have gone up that were badly constructed. Men of small capital did the building, and they were working pretty close to the wind. This sort of thing never does a neighborhood any good, for if the building is completed it is not the class of house that is desirable, and if it is foreclosed it is questionable what the result will be, but at best it will resolve itself into the fact that a poorly built house is finished. Those houses on the Heights that have been generously built have been invariably a success—houses where the minimum amount of floor space was not strictly adhered to, and where a little more was given than was absolutely necessary by law. This class of house always has tenants. There are many instances of this kind on the Heights.

A canvass was made of Washington Heights, and while it did not include every house, still enough were taken into account to get a clear idea of the situation. There are a number of houses that are in course of construction. Manifestly, these have not been included, as they are not ready for occupancy. In the course of a few months they will open their doors, and then there will be more apartments on the market. No anxiety is felt, however, on this score, because their completion will be so gradual that there will not be much trouble to get tenants to fill them.

There are several important foreclosure suits pending. When these properties are acquired by the new owners the general condition of the Heights market will be improved, because these parcels will have been placed in stronger hands.

Attention should be called to several things that appear in the appended list. The number of vacancies are really not so numerous as they appear. For example, the house on Riverside Drive, near 135th st, is still unfinished. The reason it was put on the list was that it shows clearly the fact that people are renting ahead. Out of 29 apartments, 15 are rented and 14 are vacant.

The house on Amsterdam av, near 135th st, a 6-sty walk-up, with 22 apartments and 3 stores all rented, speaks for itself. Three houses on Audubon av, near St. Nicholas av, opened Oct. 15, show only 5 vacancies out of 39 apartments. Broadway, near 147th st, only 9 apartments and 7 stores; everything rented and a waiting list. 158th st, near Broadway, a new elevator house just opened, but unfinished, has only 10 empties out of 42 apartments.

This makes the average about 5½ per cent. vacant, but by taking out the unfinished buildings and computing those that are in full running order, this percentage is reduced to about 3%. Certainly this is a gratifying state of affairs, and only shows that with each year the Heights is growing in favor as a residential section.

Stocks vs. Real Estate.

Last year Reading common stock sold at 164, yielding from its 4 per cent. dividend only 2.44 per cent. to the investor, as against the 5 per cent. now obtainable. Reading stock sold yesterday at 78⅝. At that price its 4 per cent. dividend means a yield of 5 per cent. to the buyer.—New York Herald.

There is no security sold on any exchange in the world that is so safe and which has the chances for prospective increases in value as New York Real Estate. I should estimate the average yearly increase in value at from 6 to 10 per cent., so that we may safely say that the total yearly income from New York Real Estate is at least 10 per cent., and may go as high as 20 per cent.—Jefferson M. Levy.

Advisability of the Torrens System.

taking into consideration the size of the city of Chicago, and the large values of the real estate in that city.

We quote the following statistics from Charles G. Little, an examiner of titles, who, at the request of the Register of Cook County, submitted to the Allied Real Estate Interests the following statistics on or about the 24th of May, 1907:

"The first statute was passed in Illinois in 1895, and declared unconstitutional, and the present law was adopted on May 1st, 1897, and the office of the Registrar of Titles opened May 1st, 1899."

|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| In 1899 | there | were | registered | ..... | 128 titles. |
| In 1900 | " | " | " | ..... | 116 " |
| In 1901 | " | " | " | ..... | 115 " |
| In 1902 | " | " | " | ..... | 251 " |
| In 1903 | " | " | " | ..... | 279 " |
| In 1904 | " | " | " | ..... | 346 " |

For the period of those six years the total assessed value of the land thus registered was $6,192,810, or about what two of New York's large downtown office buildings are valued at.

In 1905 there were 387 titles registered, and the assessed value of the land so registered was $1,442,500; in 1906 there were 355 titles registered, and the value of the land was $1,550,550. The entire number of titles registered since the law took effect up to the 24th day of May, 1907, was but 2,071, and the total assessed value of the land thus registered at $9,492,660. The conveyances under the Torrens System during the year 1906 were 911, expressing a consideration aggregating but $1,685,995; incumbrances filed under the Torrens System during the year 1906 were 595, securing loans aggregating $1,111,718. Compare with this the fact that, under the old system, for the fiscal year ending November 30, 1906, the transfers filed in Cook County were 29,795 in number, expressing a total consideration of $132,000,156; the Recorder states that the receipts for the year 1906 were $14,756, and the estimated expense for conducting this system during the year 1907 was about $18,000.

A representative of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, one of the largest lenders on real estate in the city of Chicago, says that he knows of no large tract or any valuable property that registration has been applied for, even by those who are advocating the system and had the law passed. The Northwestern Life Insurance Company in all its real estate loans will not accept any title under the Torrens law, and will not make a loan on any property that has been entered for registration under it.

An examiner of titles under the first Torrens Act in Illinois, and who therefore should be very familiar with the Torrens System, wrote as follows, in reply to the inquiry of the Allied Real Estate Interests:

"Unless living under a constitution as in England, giving or allowing the legislative branch of government a free hand, no Torrens Act can be of any valuable service, because constitutional rights cannot be impaired by this procedure; consequently, if a Torrens certificate is to be relied upon, the person proposing to take it must know the title prior to the certificate as thoroughly as if the certificate had been granted him; he must examine the registration and be sure that it is conclusive. This deprives the certificate of all its claimed virtues. The market value of his title is impaired, because he limits his market to those only who would accept Torrens certificates."

This opinion, taken from an observer of the system in Chicago, probably indicates a fundamental reason why the system has made no greater progress in the United States. For though the showing of the system in Massachusetts and Illinois is not a good one, it seems to have met with as little public approval in other States of the Union where it has been tried. Ohio adopted a Torrens Statute, and after it had been pronounced unconstitutional in 1898, the statute was unanimously repealed. The system in California appears never to have taken serious root in the real estate situation there, and is almost a dead letter.

There apparently is something in the system not in harmony with the nature of our institutions and the character of our government. That the system may have succeeded to a certain degree under those governments where the Parliament is the supreme law of the land is not denied; but it is our belief that the system can never succeed where the constitution does not permit the exercise of judicial authority by a mere ministerial officer, and where property cannot be taken without due process of law. However, the former objection may be overcome by the special institution of a land court, as in Massachusetts, it is difficult to see how the latter objection may be met, especially when it is remembered that the attempt of the Torrens System is to certify an indefeasible title as against all the world.

A condition precedent to the registration of titles under the Torrens System, and the subsequent conclusive effect of the certificate of such registration, is the final extinguishment of all outstanding claims and interests which have not become valid and subsisting liens on the property: Can such a barring be accomplished as is attempted under the Torrens System by a notice to all whom it may concern? Is a person who has a claim against a parcel of land properly brought under the jurisdiction of the court by such a notice, so that his property is not taken without due process of law? It would seem that the entire procedure of registration is in the nature of a bill to quiet title and not in the nature of an action in rem, and that the same method or process must be invoked as to fulfil the requirements of judicial process as the term is used pertaining to the ordinary adjudication of the rights of persons.

Justice Holmes, in his opinion upholding the statute in Massachusetts, contends that the proceeding is one of the nature of a proceeding in rem. But in so contending he is directly at variance with the decision of People vs. Guilbert, 56 Ohio State, 575. The Court there says, in reference to the contention of the proceeding being in the nature of an action in rem (referring to the land):

> "It is not to be sold with a view of the distribution of its proceeds, and it partakes, therefore, less of the nature of a proceeding in rem than does the foreclosure of a mortgage. The land is not a thing of shifting situs like a ship, against which obligations may accrue to-day in one jurisdiction and to-morrow in another. The status of the land is not changed by registration. The substantial thing determined by registration is that the person who makes the application has a right of property in the land to the exclusion of all other persons. The judicial force of the proceeding is wholly expended in a conclusive determination of the rights of persons in the land."

Which opinion decided that the method of service provided in that State was unconstitutional.

In Illinois the Supreme Court, in passing upon the statute of that State, in which the constitutionality of the law was raised, merely held that the law might be enforced in such a manner as not to be unconstitutional; but baldly stated that so much of the act as provided that "any person having an interest or lien upon the land, who has not been actually served with process or notified of the filing of such application or the pendency thereof, may, at any time within two years after the entry of such order or decree, and not afterwards, appear," etc., was unconstitutional.

From none of the State courts has a case gone to the United States Supreme Court on its merits, and never till the question of what constitutes due process of law, so far as it is involved (and it is fundamental in the Torrens System), is settled by the United States Supreme Court, does it seem that the system can ever make much headway. Until such a decision is reached, those States having the Torrens Systems are bound to have those titles beclouded, and no purchaser can feel a certainty as to his title which he felt under the old system.

Mr. Niblack, the Chicago writer on the Torrens System, states that an important feature of the system is an indemnity fund to indemnify anyone who may be injured by the operation of the Act. Viewed from a practical standpoint, this indemnity fund does not appear to have grown of sufficient size to be of any real value. In Cook County, Ill., where the total assessed value of the land registered was $9,492,660, the indemnity fund in June of this year amounted to less than $10,000. It can be seen that it would not require many claims such as arise where there are enormous values in real estate to entirely obliterate such a fund.

The question as to the right of the government to take such a fund from A, B, C, for the purpose of presenting it to X, Y, Z, whom presumably the government has wronged by taking away their property, is a very serious one. Certainly it cannot be said that such moneys are taken for public purposes. At least it seems rather paradoxical that the State should be making restitution to those from whom it has taken property by no other means than due process of law.

That there are, therefore, one, and perhaps two, serious constitutional objections to the Torrens System or systems cannot be doubted. That the system has proved unpopular and of little practical value in those States where it is in vogue is probably true. But that the system should have a full and complete test, it is argued that it must be made compulsory. That when purchasers are forced to accept such titles, despite their serious objections, and it is a settled fact that a decree may be entered which, after the running of a short statute of limitations, becomes final as against the world, then the real simplicity and benefits of the Torrens System will appear. There are two answers to this suggestion: first, if the system is a good one compulsion is unnecessary; second, if it is a bad one, it is unjust. The late Governor Russell, in making his recommendations to the Legislature, said:

"The first point which should be noted in connection with the Torrens System is that its use is optional and not compulsory; existing methods of transfer can be continued precisely as at present. It remains entirely within the option of every landowner whether he will avail himself of the privileges offered by the new system, and therefore no one loses any right which he now possesses. The new method must secure support from the public, not through compulsory legislation, but through the greater advantage which it offers."

But, judging from the statistics which we have been able to secure, we believe that never in the United States will the Torrens System secure support from the public through its greater advantages. However well the system may work in countries where no constitutional barriers stand in the way, and where the fiat of a parliament is the supreme law of the land, the system cannot succeed where the provisions of the Constitution make certain very vital elements of the Torrens System the subjects of grave uncertainty.

Divisions of Real Estate.

(Extracted from a lecture by Henry F. Miller, Esq., before the West Side Y. M. C. A.)

The words usually adopted in referring to real estate are lands, tenements and hereditaments. The word hereditament has the widest meaning of the three—it means anything which may be inherited; using the word inherited in the technical sense, that it would pass to the heir and not the executor or personal representative of one who died. Hereditaments would be of two classes, corporeal and incorporeal.

A corporal hereditament is something of a physical nature, as land and buildings, and, in the English law, heirlooms which pass to the heir. An incorporeal hereditament is something of an intangible nature, as a right connected with real estate, although in itself a part of the real estate.

The word tenement signifies anything which may be held. It is not confined, in real estate law, to the popular meaning given to the word at the present time, and used in relation to tenement houses.

The word land is the most restricted in meaning of the three terms used and signifies the soil, but the ownership extends indefinitely downwards and upwards, and anything erected on the land, subject to the qualifications that I pointed out in discussing fixtures, belong to the land.

Estates in land are divisible into two great classes—(1) Freeholds, (2) Estates less than freeholds.

Freeholds are divided into two classes—freeholds of inheritance and freholds not of inheritance, or life estates. Freeholds of inheritance are otherwise termed fees, and these fees are known either as a fee simple or as a base or qualified fee. A fee simple means an absolute estate in perpetuity. A base or qualified fee means an estate which would pass to the heir, but clogged with certain limitations or conditions.

Freeholds not of inheritance are either conventional, i. e., they arise by the act of the parties, or they are legal, which means that they arise by operation of law. Those that arise by the act of the parties are created by writing—those that arise by operation of law require no writing, and are best illustrated by the estates of curtesy and dower.

Estates less than freehold are divided into various classes, i. e., estates for years, from year to year, and estates at will, and at sufferance.

The distinction between estates of freehold and estates less than freehold is that a person is said to be seized of an estate of freehold, and is said to be possessed of an estate less than freehold.

An estate in fee simple is the highest estate known to the law. It is sometimes called a fee simple absolute, but this means the same thing. The owner has the absolute control over it, so that he could carve out of it any inferior estate. An estate in fee simple, upon the death of the owner, passes to his devisees, and in case he leaves no will, to his heirs at law. Heirs at law are the persons who inherit the real estate. The term is to be distinguished from next of kin who are the persons entitled to receive the personal estate. In most cases these persons would be the same, but there are a number of cases where they would be different. The personal property is always the first fund for the payment of debts. The real estate can only be resorted to, after the personal property is exhausted, unless the testator, by his will, subjects the real estate to the discharge of his debts.

A base or qualified fee is one clogged with some condition—if the condition be broken, the grantor, or his heirs, would have the right to reenter and repossess the estate. This is illustrated by a reported case (Nicoll vs. Erie R. R. Co., 12 N. Y., 121). In that case an estate in fee was given to the Erie R. R. Co., upon condition that the company should build its road in a certain place within three years. This was an estate upon condition.

Other illustrations of estates on condition, or base or qualified fees which have been held valid in this State, are, a grant on condition that the grantee, his heirs and assigns shall not, at any time, manufacture or sell intoxicating liquor on the premises, and a grant on condition that the grantee should support the grantors.

In all of the cases that I have just referred to, the condition was what is called "a condition subsequent."

There are two kinds of conditions—precedent and subsequent. A "condition precedent" is one which must occur before any title vests in the grantee. A "condition subsequent" is one in which the title actually vests in the grantee, but is liable to be defeated by the breach of the condition imposed.

If the condition precedent is not complied with, no estate passes. If a condition subsequent is broken, the estate is not immediately ended, but the grantor, or his heirs, have the right to enter after the condition is broken. This right of entry must be exercised in a legal way, which is by bringing an action of ejectment.

The Troublesome Broker's Commission.

A firm of brokers have received the following letter:

Dear Sirs: In reply to yours of October 18, you misunderstand my position, as I agreed with you on the following facts:

That what I wrote you in August I confirmed again in October, as to full commission.

That the lease in question is a five-year lease (I make no question on this score). Further, I have no reason to doubt that the tenants came to the property through you. My position is this: On going to the premises last Monday I saw the parties looking, as I thought, at the bulletin boards in front of the building. I asked them if they were looking for anybody, and they told me they wanted to know about the loft, and asked me if I knew anything about it. I said "yes," that I was the agent of the property, and they said that I was just the one they wanted to see.

After some negotiations at that meeting the terms of the proposed lease were agreed upon, subject to their obtaining the premises immediately from the then current tenant, whose lease ended February 1.

In the negotiations I had told them that a three-year lease was the limit the owner wished to give. They stated that that would be useless for their purpose, and had some fear for possible changes in future rent. I then suggested this two-year additional, subject to cancellation. This all happened on Monday.

Early Tuesday morning I had had their references, etc., and had drafted up the conditions of the lease.

What I am trying to bring out is the fact that I had no knowledge nor suspicion that these people had come to the premises through any broker, and I made all these lease conditions with that impression. Tuesday noon was the first time I learned that Mr. McDonald had been connected therewith. Before I allowed the lease to be executed I saw Mr. McDonald and explained to him the position I was in. I told him three years was all I was allowed to involve the owner in; further that I wanted to do all I could, and would give him a check for full commission on three years, and asked him what was best to be done. His reply was to the effect, "Suppose we'll have to make the best of it."

The reason of sending the check so promptly was that I told Mr. McDonald the moment the lease was closed I would send him check.

There has been additional five horsepower put on the lease, increasing the rent $250, to which I take it you are entitled, and I enclose check for $7.50, the difference.

I am frank to say that I have never had anybody give me a check where lease had been closed under similar circumstances, although I have had many such cases.

If this explanation is not satisfactory, please let me know.

Very truly yours, ——— ———.

October 21, 1907.

Ed. Note.—The above copy of a letter enclosed by a subscriber for comment and decision shows the doubts and uncertainties as to rights in which the best and most honorable brokers differ. In this case the brokers who did so little to effect a letting and were so generously treated by the owner's agent should be grateful for a commission on the three years' basis.

Death of Frederick Southack.

Frederick Southack, of Frederick Southack & Alwyn Ball, Jr., real estate brokers, died at his home, 48 West 53d st, on Monday last from pneumonia.

A New Yorker by birth, and while still a young man, he entered the real estate field and never changed his business. After some years he met Mr. Ball, and they formed the partnership which is only severed by death.

Barney transferred this property to the trust company shortly after his resignation as president.

Overdue Mortgages.

The real estate market is successfully weathering the storm. Unless there is another severe attack of "bank panic" there is every reason to believe that Manhattan and Bronx real estate will continue to show improvement. But the Evening Post says it has generally been known that many builders, especially those who have operated on Washington Heights have been hard pressed:

It is also public knowledge that many mortgages are overdue on properties in all parts of the city. Now that the worst of the crisis seems to be over, it is gratifying to look about and see in how few cases these loans have been called. There was some slight tendency to reduce the principals and increase the rates, but even that was apparent in only a few scattered cases. Had the holders of these mortgages seen fit to close out their interests they might have caused somewhat of a real estate panic, for in the recent condition of the mortgage market it would have been next to impossible to replace some of the loans.

The confidence of the people has not been shaken by any tampering with overdue mortgages. If they had had as little to fear from other sources as from that one there would have been nothing to start "the run."

Torrens Commission to Meet in Albany.

A meeting of the Torrens Commission will be held at Albany on Nov. 29. David A. Clarkson, Esq., Chairman of the Commission, makes the following statement:

"A mistaken impression as to the power and scope of the Torrens Commission has operated thus far to deprive the commission of certain information which it greatly desires to obtain. The Legislature in creating this commission conferred upon it authority to suggest changes in the present system of land transfer. Persons familiar with real estate transfers realize that the system now in use needs to be modified and simplified. Different portions of the State have different needs in this respect, and the commission desires to be put in possession of information showing these various needs. The hearing in the Assembly Chamber at Albany at 1.30 p. m. on Nov. 29 has been planned for this purpose, as well as to hear arguments for and against the Torrens system. Persons desiring to be heard on that date are requested to notify the Secretary at once and be prepared to submit at the hearing a brief statement of the facts and arguments they desire to present. All communications should be addressed to T. Winthrop Weston, Secretary, Room 54, 55 Liberty st."

Large Sale in Maiden Lane.

The 20-sty building now in course of construction situate at 15 to 19 Maiden lane, and running through and including 18 and 22 John st, has been transferred by Edward Holbrook to the Maiden Lane Realty Co. The consideration as stated on the transfer is $1,250,000, subject to a mortgage of $535,000. This property was acquired by Mr. Holbrook in 1904. This is one of the important plots that is being improved, and lies in the heart of the wholesale jewelry district. On the Maiden lane side directly to the east is the Hays Building, and on the west is the Jewelers' Building. On the John st side on the west is the Anderson Building, and on the east a 5-sty business building. Mr. Holbrook, President of the Gorham Manufacturing Co., organized a company to erect this building. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy about May 1, 1908. The approximate cost of building and ground is $2,000,000. There will be an arcade running through the middle of the building from street to street.

Insurance on Big Buildings.

The New Plaza has been insured for $5,000,000, of which $500,000 is on the contents. The largest line taken by any one insurance company was $250,000. Dutcher & Edmister placed the insurance, and they also have the placing of the insurance of the City Investing Building, which will also amount to $5,000,000.

PROPERTY OWNERS' SECTION.

Mr. Bloch on the Tenement House Law.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ACMY REAL ESTATE CLUB.

The annual business meeting of the Acmy Real Estate Club was held at Reisenweber's on Monday evening, November 18. The following officers were elected: President, Pierre M. Clear; vice-president, Charles J. Harvey; secretary, Geo. A. Haynes; treasurer, William Moran; executive committee, Joseph P. Day, E. A. Tredwell, Julius Goldberg and Past President Arthur Truslow.

Mr. Adolph Bloch, Counsel for the United Real Estate Owners' Association, was the guest of the evening; he addressed the members on the Tenement House Law, its conception, operation, the various attempts made to perfect it and the changes that are still contemplated in it.

Mr. Bloch traced the history of the Tenement House Law from its enactment on April 12, 1901, which he said "came like a thunderbolt from a clear sky. It was unannounced, unexpected and unsuspected." In referring to the bill being a creation of charity organizations, of which Mr. De Forest was the leading spirit, Mr. Bloch said it was due to Mr. De Forest that a tenement-house law was in existence, but that however good might have been the spirit which prompted it, it was UNFORTUNATE that the conditions of tenement house property in Cherry st, Baxter st and the lower East Side had been taken as typical of all tenement house property in the City of New York.

At Mr. De Forest's request Governor Roosevelt had appointed a commission to inquire into the subject and the commission subsequently presented a proposed tenement house law, and the speaker paid his respects to Mr. Veiller, as treasurer, secretary and working member of the commission, "upon whose shoulders the burden was cast of the physical labor connected with preparing the provisions of the law which, in April, 1901, they offered to the Legislature." People alive to the interests of real estate in New York knew nothing about it; they were unable to procure a copy of the commission's report; but few people were able to get even a copy of the bill; it was swept through the Legislature, and it was not until it had reached Governor Odell that members of the Real Estate Owners' Association woke up and a few members got together and went to Albany before the Governor on April 11.

They told the Governor it was a drastic bill, which seriously affected conditions in New York, and that it would be wise to give it consideration. The Governor replied that its being presented by Mr. De Forest gave great force to it. The privilege of submitting briefs was requested, and the Governor gave ten days from April 11 for that purpose; but, the very next day Governor Odell subscribed his name to the bill, which became the "Tenement House Law."

That bill required extensive alterations in then existing houses—some of its requirements rendered houses unfit for occupation. Vested interests were cast aside and swept away, without a hearing or an opportunity to be heard by the owners, and excitement was raised to such a pitch that a body called the "United Real Estate Owners' Association" was formed, who represented to Mr. De Forest the hardships resulting from the bill by explaining to him provisions of the law which he admitted were absolutely new to him, and he then saw how unworkable and impracticable the law was.

Many were the instances where the savings of a lifetime invested in tenement house property were swept away, regardless of the condition of the premises or the fact that they were constructed to comply in all respects with the law up to that time. The bill permitted no discretion to the officers who were to enforce it, and as a result, Mr. Bloch, as Counsel for the United Real Estate Owners' Association, instituted suit in the famous case of the Tenement House Department against Moschen. The speaker then traced the conduct of that suit from its trial in the Municipal Court to the decision in the United States Supreme Court adverse to the property owners.

Mr. Bloch repeatedly in his address said that he had nothing to say against the theory, spirit or intent of a tenement house law, but everything in its favor; his criticism was directed towards an enforcement of the law which worked such great hardship upon innocent owners.

In referring to efforts to amend the law Mr. Bloch dwelt upon Commissioner Butler's invitation to real estate owners to meet him in conference, together with members of the Board of Brokers or the Architects' League, to consider a revision of the law, which invitation was extended during the past winter; but, that conference never came about, despite vigorous efforts to get Mr. Bloch to meet them. Then, at the eleventh hour the department's own amendments were introduced in the Legislature, without any opportunity of a public hearing. The speaker did not hesitate in expressing his opinion of the manner in which the department endeavored to pass his bill and, in concluding, urged upon those present the necessity of interesting themselves in legislative work, to the end that when a bill should come up that is bad they would be heard from in no uncertain terms.

Among those present were Vice-President Beck and Corresponding Secretary Schnelle of the United Real Estate Owners' Association.

West End Association.

The Hotel Marseilles, at Broadway and 103d. st, will be the scene of the Annual Dinner of the West End Association.

At the last meeting the Treasurer reported the balance on hand as $2,110.89. The following new members were elected:

S. Morrill Banner, 52 Broadway, proposed by G. C. Batcheller.
Leander A. Bevin, 150 W. 76th st, proposed by J. S. Durand.
Frank G. Burke, 338 W. 89th st, proposed by E. H. Laing.
James S. Lehmaier, 132 Nassau st, proposed by J. C. Coleman.
Robert A. Parker, 81 Fulton st, proposed by J. S. Durand.
Samuel Siegler, 489 Columbus av, proposed by DeB. Wilmot.
Richard Thibaut, 26 W. 95th st, proposed by Thomas Edgar.
James L. Wandling, 81 8th av, proposed by J. S. Durand.

The resignations of Wm. S. Crandall, Jesse W. Ehrich, Winchester Fitch, H. A. Guinzburg, Edwin W. Inslee, A. D. Middleton, Isaac Stiebel and Fred. F. Waters were accepted.

A complaint as to a bad condition of the sidewalk in West 70th st has been taken up with the Bureau of Highways and attention is promised, but not yet given.

The members of the Committee on Railroads reported that they had communicated with the New York City Railway Co. and later with the Public Service Commission as to the failure of the railway company to obey the side-gate ordinance..

Messrs. A. Walter Otis, Warren C. Crane, William P. Glenney, De Borden Wilmot and Waldron Williams were appointed a committee to nominate officers for 1908.

Mr. Wentz of the 79-96th st special committee reported that the committee had decided that the only way in which to accomplish its object was by means of an action at law. The committee is satisfied that it has sufficient evidence to justify such action, but cannot proceed unless assured of the necessary funds. The other associations represented on the committee hold that the major portion of such funds should be provided by the West End Association.

Mr. Moran, Treasurer of the Joint Committee of West Side Association, reported having in hand about $3,000, subscribed for the purposes of abating the nuisances of smoke and blasting on the Jersey shore of the Hudson, which objects have been practically attained. He asked the sense of the meeting as to the disposition of such fund.

On motion of Mr. Bovee a resolution was adopted instructing the treasurer of the Joint Committee to communicate with the subscribers to its fund and ask their permission to turn it over to this association, to be disbursed by it, in its discretion, for the removal of Riverside Park water-front obstructions or any kindred purpose.

On motion of Mr. Studin, a resolution was adopted authorizing the chairman of the 79-96th st special committee to contribute two-thirds of any amount necessary to complete its work, up to the limit of whatever funds may be received from the Joint Committee, upon condition that the other organizations associated with the said 79-96th st special committee contribute one-third of the amount necessary for its work.

On motion of Mr. Bovee a resolution was adopted requesting the Commissioner of Water Supply to take the necessary measures to prevent the pollution of water in the Upper Reservoir of Central Park by gulls. Referred to the Committee on Grievances for presentation.

On motion of Mr. Otis a resolution was adopted that the Committee on Grievances take up with the Borough President the matter of completing the paving with asphalt of Amsterdam av, between 72d and Manhattan sts.

On motion of Mr. Lawson a resolution was adopted referring to the Committee on Sanitary Affairs the matter of soft coal used by New York Central locomotives, especially by night.

Next meeting Monday, December 2.

Million Dollar Park Proceedings Suspended.

The municipality has suspended proceedings for the acquisition of the property between the northerly end of Sigel Park, at 158th st and the southerly terminus of the Grand Boulevard and Concourse at 161st st, including the small parcels on each side of the Concourse plaza, between 161st and 164th sts. The property to be acquired practically included all of the land east of Walton av, between 158th and 164th st. The order abandoning proceedings is said to be due to the condition of the city's finances. It is estimated that the land would have cost the city a sum approaching a million dollars.

DIRECTIONS FOR THE CARE OF HARDWOOD FLOORS.

By the Buttle's Parquet Floor Company, 36 West 27th st, New York.

Dusting: To remove dust from floors use a wool duster. It is the best article for the purpose. A substitute may be had by taking six or eight yards of new cheesecloth brought together in a fluffy bunch; this will absorb the dust as a sponge does water. Do not use a feather duster; never wash the cheesecloth, simply shake it out and the dust is gone. When necessary to wash it use it for some other purpose and get a new piece for the floor. Do not dust furniture after dusting the floor. Always dust floor last and you will have it clean and bright.

Floor Enemies: Water should never be used in cleaning hardwood floors; it will dull the most perfect finish, and in time will cause the colors to change. Imperfect castors on furniture that must be moved about is certainly an enemy to a well-kept floor. We have the "colonial castor cups"; they will protect the finish from injury.

Floor Refinishing: Your floors should be polished with a finish that is made to walk on. Use for waxed floors, "Buttle's Colonial" make of liquid wax. Rub on with a dry cloth, then polish with a heavy brush. For hardwood floors use Buttle's floor tonic. Rub on with a cloth till it drys; it will polish of itself.

DIRECTIONS FOR REFINISHING HARDWOOD FLOORS.

By Paul Thoms, 1238 3d av, New York City.

To polish hardwood floors clean well with turpentine, using cheese cloth in applying it. Sandpaper worn spots well. To wash or remove stains use oxalic acid (do not get the acid on your hands or clothes; it will burn them). Then finish with a mixture of one-third wood alcohol to two-thirds of orange shellac.

BRASSWORK.

Store all fenders, fixtures and fittings in your storeroom.

Iron fixtures should be covered with oil to prevent rust and should not be kept on the floor. Make a hanger of 2x4 lumber and hang your gas fixtures from the ceiling of your storeroom and clear of the floor.

AWNINGS AND SHADES.

The house supplies awnings for the front windows only. Awnings should be taken down about October 15th and labeled and stored in a dry place and should be repaired in March and put up about April 1st, or as soon thereafter as requested by the tenants.

The house supplies tenants but one set of shades. These are always of uniform color and are for outside use. Inside or dark shades are not suplied by the house. Shades in the main hall must always look fresh and must be replaced as soon as they are torn or show soil or wear. Before tenants move in, all torn, faded or soiled shades should be replaced. Equip every shade with a cord; never take hold of the shade itself; raise or lower it by its cord.

When storing them wrap unused shades in newspaper to keep out dust and to prevent them fading. Keep thme off the floor and away from any moisture.

FURNISHINGS—WALL PAPER.

Do not allow the house furnishings to get shabby. In June (the dull month) of every year, have your main hall and house furniture done over or replaced and have your draperies, rugs and carpets clean.

Also do any necessary work on the walls and ceilings of the main halls and vestibules during this month.

In relaying stair carpets see that they are shifted to insure an even wear.

As often as necessary to keep them looking fresh, have your lace and window or door curtains cleaned.

Replace roller shades in your main hall if they become faded or otrn at once.

Keep your skylight glass clean.

Keep the main hall lighting fixtures looking like new. If they need refinishing, do the work in June.

Use wire or rubber door mats. They are clean and durable.

Keep in the main hall an umbrella stand, a large umbrella and a mail box.

Wrap up, label and store in your work room all left-over wall paper. You will need it for repairs. Keep it dry and well covered to keep out dust.

The Income from Real Estate.

Pennsylvania Railroad stock sold as high as 147½ last year, at which investors bought it, seemingly content with the return of 4.75 per cent. which its 7 per cent. dividend then gave.—New York Herald.

When you speak of the income derived from New York real estate, the first consideration that comes to mind is that in addition to the usual income received, as in the way of rent, there is, and I may say, always has been, such a uniform advance in values that it is perfectly proper to say that the income actually received, calculated over a period of years, is at least double the ordinary or rental income.—Jefferson M. Levy.

Outlets for Sixth and Seventh Avenues.

100 feet, which seems also to be the width proposed for the widening of Christopher st and Varick st.

The taxed value of the property which would have to be acquired in carrying out the improvements described in this report, as determined from the assessed valuation for the year 1907, is as follows:

| Street and Limits. | Assessed Valuation. Land. | Buildings. | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 7th av, Greenwich st to Christopher st | $585,000 | $358,000 | $943,000 |
| 7th av, Christopher st to Varick st | 254,000 | 102,000 | 356,000 |
| 7th av, Varick st extension to West st | 1,164,000 | 439,000 | 1,603,000 |
| Varick st, Christopher st to 7th av extension | 212,000 | 137,000 | 349,000 |
| Varick st, 7th av extension to Carmine st | 355,000 | 217,000 | 572,000 |
| Varick st, Carmine st to 6th av extension | 305,000 | 207,000 | 512,000 |
| Varick st, 6th av extension to Canal st | 169,000 | 93,000 | 262,000 |
| Varick st, Canal st to West Broadway | 650,000 | 326,000 | 976,000 |
| 6th av, Carmine st to Varick st | 1,029,000 | 538,000 | 1,567,000 |
| 6th av, Varick st to Canal st. | 356,000 | 70,000 | 426,000 |
| 6th av, Canal st to Chambers st | 1,727,000 | 995,000 | 2,722,000 |
| Christopher st, Greenwich av to Greenwich st | 620,000 | 376,000 | 996,000 |

Project C.

The suggestions made by the Municipal Art Society did not clearly show how the improvement in the street system which was evidently in mind was to be carried out, but it has been assumed that the widening of Carmine st would be made on the northerly side where there would be the least damage, and that the connection between Varick st and 7th av would be made by prolonging the former street northwardly and the latter southwardly to their intersection. It has also been assumed that it was intended to give each street a width of 100 feet. No suggestion seems to have been made for the widening of Varick st, south of Carmine st, although such a widening would seem to be required if the traffic facilities in both 6th av and 7th av are to be materially increased.

The assessed valuation for the year 1907 of the property which would have to be acquired to carry out the proposition as above defined, would be about as follows:

|---|---|---|---|
| Carmine st, 6th av to Varick st | $212,000 | $176,000 | $388,000 |
| 7th av, Christopher st to Varick st extension | 405,000 | 238,000 | 643,000 |
| Varick st, 7th av to Carmine st | 323,000 | 235,000 | 558,000 |

Project D.

The result which each one of the above described projects is intended to accomplish is unquestionably the provision of an adequate southerly outlet for both 6th and 7th avs, and there can be no doubt but that an effort has been made, particularly in the case of the project designated as A, to accomplish this result at a minimum cost. Neither can there be any question but that some such improvement as has been described in each of these projects is required not only to meet present traffic requirements, but also to permit of the growth of the section of the city affected, and to properly care for future transportation needs.

The project submitted by the City Improvement Commission is undeniably one of great merit, but the cost of carrying it out is so great that I hardly believe that it can receive serious consideration as a whole.

This project presented by the petitioners fails to include the much needed widening of Christopher st, and does not provide for a suitable connection between the lower end of Varick st and West st. It includes a widening of Varick st, between Canal st and West Broadway at a very great cost, which widening could, in my judgment, be omitted without seriously detracting from the other advantages which would be obtained. It also includes the extension of 6th av diagonally across seven blocks at a very great expense.

For the purpose of securing the needed outlets and of minimizing the expense of accomplishing the same, Project D has been prepared, and may be described as including the following:

An extension of 7th av southwardly from Greenwich av to the intersection of Carmine st with Varick st, a deflection being made in the line at Greenwich av.

A widening of Christopher st on its southerly side between Greenwich st and Greenwich av.

A widening of Carmine st on its northerly side between 6th av and Varick st.

A widening of Varick st on its easterly side between Carmine st and Canal st.

A widening of Vestry st on its northerly side between Varick st and West st.

The new streets included in this plan are assumed to have a width of 100 feet, which is also assumed to be that given to those which are widened.

The value of the property which would have to be acquired to carry out these changes, as based on the 1907 assessed valuations, is as follows:

| Street and Limits. | Assessed Valuation. Land. | Buildings. | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 7th av, Greenwich av to Christopher st | $515,000 | $206,000 | $721,000 |
| 7th av, Christopher st to Varick st | 790,000 | 722,000 | 1,512,000 |
| Carmine st, 6th av to Varick st | 189,000 | 144,000 | 333,000 |
| Varick st, Carmine st to Canal st | 595,000 | 167,000 | 762,000 |
| Vestry st, Varick st to West st | 387,000 | 254,000 | 641,000 |
| Total | $3,051,000 | $1,826,000 | $4,877,000 |

Mr. Cornelius C. Hickok, who has appeared as a representative of the petitioners for the modifications in the map, has furnished me with a list of sales of fifty parcels of property within the last two years located in the vicinity of the proposed new street system. This list shows a total consideration of $1,541,550. The assessed valuation of the same parcels for the year 1907 is $1,231,700, and it would therefore appear that the actual value of property in this vicinity is about 25 per cent. greater than that at which it is assessed. Thirty-one of these parcels were disposed of at private sale and the remainder at auction. The total consideration for the former was $902,500, or 30 per cent. more than the assessed valuations, and the prices for the various parcels ranged from one coinciding with the present assessed valuations to one 70 per cent. greater. The auction prices ranged from 98 per cent. of the assessed valuation to a figure 70 per cent. greater, the average of all being 19 per cent. greater. I believe that the probable cost of the land required, if taken under condemnation proceedings, might be safely estimated as 50 per cent. greater than the present valuation as fixed for taxation purposes.

Assuming this to be the case the approximate cost of the improvements described in this report would be as follows:

|---|---|
| Project A | $8,373,000 |
| Project B | 16,926,000 |
| Project C | 3,798,000 |
| Project D | 7,316,000 |

Engineer Lewis recommends that hearings be given on the plans designated as Projects A, B and D, and technical descriptions for each have been submitted. These projects include all of the changes provided by Project C and the other changes which are required to make it a practicable one. It is his belief that Project D will prove the most advantageous one to follow, and he recommends its adoption, with the understanding that all or a large portion of the assessment for the acquisition of title to the new streets will be borne by the owners of property who are benefited.

Applications for Loans.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Owner A goes to Broker B and asks him whether he can obtain a loan for A upon bond and mortgage. Broker B examines the property, goes to a title insurance company and gets them to send their appraiser to look at it and pass upon the loan. The title insurance company accepts the loan and notifies B orally or by telephone. B within a week from the time of application writes to A that the title insurance company has accepted the loan, and encloses a filled-in blank form of application for a loan, asking A to sign it. A does not sign it, but telephones B to do nothing more, as A has secured a loan from other parties. B thereupon claims his commission. Is he entitled to it? B claims that as the request to him was for a loan at 5½ per cent., of which he obtained an acceptance within a few days, and which A declined on the ground that he had meanwhile obtained one at 5 per cent., entitles him to his commission. A is of the opinion that no commission was due until the title had been examined, the loan approved and the money ready.

Answer.—The courts have decided again and again that in these mortgage loan cases the broker is not entitled to his commission until the loan is carried through. A loan broker, under the general custom, tries to place a loan subject to the risk of loss of his commission through the acceptance of the loan elsewhere pending his efforts. The whole subject is very unsatisfactory both in law and logic, but where applications for loans are sowed broadcast among loan brokers some injustice, or at least hardship, must result to them in the scramble.

Proposed Legislation to Affect Electric Wiring.

It is now proposed to license electricians, so that no one not having a license can work at the business. In advocating a State Board with powers to grant licenses to qualified electrical mechanics, Mr. Jas. R. Strong in a recent article in the Electrical Contractor says:

Electrical wiring is a class of work which should noly be done in a thoroughly efficient manner, because it has a rule concealed from view and because it has to control or insulate an active and desfructive force. Poor wiring or apparatus are a needless menace to a building.

If the co-operation of all parties in interest can be effected it is expected that a bill will be brought up at the next meeting of the Legislature. It is in outline as follows:

A state board to be appointed by the Governor, composed of representatives of insurance, contracting and engineering interests. This board will be empowered to grant licenses to properly qualified master electricians to engage in electrical contracting work in all cities of the state. Those who have been established in business for three years or more will not have to pass an examination, but new applicants will have to satisfy the board as to their fitness. Master electricians are defined as any person, firm or corporation engaged in installing or contracting to install apparatus or wires in buildings for furnishing or carrying current for light, heat or power. The license fee, at first proposed to be $250, has been reduced to $25. This has seemed wise in order to eliminate possible injustice in cases where a large fee might be an unfair handicap, excluding deserving men from taking advantage of legitimate opportunities of starting on an independent career. The board to have the further and important power of revoking licenses for sufficient cause. The proof of culpable negligence or wilful infraction of the Underwriters' rules governing electric work would constitute such cause.

Systematically operated, it is claimed that this board would in effect constitute a further check on poor and therefore dangerous contract work.

Can't Block the Big Sewer.

Another attempt to block the effort to begin the construction of Westchester sewer was checked in the United States District Court when Judge Holt refused to grant a temporary injunction prohibiting the commissioners from opening bids and awarding contracts.

The cost of construction is to be assessed upon the communities immediately affected. It is limited to $2,250,000. The sewer is to run from White Plains south to the New York city line after which it is to run by a tunnel to the Hudson River at Yonkers.

The attempts to prevent the construction of this sewer have been carried on by the Anti-Pollution Society, whose object is to better the conditions in the Hudson River. With the growth of population and sewer systems this river has become a foul stream, and the cities and towns up the State are adopting other means of disposing of sewage than turning it into the rivers. They think New York and Westchester should do likewise. It is erroneous to say that sewage is carried out to sea. Experiments prove the contrary, and it is only a question of time, unless remedial measures are taken, before the Hudson will be changed wholly from a stream of pure water into an open sewer.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

November 15, 16, 18, 19, 20 and 21.

"SNOW WHITE"

A true Portland of PURE WHITE COLOR, combining the essential qualities of great tensile strength and imperviousness to a rigorous climate.

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement is not approached by any known product for the following purposes, viz.: Facing for concrete construction and stucco, ornamental and architectural forms, superior substitute for terra cotta work, white ground for terrazza and mosaic work, base for all artificial stone, floor and other tile, special sanitary plastering of all kinds, architectural landscape work, for setting marble and light stones or brick, plastering elevator and light shafts.

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement

Its pure white color, strength and close grained hardness, together with its hydraulic properties and its ability to withstand the elements, place it in a class by itself, unique in all its qualities, and indispensable at any price.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) Signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

The Judgments filed against corporations, etc., will be found at the end of the list.

Strategy In Transportation

NOTHING IS MORE FUNDAMENTAL in real estate than the dependence of land values upon accessibility from great business centres. The nearer a place is in point of time to a great centre of thrift the greater the number of people who will fancy it, as a general proposition. Brooklyn demonstrated the principle twenty-four years ago when the Brooklyn Bridge was opened. In ten years Kings County grew from a population of 635,000 to a round million. Native New Yorkers crowded from the dwellings south of Madison Square and submerged Brooklyn with a tide of new population. A new illustration is Queens. When the enormous plans for getting people over and under the East River began to be hammered into visible shape the biggest land boom in the annals of real estate was started. The purchases of the Pennsylvania alone amounted to twenty-five thousand lots. Farms which had been considered as worth four to seven hundred dollars an acre have since brought five thousand dollars an acre, and in the market garden sections of Newtown lands for which one thousand dollars was once the top price are being held at five to fifteen thousand dollars an acre. Last year eighteen million dollars' worth of buildings were planned in Queens, against three million dollars' worth in 1900. A pamphlet written by the Secretary of the Long Island Railroad Company discusses the effect upon land values of transportation development and reminds us of many remarkable facts in the rapid growth of Brooklyn and Queens, but it is to be said that all the principles enunciated therein seem quite as applicable to the case of New Jersey. When all the tunnels and bridges are finished an extremely large portion of New York's business population will find it more convenient to commute to New Jersey than to Queens or Brooklyn. Nothing in the history of transportation can equal the strategical position of the subways constituting the approaches to the upper McAdoo tunnel on the New York side. Extending from Greeley Square on the north to Astor Square on the south, and touching Broadway at both extremities, they will be like wide open arms of invitation to the Jersey suburbs. For many thousands who spend their business days in the central and west side of the island it will be only a short walking distance to some one of a number of stations in these lines of exit; but to reach the entrance to any of the crossings to Brooklyn would for the same people require an extra car ride and fare. Under all the circumstances the members of the N. Y.-N. J. Real Estate Exchange, who have just risen from their first annual banquet, have a right to all their expectations for a wonderful era of growth for the country on the western side of the Hudson, in which it will share almost equally with Brooklyn and Queens in the benefits of the remarkable transportation developments of the time.

In No Danger, But—

REAL ESTATE being "in no danger," the "Herald" does not feel called upon to enlist in its defence, or to extend to realty interests the same degree of support which it is giving to railway and industrial securities. Moreover, it considers that real estate appeals mainly to capitalists, while stocks and bonds are within the reach of every householder who has scraped together a few hundred dollars. From the first proposition we do not dissent, and we leave the second to the judgment of the "Herald's" real estate patrons, with this one remark, that we have always been under the impression that the facts were the other way—that it is the man with the "few hundred dollars" who ordinarily buys those suburban lots and homes which are so plentifully advertised in our contemporary's pages, and mainly the capitalist who invests in railway stocks and industrial bonds—but who ought to put more of his surplus in New York City real estate and mortgages, where it would do both him and the community more good. THE PROSPERITY OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK DEPENDS IN A VERY LARGE DEGREE UPON ITS REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING INTERESTS. Nearly one hundred thousand men are employed in the building trades, many thousands more in producing the materials utilized in those trades, and other thousands in selling, managing and taking care of the product. They constitute a great army of consumers for the mercantile interests. These allied interests are now languishing for money—the money that is locked up in railway and other Wall Street securities. Thousands of mechanics are idle, and every day is adding to the number, and also to the consequent loss of local trade and of local business in all lines. Having called attention to this state of affairs, need we say where the ready money of the "Herald's" readers ought to be invested at this crisis in order to be of most benefit to the community, and to themselves as well, directly and indirectly? The "Herald's" first duty is to its own immediate friends—the people of New York and their business interests. Start a strong flow of money into real estate and building and into the securities of those institutions which lend to home buyers and builders, and new life will be put into the building trades and all the interests connected with and dependent on them. Real estate values may be "in no danger," but there are buildings waiting for money to complete them, plans waiting to be financed, buyers waiting for loans, mechanics for work, and merchants for trade. AND WHAT IS THE DAILY PRESS DOING TO HELP THEM?

Holding Their Own

ONE THING STANDS OUT PROMINENTLY in the confusion and distrust of the past few weeks. The carefully selected first mortgage on New York City real estate has been proven to be the most satisfactory investment for individual, trustee or corporation to carry through such times as we are having. Possibly, it may not be so readily sold and turned into cash, but we have reached the time when not much else can be readily sold or turned into cash, and what can be, is sold at a great sacrifice. With New York City bonds twenty or more points below their quotations of six years ago, and other high class bonds equally depreciated, and the best of stocks, many of them selling for half what they did three years ago, real estate mortgages alone, in the statements of institutions, are holding their own and are the investment bulwark of those who are fortunate enough to hold considerable lines of them. During the last six weeks the sales of mortgages by the title companies have gone on, not to the same extent as in ordinary times, but to a far better extent than has been the case with the average railroad or industrial bond. One of the title guarantee companies reports sales of mortgages for October of $3,300,000. The reason for the faith of the average person in a good real estate mortgage is not far to seek. It is the one thing about which he can form some judgment of his own. He may not be an expert in values, but he can see the property; he can inquire of others and he can exercise some judgment as to whether his money is well secured. In the next place, he does not have to trust anybody after he gets the mortgage into his possession; his security cannot be ruined by mismanagement and is not carried down by the mismanagement of something else tied to it, but, if good when selected, stays good. He gets his interest regularly and his principal when due or within a reasonable time thereafter. It is safe to predict that one ultimate result of the upheaval which we are now in the midst of, will be a far larger drift of conservative investors to New York City mortgages when once they recover their equilibrium and are ready to consider trusting their money out of their possession.

What Effect Will the Present Financial Situation Have Upon Real Estate?

IMPOSSIBLE it is to deny the fact that the present financial situation is also being felt by Real Estate. It certainly is, but will not last long. There are as many prospective purchasers in the market at the present time as ever, and many who have never before invested in real estate have decided to turn to this form of investment; you may say, why, then, are the real estate sales below the average for this season of the year? This question is easily answered: THE INABILITY TO OBTAIN MONEY.

In the near future, however, real estate will receive a great benefit in consequence of the present financial situation, for as soon as it becomes possible for investors in bonds and stocks to get out without sustaining great loss, a large percentage of this money will go into real estate.

For many years past the buying and selling of real estate has been almost entirely of a speculative nature, and while there will always be a certain element of speculation, the real estate market of the near future will again bring to the front the buyer known as THE INVESTOR.

This will create a demand for improved property of the most modern construction, both in large apartment houses and mercantile buildings, the business properties receiving the preference. These properties will be bought almost entirely on an investment basis, the price obtainable depending largely upon the rental.

The buying of investment properties, however, will not alone be the feature of the real estate market of the near future, for when the present financial situation is cleared there will again be plenty of money at a reasonable rate of interest, and first mortgages on New York City real estate will also be a popular form of investment—and mortgage money being plentiful real estate will be prosperous.

How to Appraise City Property

By E. H. GILBERT*

THE power of appraising is neither an art nor a science—just a faculty of the judgment acquired by long familiarity with prices obtained and analysis of these and the resultant formulation of certain rules; these rules are few and simple. By their application we may arrive at approximate values, after establishing what is technically called a unit of value. No rules are absolute.

The unit of land value is the value of a single lot of land fronting on any street or avenue and lying about or near the middle of the block. On Manhattan Island this unit of value is calculated from such a lot 25 feet wide by 100 feet deep. In Brooklyn the unit of value is usually 20x100. The unit of value serves as a basis of all other calculations; it is therefore essential to determine the fair market value of a unit as a starting point.

The value of a lot of land is the measure of the best use to which it can be put, considering the location and the surroundings—represented in money. There is seldom any material recession in the value of land in the thickly settled districts of Manhattan Island from prices attained at any period, and this comparative stability enables us to say that the value of any land in that borough is its present value based upon a reasonable comparison of price quotations on lots similarly situated in a like neighborhood and amid like surroundings, where such quotations can be shown to be the outcome of agreements to buy and sell under normal and equable trade conditions—where quotations are obtainable they are the first facts to be sought as an indication of the unit of value. The sources of these facts are the copies of the records in the Register's office, which are published in handy form by the Real Estate Record and Guide—a trade journal devoted to the interests of real estate mainly in the City of New York; and the knowledge of other appraisers or of brokers or of buyers and sellers who may have traded in the neighborhood of the plot to be appraised. Some knowledge of actual cash transactions in the neighborhood is essential to accurate judgment.

These transactions may be sales or they may be leases of land for long periods, from the rental reserved in which, the fee value may be inferred. The knowledge of these may be personal or communicated upon satisfactory authority. Wherever quotations or such described knowledge cannot be had in the time given for an appraisal, the opinion of at least one competent judge should be obtained as a check against error. If there should be an error made in determining the unit of value, the appraisal, built upon it, will, of course, be inaccurate. The prime essential is therefore, a correct valuation of the unit. All the rest flows from this quite logically. The practical process of appraising may differ slightly with different men, but it is substantially the same in all offices.

Assuming that we are asked for the value of a single vacant lot about or near the center of the block, first look at it; is it excavated, and how deeply, or is it at grade or above grade; is there rock upon it and to what extent? What is the character of the bottom? Note the physical conditions and then examine the surrounding class of improvements. Is the property accessible? What are the prospects of the neighborhood? After the physical inspection, the history of the property is looked into and such sales of it in the past as have been made, are to be noted with dates or such price of adjoining lots or of lots in blocks similarly situated. As many sales as possible should be discovered and noted. If no quotations can be had from the records, inquiry must be made of persons familiar with sales in the neighborhood of the property as to prices which have obtained. Almost every neighborhood has one or more local brokers who is familiar with the conditions of his own locality and with its history. A large acquaintance of such representative persons is advantageous.

Where facts are to be had it is comparatively easy to estimate probable value. Where they are absent, as in the case of an absolute lack of transactions, the problem becomes more difficult, in which case, the opinion of those generally familiar with past history and present conditions must be had for comparison. The value of lots is estimated at grade. The cost of removing rock and earth vary as to season and condition of surroundings. The average cost where adjoining buildings do not have to be protected, is about $1.50 per cubic yard of earth and rock. The character of bottom is to be determined, if possible, by observation of outcroppings, but it is not easily or surely determined in any way. Surprises are frequent. The history of the neighborhood is important to determine bottom. Very old residents know more about it than any practical test will show. When the value of one lot is fully determined, the value of larger plots are usually multiplied units plus ten per cent. for the plottage. Plottage represents the value of the larger plot because of the economies possible in improving it; in short, the more profitable use to which it can be put.

Laws are passed from time to time affecting the value of land by reason of restrictions as to its use—some recent laws limiting the usefulness of single lots quite materially. In estimating the value of one lot standing by itself and so surrounded that it must be sold singly, this is an important consideration. I have known it to make a difference of 25 per cent. under the value obtainable from the same lot where such limitations were absent. The valuation of parcels containing an area of less than 2,500 square feet is more complex. Very irregular lots are especially difficult to appraise. In the case of lots that have the regular frontage of 25 feet or approximately that, but whose depth varies within 100 feet, a certain rule has been formulated based upon a graduated scale of values for each five feet of depth, the key to which is found in the presumption that the front half of the lot is worth two-thirds of the value of the whole.

This is called the Hofman Rule, by the name of its author. This rule has gained great authority and is in fact the only hard and fast rule that fits a great variety of conditions. It would not have stood the test of time if experience had not found it valuable. It has its exceptions, and must not be used slavishly. It is valuable as a check to the judgment and as suggesting a figure of value for subsequent consideration by the judgment and for comparison with concrete instances. There are cases where the front half of the lot is worth more or less than two-thirds of the value of the whole. These variations from the rule are appeals to the judgment of experience.

The most common form of small parcel of land is that which has a full depth of 100 feet but a width less than 25 feet. The builders of private residences divide a large plot into such small parcels—the very familiar forms of these are 15x100, 16.8x100, 18.9x100, 20x100. When the buildings are new, these lots are valued pro-rata at the value per front foot of the larger parcel from which they were divided, at the cost of the land to the builder. The cost of the building is estimated, a fair profit, usually ten per cent, is added to the sum of the two, and the appraisal is made. Such a small lot standing alone by itself and unimproved, is restricted in its usefulness and the value is proportionately less. There has been no rule to determine this proportion and conditions vary too frequently and widely to admit of any rule. Its value depends upon the number and availability of uses to which it can be put. If it can be disposed of in conjunction with other adjoining land, it should bring full pro rata unit value. If not the problem to be solved is, what can it be best used for and how available is such use for market purposes. If improved in a specific and most useful way, at a cost of so much what would the whole bring. The difference is the value of the lot.

The next proposition to be considered is the valuation of 25-

Modifications in the Fire Limits.

The growth of suburban New York will not be stayed. Frame buildings will be allowed under certain restrictions within the boundaries between the present fire limits and the new lines, as provided in the original report of the Fire Limits Committee. As affecting the Bronx, the revised ordinance specifies that buildings hereafter erected in that borough, south of Fordham and Kingsbridge rds, Pelham av and the Bronx River, shall be of brick or stone. In part it reads:

"This shall not be so construed as to prohibit within that territory between the following boundary lines, namely: Beginning at a point on the eastern bulkhead line of the Harlem River, 100 ft. south of East 116th st, running thence easterly and parallel with East 161st st to the east side of Sheridan av and 100 ft. therefrom, thence north on the east side of Sheridan av to a point 100 ft. north of the north line of 161st st, thence easterly and parallel to 161st st and 100 ft. therefrom to a point 100 ft. west of Park av, thence northeasterly and parallel to Park av and 100 ft. therefrom to a point distant 100 ft. west of Webster av, thence northerly and parallel to Webster av and 100 ft. therefrom to a point 100 ft. northerly of East 177th st, thence easterly and parallel to East 177th st and 100 ft. therefrom to 3d av, thence southerly along the westerly boundary line of Crotona Park, and thence easterly along the southerly boundary line of Crotona Park to a point distant 100 ft. east of Prospect av, thence along Prospect av and 100 ft. east therefrom to Westchester av, thence along Westchester av and 100 ft. east therefrom to a point 100 ft. east of the easterly line of Robbins av, thence southerly and parallel to Robbins av 100 ft. east therefrom to the Port Morris Branch Railroad, thence southeasterly along the Port Morris Branch Railroad to the East River, thence southwesterly along the East River, northwesterly along the Bronx Kills, and northerly along the Harlem River to the point of beginning, and the fire limits herein described, the erection of frame dwellings to be occupied by not more than two families, limited to 40 ft. in height and 3,000 sq. ft. floor area. Such buildings shall not occupy more than 80 per cent. of the width of the lot and shall not be built within two ft. of the boundary lines of the lot."

Changes of a like nature have also been made in that section of the report affecting the proposed regulation for both Queens and Brooklyn. The limits agreed upon which restrict frame construction in a wide territory of Long Island City, Richmond Hill, Jamaica, Far Rockaway, Rockaway Beach and Flushing, provide that certain classes of frame buildings may be erected within the brick building boundaries in those parts. The report is specific and says:

"This shall not be construed as to prohibit within the territory between the new fire lines the erection of frame buildings to be occupied by not more than two families, limited to 40 ft. in height and 3,000 ft. floor area, nor the erection of frame private stables limited to 25 ft. in height and 1,500 ft. floor area.

"Such buildings shall not occupy more than 80 per cent. of the width of the lot, and shall not be built within two ft. of the boundary line of the lot."

With respect to the provision to keep buildings within two feet of the property line it must be admitted that while the intervals to be preserved are of little practical use they will undoubtedly serve the purpose of insuring to the occupants increased light and a free circulation of air which are at all times desirable. The report is now ready to be presented to the Board of Aldermen.

Garages Easy Prey for Flames.

In the last twelve months the losses in the United States from the destruction of garages by fire amounted to nearly $1,800,000. Gasoline naturally enough is chiefly responsible for this great loss. It is often handled carelessly, or else it is stored in a receptacle not suitable for it. It may be the cigarette of a chauffeur or a spark from his pipe, or a short-circuited electric current that sets the flames a-going. In most cases the damage came to only a few thousand dollars, but in two or three it mounted to six figures. As one runs down the list, "ignition of gasoline," appears as the explanation for at least half the cases.

Mr. Dave Hennen Morris, former President of the Automobile Association of America, solved the problem by building a terra cotta garage that could not burn, no matter what happened to the gasoline tank. With the floors of concrete, the walls are of hollow tile blocks.

Architects and builders are beginning to give considerable attention to automobile buildings now. Knowledge of Mr. Morris's terra cotta garage has spread far and wide, and many owners are planning to follow his example. That building was inexpensive and was built very rapidly. Insurance men are also "taking notice" of the astounding record of these fires, and are trying to institute reforms. The building regulations of New York have been made very strict in regard to the storing of gasoline. Now it has to be kept outside of the building, in a firproof receptacle sunk into the ground.

A Certain Country Villa.

ONE of America's finest country villas is the home of Mr. James L. Breese, at Southampton. Elizabeth, O. Toombs, writing in Country Life, says that in no other estate have the Colonial and Modern styles of architecture been so well blended. Architecturally, the room is considered a good example of the Italian Renaissance. The carved ceiling and paneled walls are of English walnut. The floor is of highly polished teak wood, perfect background for the fur rugs.

The walls and ceilings of the billiard-room are formed of California redwood in smooth panels, the ceiling being heavily beamed. The solid chimney-piece, upheld by bending figures, is the reminder of an Italian visit.

The side of the room opposite the fireplace is composed of a series of windows and glass doors opening directly on to a wide, brick terrace; and this terrace is one of the favorite lounging places for the family and their guests, as the tennis courts are just below the shallow steps.

The flower room has a floor made of three-cornered Japanese wall tiles over three hundred years old; and the ceilings of the walls and dome are covered with a soft, green trellis on which ivy has been trained. Roman sarcophagi are used to hold the palms and plants, and a fountain plays on one side.

The dining-room is distinguished by its Delft mantel tiles and beautiful old plaques. The sideboard and other large pieces of furniture are Hepplewhite; the chairs and table, slender-legged and dignified, are genuine Chippendale and were once the glory of the Carroll mansion in Baltimore County, Md.

German Opinion of American Skyscrapers.

A leading architect of Munich, who has just returned from a visit to the United States, says for print, according to a Berlin letter:

"New York is gradually becoming a city of architectural monstrosities and hideous erections without one vestigate of imagination in their construction. They start from barren, treeless streets and soar skyward, naked and unashamed. They steal the light of the sun. They hinder and scorch the eyes that would look at the sky. Little children pass under them and shiver in their cold shadows. The thinking man can see in them only miracles of ugliness, miracles of what man can do to deface the earth."

If that does not decide owners or authorities to pull down every building above five stories perhaps this will. It is from another German observer returning from New York, an interview with whom is printed here:

"It was one of the most deplorable things about New York that I found citizens—not a few, but multitudes of them—actually proud of these pretentious buildings. Why, their eyes glistened with tears of patriotic pride when they gazed up those walls. I heard them say: 'No other nation on the face of God's green earth could build houses like that.'

"They were right. No other nation would, if it could. They told me how high the Singer Building was, higher than the Great Pyramid, high as the Cologne Cathedral. They never thought they were guilty of architectural blasphemy in mentioning those superb creations in the same breath."

A prominent writer on the same subject says:

"It never occurs to New Yorkers to think that the wise foresight of the older civilization, and the finer aesthetic sensibilities of Europe, as well as Europe's inherited culture, will forever prevent the erection of such terrible buildings. Europe does not envy America the unlimited possibilities of its architecture."

Building Limitations.

A number of large cities of the country have passed ordinances regulating building height, and recently the Secretary of the Treasury, who has control of the erection of Federal buildings in various States, has taken the matter under investigation and it is announced that the government will not erect any unusually high office buildings and that the limit observed in the national capital for government buildings will be observed elsewhere.

With the exception of the addition to the government printing office and the structure on Pennsylvania av that is occupied by the post office department, government architecture in Washington does not afford any examples of this type of building. The new structures now going up, and that will prove to be notable additions to the group of public buildings located there, are not designed on such lines. Three-story and 4-sty structures limit the upward course, but they cover a good deal of ground and provide the accommodations which the modern building should have in a perpendicular direction.

The result is a dignified structure, and one that comes within the meaning of that term more readily than a building that towers into the sky. No one claims that the skyscraper is ornamental, but it is impressive. It is useful, however, and, what is more, it is economical up to a certain height.

A 150-foot limit on the height of all buildings erected in Kansas City in the future is one of the provisions of the new building regulation ordinance introduced in the upper house of the Council Monday night. Buildings that are not constructed of fireproof material are limited to sixty feet in height and no storage or store buildings that are only partly fireproof may be more than 100 feet high. Provisions are also made for floor area. In warehouses and stores it is limited to 5,000 square feet between fire walls when the building fronts on one street. Six thousand square feet are permitted if the building faces on two streets.

The Relation of Architectural Principles to Illuminating Engineering Practice.

AT the regular monthly meeting of the New York Section of the Illuminating Engineering Society, which is to be held in the United Engineering Society's Building, 33 West 39th st, at 8.15 p m. Thursday, Dec. 12, a paper will be presented by Mr. Bassett Jones, Jr., on the above subject. At this meeting also Mr. Jones' paper will be discussed by a number of illuminating engineers and architects.

The subject of artificial illumination, it may be mentioned, has only recently been taken into serious consideration by architects and engineers. The questions which present themselves are of equal interest to both professions, but the engineers, it must be admitted, are far ahead of their architectural brethren in their attention to the science, artificial illumination. While the architect's interest in the subject is primarily with regard to the decorative possibilities of the case, the appropriate placing and treatment of the fixtures and the effect of the light-giving medium upon the scheme of interior treatment, the engineer concerns himself more particularly with the purely utilitarian aspects of illumination. He makes his appeal by economizing the light-giving medium and by improving the media for its proper transmission. To bring together the combined efforts of the exponents of utility and beauty in the field of artificial illumination means progress in a branch of building construction which for its great importance has thus far been unjustly slighted. We trust this word of explanation will sufficiently interest many of our readers to attend the meeting announced above.

Mr. Schuyler Differs with the Art Commission.

The proper architectural treatment of a mass of which the function is mere inert "load" and in a material for the architectural treatment of which precedents are almost wanting is a fit if not a very promising subject for architectural discussion. But discussion is as different a process as possible from the blunt unreasoned rejection which the design for the Hudson Memorial Bridge has met at the hands of the actual Art Commission or from the "suspensory veto" with which the commission has "hung up" the design for the East River arch bridge, accompanied by a statement of reasons which the designer must be ingenious and fortunate if he can make anything of, much more find useful for edification. The "I don't like it" which is the stereotyped confession of lay helplessness in the presence of a work of art is really all that is to be got out of the Art Commission in respect to the general design of the Hudson Memorial or of the treatment of the masonry in the East River arch.

The fact remains that the two engineering projects most interesting from an architectural point of view which have come before the Art Commission during these many months have been, the one defeated, the other indefinitely postponed, by the appointed custodians of the city's artistic interests. It is not a showing which will increase the public usefulness of the commission by enhancing the public confidence in the intelligence and equity of its decisions.—Montgomery Schuyler in the Architectural Record for December.

German Labor Conditions.

Each succeeding year shows an increase in the number of strikes and lockouts in Germany, and these are more marked in Saxony, on account of its great industrial development, than elsewhere. While the German workers have profited by the experiences of their fellow-workers in other lands, the employers have not failed to profit by the same experiences, and have formed employers' protective association, which now cover the whole country, and mutual associations of manufacturers for insurance against losses from strikes and lockouts.

The immediate future has small promise for industrial peace in Germany, nor has it much promise for the betterment of wages or hours of labor, as a constantly increasing friction is growing up between employers and employees.

New Catalogues.

TIN ROOFING AND INSURANCE, a paper read before the National Association of Master Sheet-Metal Workers, at their convention in Cleveland, by Mr. Powell Evans, of Merchant & Evans.

"Tu-Bo" Wrought Steel Registers, from the Columbian Hardware Co., Cleveland, O., with illustrations, descriptions and price lists of various styles of registers for warm-air heating.

PAINTS AND COLORS, from the Apex Color Works, 40 Center st, New York, an indexed catalogue and price list, 56 pp.

MORRIS METALLIC PACKING, from H. W. Johns-Manville Co., 100 William st, New York.

The Morris Metallic Packing which this catalogue describes has a number of good points. Morris Metallic Packing will hold any steam pressure, and should, with care, last the life of the engine. It is applied to the stem, on the part usually covered by the old gland, and therefore can be applied without truing up the stem where scored by soft packings. It is self-adjusting and rotates with the stem. It cannot cut the stem. It reduces friction to a minimum, from the fact that the two hard ground bearing surfaces quickly develop a fine blue glaze on both packing rings and gland.

DAYLIGHTING, by the American Luxfer Prism Co., cor Madison st and Wabash av, Chicago.

This illustrated catalogue fully explains the facts and principles connected with prism lighting. There is plenty of daylight, but it is above or to one side of the point where the occupant of the store, the office or the factory can benefit from it. This briefly is the work performed by the Luxfer System—to so bend or divert the rays of light coming from above or either side that they shine into darkened rooms, and flood them with Nature's own illuminant—daylight. They are useful for lighting dark stores, offices, basements and factories.

MODERN FURNACE HEATING, by the Hess Warming and Ventilating Co., 906 Tacoma Building, Chicago.

Several chapters are devoted to suggestions on ventilating and heating by means of hot air furnaces. Plates and plan drawings are given to illustrate the various methods of installation, and separate chapters are devoted to ventilation, humidity, air conductors, registers and circulating room heaters. The Leader steel furnace, made by this company, is described and illustrated by broken views, which give a clear idea of its construction and method of operation. A summary of the data required for furnishing plans and estimates of cost for the installation of heating plants is also presented.

SYMONS CRUSHER, 16 pp. Issued by the Smith & Post Company, of Milwaukee, and Contractors' Supply & Equipment Company, 170 Broadway. This catalogue shows illustrations with descriptions of the Symons gyratory stone crusher.

THE SMITH MIXER, 20 pp. Issued by The T. L. Smith Company, of Milwaukee; contains much data and illustrations of the several styles of Smith cement mixers made by them and sold by the Contractors' Supply & Equipment Company, of Chicago and New York.

Points on the Material Market.

A very good time to build, so far as the cost of materials is concerned.

Recent contracts for public works have brightened the bluestone trade.

Red lead continues to move toward structural iron workers in good volume.

Spruce laths are down to $3 for dealers. That's the lowest quotation for some years.

Structural steel mills are creeping closer to deliveries, but still producing record-breaking tonnages.

Hudson River brick prices are close to the cost mark, if not below it, on the average of the kiln.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company's plants continue to do a large business and have no intention of shutting down.

Bids for the structural steel superstructure of the Manhattan Bridge are expected to be advertised next month in the natural course of events.

Pretty much everything is down low for Thanksgiving. Brick, lath, cement, and a number of other fundamentals can be had almost at the buyer's price.

The weather has been favorable for the paint and varnish trade, which continues to have a good movement. Only recently has any curtailment of requirement been noted.

The Interstate Commerce Commission will consider the recent advance in lumber rates, in the Northwest, on Dec. 10.

Senator W. A. Clark says regarding copper: "We have curtailed production 50 per cent. at Jerome, Ariz., and 60 per cent. in Montana. It is unprofitable to sell copper at 13 cents, when it costs 12 or 12½ cents to produce it."

There has been a perceptible decrease in the trade done in southern and central Mexico generally in American wall papers, which appear to be losing ground before similar products from France, as well as, in a smaller measure, from England and Germany. Upon a close inquiry the American Consul at Mexico City has discovered the following facts: The sample books offered by American travelers in this line of goods are usually much smaller in size than those sent out by European houses. In this particular class of goods, where the sample shown should, in a measure, give to the customer's eye the general effect which the paper will ultimately have when hung, a small sample is very unsatisfactory. Some seven or eight years ago American wall papers were enjoying their best popularity in Mexico. Since then increased prices and a real or fancied decrease in the quality of the paper itself have laid them open to severe competition, chiefly from French sources.

Building Operations.

Statistics of Plans Filed.

The following is a table of the new buildings and alterations projected for Manhattan and the Bronx with the estimated cost, for the past week and also for the corresponding week of 1906:

Wilbur S. Knowles Plans New Jersey Hospital.

Wilbur S. Knowles, No. 1 West 34th st, Manhattan, has completed plans for a quarter of a million dollar extension to St. Mary's Hospital, in Centre st, Orange, New Jersey. The management of the hospital announces that the new structure, when completed, will be the finest hospital building in the State of New Jersey. The plans call for the most up-to-date contrivances and arrangements for the care of the sick. The interior will be of modern pattern and there will be approximately 250 rooms. The general plan is for extensions or pavilions to the north and south of the present building, with a tower six stories in height in the rear of the present building. The basement and six stories will be divided up into sections for the general public and private hospital patients and on the sixth floor of the tower will be located a modern operating amphitheatre. There will be meeting rooms for the various organizations connected with the place, and quarters provided for entertainments, libraries, etc.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Building.

PARK AV.—The 21-sty structure which Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt is soon to erect on a plot at the southwest corner of Park av, between 33d and 34th sts, fronting 197.6 feet on Park av, and 80 ft. in both 33d and 34th sts, on the site of the old Cornelius Vanderbilt home, will not be a hotel building, as was at first thought. The first five stories will be erected for heavy manufacturing purposes, and the upper portion above the fifth floor will be for offices. Six buildings now occupying the site will be demolished. The materials for the first six stories will be of light brick, terra cotta and limestone, architectural terra cotta, marble and bluestone coping, slag roof, cast-iron copper and glass windows, with steel frames, steam heating, electric lights, etc. The total height of the building will be 300 feet above the sidewalk. The City Leasing Company, 54 Wall st, of which Joseph W. Welch, is president, is the lessee. Messrs. Warren & Wetmore, 3 East 33d st, are the architects. (See also issue Nov. 16, 1907.)

Architects to Compete for New Post Office Plans.

The Treasury Department, in charge of public buildings, has chosen the following eight New York architects to submit competitive plans for the new post-office building, which is to be erected in Manhattan: The plans will be opened on March 25, 1908. Those selected are: McKim, Mead & White, Carrere & Hastings, George B. Post, Heins & LaFarge, Whitfield & King, K. M. Murchison, Cass Gilbert, and H. Van Buren Magonigle. The judges to pass on the plans are Henry F. Hornbostel, of Palmer & Hornbostel, Manhattan; James G. Hill, Washington, D. C.; Frank Miles Day, Philadelphia, Pa., and E. M. Wheelwright, of Boston, Mass.

F. T. Nesbit & Co. to Build Greenpoint Theatre.

GREENPOINT, LONG ISLAND.—General contract has been awarded to F. T. Nesbit & Co., 116 Nassau st, Manhattan, to erect the new theatre building, which the Orpheum Theatre Co. is about to build at Greenpoint, Long Island, to cost in the neighborhood of $200,000. William H. McElfatrick, 1402 Broadway, Manhattan, is the architect.

Clinton Avenue and 180th Street Improvement.

CLINTON AV.—Building operations will be commenced soon at the southeast corner of Clinton av and 180th st, Bronx, a plot of seven and one-third lots, 122x150 ft., on which high-class flat buildings will be erected. The names of the owner and architect are for the present withheld. Leon S. Altmayer, 62 East 86th st, can inform. No contracts have yet been awarded.

Office Building for Union Hill.

Jacob Platoff, of Union Hill, will shortly start work on the erection of a high office building on Bergenline av, between Franklin and Jefferson sts, Union Hill, New Jersey. The structure will be 25x70 ft., and will be built of pressed brick with limestone trimmings. The cost of the building has not yet been made public and no contracts have yet been awarded.

Apartments, Flats and Tenements.

PITKIN AV.—Samuel Sass, 23 Park Row, has completed plans for four 4-sty flats, to be situated at southwest cor Pitkin av and Grafton st, Brooklyn, for David Spain, 201 Division st.

AVE. B.—Samuel Sass, 23 Park Row, has completed plans for a 6-sty store and tenement building, 47x93 ft., to be erected at the northeast corner of Ave B and 10th st, for Sam Golding, 230 Grand st. Estimated cost is $60,000.

METROPOLITAN AV.—Samuel Sass, 23 Park Row, has plans for a 6-sty store and flat 50x97 ft., to be erected at 245-247 Metropolitan av, Borough of Brooklyn, for Mrs. S. Willner, 67 Jay st, Brooklyn. Estimated cost is $50,000.

Churches.

H. Van Buren Magonigle, 7 West 38th st, Manhattan, is preparing plans for a church to be erected at Auburn, N. Y., for the Greek Catholic congregation.

F. J. Berlenbach, Jr., Brooklyn, has completed plans for a church for the Church of the Assumption, Rev. Dr. Donaldson, pastor, to be erected in Brooklyn to cost $150,000.

Bishop John J. O'Connor has approved plans prepared by Jas. F. Bagnell, of Bayonne, for the edifice which is to be erected for the St. Joseph Slavish R. C. Church at Avenue E and 25th st, Bayonne, N. J., at a cost of $50,000.

Alterations.

BAXTER ST.—Owner and architect, Jacob Finelite, 864 Lexington av, will make alterations to No. 18 Baxter st.

12TH ST.—Abraham Weiss, 130 Broome st, will make alterations to No. 302 East 12th st. Erwin Rossback, 1947 Broadway, is architect.

1ST AV.—B. Sackheim, 1900 Beyer st, Brooklyn, is preparing plans for alterations to No. 176 1st av, for Carmela De Benedittis, 156 Sullivan st.

115TH ST.—Antonio Capo, 2329 1st av, will make alterations to Nos 319-321 East 115th st, for which Otto L. Krauss, Westchester av, Bronx, is planning.

1ST AV.—Otto L. Spannhake, 233 East 78th st, is preparing plans for $4,000 worth of improvements to No. 1466 1st av, owned by S. Grodginsky, 60 East 93d st.

WEST END AV.—Messrs. Janes & Leo, 125 West 45th st, are preparing plans for $4,000 worth of alterations to No. 925 West End av, owned by Mary J. Thiley, on premises.

10TH AV.—John E. Rogers, 180 West 64th st, is preparing plans for $6,000 worth of changes to the northwest corner of 10th av and 38th st, for Barbara Porges, and F. M. Brooks, 36 Rivington st.

Miscellaneous.

Messrs. Howells & Stokes, 100 William st, Manhattan, have been commissioned to prepare plans for an office building to be erected at Seattle, Wash.

The erection of an immigrant station on Governor's Island to cost about $250,000 is reported under consideration by the Immigration Dept. at Washington, D. C.

Messrs. Stephenson & Wheeler, No. 1 East 27th st, Manhattan, have completed plans for a 2-sty school building for the board of education, Chappaqua, N. Y., to cost $20,000.

Robins & Oakman, 27 East 22d st, Manhattan, have completed plans for a coal unloading house and coal conveyor bridge, at Jersey City, for the Hudson Companies.

Messrs. Hale & Rogers, 11 East 24th st, Manhattan, have been engaged to prepare plans for a $50,000 school to be erected in place of the present building on Cedar av, Montclair, N. J.

An ordinance providing an issue of $200,000 for securing an architect to prepare plans and specifications for new penitentiary buildings on Riker's Island, has been approved by the Mayor.

Estimates Receivable.

Kenneth M. Murchison, 320 5th av, Manhattan, will receive bids about Dec. 15 for the 2-sty restaurant building, 85x120 ft, to be erected at Hoboken, N. J., for the Hoboken Land & Improvement Co.

John W. Ingle, 109 West 42d st, Manhattan, will receive bids about Dec. 15, for the 4-sty Y. M. C. A. building, to be erected for the Long Island Railroad Co., at Long Island City. The cost is placed at about $85,000.

Bids will soon be called for by the city for $12,000 worth of alterations to the 3-sty engine house, No. 91 Ludlow st; also for $16,000 worth of changes to a similar building No. 83 Lawrence st. Alexander Stevens, 157-159 East 67th st, has plans ready.

ST. NICHOLAS AV.—No contracts have yet been awarded for the storage structure, 76 x 102.10 ft, which Callahan & Paul, 643 St. Nicholas av, will erect at Nos. 641-643 St. Nicholas av, to cost $10,000. A. L. Kehoe, 206 Broadway has plans ready.

Contracts Awarded.

LENOX AV.—Schlesinger & Schlesinger, 449 West 41st st, have obtained the contract for improvements to No. 95 Lenox av, for Albert E. Lowe, 230 Grand st.

The Geo. A. Fuller Co., Fuller bldg, Manhattan, has obtained the general contract to erect a brewing plant for the Chicago Heights Brewing Co., at Chicago, Ill., to cost about $115,000.

Wilson Potter, 1 Union sq, has awarded the general contract for the 3-sty high school building, for the board of education, Ossining, N. Y., to John V. Schaefer, Jr., Manhattan, to cost about $90,000.

J. H. L'Hommedieu's Son & Co., 1133 Broadway, has received the contract to build the 2-sty garage, 52x60 ft, at Lotus Valley, L. I., for L. C. Weir, 59 Broadway. Plans are by Messrs. Hiss & Weeks, 1123 Broadway.

6TH AV.—The Gillies-Campbell Co., 1 Madison av, have the contract for improvements to the 8-sty club house southeast corner of 6th av and 59th st, for the New York Athletic Club, from plans by Geo. K. Thompson, 66 Broadway.

The Baldwin Heating Co., 1181 Broadway, has received the steam-heating work, and James McCullagh, 218 West 36th st, the plumbing, for the 3-sty engine and hook and ladder house at Belmont av and 183d st, for the fire department.

2D AV.—Conrady Bros., 232 East 42d st, have received the contract for extensive alterations to the 4-sty hotel, No. 623 2d av, for A. F. O'Donnell. Henry Neus, 511 3d av, is the lessee. Chas. H. Richter, 68 Broad st, prepared the plans.

BEAVER ST.—W. D. Lewis Co., 90 West st, has the general contract for extensive alterations to the 5-sty store and office building, No. 3 Beaver st, which the Cruikshank Co. has leased for a long term of years. Messrs. Westervelt & Austin are the architects. (See also issue Aug. 17, 1907.)

PARK AV.—Stephen Ball, 3682 Broadway, has received the carpenter work for the 12-sty office building to be erected by the One Hundred and Three Park Av. Company, at the southeast corner of Park av and 41st st, to cost $650,000. Messrs. Mulliken & Moeller, 7 West 38th st, are architects.

The Power Engineering & Contracting Co., 1123 Broadway, has obtained the contract for the electrical work for the Hamburg Avenue Bath in Brooklyn, from Mr. George Hildebrand, general contractor, 38 Park Row. The same company has just completed the electric installation in a new ribbon mill for the Walter Emmerich Co., and also a six-story loft building for Mr. Hugh Getty, at 16-8 Jay st.

Plans Wanted.

Preliminary sketches and terms for plans from architects will be received by Paul G. Schmidt, Northfield, Minn., until Dec. 15 for a ladies' dormitory at St. Olaf College, to accommodate 200 girls. Information on application. No remuneration is to be paid for the preliminary plans.

The I. O. O. F., Spokane, Wash., contemplates the erection of an 8-sty building, at a cost of about $250,000. The two or three upper floors will be retained for lodge purposes. The order owns a lot, 70x142 ft., worth $100,000. No plans have yet been made. Address Geo. A. Lovejoy, past grand secy., 1201 Broadway av, Spokane, Wash.

R. H. Graham, Smithville, Tex., will want plans about Jan. 1 for a water, light and ice plant to be erected at Elgin, Tex., to cost about $60,000.

BUILDING NOTES

The Rhode Island Elevator & Machine Co., of Providence, R. I., has recently opened an office in the Townsend Building, 1123 Broadway. Mr. William H. Lemon is their New York selling agent.

The Committee on Constitution of the new Central Building Trades, consisting of thirty-three unions, formed in opposition to the Central Federated Union, has decided that the organization be named the Central Association of Building Trades of New York.

Proposal is to be made on the part of the employing sheet-metal workers, when the trade agreement of the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers expires at the end of December, to have two helpers for every sheet-metal worker instead of one as at present. Sheet-metal workers are paid $4.50 a day, while the helpers are paid from $16 to $18 a week.

The forty-first annual convention of the American Institute of Architects ended with a banquet to 150 members, with ladies, at Blackstone Hall, in the Art Institute at Chicago. Prof. Percy H. Nobbs of McGill University, Montreal, spoke on an American revival of Gothic architecture. Others who spoke were: Dwight H. Perkins, president of the Illinois chapter of the institute; Robert W. Hunt of Chicago, Bishop C. P. Anderson and Frank D. Millet of New York. At the annual election of officers Cass Gilbert of New York was elected president and Glenn Brown of Washington, secretary and treasurer.

The proposal recently made to reduce the wages of carpenters from $5 to $4.50 a day made by the Master Carpenters' Association is receiving considerable interest among carpenters and employers. The Association, which proposed a cut of 50 cents a day in wages when the present agreement expires, has made an alternative proposition. This is that the ban on handling what is known as "unfair" wood trim, consisting of manufactured woodwork such as window sashes, be taken off, and that the wages of the carpenters remain at the figure of $5 a day. By "unfair" wood trim is meant wood trim made under conditions where the wages are lower and the working hours longer than under union conditions in New York.

PROJECTED BUILDINGS

The first name is that of the ow'r; ar't stands for architect, m'n for mason, c'r for carpenter, and b'r for builders.
When character of roof is not mentioned, it is to be understood that the roof is to be of tin.

TOLEDO, O.—The Congregation B'nai Israel has accepted plans prepared by Sidney E. Aftel, Spitzer Bldg., for the synagogue, which is to be erected at Wodruff av and Union st, at a cost of $50,000.

Foreign Opportunities.

(Inquiries in which addresses are omitted are on file at the U. S. Bureau of Manufactures, Washington, D. C. In applying for addresses refer to file number.)

No. 1656. Electrical machinery.—One of the American cousular officers in South America writes of the various contemplated electrical improvements in his district. He furnishes the several names to which correspondence might be profitably addressed.

No. 1659. Panama Canal supplies.—Bids will be received until December 13 by the Isthmian Canal Commission, Washington, D. C., for the supplying of lumber, stern spud for dipper dredge, repair parts for steam shovels, driving-wheel tires and centres for locomotives, motor-generator set, switchboard, electric fans, electric switches and fuse blocks, steel plates and angles, closet seats and attachments, ball cocks, chain, sink bolts, lag screws, pipe-threading machine, bolt taps, pipe bend, gage cocks, bibbs, steam whistles, copper pipe, salinometers, band saws, calorimeter, rules, planimeters, protractors, ranging poles, paper clips, paper-fastener presses and fasteners, pins, ink, stamp pads, blotter holders, twine, paper, index cards, cardboard, etc. (Circular No. 403.)

No. 1661. Municipal improvements.—Consul Edward J. Norton, of Asuncion, reports the incorporation of an American company, called the Asuncion City Improvements, Electric Light, Power and Tramways Co., to carry out the municipal improvements specified in the concession granted by the Paraguayan Government, which embraces the construction and control of a water and sewerage system, the operation of an electric tramway service, and an electric lighting plant. Consul Norton states that such improvements will create opportunities for the sale of bath tubs, toilets, water motors, bathroom fittings, plumber's goods and tools, lavatories, water pipe, insulated wire, bulbs and sockets, chandeliers, lamps, and all electric-lighting fixtures and supplies. He supplies a list of merchants to whom manufacturers of these lines of goods might do well to send catalogues, prices and full information, and they will find it well worth while to go into detail when soliciting business in this country. Prices should be quoted f. o. b. New York, and all discounts stated or net figures given. Catalogues will also be gladly received at the consulate, where they will be filed for reference purposes.

No. 1666. Railway sleepers.—The Railway Board, Calcutta, India, invite tenders until Jan. 6, 1908, for the supply of 60,000 timber sleepers for the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway, delivery to begin April 15, and to be completed by June 30, 1908.

No. 1667. Saws and files.—Mr. Harald Michelsen, post-office box 65, Christiania, Norway, writes that he desires to represent American firms offering saws and files.

No. 1668. Electric and pumping plant.—The Superintending Engineer, Patiala State, India, is calling for tenders up to Jan. 6, 1908, for the electric and pumping plant required for the Patiala water supply, particulars of which may be had by addressing him.

No. 1669. Saw steel.—Herr Ferdinand Wiss, Vallendar am Rhein, Germany, is greatly interested in strap (band) steel for making metal saws and in sheet steel for making metal circular saws. He states that there is a special demand there for that kind of steel, such as used in America for making "Milford" buck-saw blades.

No. 1671. Price lists, etc., for consulate.—Consul Wm. C. Magelssen, of Bagdad, Turkey, requests American manufacturers to send him their catalogues, samples, price lists with quotations c. i. f. Bassorah, trade publications, and literature pertaining to American manufactured goods. He states that these will be most useful to him in his attempts to arouse interest in American things, and that he will place them where he believes they will bring the best results. He particularly asks that price lists be furnished of hardware, lamps, ice-making machines, small size; iron beams, office fixtures, oil stoves, street-railway material, wagons, and wood and lumber, with samples, if possible.

A Patriotic Offer.

At a meeting of the Business Men's Association of Long Island City, held Friday evening a resolution was passed appointing a committee to present the proposition to the city officials that the association will erect a Borough Hall for Queens at the expense of the association. The city is to select the site in Long Island City of course, and adopt plans. Then the business men will subscribe the necessary money to buy the site and to erect the building. The plans for the building are likewise to be adopted by the city authorities. The business men agree to carry the building until such time as the city is able to buy it. The building will be turned over to the city for its original cost plus the carrying charges.—L. I. Star.

Jersey is Expectant.

People are going to buy more good land than ever as soon as confidence is restored, assert the real estate brokers, and next spring will witness an avalanche of dealings far in advance of everything heretofore.—Jersey City Journal.

The Week.

From a real estate standpoint the week was dull and uninteresting. There were some "promises," but brokers report things pretty much at a standstill. The buying public, according to several well-known real estate operators, are simply holding their breath, waiting for future developments. Astonishment is sometimes expressed because there has been no serious reaction in values. Undoubtedly the situation has cleared to some extent. The talk of withdrawing the certificates issued by the Clearing House thus gives evidence that the money market is becoming easier.

The influence of Thanksgiving Day was naturally felt in the market, for many people went out of town from Wednesday until Monday. It is difficult for brokers to do business in the Holiday season, for people's minds are diverted into other channels, and they do not want to undertake the serious proposition of investing money.

The principal sale of the week was the purchase by Paterno Brothers of the plot, on Riverside Drive and 116th st. This plot is 81x100, and is going to be immediately improved by a 10-sty apartment house. This firm has had considerable experience in this section. They have built a number of houses and are considered to "know the section" and the wants of the class of apartment dwellers that live there.

The next sale of importance was that of the Jermyn apartment house on the southwest cor of 61st st and Broadway. This building was built in 1904 at an estimated cost of $575,000. It is a 12-sty high-class apartment house with stores. It is the only building of its kind between 59th and 66th st. Sixteen lots on Washington Heights were given in exchange.

Nos. 108 and 110 Charlton st were sold and resold. These houses are going to be altered into a 7-sty loft building. A 5-sty tenement, 68 William st, 25x100, figured in a trade for 240 West 143d st, a 6-sty flat, 25x100. A few of the medium-priced dwellings and flats were sold, but taking it all in all the week was rather disappointing.

Several large leases were reported in the business and loft building section, but nothing out of the ordinary. The mortgage market was quiet. But few mortgages of considerable size were recorded. The largest was given by the Montross Bond and Realty Co. to William McKenzie et al, covering the plot 100x100 on the south side of 77th st, 50 ft. east of Columbus av. The rate and due date appears in the bond only. The amount was $100,000. A mortgage for $60,000 was given by Thomas A. Emmet to John G. Brown, on 93 and 95 Madison av, the southeast cor of 29th st, two dwellings covering the plot, 50x100. The rate and due date as per bond, and the amount is $60,000. Philip Simon to Mary K. Starrett, a $59,000 3-year mortgage at 5% on 2753 and 2755 Eighth av, a 6-sty flat covering 50x85 ft.

The total number of private sales reported for the week is 23, of which 6 were below 59th st, 9 above, and 8 in the Bronx.

The total number of mortgages recorded for Manhattan this week were 126 as against 206 last week, and in the Bronx 81 this week as against 107 last week. The total amount involved was $2,238,662 as against $8,320,456 last week.

THE AUCTION MARKET

The auction market was at a standstill this week. Thanksgiving day coming in the middle of the week had probably something to do with the few offerings. There were no voluntary sales. Owners are not anxious to voluntarily place their holdings on the market at the present time, on account of the existing conditions, but they think by the first of the year things will be in better shape and that property will command better prices. Nos. 214 and 216 East 127th st, a 6-sty brick flat, 40x99.11, with stores, went to Abijah M. Dederer for $34,250. The 3-sty brick dwelling, 605 Walton av, 16.8x100, to John G. Faron for $5,600. Three 6-sty brick tenements with stores, 124.4 x100x irreg, known as 1391 to 1401 3d av, were bought in by the plaintiff for $160,578. The 2-sty brick dwelling, 887 Jackson av, 19.9x75, went to the plaintiff for $4,800. The rest of the offerings were adjourned to an early date in December.

Values in West 22d Street.

THE realty values in West 22d st, between Fifth and Sixth aves, have had a substantial increase within a few years. The first cause of the movement dates back to the period when 23d st became too congested, and prices became practically prohibitive. As the south side of 23d st was considered choicer, if anything, than the north side, naturally the overflow took the same direction and went to 22d st.

In this street some of the larger stores have entrances and they were quick to realize that it would be good business policy to acquire as much property on this thoroughfare as possible, the result being that all the property on the north side was speedily purchased. The next step was to go across the street and Benjamin Stern acquired several parcels on that side of the thoroughfare also.

About eighteen months ago property on this block was worth about $100,000 a lot, which was between $25,000 and $30,000 more than the prices obtained five years previous and $45,000 more than ten years ago. In 1902 Benjamin Stern paid $82,000 for 16 West 22d st, and in the same year No. 10 sold for $70,000, and was resold with 12 for $160,000, 28 to 32 was sold by the French Church du Saint Esprit for $200,000, size 82.9x98.9. This price is about $60,000 a lot. On this building has been erected a 6-sty modern office and loft building. The asking price at the present time is $425,000.

At the present time it is difficult to get a full lot on this block for less than $125,000, and even at that figure they are scarce; 24 and 26, which has a frontage of 50 feet, is held at $275,000, while 28 and 30, a modern 6-sty loft and office building, 50 feet wide, is valued at $425,000; 32 West 22d st, another 6-sty modern loft and office building, on a lot 32.9 feet wide, commands $350,000.

The asking price over a year ago for 34 in this same block was $125,000. This plot is 25 feet front; 36 West 22d st, 7-sty loft building, was held at $150,000 about two years ago, and also has 25 feet on the street; 40 and 42, 46 feet wide, is held at $175,000, while 44, in the same block, 23 feet wide, with an old building, is valued at $100,000 by its present owners.

In the leasing feature of this street, a 20-foot store rents for $3,750; a 25-foot store rents for $5,500, and 33-foot store commands $6,000. Lofts are held at about $1.20 a square foot.

Which Pays Best?

Western Union Telegraph sold last year as high as 94¼, at which investors put it into their strong boxes, though it paid them but 5.3 per cent.—New York Herald.

A private dwelling should pay 8 per cent. on its value; a fine flat house, with the most modern improvements, should pay from 12 to 15 per cent., according to the class of investment and cost of maintenance.—Frank H. Tyler, of Brooklyn.

—It has been variously estimated that something like $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 has been withdrawn from the banks within the last six weeks and that less than $25,000,000 has been returned. In all probability $10,000,000 is being carried abroad by the foreign laboring element, and the remainder is most likely tucked away by the thousands of thrifty timid ones who no longer place trust in banks. This considerable sum must sooner or later find investment, and what safer investment can be found than well situated real estate within the boundaries of Greater New York.

Who's Who in Real Estate—IV.

Edward L. King has for years been known as a specialist in real estate. The particular branch of the business to which he has devoted the major part of his time is Manhattan corners. He is considered an authority on values of this class of property, and was closely connected with the old firm of Richard V. Harnett & Co., for twenty years.

Mr. King has what is considered one of the most complete real estate offices in the city. In some respects it surpasses all others. He has a collection of records that he is extremely proud of. It is not only valuable, but is of material aid to him in the conduct of his business. For example, he has the only complete set of auction records (so far as known), dating back to 1867. These he bought at auction when the firm of Richard V. Harnett was dissolved. He has kept them up to date and they are a very valuable asset, as well as extremely interesting from a collector's standpoint.

Besides these records, Mr. King is the possessor of a complete set of auction maps and sales, giving names of purchasers and the prices paid for the parcels from 1868 to date. Many interesting facts on the gradual increase in the value of real estate in New York can be found by referring to the prices paid at various sales of the same property. Offers that were made under protest and only after urgent persuasion on the part of the broker, look today so cheap that it is a wonder they were ever accepted.

Mr. King, besides keeping the records already referred to, has a system of keeping tabs on all corners north of 14th st. There are three men out canvassing all the time. One has the eastern district, one the middle district and the other takes the western third of the city. Every corner is visited and on the card that is made out for a particular piece of property all data is filled in, such as size, height, occupancy, term of lease, when last transferred, price, if possible, condition, location of fire escapes, etc. All these are carefully arranged in order, the result being that the office has a record of every corner. If a piece of property is not in the market for sale, it is so noted, but it is just as carefully looked after, for fear that the owner might change his mind.

Mr. King has taken the stand that his office is his home during regular office hours, and frequently in the evening, so he has fitted it up to look as pretty and comfortable as possible. The walls are lined with a number of old prints, as well as pictures of prominent buildings, giving the effect of solid comfort. The furniture is of metal, stained to represent mahogany and is covered with glass, making it sanitary.

Mr. King was recently elected secretary of the Real Estate Board of Brokers of New York. He has been identified with this organization for years and is one of its moving spirits. Much of its success has been due to his efforts.

—Daniel Hanley was appointed receiver of rents of Hotel Severance, southeast cor Broadway and 94th st. The suit was instituted by the Bradley and Currier Co. et al against Ada Bingham et al to foreclose a second mortgage of $10,500. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. holds a first mortgage of $230,000.

Park Avenue and Murray Hill.

What will be the future of Park av, between 34th and 40th sts? Will business creep into this avenue? These are hard questions to answer. It is questionable whether anyone could satisfactorily reply to either.

This avenue is uniquely situated. A little strip of land only six blocks in length, centrally located, of immense monetary value—and yet it has retained its hold as a residential district. The present occupants seem loath to leave it, and turn their homes over for commercial purposes. On all sides business has found a footing, and is thriving in the fullest meaning of the word.

Partly on this account property values on Madison and 5th avs have increased enormously in five years, and the natural result of this condition would be that the overflow would extend both east and west. This has been true so far as the west is concerned, for all the blocks between Fifth and Sixth avs on Murray Hill are being invaded by retail houses, such as silversmiths', tailors', dressmakers', milliners', etc.

This state of affairs, however, does not exist east of Madison av. On 40th st there were a number of stables, used by adjoining property owners. In several instances large offers were made, with the object in view of converting this street into business. On every occasion the offer was refused. Finally a builder came along and suggested that he erect modern dwelling houses of the most improved type, and on that condition the land was sold, and this idea was subsequently carried out. Park av has been kept free from business of every description. Much has been done to make it as attractive as possible. There is a parkway in the middle of the avenue, which is 140 feet in width, and in the last few years many of the dwellings have been remodelled and much money has been spent beautifying them.

Many fine residences line both sides of this avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bacon own and occupy No. 1 Park av, which is on the northeast corner of 34th st. This house is 25x100, with the entrance on 34th st, which gives the width on the avenue to be devoted to drawing rooms, etc. On the northeast corner of 35th st is Mr. J. H. Robb's residence, with a frontage of 49.5 feet, while across the way, on the northwest corner, is the 33-foot residence of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Butler.

No. 39 Park av, on the northeast corner of 36th st, is owned by Mr. George S. Bowdoin and has a frontage of 48.9 feet. The residence of the late Charles T. Barney, 67 Park av, is situated on the northeast corner of 38th st. This plot is 57.9 feet on the avenue.

The James family have long been identified with this part of Park av. In 1872 Nos. 80-82 Park av, a 48.7 dwelling on the southwest ccorner of 39th st, was transferred to Mrs. Ellen G. James; various members of the family have purchased property in this locality. Some years ago, the northwest corner of 39th st, directly opposite the James home, was occupied by a church, who were desirous of selling. This plot was purchased by the Jameses and also by Mr. Dodge, who was in business with Mr. James. Four dwelling houses were erected on a frontage of 148 feet.

Mrs. Laura Jennings owns 86 Park av, which is on the northwest corner of 39th st, Mrs. Eliza McCullough owns No. 88, Mrs. Grace Dodge, No. 90, D. Willis James, No. 92. Later Mrs. Eliza Turner, who is also a member of the family, purchased No. 94. This completes the block front, except the southwest corner of 40th st, a dwelling owned at the present time by Mrs. Sarah L. Payne, and the adjoining residence, owned by Mrs. Henry Hall Forbes. These three last named houses were built some years ago as high-stoop houses, but were subsequently altered into modern American basement residences. The entrance of 98 was placed on the side street, while Nos. 94 and 96 were entirely remodelled and extensions built in the yards.

There are several reasons why this particular section is very desirable for residential purposes. It is centrally located, and yet is shut off on the north by the Grand Central Station, and on the south by the formation of the land, there being a heavy grade between 32d and 34th sts, which discourages heavy trucking to the Grand Central. This traffic is diverted to either Madison or Lexington avs.

It is the only avenue in the city at the present time that has two tunnels, one built over the other. It will be remembered that the tunnel on the lowel level is used by the Interborough, while the one on the higher level is used by the Metropolitan Street Railway. Thus with these two roads, to which can be added the cross-town lines at either end (34th and 42d sts), it is easily accessible from any part of the town.

Property on both sides of the avenue is restricted, not only by what is known as the "Murray Hill restriction," which prohibits foundries, factories, blacksmith shops, etc., but also every form of business, apartment and commodity houses, etc. In fact every kind of a building is barred, except those built for private dwelling purposes.

About four months ago a dwelling on the east side of Park av, between 39th and 40th sts was reported sold for $85,000. This building was about 20 feet in width. This price was considered at the time to be below the market. On the other side of the way $75,000 was offered and refused for a 16-foot dwelling.

Points Against the Torrens System.

BY HENRY F. MILLER.*

The Torrens System of land registration so called is really not a system of land registration in the nature purely of a recording act, but goes further, in that it requires the State to insure the accuracy of the report, and thus practically imposes upon the State the functions of an insurance or indemnity company. The question naturally arises, why should the State undertake this business, any more than fire or life insurance? There is no real difference in principle from the insurance standpoint. If, however, it be deemed a proper function of the State, then that function should be exercised only if there is a controlling demand for it. This demand I do not think exists. The great body of land owners and citizens are not agitated in favor of such a system.

While not meaning to impugn the motives of the persons who are desirous of procuring the introduction of the Torrens System, I think it will be found that, with some unimportant exceptions, the persons thus expressing this desire are principally real estate brokers and operators. Their desire is based upon the theory that such a system would facilitate their business by reason of its cheapness and expedition. The operators think that they would be enabled to realize profits more frequently and rapidly, and the brokers think that they would earn commissions more frequently and rapidly. While this is a wholly proper desire for the persons thus interested, what public necessity exists for the passage of a law for the pecuniary advantage of one class of citizens?

The object sought to be attained is to make real estate practically as quick an asset as personal property. This will always be impossible, because of the radical difference in the nature of the two kinds of property, and the systems of law applicable thereto. Real estate is immovable and implies stability. Personal property is movable and fleeting, and implies fluidity rather than stability. Because of its immovability and stability, real estate is the backbone of all taxation and the goal sought to be attained for security and for liens. The imposition of the burdens of taxation and liens upon real estate naturally opposes its quick convertibility into cash.

Recording acts are an American institution. It seems to me they are beneficial and wise and prevent fraud; but they impose the necessity to search the records. This searching of the records implies special skill on the part of men trained in the subject and the employment of special skill entails expense.

To the extent that the proposed system is confined to a recording act which shall embrace concisely all the outstanding liens affecting a particular piece of property, it would be, if possible, a benefit. The only way to attain this result seems to me to be first to reduce the number of liens and next to require persons claiming liens to so file or declare them, that they could be readily indexed against certain properties, and should be liens only as to those properties. To make the system complete, there should be one central office where all these particulars should be ascertainable. I doubt whether this could be accomplished in the City of New York. If it could be accomplished, the entire existing system would have to be radically amended.

If it could be accomplished to have all the returns grouped at one office, the final question would arise whether these liens should be indexed against particular lots. If so indexed confusion would probably result by the changes subsequently made in the lines of the lots. It was this difficulty that induced the framers of the present law to adopt the block system rather than the lot system of recording. If, however, the liens were only indexed against blocks, the record would not be definite and precise, but on the contrary necessitate further inquiry as to particular lots in a given block.

But it seems to me essential that the State should not go beyond imposing upon its recording officers, the purely ministerial duty of recording and indexing rights, interests and liens filed in the office. To go further than this would be to clothe with judicial functions inferior officers not qualified to exercise them. For if the state stood ready to insure the sufficiency of the title of a piece of property upon the certificate of the various recording officers, these certificates would practically amount to judgments, and would impose heavy responsibilities and probably impair the constitutional right of trial by jury.

The Torrens system, I understand, originated in Australia. Many other ideas and so-called reforms were attempted in the same place. New communities are given to experiments. It might also be possible to originate such a system in the Western States, where titles, having their origin in United States patents, have been held by private parties for comparatively few years. But in a city like New York, where the recorded history of private ownership extends back for about two hundred years, the expense and difficulty of even starting such a system are so tremendous, that the question for this Commission to decide is, not whether such systems have succeeded fairly well elsewhere, but rather whether the advantages resulting therefrom have been so great as to warrant the risks and the cost of the attempt in this state.

Apart from the difficulties inherent in the task itself, there would be the added feature, that when the State, through its political appointees, endeavors to do work of such a character, it is public history that it costs more and is less ably done than if undertaken by private individuals.

To be equipped for this kind of work would require a large force of men, most of whom would have to be trained lawyers. When times of depression, like the present, arrived, it would not be readily possible to lessen the force and the expense would largely exceed the income.

If all the other difficulties suggested by me are open to removal, we confront the last proposition, that a state guarantee of titles is inherently impracticable. Even if we assume that the title to a piece of property has been examined and certified to a certain date, or even hour, it may well be that conditions would be entirely changed an hour afterwards. If, for example, the State, through its legal force, examines a title and finds it vested in A at a given time, it would be practically impossible for the recording officer to be able to certify the title of B (A's successor) without employing its legal force to search the title in behalf of B. The mere filing by B of an instrument, purporting to vest in him A's title, would not be sufficient. Various questions might arise requiring judicial functions on the part of the recording officer, or at least legal examination to justify the State to issue its guarantee.

Among the questions which would thus arise might be: The legal sufficiency of the instrument claimed to vest title, and the validity of its execution. If the grantor were married, whether the woman purporting to be the grantor's wife was actually such. Whether the grantor had the legal capacity to execute the deed, or to convey the title purported to be conveyed.

Whether the grantee had the legal capacity to take, or whether, for example, his purchase would be chargeable with a trust.

If the instrument were executed under a power of attorney whether the power was sufficiently broad and properly executed.

Whether there are any visible easements which would be indicated, by an inspection of the premises.

Whether, by reason of the possession of the premises in strangers, or from other sources, the grantee would be chargeable with notice of an outstanding title or interest.

If there had been any devolution of title, through death, various other questions might arise as to descent and alienage, testamentary capacity, capacity of devisee to take, whether trusts created by a will were valid, what powers became vested in the executors, under the will and the extent of such powers, whether any charges are to be implied by law constituting a lien upon the real estate.

Whether, in case of a will, children of the testator were born after the date of the will, and not provided for, so that partial intestacy resulted. The points to which I have called the attention are all points which would not be covered by the mere filing of a paper, but would require independent work outside of the recording office, and, in many cases, judicial functions.

If the real object sought to be attained is to make real estate a readily convertible asset, it would be essential that all real estate should come under the provisions of the act, because unless it was generally known and understood that every real estate transaction would be reduced to this simple basis (because all real estate was subject to the act), there would be uncertainty in any given case, whether or not that particular real estate would afford the opportunity of the desired simple transfer. To bring about this so-called simplicity in isolated cases, would not accomplish much good in rendering real estate, in general, a readily convertible asset, besides imposing a maximum expense for a minimum benefit.

On the other hand, to attempt to subject to the operation of such a law the real estate of an owner unwilling to have it thus subjected, would seem to me impossible of accomplishment in a legal way.

*At the fourth public hearing before the Torrens Commission, which was held on Friday, Nov. 15, at the City Hall, Mr. Henry F. Miller appeared in response to an invitation to present his views.

Real Estate Brokers Dine.

(With Illustration.)

At the first annual banquet of the New York-New Jersey Real Estate Exchange, which was held at Reisenweber's, Nov. 23, the guests of honor were the real estate editors of the metropolitan district. Hon. Otto Kempner presided. Speeches were delivered by Hon. James L. Wells, Mr. Edward L. King, Secretary of the Real Estate Board of the City of New York, and Messrs. M. P. Walsh, Jos. W. Doolittle, Walter G. Muirhead, of Jersey City, Chester F. Parish, Frank Stevens of Jersey City, John W. Schmidt of Brooklyn, Robert Bridgeman, Henry Cyphers of Newark, Arthur F. Nicholson, Charles Moelspheni and Vice-President Jeffery of Berkeley Heights.

Others present were: Messrs. Elton Borroughs, F. P. W. Marquardt, W. P. Anderson, Albert V. Smith, Joseph E. Crowell, Joseph P. Day, John J. Nutt, S. L. Skinner, E. H. Lambert, F. M. Welles, Philip I. Hover, Richard M. Montgomery, W. Irving Scott, Samuel S. Scheuer, F. V. Pelletreau, C. Alfred Burhorn, William H. Brown, A. M. Burnett, Thos. A. Ryer, Chas. Singer, Jr., John V. Haas, James A. Romeyn, William A. Lambert, F. J. Beyer, A. Feist, F. L. Vrooman, George James Bayles, Walter W. Wilsey, W. W. Slocum, W. R. Squire, Robert Le Roy Pierce, F. W. Creighton, George A. Haynes, H. A. Rounds, Jesse L. Hedden, Asahel Chapin, J. Ward Smith, Henry V. Condict, H. C. Colville, William S. Welch, L. W. Naylor, E. D. Paulin, Siegfried Cedarstrom, S. M. Hodkinson, David Lippmann, Harry Lippmann.

Observations in the Bronx.

THE TREMONT AV DISTRICT of the Borough of Bronx is keeping up to its record of continuous real estate improvements, and, even in these uncertain times, the word is Forward.

Renting in the Bronx is generally good, with the exception of the Morris Park and Van Nest section, which is nearly isolated by the almost impassable condition of West Farm Road.

Clement H. Smith, of Tremont av, believes that the financial troubles through which we are now passing will result eventually in the investing of many small accounts now in savings and other banks in moderate-priced homes and small mortgages.

"During the past two weeks," said Mr. Smith, "I have had many inquiries and have sold several small private and two-family houses. While in the aggregate these may not amount to very much, they show, to me, confidence is being rapidly restored.

"The demand for flats renting from $20 to $30 is good and today there are few vacancies in this neighborhood. Business property on Tremont av, between Third and Webster avs, has steadily increased in value and has more than doubled the past five years. During the same period the rentals of stores have been increased 100 to 150 per cent.

"At the northwest corner of Tremont and Park avs the elegant new stone building of the Bronx Safe Deposit Company is fast nearing completion. The first floor will be occupied by the Bronx Savings Bank, the basement will be fitted up for safe deposit vaults and the lofts will be used for fireproof storage. Adjoining the bank property, on Tremont av, Webber & Co., well known Harlem butchers, are erecting a 1-sty building, 125x100 ft., which will be used by them for a branch market. While the real estate business here in the Bronx could be better, it also could be very much worse, and on the whole we are satisfied and working harder than ever."

FIRST ANNUAL BANQUET OF THE NEW YORK—NEW JERSEY REAL ESTATE EXCHANGES.

Mr. Joseph P. Day's personal guests were Salomon De Walltearss, J. Barry Lounsberry, John S. Mapes, John L. Parish; A. N. Arneberg, C. A. Berrian, Hon. James L. Wells, Samuel Goldsticker, Robert E. Simon, John W. O'Connor, Clarence J. Ramsay, Edward L. King, A. N. Gitterman, Stuard Hirschman, Thomas Scowcroft, Frank Boyle, Henry Polhemus, Fred W. Mehle, Harry Rascovar, Edward J. Carr, Charles Schaeffler, Edwin A. Pearsall, L. C. Ditmar, Jacob Meyers, Alexander Rossner, Robert Huntley, David Vogel, James M. T. Pope, T. Alexander Dumont.

Mr. Muirhead in the course of his speech said no one could foresee what the next twenty years would bring forth in Hudson County. The land is constantly becoming more valuable, and the number of real estate transactions will increase with the population. The real estate news that will record these changes must be accurate, it must be timely, it must be entertaining. To accomplish this result it will need the co-operation of the real estate broker.

"The smallest county in the State, but with the largest population, Hudson county has shown such progress with her tunnels and other transit facilities as to induce a large immigration of home-seekers and to make imperative that realty topics should be treated in a thorough and comprehensive manner."

The speech of Mr. Jeffery, on Bungalows, opening up as it did a novel subject, was much appreciated.

The occasion was a very pleasant augury for the imminence of an era of great progress in real estate for New Jersey.

—Titles to 13 parcels of real estate in the upper part of Manhattan have been transferred by J. O. Baker and James R. Hay to Chas. T. Barney. Messrs. Baker and Hay held these and other properties for Mr. Barney. This action is preliminary to the real property of the estate being taken over by the Barney Estate Co., which has been incorporated in Albany.

A HIGHWAY IN BAD SHAPE.

There are more than fifty flats vacant in East Bronx, most of them at Van Nest. Rents have been reduced and other concessions made. The trouble is not with the flats or the real estate agents, but with West Farms road, the only approach to Van Nest and Morris Park. This highway is in a bad condition and has been so during every wet period.

All year the road has been torn up, more or less, and the paving contractor is having his own troubles. Nearly all week the road was a sea of mud and muck, and as the granite blocks are being placed without a concrete or gravel foundation, the contractor was again forced to stop work, and the end of the difficulty is not in sight.

It has gotten to that point that stores will not agree to deliver goods in the isolated districts for fear of losing horses and wagons. The pavement on Morris Park av was promised for September 1st, but it is still far from completion. Last year William Peters & Co., of 1993 Boston road, sold several hundred houses in the affected district, but this year they have declined to even take prospective purchasers over there, because they consider it no use.

The transportation service helps to aggravate the situation. People going from downtown to Van Nest are forced to change cars three times.

The possibility of a conflagration, while the only thoroughfare is impassable, is what troubles property owners the most. Should a serious fire break out the probability of the city fire department reaching Van Nest or Mapes Estate in time to be of service is very slight and the salvation of that entire district would rest with the volunteer department of Van Nest, consisting of a hand engine, some hose and a lot of courage. One and all real estate men in East Bronx are very much discouraged and their one wish now is that before next spring the paving situation will be sufficiently improved so as to allow the transaction of some business.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

CHARLTON ST.—Jas. H. Cruikshank sold to Arthur J. Collins 108 and 110 Charlton st, old buildings, 46x75. This property was immediately resold to the Charlton Contract Co. The new purchasers will erect at once a 7-sty loft building to be occupied by a wholesale liquor firm.

WILLETT ST.—Karl Sallmeyer sold to Abraham Schwartz 240 W. 143d st, a 5-sty flat, 25x99.11 taking in exchange 68 Willett st, 5-sty front and rear tenements, 25.1x100.4.

54TH ST.—Richtmyer & Irving and Sharrott & Thom sold for Charles Hauck 413 West 54th st, 5-sty front and rear tenements, 25x118. This house adjoins St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

LEXINGTON AV.—W. Clarence Martin sold to Michael Houlihan, a client of Charles Hibson & Co., the northeast cor of Lexington av and 33d st, 5-sty business building, 28x72. Since the announcement was made that Alfred G. Vanderbilt will improve his holdings on Park av, between 33d and 34th sts, property in this neighborhood has become a centre of interest. The new owner is going to utilize the building for his own liquor business. The property has been held at $150,000.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

90TH ST.—Isabelle M. Jordan sold to Mr. McMahon 315 West 90th st, a 3-sty dwelling, 20x100.8.

116TH ST.—Harry L. Rosen bought 35 West 116th st, between 5th and Lenox avs, a 6-sty apartment house with stores, 25x100.11. This property is situated between the public school and the Columbia Typewriting Mfg. Co. on the west.

121ST ST.—The Duross Co. sold for John Murphy to John J. Duffy 230 West 121st st, 5-sty single flat, 17.6x100.11.

Jermyn Apartment House Sold.

BROADWAY.—The Jermyn apartment house on the southwest cor of 61st st and Broadway was reported sold to the Columbian Realty Company. This building was built and owned by the Jermyn Realty & Construction Company, and is a 12-story building with stores, 87.3x81.6x75.5x125. These stores are rented mostly as showrooms for automobiles, but a clause is inserted in the lease that there shall be no gasoline on the premises. This is on account of the insurance. It is reported that this transfer was in the nature of an exchange, several parcels having been given in trade. This building is the only large apartment house on Broadway from 59th to 66th st. It is in the heart of the automobile district. This property has been held at $750,000. In part payment the Columbian Realty Company gives the entire block of 16 lots bounded by Broadway, St. Nicholas av, 171st and 172d sts, 200x190x151x217.

Riverside Drive Corner Sold.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—Paterno Bros. purchased the northeast cor of Riverside Drive and 116th st from Lucius H. Beers. They have been associated with the district around Columbia College for some time past, and have in the last few years built several large apartment houses. This present purchase comprises about four lots and has a frontage of about 81 ft. on Riverside Drive by 100 ft. on the side street. This is the third transaction that this firm has completed in this street between Broadway and the Drive. The selling price was reported as $100,000. They have recently completed two 10-sty buildings on the south side of 116th st, known as the Flora-Ville and the Paterno. The first named was sold to Jason R. and William R. Westerfield. A short time since they purchased from John D. Crimmins two lots just east of the above. It is said that a 12-sty apartment house is going to be built on the recently-acquired corner.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—Slawson & Hobbs sold for the West Side Construction Company (Jacob Axelrod, president) to an investor the Terrace court apartment house, a new 10-sty fireproof building, 145 x117, at the southeast cor of Riverside Drive and 93d st. The house is one of the handsomest on the drive. Mr. Axelrod originally owned a plot of 10 lots at this point and built two 7-sty apartment houses on the drive, which he sold to different investors in October, 1905. The larger building on the corner, which he has now also disposed of, was held at $700,000.

Fairfield Realty Co.'s Purchase.

SEVENTH AV.—Arnold and Byrne sold for Louis Bernstein to the Fairfield Realty Co., the Milton, a 5-sty apartment house, 60x 100, at the northwest cor 148th st and Seventh av.

SEVENTH AV.—G. Schmegler sold for Sarah Hirshhorn the 5-sty flat and store, 2251 Seventh av, 25x75.

8TH AV.—John C. Hough sold for Jas. J. Martin to James S. Shea the 6-sty flats, with stores, 2746-2748 8th av, 40x100, at the southeast cor of 146th st. This plot was formerly part of the elevated railroad yards.

184TH ST.—Renton-Moore Co. sold for Hogenauer & Wesslau Co., builders, 558 West 184th st, to a client for investment the two new 5-sty apartment houses, 75x75 on the south side of 184th st, 75 ft. west of Audubon av. These two houses are the easterly ones of a row of four houses recently finished with a frontage of 37.6 ft. each. This section has been greatly benefited by the approach to the Washington Bridge and High Bridge Park.

BRONX.

Philadelphian Buys Bronx Corner.

137TH ST.—W. E. Preble and V. F. Pelletreau & Co. sold to a Mr. Shaw, of Philadelphia, for about $30,000, the northeast cor of Willow av and 137th st, 100x125.

149TH ST.—Samuel E. Jacobs bought from Ferdinand Hecht 50x80 on the north side of 149th st, near 3d av.

BURNSIDE AV.—Richtmyer & Irving and Sharrott & Thom sold for Andrew L. Gardner the southwest cor of Burnside and Ryer avs, a 2-sty and basement brk house, 37x105.6x irregular.

FEATHERBED LANE.—Jesse C. Bennett & Co. sold for the Upland Realty Co. to Henry Kraus the southeast cor of Featherbed lane and Shakespeare av, about 5 lots and a dwelling. Mr. Kraus will occupy the house and will improve the remainder of the property with private dwellings.

35 Lots Sold by Hall J. How & Co.

GUN HILL ROAD.—Hall J. How & Company sold for J. Allen and Edwin S. Townsend the block containing about 35 lots bounded by Gun Hill and Woodlawn roads, 210th st and Wayne av.

HALL PL.—The Woodstock exchange sold for Eugene Le Herise 25x130 on Hall pl, between 165th and 167th sts, to Robert Fletcher.

MORRIS PARK AV.—Van Winkel & Scott sold for a client to M. Damborajian the 3-sty brk flat with stores on the south side of Morris Park av, 85 ft. west of Unionport road, Van Nest.

PLYMPTON AV.—W. J. Huston & Son sold for David H. Taylor to Mary J. Flanagan the southwest cor of Plympton av and Featherbed lane, 27x108.

SOUTHERN BOULEVARD.—Pocher & Co. sold 50x100 on the west side of Southern Boulevard, 75 ft. south of Jennings st, for M. J. McDonald to Charles Reagan for improvement.

WOODYCREST AV.—James Conway sold to Edward D. Loughman 1003 Woodycrest av, a 3-sty frame tenement, 25.2x90.8.

LEASES.

Alexander J. Roux & Co. leased the store and basement at the southeast cor of 5th av and 20th st to Scott & West, importers, for a term of years.

Mr. J. Burchill leased for Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Farrington of Englishtown, N. J., the 3-sty and basement house No. 258 West 133d st, Manhattan, for 2½ years from Dec. 1, 1907.

Wm. A. White & Sons, in conjunction with Ogden & Clarkson, leased for the Hamersley estate the building at the southwest cor of John and William sts for a long term of years.

Louise & Co., milliners, now on 5th av, have taken a 21-year lease of the entire building 7 East 47th st, owned by Wm. B. Dinsmore. The property is opposite the Windsor Arcade.

Louis Schrag leased for Mrs. Rose B. Walker the dwelling 351 West 20th st, to Miss M. J. Patterson for a term of years; and for a client of James N. Wells' Sons the dwelling 414 West 24th st to Nettie Grenier.

John N. Golding leased for John Wanamaker the 2d loft of the building at the northeast cor of Broadway and 8th st to Albert Hochheimer; also in the same building the entire 4th loft to Feltenstein & Joffe.

The United States Realty & Improvement Co. rented to James W. Osborne the entire Broadway front of the 20th floor in the United States Realty Building at 115 Broadway. The lease was negotiated by the Chas. F. Noyes Co.

The McVickar, Gaillard Realty Co. has leased for a client to Mrs. Maude Hennion the row 211 to 215 West 46th st. This property was recently sold by the Shanley Bros. Plans have been drawn for a theatre to be built on this site and managed by Charles Dillingham.

The Ruland & Whiting Co. leased for the Hudson & Manhattan R. R. Co. to J. Jungmann, Inc., the large store in the new Fulton Bldg., at the southwest cor of Fulton and Church sts, for a term of years from May 1 next at a total rental of over $250,000. The premises are to be used as a drug store.

Ogden & Clarkson leased for the Bankers' Construction Co. to D. Appleton & Co. for a long term of years the entire 7th floor, containing over 12,000 ft., in the new building at 29-35 West 32d st, extending through to 30-4 West 33d st. Also for Louise C. McCreery for 21 years the house at 18 W. 37th st, which is being altered for business purposes.

The Butler & Herrman Co. reports the following leases: For George Blair to Alm & Ryan, lofts in 40 and 42 Gold st; for Edward J. Barry the 2d loft in 62 Cliff st to Richard Tjader; for the Irving P. Lovejoy Co. the store at 320 and 322 Pearl st to M. Weinfeld; for Jefferson M. Levy the 1st loft in 93 and 95 Maiden lane to Wm. C. Dixie, and lofts in 213 Pearl st to Thompson Frey & Co.

London Times Leases From Fuller Co.

H. H. Fuller Realty Co. leased for the Bankers Construction Corporation to the London Times an entire floor containing approximately 15,000 sq. ft. in its new building 29 to 35 West 32d st, extending through to 30 to 34 West 33d st, for a term of years; also for C. Grayson Martin to Kawan Bros. the store at 252 5th av; for Henry A. Dix, Sons & Co. to Zuckerman & Joyce a loft in their new building at 116 and 118 West 14th st, for a term of years.

The Duross Co. leased the store and basement at 215 and 217 West 10th st for the Hermitage Co., to Denis O'Neill, for a long term of years, at an aggregate rental of about $15,000; also the store at 119 West 15th st, for H. Reubenstone & Sons to Henry S. True & Co.; also for Bernard Kreiger to Adolph Baidel the 3-sty dwelling 152 West 130th st for a term of years; also the 3-sty and basement dwelling 110 West 12th st for Geo. T. Bernard to Helen Marigla; also 62 West 12th st for Geo. E. Chisolm to Lena Gleiss.

The Chas. F. Noyes Co. has leased for J. V. & H. V. D. Black the 11th floor of the Black Building, William and Frankfort sts, to the Sterling Engraving Co. for a term of years at an aggregate rental of about $50,000. ### Alfred G. Vanderbilt Acquires Property.

Miss Alice G. Vanderbilt, executrix and trustee of the late William K. Vanderbilt and Chauncey M. Depew et al, executors and trustees of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, transferred the following pieces of choice business property to Alfred G. Vanderbilt, 124 to 136 Nassau st, with 13 to 17 Beekman st, which is a large office building known as the Vanderbilt Building; 153, 154 and 155 South st, and 245 and 247 Front st, which abuts in the rear. This South st property fronts on the East River between Peck slip and Dover st, and is opposite the docks of the New Haven Steamship Line. One-half part of all the foregoing parcels was transferred. The northwest cor of 33d st and Park av, 30x107.6, and the southwest cor of 34th st and Park av, 20.3x90, as well as the house adjoining on 34th st, 20 feet west of the av, 19.9x90, was deeded to Mr. Vanderbilt.

Money Depression Makes Cheaper Building.

Architect Fitzpatrick, of Washington, executive officer of the Building Inspectors' Society, speaking of building conditions in the country generally, asserts that the present is a most opportune time for people to build. The money stringency has developed some peculiar effects upon the building situation. Just prior to the so-called panic everything was at the highest, not only material, but labor. Wages were at the highest point ever reached and the amount of work done in a day was the lowest ever given. Labor was exceedingly independent and the result was that buildings cost anywhere from 20% to 60% more than they did a very few years ago. Tightening of money has scared people generally; manufacturers are anxious to get rid of their stock and get some money in and are making low prices on materials, and while wages have not been reduced to any great extent and are rendering immeasurably better service, it is only a question of a little time when conditions will have eased up and labor and materials will be at the same old high-priced standard.

Unmistakably the people have had a stiff enough dose of stock depreciation and have seen the folly of trying to make big returns by stock gambling. More and more will it be brought home to them that real estate and building constitute infinitely safer investments and it will not be long before we will have boom times again in building.

foot lots that have a depth greater than 100 feet. This variation is not so common as others described. The first question always is how available is the extra depth for any purpose. As a rule it is only factory property that avails of extra depth lots to any material advantage. In districts where such property may be profitably built I add for a depth of 110 to 125 feet, 10 to 12% of the unit value. In the Bronx, where lots are comparatively low priced as in the suburbs, little attention is paid to extra depth except as it may serve for back gardens. The valuation of lots that have a frontage of less than 25 feet and a depth less than 100 feet is a more difficult task. Common forms of such lots are—23x75, 20x50, 20x75, 20x60, 20x80, 18.9 x75, 16.8x75, 18.9x50. If the unit of value be $10,000, what is the value of 18.9x50?

Valuations of such parcels submit to no rule other than the usual one of availability. What is the best and most marketable use to which they can be put? What would the improvement cost and what would the whole sell for either for investment upon a rental basis or as a residence for personal use? Establish the cost of the improvement and subtract it from the probable selling price of the whole, and the difference is the value of the land. If it is impracticable to determine the value of the whole if improved, examples should be sought for in the past few years of transfers of such small lots perhaps with old worn out buildings thereon which have lost their value and also of transfers in similar neighboring blocks, of full lots similarly situated and conditioned, and a comparison of values established. The average ratio of value of the smaller lot to the unit will be a guide to judgment, or a check on it. The reason that no rule of proportionate value of narrow and shallow lots to full lots can be established, is that the values of such small lots vary in proportionate usefulness in different neighborhoods, and also that the ratio that one dimension bears to the other is changing constantly and varies any resulting value very materially.

It may be said, however, that in any case like those cited above as common examples, that if the area be compared with the area of any 25-foot shallow lot to which the Hofman Rule may be applied, that that rule may be used in a way not intended as suggestive of relative value. For instance, it may be said to be true, beyond question, a lot 20x60 which contains 1,200 square feet is worth less than one 25x50 which contains approximately the same area, because of the loss from the more valuable dimension. The Hofman Rule says 25x50 in area or half a lot is worth 67% of the value of a full lot—then 20x60, which is practically half a lot, must be worth less than 67% of the value of a full lot.

Let us suppose a full lot to be worth $15,000. Then 25x50, containing 1,250 square feet, is worth 67% of $15,000 or $10,000. Now frontage is more valuable in proportion than depth, and though in the lot 20x60 the depth is increased 10 feet, while the frontage is decreased but 5 feet, the one is 10 feet in 100 feet, while the other is 5 feet in only 25 feet. The one is a 10% increase in depth against a 20% decrease in width. Hence, though by area the lot 20x60 would be worth the same as 25x50, it is really worth considerably less because the loss is proportionately greater in the most valuable dimension. How much less is it worth on this account? It is something gained to know that it is worth less than $10,000 or 67% of the unit. Is 20x60 worth 60% of the unit or $9,000, or 50% of the unit or $7,500? The value probably lies between these figures, and this narrows the question of judgment down to a difference of $1,500. Recourse is then had to the records of transfers and to judgment of others.

Corner lots are much more valuable than inside lots because they nave more frontage and prominence—they are closer to the passing crowd. The ratio of value between the inside lot and the corner lot used to be about 33 1-3%, but within the past twenty-five years, the ratio has rapidly increased so that I now estimate the value of a plot 100x100, including the corner, in the following manner:

| The lot at the center line of the block say (unit of value) | $10,000 |
| The next lot | 10,000 |
| To the lot adjoining the corner add 10% of unit | 11,000 |
| The corner lot (add 60% of adjoining inside lot) | 17,600 |
| | $48,600 |
| Total value | $53,460 |

Corner lots in neighborhoods which are so situated that they are most useful for factory purposes are rated to be worth 50% of adjoining inside lot. This rule is founded upon analysis of sales made, and is approximate enough to be very reliable in average cases. There are, however, many exceptions to this rule, and it is not infrequent in some parts of the city, where the population is very dense, to find a corner lot selling for twice the value of the next adjoining inside lot, and where for trade reasons special value may attach—for even considerably more. The value of small portions of a corner lot is arrived at in the same manner as for small portions of inside lots, but the Hofman Rule may not be applied to the valuation of corner lots with a full frontage lacking depth. The main value lies at the apex of the corner.

There has been formulated a rule very similar to the Hofman Rule, based upon the theory, that a corner lot 25x50 is worth about 59% of the value of a full lot and the other dimension values are estimated upon this basis—such a rule is an assistance to the appraiser as a check upon the judgment. It is serviceable as an aid to consideration of value. It may be used as a starting point from which to estimate.

So far as the mere technical means of real estate valuation is concerned, the foregoing briefly covers the process. After all has been said upon the subject along this line, it remains true that constant daily contact with active operations in the market is necessary to sound judgment. No mechanical process can supply the indefinable power to estimate value truly, which comes from actual contact with things. It is impossible to obtain in any other way, than through actual experience, the fruits of experience.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

Jefferson M. Levy sold 147 East 30th st, 5-sty apartment, 27x100.

The sale is also reported of 237 West 148th st, a 5-sty flat, 39 x99.11.

The Atlantic Realty Company sold 289 and 291 Audubon av, 5-sty flat, 58x95.

The 5-sty double flat, 25x100, 531 East 135th st, is reported sold by Paul Bultmann.

Samuel Friedman has moved his real estate office from 1496 Second av to larger quarters at 1508 Second av.

The sale of 160 West 133d st is reported by Howard A. Raymond. This is a 3-sty dwelling, 17.6x99.11.

The northeast cor First av and 115th st, a 4-sty tenement, with stores, 25x75, was sold by the Estate of Meta Manner.

The sale of the 6-sty apartment house 502 and 504 Amsterdam av, 40x100, is reported. This house is between 84th and 85th sts.

The southeast cor of Clinton av and 180th st, 122x150, is reported sold. An elevator apartment house will probably be erected on this plot.

A lis pendens was filed the other day against the Afro-American Realty Co. on 24 West 140th st. The Hudson Mortgage Co. is foreclosing the property.

The Lawyers' Title Insurance Co. has given the Greene Court Building Co. a building loan of $40,000 on the lots on the southeast cor of 7th av and 111th st, 150x100.11.

It is reported that several downtown banking houses are looking for suitable locations on Tremont av, Bronx, intending to open branch banks in the near future.

H. O. Curtis Davis, successor to the firm of Eckerson & Davis, with offices at 12 East 42d st, will after Dec. 1 be associated as manager of the New York office of Elston M. French, 141 Broadway and Plainfield, N. J.

Suit has been brought in the Supreme Court against Marguerite Marie Odette d'Avenel de Romanet and others by Agusta U. Meinell for a petition and sale of 208 Bowery. This is a 6-sty business building with store on 1st floor, 16.8x100, and is opposite Rivington st.

Charles E. Ellis transferred as a gift, according to papers filed in the Register's office, to Florence T. Ellis, the property on the south side of 56th st, 122.7 east of Broadway, 50x120.2xirreg. The property comprises the building known as the Hotel Sterling, 208 and 210 West 56th st, and is an 8-sty building.

Abraham Eydenberg transferred to the Surety Realty Co. the northwest cor of Greenwich and Warren sts for a nominal consideration over a mortgage of $135,000. There is a 6-sty business building on this plot. About eight years ago the structure that then occupied the plot was destroyed by an explosion which killed several people. At that time it was occupied as a warehouse for Tarrant & Co.

Ranald H. Macdonald, President of R. H. Macdonald & Co., builders of many apartment houses and business buildings, has been elected a member of the Board of Trustees of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company. Mr. Macdonald is also a didector in the Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company, and a trustee of the United States Life Insurance Company and the North River Savings Bank.

Among the transfers of the week was one by which Elizabeth K. Vingut transferred to William M. Cruickshank the following pieces of property: The northwest corner of Broadway and 41st st, 141.2xirreg; 135.10xirreg on the west side of Broadway, 19.9 feet north of 41st st; 46 and 48 West 34th st, 50x98.9; 39.5xirreg in the south side of Greenwich st, 47.7 south of Rector st; 47 Whitehall st, 24x31.6; 1½ and 2 Front st, 70xirreg, each.

PROPERTY OWNERS' SECTION.

Problems of the Inexperienced Owner.

One of the greatest problems that will confront an investor, particularly one of moderate means, is, where is the best locality to buy and what is the safest class of property to buy, and more particularly, what are the prospects of an enchancement in value of property?

Mr. Frank H. Tyler, prominent as a real estate broker in Brooklyn, gave answers to questions such as these before a real estate class in the Bedford Branch, Y. M. C. A. He said that a private dwelling should pay 8 per cent. of the cost of value; a fine flat house, with the most modern improvements, steam heat, hot water supply and open plumbing, should pay from 10 to 12 per cent., and a cold-water flat or tenement house from 12 to 15 per cent., according to the class of the investment and cost of maintenance.

Mr. Tyler said great care should be exercised when negotiating for suburban property: the investor should know with whom he is dealing, and the nature of the conditions which are cited in any contract of sale:

It is not an exceptional thing when some of these long named companies' principal assets are their stock and printed matter and they actually do not own one inch of the land or hold title to anything except, perhaps, articles of incorporation, which can be procured for a few dollars. These companies themselves sometimes enter into a long term contract for the purchase of land, paying down on a contract the smallest possible amount of cash. Ask that company to show you its deed or a policy of insurance on the title showing who is the real owner of record of the land and if the same is free and clear of all incumbrances.

Mr. Tyler advised that, when a purchaser is taking title to a piece of property, where he gives back a second mortgage for part of the purchase price that the purchaser has a "subordination clause" inserted in the mortgage, citing that in the event of the first mortgage becoming due and payable before the second mortgage you may place a new first mortgage on the property without disturbing or making a new second mortgage.

In reference to foreclosure suits, Mr. Tyler said his experience has been that over 50 per cent. of the foreclosure suits and loss of property have been caused by negligent management and niggardly methods in caring for the property—that is to say, to allow property to run down and adopt the method of so-called economy in never doing any repairs on the property, but when a new tenant comes in reduce the rent if he takes the place in its present condition.

Don't you know that when you reduce your rent you also reduce your value and reduce the mortgagee's security? I will venture to say that in the majority of cases that an owner, by consulting a practical real estate agent of experience, could save his property and continue ownership, for it is a rare exception that you will ever find any vacant flats or houses at the present market rentals which are in first class condition, all ready to move into at a moment's notice.

His advice as to drawing legal papers was—go to a lawyer.

Bronx Sentiment on Park Openings.

The enlargement of Joseph Rodman Drake Park, the acquirement of Bensonia Cemetery for a park and the extension of the Grand Concourse to Cedar Park have been urged by the foremost civic bodies of the Bronx and by a united public sentiment in the borough, and in the case of "Drake Park" of the City, State and Nation. The executive committee of the North Side Board of Trade, of which Albert E. Davis is chairman, has adopted the following:

Whereas, it seems certain that these projects must eventually be carried out, and there will thus be no economy, but on the contrary needless additional expense to the City by postponing the acquisition of the sites by the increased property values in the interim, and

Whereas, the history of New York City demonstrates that the acquisition of property for public parks more than pays for its cost in the increased value of adjacent property, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Mayor and Board of Estimate be respectfully requested to resume and continue proceedings for the acquirement of the necessary land for the proper completion of the aforesaid projects.

Worth Knowing in the Maintenance of Property.

The peeling of cement coatings from brownstone stoops is due in a majority of instances to the improper method in which the repairing material has been applied. The parts to be coated should first be carefully chiseled and then thoroughly soaked with water. The coating material must be composed of one part cement and one part of fine quartz sand, carefully dry mixed. In giving the ingredients the proper consistency water should be added by spraying. Under no circumstances should cement be applied to dry surfaces.

The Herald's Attitude Toward Real Estate and Buildings.

Replying to the letter of Mr. William C. Lester in last week's Record and Guide, the Herald says:

In times of financial depression real estate is the last thing to feel the effects of a downward movement. This is the case in the present crisis. While railway and industrial securities have depreciated from fifty to seventy-five per cent., real estate has not suffered to any notable extent. There is consequently no necessity for the Herald to defend interests which are not in danger. Furthermore, while stocks and bonds are within the reach of every householder who has scraped together a few hundred dollars, realty appeals mainly to capitalists and those whom demagogues have branded as "malefactors of great wealth."

Mr. Lester ought to congratulate himself and others in the same important line of business that realty is out of reach of the campaign of persecution which has brought industrial enterprises and other corporate interests to their present straits. If real estate could be dealt in as easily as railway and industrial stocks, Mr. Lester may rest assured that demagogues would begin to persecute every large group of real estate owners as a "trust." Then realty probably would begin to suffer in the same way as railway and other securities are now suffering, and the Herald certainly would be among the first to call the attention of the people to the advantages of investment in real estate.

The Herald hopes that such a situation may never arise, but if it should Mr. Lester will find the Herald's columns open to every argument that can be advanced in favor of realty. Fortunately, real estate is a highly privileged class of investment, and so far has scarcely felt any of the depreciatory effects of the existing crisis.

Width of Sidewalks in Manhattan.

Few people in Manhattan give any thought to the width of the sidewalks, yet this is an important matter to owners of realty. It never occurs to them that a well defined schedule has been followed. The appended list gives the widths of sidewalks as laid out by the city:

In streets 40 ft. wide 10-ft. sidewalks are the rule; in streets 50 ft. wide, 13 ft; in streets 60 ft. wide, 15 ft.; in streets 70 ft. wide, 18 ft.; in streets 80 ft. wide, 19 ft.; in streets above 80 ft. wide and not exceeding 100 ft., 20 ft.; all streets more than 100 ft. wide, 22 ft.; Lenox and Seventh avs., north of 110th st, 35 ft.; Manhattan st, 15 ft.; Lexington av, 19 ft. 6 ins.; Madison av, 19 ft.; Fifth av, 30 ft.; St. Nicholas av, 22 ft. 6 ins.; Park av (49th to 56th sts and 96th st to Harlem River), 15 ft.; West End av, 30 ft.; Central Park West (59th to 110th sts, East Side), 27 ft.; Central Park West (59th to 110th sts, West Side), 25 ft.

While in isolated cases this rule is not a success, still as a whole the scheme has worked out admirably. It has proved to be efficient and the good judgment of the city officials is fully demonstrated. Since that time when this idea was put into use several unthought-of changes have occurred, such as the sky-scraper proposition, centers of the mercentile trade changing localities, etc., but all things taken into consideration the result is very satisfactory.

Treating Hard Maple Floors to Stand Constant Wear.

In connection with a discussion of the best method of treating a hard maple floor which is subject to constant wear in the dining hall of a large hotel, objection being made to the use of wax on account of its slippery nature and to oiling the floor, as it will darken the wood in time, a recent issue of the Painters' Magazine contains the following comments presented in reply to a correspondent raising the question:

The best treatment of hard maple floors, when the natural color of the wood is to be well preserved, is to apply not less than two coats of bleached shellac varnish to the prepared floor, but for good work three coats are recommended. The white or bleached shellac varnish for this purpose should be the article known to the trade as grain alcohol shellac, which is bleached gum shellac, cut with denatured alcohol and far superior in every respect to the article made with wood alcohol. As wax is objected to, the shellac, in order to prolong its life and yet keep the wood light in color, should receive a coat of floor oil, composed of 9 parts raw linseed oil and 1 part drier, that is well rubbed in, which will produce a dull smooth finish.

As the floor becomes worn, it should be gone over with a floor oil at least once a month, if possible oftener, with a floor oil, that is made by mixing, say 8 pints of raw linseed oil, 2 pints turpentine and 1 pint white or orange shellac varnish. This should be applied with a brush and rubbed in by wrapping a cloth around a weighted floor brush, so that it becomes hard over night and does not remain sticky.

LAW DEPARTMENT

It Would be Better to Wait.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

How can a widow occupying a homestead residence and 30 feet of ground, free and clear of everything, give a clear title to the same to a purchaser, under the condition that one child will not be of age for some months. The rest of the children have all signed quittances, etc. A lawyer has assured us it could not be done, but I thought there must be a way around, and that in your larger experience you might inform me, off-hand, how such a condition is met in New York. The site is to be used for apartment house and widow (owner) is guardian and has other property.

Answer—The situation is too technical for even an off-hand opinion, but if the child under age has any rights in the property necessary to be joined with others to make title, such proceedings as could be had in the law to legalize transfer of the infant's share would take far more time than to await the few months to elapse to majority.

The Attorney's Fee.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

A client of ours requested us to put out a certain amount of money for him on bond and mortgage. We submitted to him a mortgage which he accepted and his lawyers searched the title. On receiving a bill from the lawyers, we find an item in excess of the usual charges (for the title policy, bond and mortgage, etc.) of 1 per cent. of the amount of said mortgage, as fees. Inasmuch as we were the procuring cause and not the attorneys, are said attorneys entitled to charge the additional 1 per cent? We always understood that this is the fee where the attorneys procure the money and not where they merely search the title.

Answer.—The usual attorney's fees when attorneys examined titles were 1 per cent. and disbursements of official searches, etc. Now when the whole work is very generally done by the title companies for the lawyers, and a policy furnished, the attorney charges 1 per cent. for a counsel fee and the cost of procuring a title company's policy for his client, as a disbursement.

Re-Loan Application.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Owner R. calls at the office of Broker B., and makes application for a mortgage loan on real property at 5½% interest. In less than a week's time (and before Owner R. secured the acceptance elsewhere, so Owner R. informs Broker B. at the time) Broker B. secures the acceptance on terms applied for, and so notifies R. in person and by letter. R. promises to send her husband to Broker B.'s office to attend to the matter, but fails to do so. After two weeks' delay Owner R.'s husband telephoned Broker B. that he could do nothing in the matter for a few days, that they had been promised the money from another broker at 5%, and if he could secure it at that rate he would prefer to, but to hold the matter open for a few days when he would let Broker B. know. In about two weeks' time Owner R. sends her son to Broker B.'s office, who states the money had been secured at 5%, and therefore they would not accept Broker B.'s loan. Is Broker B. entitled to a commission, having secured the loan on the terms applied for and before Owner R. had secured an acceptance elsewhere? The party accepting the loan was a large title company fully able to carry out its part.

Answer.—In the Record and Guide of November 23 we so nearly covered this same state of facts that we refer our subscriber to that issue for answer, a possible exception to favor the broker in this case being the facts covered by parentheses above, that the broker obtained an acceptance and so notified the owner before he had in fact obtained the loan elsewhere at a lower rate of interest. As we understand the law to rule now, the broker is not entitled to recover his commission for a mortgage loan effected until the closing and actual passing of title; and the obtaining of the loan by the borrower elsewhere of itself revokes the contract, as death does a power of attorney.

The Renting of a Business Building.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The renting of a business building has now arrived at a point where the tenant considers good light as essential as space. There are hundreds of lofts and stores unrented at this time. Those that fulfill conditions as to space, etc., unless well lighted, will command the lowest rental.

Such premises can be lighted by the use of prism glass properly installed, at a cost not exceeding the advanced rental price of a well-lighted building.

Commenting on the statement of Mr. E. A. Tredwell, in your issue of Sept. 28th, in which he states that "many brokers have conceded that any space 27 feet away from a window was simply given away." I answer that such a condition need not exist if the real estate brokers would advise owners to use prismatic glass.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

November 22, 23, 25, 26 and 27.

"SNOW WHITE"

"SNOW WHITE"
Portland Cement

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement is not approached by any known product for the following purposes, viz.: Facing for concrete construction and stucco, ornamental and architectural forms, superior substitute for terra cotta work, white ground for terrazza and mosaic work, base for all artificial stone, floor and other tile, special sanitary plastering of all kinds, architectural landscape work, for setting marble and light stones or brick, plastering elevator and light shafts.

Its pure white color, strength and close grained hardness, together with its hydraulic properties and its ability to withstand the elements, place it in a class by itself, unique in all its qualities, and indispensable at any price.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) Signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

The Judgments filed against corporations, etc., will be found at the end of the list.
